DECISION ON MEXICO

Something may Soon be Done.

Administration Officials Admit that Action will not be Long Delayed.

Conditions Along the Border Said to be Worse Today than Ever.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—Administration officials did not deny today that they will soon be called on to take decisive action in reference to Mexico. What this action will be no one is in a position to say, except that whatever is done will have to be done as the result of a definite plan for the restoration of order in Mexico. Officials of the State Department are of the opinion there is no longer any cause for dilly-dallying with the Mexican problem. They realize that they will have to take hold of the situation with a strong hand.

CONDITIONS WORSE.

Conditions in Northern Mexico are worse today than at any time since the Mexican commission began its sessions and there is no immediate prospect of the withdrawal of American troops from that territory and the return of the militiamen doing guard duty on the border.

A story has reached Washington, said to have been given out by Mexican attaches of the commission now sitting at Atlantic City, confirmation of the statement made on Thursday by Secretary Lansing that conditions in the northern part of Mexico were in a bad way. Secretary Lansing refused to comment on this story, but admitted that little improvement is noted. He refused to go into details, saying that the matter was in the hands of the commission.

PERSHING TO STAY.

In view of the reports reaching Washington, it is regarded as out of the question to withdraw the American troops at this time; in fact, it was stated in one source, that unless conditions improve there in the near future, the American troops will soon become compelled to move south.

The Carranza government, some time ago, could have had the active co-operation of Gens. Pershing and Funston to crush out banditry in Northern Mexico if the First Chief had said the word.

Gen. Pershing was sent into Mexico to destroy or disperse the Vil-

SPEND BILLION IN ADVERTISING.

Newspapers will Receive this Next Year, Says Agency Head.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—A billion dollars will be spent for newspaper advertising in the United States in 1917, S. O. Landry, president of the Chambers Advertising Agency, said, in an address to the Tulane College of commerce at the association of commerce. "Every business has occasion to do advertising of some kind at some time," he said, "We are literally surrounded by advertising. Every newspaper and every magazine that we pick up contains as much as or more than reading matter. Every street car that we go into has display advertising cards. Bill boards stretch along every roadside."

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

Violent fighting is again in progress at various points on eastern and western fronts, but no great change in the positions of the opposing armies has yet been reported. Gen. Haig's men in an attack in the Thiepval-Courcelette area, London relates, have taken 1000 yards of the Regina trench. The other portion of this trench was taken October 21. Berlin says that only a small portion of an advanced trench was entered.

Crown Prince Rupprecht failed in an attack against the French lines in the neighborhood of Denicourt, south of the Somme, Paris records. Berlin states a French attack in the Sailly-Saillisel sector was repulsed. In aerial combats on the western front the Germans brought down ten entente airplanes and the French put five German machines out of action. Petrograd says that parts of trenches near Skrobowa, northeast of Baranovichi, taken by the Germans, have been recaptured by the Russians, but Berlin asserts that all attacks in that sector were replused.

The "watchful waiting" policy as to Mexico is to end soon according to a Washington dispatch. But until it does end it must remain a case of "watchful waiting" on the part of the people who undoubtedly are united in the wish that it do end soon. It is understood that the Pershing expedition will remain in Mexico to help end "watchful waiting." Meanwhile Villa's activities continue.

WHY REPUBLICANS HOPE FOR CHANGE IN VOTE.

Division in Favor of Roosevelt Four Years Ago Recalled by Leaders.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—Charles Evans Hughes, William R. Willcox, Republican National Chairman, and other campaign managers found backing today for their resolution to wait for the official canvass of votes in California, Minnesota, New Mexico, New Hampshire and North Dakota before conceding the re-election of Woodrow Wilson. All hopes at present of upsetting the apparent victory of the President are placed on California. The official count begins in that State Monday and probably will take a week.

In justification of their hesitancy the National Committee made public the chronology of the result in 1912 in California, when it was uncertain whether Col. Roosevelt or Woodrow Wilson had carried the State. Ultimately, the State's thirteen electoral votes were split, eleven for Roosevelt and two for Wilson. Wilson first took the lead, and subsequently the colonel overcame it and succeeded in winning a large majority of the electoral delegation.

WILLCOX'S STATEMENT.

The statement given out by Mr. Willcox after it had been approved by Mr. Hughes follows:

"The results in California in 1912 show precisely why the Republican National Committee cannot at this time concede the election of Mr. Wilson and must wait the official count in this and other States. The files of the San Francisco Chronicle show the following:

"On Wednesday, November 6, the day after election in 1912, the Chronicle said the indications were that Mr. Wilson had a safe plurality over Col. Roosevelt. The Democratic State chairman claimed the State by 20,000.

"On November 7 the Chronicle said that a storm had delayed reports and that no figures were available from four counties. Returns from 3668 precincts out of 4372 gave Mr. Wilson a lead of 6237, nearly twice Wilson's present lead in California. Press announced that Col. Roosevelt was in the lead by 130 votes. Six changes had been made in the vote from Los Angeles in the previous twelve hours; each change increased the lead of Col. Roosevelt. With three Los Angeles precincts out and 136 precincts elsewhere in the State out, the Wilson vote stood 280,125 and the Roosevelt vote 280,255.

"The collapse of the Wilson plurality was due to the way election figures in Los Angeles had been compiled. The Democratic county chairman placed the Roosevelt majority in that county at about 13,000. The clerk of that county was appealed to by the political leaders for an accurate count. He made a semi-official tabulation of the returns, which showed startling discrepancies from the results obtained unofficially by political headquarters and newspapers. Much of the discrepancy was due to the scratching of Wallace, who headed the Progressive electors.

LATER COUNT.

"On November 9 returns compiled from 4293 precincts out of 4372 gave Col. Roosevelt 281,497 votes and Mr. Wilson 280,843 votes. On November 13 returns from all but five out of 4372 precincts gave Col. Roosevelt the State by twenty-four votes. On November 17 it was announced that Secretary of State Jordan went to Los Angeles to take personal charge of the count.

"On November 24 it was announced that the District Court of Appeal in Los Angeles had thrown out one precinct which had given Col. Roosevelt a majority of 104. On December 4 the Chronicle announced that, if there were no more changes due to court decisions and the auditing by the Secretary of State, there would be, according to the official count two Democratic electors and eleven Progressive. A change of ten votes would elect another Democrat, it was stated."

That gives an idea of what may be expected just now. Mr. Hughes and Mr. Willcox intend to wait until the Secretary of State certifies the official count in the States where the voting is close on the official returns. Meanwhile State chairmen, national committeemen and local lawyers in the five States mentioned have been instructed to see that the interests of the Republican candidate are safeguarded and that the count and result are regular.

Mr. Willcox pointed today to the fact that there is usually a variation of a few thousand votes between the unofficial results and the official canvass. Late returns from California yesterday, with all but thirteen districts reported, gave Wilson a plurality over Hughes of 3621 votes. The totals are Wilson 465,887, Hughes 462,266. This included slight revisions in several districts.

SPLIT THOUGHT UNLIKELY.

News came from California today that there was a loss of only 645 votes between the highest and lowest Democratic elector in the semiofficial count conducted by the registrar of voters. Election officials stated that these figures made it seem unlikely that the official count would result in splitting California's thirteen electoral votes.

The situation in the other States, Minnesota, New Mexico, North Dakota and New Hampshire, remains practically unchanged. Wilson seems to have cinched New Mexico and North Dakota beyond any doubt, except the possibility that official counts might make a glaring difference in the returns.

VOTE BY WARDS.

First six St. Paul wards of St. Paul soldiers' votes shows lead of two to one for Wilson in a total of 105 ballots counted. Wilson total is 68; Hughes 35.

The vote by wards was: First, Wilson 10, Hughes 2; Second, Wilson 18, Hughes 9; Third, Wilson 1, Hughes 2; Fourth, Wilson 21, Hughes 17; Fifth, Wilson 12, Hughes 4; Sixth, Wilson 6, Hughes 1. Two spoiled ballots in Fourth Ward.

New Hampshire was still in the Wilson column by sixty-three votes, but the State probably will remain doubtful until after the official count.

On this basis Wilson still had 272 electoral votes and Hughes 243, with sixteen votes doubtful.

MINNESOTA VOTE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Nov. 11.—Gov. Hughes's plurality was slightly increased today when the first results of the Minnesota guardsmen were announced. He carried the First Regiment, a Ramsey and Hennepin county organization, by twenty-eight votes. Complete vote of Hennepin's members of the First Regiment was 243 for Wilson and 293 for Hughes. Ramsey, complete, gave 137 for Wilson and 116 for Hughes. This tonight made the whole vote for 3021 precincts Wilson 178,544 and Hughes 178,792, giving Hughes a plurality of 248.

There are two regiments to hear from—the Second, in the southern counties, which went for Hughes, in the main, and the Third, in the north, the strong Wilson territory. The artillery vote is comparatively small. Washington county soldiers gave Wilson 23; Hughes, 9.

Few missing precincts remain to be heard from. They are mainly from the north, Wilson territory, but are not strong in votes.

Consequences.

ROOSEVELT'S BIG STICK MAY HIT JOHNSON'S HEAD

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and George W. Perkins sat down together in the trophy room at Sagamore Hill this afternoon to compare election notes. Both were disappointed men. The colonel was perhaps even more disappointed and chagrined than Mr. Perkins, for reasons that must be obvious to all who read the Wednesday-morning papers that were published at a time when Charles Evans Hughes appeared to have been elected beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Since Wednesday morning there has been some close scrutinizing of the returns as they dribbled in from California. The glaring feature of the slow process has been the enormous discrepancy between the plurality of Hiram Johnson, successful candidate for United States Senator, and the minus plurality of Mr. Hughes.

And, on that basis reliably-informed Republican politicians expect an estrangement between Col. Roosevelt and his former running-mate, Gov. Johnson of California.

It is there that the break appears imminent to observing political students of the recent campaign.

VIEWPOINT OF ROOSEVELT.

And, considering the side that won, the side that the colonel fought with and lost, while Johnson won, it is the solemn unmistakable opinion of Republican and Progressive leaders who are in touch with things that Johnson, if he tried hard enough and played the game differently in California, might have changed the result and elected Hughes.

This much is cited by political observers interested in the colonel's future in politics:

Theodore Roosevelt wanted to be President in 1917. He knew the problems that would confront the country, domestic and foreign. He had his own theories to combat them, his own policies which he wanted to put into effect. The Chicago convention turned him down and chose Hughes. The colonel repudiated his own people—the Progressives—and fought for Hughes at a general personal sacrifice, his friends believe, because, they say, he believed that Hughes would carry out many of the ideals which he sought for the country.

Now the colonel finds Hughes defeated apparently by a situation that Hiram Johnson, his former running-mate, might have avoided if he so desired. Therefore, not only the colonel's friends, but other political students would not be at all surprised if the big stick was aimed directly at Hiram Johnson's head some of these future days if Hiram Johnson takes advantage of his political position in a way that the colonel deems a violation of their former political friendship.

Ambassador and his wife.

Frau von Bernstorff, wife of the Kaiser's Ambassador to the United States, accuses Graves, the international spy and magazine writer, of trying to extort money from her on the alleged pretext of selling letters to her for the embassy. The spy is under arrest and locked in jail for the time being. The photo of Bernstorff and his wife was taken while they were on board the S. S. Frederick VIII and about to land in New York, where the Count met her on board ship on her return from abroad.

WIFE OF BERNSTORFF ACCUSES GRAVES, SPY.

International Character Insists He was Trying to do a Favor to the Wife of Kaiser's Ambassador to United States in Bringing Documents to Her Attention—Had Consulted with Von Hatzfeldt.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Karl Armgaard Graves, a self-styled international spy and magazine writer, was arrested here today by agents of the Department of Justice and charged with attempting to extort $3000 from Countess von Bernstorff, wife of the German Ambassador, by threatening to publish letters "alleged to contain matter showing her infirmities and failings." Officials of the embassy also allege that Graves had in his possession what apparently were confidential coded diplomatic dispatches from the German government to Count von Bernstorff. The prisoner told the Federal agents he obtained all the documents from persons who smuggled them past the British censors on the steamship Oscar II. The warrant upon which he was arraigned tonight and held on $2000 bail for a further hearing Wednesday charges him also with bringing into the District of Columbia letters stolen in Hoboken, N. J., where the Oscar II docks.

STATEMENT.

In a statement after his arraignment, at which he entered a plea of not guilty, Graves asserted that he had no intention of blackmailing the Countess, that he objected to use of the word "blackmail" and that the papers he has in his possession were "purely diplomatic" in character.

Much interest was aroused in official quarters at the indirect exposure of the manner in which persons and officials in Germany apparently are avoiding the British censorship in communicating with the German embassy.

The arrest of Graves furnished a dramatic conclusion to negotiations which had been in progress for a week between him and Prince Hatzfeldt, counselor of the German embassy. Graves is said to have come to Washington last week and called at the embassy. He was known there as the man who had published widely what he alleged to be important secrets of the German War Office and the Hohenzollerns. He also was known as a man who previously had described himself as a member of the German secret service, and later as an employee in foreign fields of the British Foreign Office. "The master spy," he called himself.

ALLEGATIONS.

Officials allege that, upon entering the office of Prince Hatzfeldt, he made it known that he had in his possession the papers which brought about his arrest today. One letter which he exhibited was to Countess von Bernstorff from her son, an officer in the German army. He said, according to statements made by Federal officials tonight, that he had other letters that would prove "embarrassing" for the Countess should they be published.

The official dispatches were said to be useless to him for the reason that he could not decipher them. He is alleged to have asked for $3000 in cash if he delivered the papers. He also is alleged to have asked Prince Hatzfeldt to prepare and sign a statement that the money had been paid for services rendered the German government.

Embassy officials said Graves threatened to turn over some of the documents to White House officials if the $3000 was not forthcoming.

LETTERS.

The letters showed no post mark and officials of the embassy were convinced that they had been obtained in some manner from a confidential messenger, whose identity still is undisclosed. Prince Hatzfeldt promised to take the matter under consideration. Federal officials declare Graves gave Prince Hatzfeldt a certain time within which he was to comply with his conditions.

MOVE BY GERMANY TO END THE CARNAGE.

Kaiser Unquestionably Bent on Early Solution, London Believes.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Chancellor Bethmann Hollweg, speaking before the Reichstag committee on German willingness to join a peace league and on the blame for the war, ostensibly was replying to Lord Grey, but really he was taking the first step in a clever move toward peace. The most significant feature of the Chancellor's speech was his omission of any reference to Germany's plans in the Balkans. There is a reason for that omission. After the military occupation of Poland, Germany and Austria discussed the future state of Poland with the view of offsetting the promises of the Russian Grand Duke Nicholas. Austria stood out for a large share of Polish territory, and Germany agreed to buy her off with Balkan annexations. Since Poland has now been declared an independent state—in name at least—the central powers evidently are confident of the realization of their ambitions in the Balkans.

BAGDAD ROUTE.

The German Chancellor knows that his country will be supremely satisfied if at the close of the war he can point to a Berlin-Bagdad route to German influence steadily penetrating into Turkey, with Palestine and Arabia—not to mention India—as the ultimate goals.

So he says: "I have never indicated that the annexation of Belgium was our intention."

Dr. Bethmann Hollweg emphasizes Belgium, but Great Britain wants to know about the Balkans, also.

Remembering the Chancellor's speech of April last, it discounts his latest professions, preferring the sincerity of the leader of the center party, who, following the Chancellor, said: "Belgium must remain in German hands, politically, militarily and economically."

If Hollweg is sincere, Britain wants to know why thousands of Belgians are being transported to Germany like so many slaves; why Germany is using the machinery of the American Relief Commission as justification for making slaves out of the Belgians.

PEACE MOVEMENTS.

In previous dispatches I have referred to peace movements.

There is a big, systematic one now under way, and it would be foolish to minimize or underestimate the importance and strength of the agencies working in various directions.

Official life here is fully cognizant of the strenuous efforts that must be taken this winter to combat the peace propaganda cunningly disseminated by Germany in neutral countries. The entente allies have never stated their terms of peace. Pacificists underestimate the feeling here.

There are, first, the minimum demands of the middle party that Germany continue independent, but with no military or political hold on the buffer states, though not necessarily excluded from opportunities of colonial expansion, that Belgium and Serbia be restored and reimbursed for their losses and that France regain Alsace-Lorraine—that is an extremely moderate view compared with that of the war-to-a-finish party.

Even the middle party insists that the war must continue until the German people admit defeat. Not by crying for quarter, but by turning down and repudiating Prussian militarism, responsible for their position.

INTERPRETATION.

Hollweg's whole speech is interpreted as an effort to make neutrals believe that Great Britain is bound to annihilate Germany though the latter is merely fighting for life in a defensive war. He is "willing at all times to join a peace league," but "henceforth no aggressive coalition should be formed"—which, according to the British view, means "a parliament without parties."

The German Chancellor's references to a league of nations to enforce peace have made a poor impression here, espcially his assertion that "during a war the neutrals, according to his (Grey's) desire, will have to remain neutral and patiently endure every compulsion of the British world domination of the seas."

Britons says that the only sea law Germany has to complain of is a belligerent measure they have adopted during the war; that they have always maintained the freedom of the seas in times of peace. In other words, they say that what Hollweg wants is not a league to enforce unlimited and untrammeled peace, but a league to put a ring around the combatants; not a league with no neutrals but a league with plenty of neutrals—a league against England; a league to regulate war written codes instead of regulating the life of the world in parliamentary form.

As these views represent the middle party it can be plainly seen how wide is the gulf between Britain and Germany.

Nevertheless, the pacificists will work desperately to bridge the chasm before the winter is out.

GERMANS CALL ON POLES TO FIGHT AGAINST CZAR.

Proclamation Issued to People of New Kingdom Urging Them to Volunteer for New Army, Which will Serve in Intimate Association with Those of the Central Powers.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville) Nov. 11.—An Austro-German proclamation to the Poles, calling upon them to volunteer for the new Polish army, which will serve in intimate association with the armies of the central powers, has been published at Warsaw and Lublin. The text of the proclamation, which is signed by Gov.-Gen. Beseler and Gen. Kuk, is quoted by the Overseas News Agency as follows:

"The rulers of the allied powers of Austria-Hungary and Germany have given notification of their resolution to form of the Polish land delivered from Russian tyranny the new autonomous kingdom of Poland. Your most ardent desire, entertained in vain during more than a century, is thus fulfilled.

"The importance and danger of this war time and regard for our armies standing before the enemy, oblige us for the present to keep the administration of your new state still in our hands. Readily, however, we will give, with your aid, to the new Poland by decrees those public institutions which guarantee her consolidation, development and safety. Of these the Polish army is the most important.

"The struggle with Russia is not yet terminated. You desire to join it. Therefore, step to our sides as volunteers in order to help complete our victories over your oppressors. Bravely and with distinction your brothers of the Polish legion fought on our side. Rival that in the new bodies of troops with together with the legions, shall form the Polish army that will consolidate your new state and guarantee its interior and exterior security.

"You shall protect your country under your own colors and your flag shall be cherished by you above all. We know your courage and your ardent patriotism, and call you to arms at our side. Rise, you valiant men, and follow the example set by the brave Polish legion and in common, work with the German and Austrian armies and lay the foundation for a Polish army reviving the glorious traditions of your war history by the faith and bravery of your warriors."

SOFIA (via Amsterdam and London) Nov. 11.—"Peace? Did you say peace? When? Where? So we end."

King Ferdinand emphasized his exclamation and sharp questions in answer to my inquiry, with eloquent, but deprecating gestures of outstretched hands which seemed to say: "Show me."

"Where is the man who can make peace?"

The King shook his head. Then, turning suddenly to Crown Prince Boris: "Can you see peace in sight, my son?"

The heir to the throne of Greater Bulgaria answered, with a shake of his head.

"Light, peace and the Prince of Peace always have come out of the East," I suggested.

LOOKED TO NEW WORLD.

"True," the King responded quickly. "But this time the world expected him from the West—the New World. It was there that the light which it was hoped would pierce the chaos and darkness of the European shambles was expected to raise.

Comment of Eastern Press on Johnson Treachery That Gave California to Wilson.

"Lux Orientalis."

REPUBLICANISM MUST BE BUILT UP ON THE BASIS OF THE LOYAL ONES.

Men Like Hiram Johnson and His Accomplices Generally Described as the Assassins of the Party They Pretended to Help—Such Fellows have No Lot or Part in Genuine Opposition to Democrats.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—Following is the editorial comment of the leading eastern newsapers on the subject of California and the relation of the Caliornia vote to the re-election of Mr. Wilson.

BROOKLYN STANDARD UNION—This year, still preending to be a Republican, Hiram W. Johnson got himself elected nited States Senator by a majority of at least 275,000, while llowing the Democratic national ticket to gain an apparent lurality in the State.

During the campaign, when the head of the national ticket isited the State, the candidate for the Senatorial nomination did ot trouble to hunt him up. Johnson never called on Hughes; ever so much as sent up his card when in the same hotel with the epublican candidate for the Presidency. He seemed to take the ttitude that it was the duty of the candidate for the Presidency hunt up the candidate for the nomination of the Senatorship.

The news of the studied slight sped throughout the State.

This Mr. Johnson, at a time when he was not even the party's andidate for Senator, but only an aspirant for that nomination, emed to care for the national ticket only in so far as it might elp him to dangle Mr. Hughes in his train while campaigning for e nomination at the State primaries.

His support at the primaries, as at the polls, evidently inluded a great number of Wilsonites.

Such men can have no lot or part in a genuine opposition to emocracy during the next four years that shall build up a party nited and prepared to wage a fight for victory in 1920.

It was such men Mr. Roosevelt professed to be able to bring to the Republican ranks as loyal members of the reunited party. Mr. Roosevelt did his best, his best resulted in complete failre. The return of the Progressives to the Republican party, where ey have returned, preceded the return of Mr. Roosevelt himself. here was nothing left of the Progressive party hereabouts when abandoned it. Men of the Johnson stripe, who are self-seekers olitically and who line up with whatever faction offers them the eatest personal political profit, find Mr. Roosevelt no longer personal advantage to themselves. That settles Roosevelt for em.

Republicanism will be built up on the basis of those who ave been faithful.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—Following is comment on California's vote in the election of Wilson:

ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT—California has spoken the final word in the closest contest we have had for forty years, and Mr. Wilson will retain his office by the smallest majority given to a Presidential candidate since the Tilden-Hayes election of 1876.

CHICAGO POST—Above all was it the case in California, where the Crocker-Keesling Old Guard were allowed to annex Mr. Hughes to their factional fight and affront Gov. Johnson and his huge Progressive majority. If any single incident can be said to have caused Mr. Hughes defeat, this is it.

NEWS, GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—The Democrats no longer wonder why California is called the Golden State.

TRANSCRIPT, PEORIA, ILL.—In California, it appears, election officials were obliged to climb mountains in order to get to the nearest telephone. We shall have returns from California by aeroplane in 1920.

STAR, PEORIA, ILL.—Odors emanating from California indicate that there is fat on the fire and that the cook is on the back porch talking to the policeman.

STAR, ROCKFORD, ILL.—The Chicago Tribune calls California a boob State. Possibly, but not the winner of the booby prize.

BOSTON COMMERCIAL—David Starr Jordan has been telling the West that the East wants war. To support this he cites the intemperate utterances of Theodore Roosevelt, or it is safe to say that a great many who have heretofore been Republican in their party preferences were repelled by many of the things which Roosevelt has said on the stump and which Mr. Hughes has not disclaimed. In no State except possibly California is it possible to trace any effect upon the voting of the growing suffrage for women.

NEW YORK TIMES—Mr. Hughes made some obvious mistakes. He should have lammed the hyphen, that now ridiculous and impotent hyphen, early in his campaign. If Mr. Roosevelt had been the Republican candidate, nobody can tell what would have happened. But Mr. Roosevelt is a genius, a sort of elemental force. Mr. Hughes can't be blamed for not being Mr. Roosevelt. Besides, one is enough.

PORTLAND (Me.) PRESS — On e face of the returns, Woodrow ilson has been re-elected President the United States. The final deion, as it turned out, rested in the ates west of the Mississippi River d especially with the State of Calrnia. Had Hughes carried Calirnia, his election would have been rtain. It is evident from an anysis of the vote that Wilson's claim at he "kept the country out of ar" made a sentimental appeal to e women voters of the West. The rrors of war had strongly affect the women of California and her suffrage States in the West, d they gave Wilson their support ecause they believed that it was ly because of his forbearance that e United States was not involved the great conflict.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE — It is latively a minor thing whether the w hundred votes that will decide e electoral votes of California and innesota fall to Mr. Wilson or to r. Hughes. The very fact that ese great Republican States have en in doubt to this moment indites the extent of the failure of the epublican candidate and his party d not less clearly the amazing iumph of Mr. Wilson.

NEW YORK AMERICAN—Among e most highly successful individual ntributors to Mr. Hughes's defeat ere the two persons that headed e Progressive ticket in 1912.

Johnson used his individual inence in California to win that ate for Wilson.

Roosevelt used his powerful lungs several States to win them for ilson.

Those whose occupation gives oprtunity to see political strings beg pulled were well aware three onths ago that both Roosevelt and hnson were laying traps to trip up ughes.

Both Roosevelt and Johnson will w go to work to obtain the Reblican nomination in 1920.

The inevitable collision of their mbitions will probably develop in a lively personal encounter in the ng run, in which case the country ill be treated to an exhibition of tterness and Billingsgate that will a liberal education in those noble ts.

NEW YORK HERALD—While the st cannot be determined with acracy until there is an analysis of e official vote, the present indicaon is that the result in California ill have been decided by the votes women. The same situation may disclosed by analysis of the relts in some other Far Western ates. We do not know. But we know that it is little short of ational scandal that women should be allowed to vote in some States and not in others—that the selection of a President and a national administration should be committed into the hands of women voters in one State or group of States when women of other States are denied the voting privilege.

PHILADELPHIA PRESS — The contrast between the large vote cast for Poindexter in Washington, for Johnson in California, and for Capper in Kansas and the vote for Hughes in the same States, reveals how little there is left of real Republicanism in the Progressives of that section.

NEW YORK SUN — Where and how President Wilson received his enormous vote in California is a matter that will keep the political analysts busy and puzzled for many a day. Two years ago, with women voting, Curtin, the Democratic candidate for Governor, had a total of 116,121 in the entire State. On Tuesday in all but twenty-three of the 5867 precincts of California the President received 466,954 votes, or more than four times as many as Curtin. Mr. Wilson's total in 1912 was 283,436, but the women were not voting then. The sum of the votes cast for Wilson, Taft and Roosevelt was 570,960.

Where and how did President Wilson get this tremendous gain? It seems to us in the East abnormal and unaccountable. The bewildering result will be explained in all kinds of ways, and there are bound to be charges of disloyalty and treachery.

Hiram Johnson, who was a successful candidate for Senator and who is the cleverest politician in California, will be asked significantly how it happened. He may call to the stand Col. George A. Knight, Republican national committeeman in California for twelve years. On October 24, 1915, Col. Knight said in an interview in San Francisco:

"It would be useless to deny that President Wilson is very strong on the Pacific Coast, and especially in California. The women are bitterly opposed to war, and they believe Wilson has done more than any man to keep us out of the European struggle. For that reason they are largely for the President for re-election if he keeps on as he has in the past."

So, perhaps, the women helped to swell the Wilson vote on Tuesday to such high figures. More than 300,000 of them must have voted.

NEW YORK GLOBE—Mr. Hughes lost the Presidency, not on November 7, but on August 18.

While speeding toward San Francisco Mr. Hughes was joined by Chester H. Rowell, a leading supporter of Gov. Hiram Johnson, next to Col. Roosevelt the most conspicuous of Progressives. Mr. Rowell sought Mr. Hughes to say that the "Old Guard" Republican leaders in California were making it difficult to carry the State for Mr. Hughes.

The next day at San Francisco Mr. Hughes answered this appeal by placing himself in the exclusive custody of the "Old Guard," thus not displaying neutrality, although saying in his speech, "with local differences I have no concern."

Frank C. Jordan, one of the "Old Guard" leaders, publicly said he would regard any meeting between Mr. Hughes and Gov. Johnson as a surrender of principle and announced the purpose of bolting Gov. Johnson should he receive the Senatorial nomination in the Republican primaries. To such spokesmen of the minority of a minority (for the regular Republicans subsequently nominated Gov. Johnson in their primaries) Mr. Hughes gave the favor of his countenance.

The boneheadism continued when Mr. Hughes reached Southern California. At Long Beach, near Los Angeles, Gov. Johnson was at the hotel where Mr. Hughes was stopping. He naturally had no desire to intrude if not wanted, but he placed himself conveniently near. Friends of Gov. Johnson say they sought to arrange a friendly interview, but it did not occur.

California thought it understood, and its understanding was reflected on Tuesday when Mr. Hughes lost the State by 3000 and Gov. Johnson carried it by 290,000. Burchard was an accident and his ravages could not be provided against. But the Burchards of California, in full view of Mr. Hughes, operated unrebuked for the better part of a week.

BROOKLYN EAGLE—Strange as it may seem, President Wilson is supposed to owe his re-election to a majority of the voters of California. It has been proclaimed far and wide. Of course, the truth is merely that California's popular vote was delayed until something of a deadlock appeared in the count, when the electoral vote gave the President the required number. Had the situation been reversed and Ohio's vote had been counted last, Ohio would have "decided the election."

At the same time it is true that California played a most conspicuous part in the re-election of President Wilson. If there was one mistake that more than another cost Mr. Hughes the Presidency, it was committed in California, where the Republican candidate was scratched by the voters who supported Hiram Johnson. The whole matter is now being fought out again, with considerable heat. Progressives are declaring that Mr. Hughes's snubbing of Johnson during his visit caused his defeat, while the standpat element, represented by Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, is calling Johnson "the Benedict Arnold of California," and charging that it was Johnson, and not Hughes, that did the snubbing.

This last charge is not so important. It was enough for most voters to know that Johnson and Mr. Hughes did not meet. There were plenty of reasons. Mr. Hughes went about the country talking about the reunion of the Republicans and the Progressives and crying peace, when there was no peace. What Mr. Hughes did not seem to understand was that while the Moose could return to the Republican fold without difficulty in some States, in others it was necessary for the Old Guard to fall in behind the leadership of Progressives. This was the case in California particularly, where there has never been a truce between Johnson and the Old Guard.

Mr. Hughes had the opportunity when he went West to show that he was in reality the candidate of a united party, deserving the support of both factions. He failed to take advantage of his opportunities. As the candidate of the G.O.P. he demanded abject surrender from the Progressives. The commander-in-chief had surrendered and he asked no less of subordinates. In California the Old Guard saw a last lingering chance of breaking Johnson's hold on the State by using Mr. Hughes.

Results are now known. Johnson has practically obliterated the Republican party in California. And yet it is absurd to call him the Benedict Arnold of California, for he has proved once again that he is the real leader of the State. He is not a traitor to standpat Republicanism for he has never ceased to fight its representatives. Johnson has done what Col. Roosevelt promised to do. He fought the fight to a finish, and the finish was not his own.

NEW YORK JOURNAL — The votes of the women in California made Mr. Wilson President of the United States. We take it that he is convinced at this moment that women vote intelligently, and that it put through the Federal amendment, and we hope that he will do it.

PORTLAND OREGONIAN — Washington and California, in these two States the Republican National Committee was guilty of a disastrous blunder. Senator Poindexter and Gov. Johnson, the Progressive leaders, had been recently accepted as Republican leaders by nomination for Senator, but the local party managements refused to recognize them, and Mr. Hughes, guided by etiquette instead of political instinct, did not insist on meeting them and appearing in public with them. The Democrats were trying to pin the reactionary tag on Mr. Hughes and his action seemed to justify them in so doing.

In resentment for a slight to their State leaders they have voted against their own vital interests and in favor of that party which has thrown open the lumber, dairying and fruit industries to the competition of the world. Their prosperity lies on the sea, but they have turned against the party which can promote it by permanent revival of the merchant marine.

The loss of almost the whole of the West to the Republican party is partly due to the provincialism of Chairman Willcox of the national committee. As is customary with New York politicians, he regarded the winning of the West as secondary to that of New York and Indiana, or thought that the West would fall in line with the East by force of habit, as is becoming in a tributary province. Neither he nor Mr. Hughes seems to have had any genuinely western advisers of high ability, and by drawing his aides from and concentrating on the East to the almost total neglect of the West, Mr. Willcox has given color to the Democratic charge that the Old Guard was conducting the campaign. The is not a bad thing to give them a share in government. Now, Mr. Wilson, you have the power to give the vote to women. If you will do what is necessary publicly and in Congress, all women will vote in the United States at the next election. It is not a fact, and we think you now realize it, that votes for women should be looked upon as a local matter.

Votes for women last Tuesday decided the Presidency of the United States. And certainly that is a national, not a local, matter. It is either justice or injustice to deprive women of the vote. It is certainly rank injustice to let women vote in one State and forbid them to vote in another.

Mr. Wilson can best celebrate his victory, and most fittingly express his thanks to the women, who made him President for the second time, by announcing his determination to spectacle of a solid South joined by an almost solid West is not pleasant for Republicans to contemplate.

PORTLAND JOURNAL—That he (Mr. Hughes) brought his followers so near the White House is almost marvelous. His only issue was the great desire of Northeastern America to turn the country away from Progressivism, but it was an issue that he dared not avow. How true this was is shown in the refusal of Mr. Hughes in Washington and California even to meet and recognize Poindexter and Johnson. He dared not do so because the fires of the 1912 split were still raging in the bowels of the party and the big chieftains behind him were bent on striking down the forward-looking element that they look upon as heresy and suicide. He was to that extent the victim of the feud between Penrose thought and Lincoln ideals.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH—The champion boob State is really a state of mind, a very extensive mental backwoods peopled by reactionaries. Some of the very densest of its denizens, we grieve to note, are residents of Darkest Chicago.

The juggling of figures is left to those newspapers that dare not tell the whole truth and that have not the courage or fairness to make honest comparisons.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY GOV. JOHNSON.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, successful candidate for the United States Senatorship on the Republican and Progressive tickets, issued a statement today charging that "a few petty politicians," acting in conjunction with certain newspapers "so misused Mr. Hughes and his visit to California that the injury they did we were unable to undo." To this the statement ascribes the Wilson plurality in the State.

"They not only affronted Progressives and ignored Progressive leaders," the statement said, "but in San Francisco, with equal stupidity, they ignored San Francisco's greatest vote-getter, and most popular Mayor, James Rolph, Jr., and in Los Angeles treated in like fashion the newly-appointed Lieutenant Governor, the most popular man there, William D. Stephens, both of whom were registered Republicans."

A greater wrong, the statement said, "was ignoring a State and its record of progressive and humanitarian legislation."

"California citizenship is proud, sensitive, discriminating, independent and educated," the statement said. "No man, no set of men, can deliver it, or any part of it."

Referring to his own large majority as contrasted with Hughes's failure to carry the State, the Governor in his statement noted "The fact that the State of Washington elects Senator Poindexter by an overwhelming majority and decisively goes for Wilson; that Kansas overwhelmingly elected Capper, Republican, Governor, and defeats Hughes by a large majority; that Minnesota elects a Republican Governor and Kellogg, Republican, United States Senator, and yet presents a vote similar to ours upon the Presidency. In our own State in the Congress district which went heaviest for Wilson Congressman Curry, Republican, wins by five to one, being unopposed, and in San Francisco, where Wilson received his largest majority, Kahn, Republican for Congress, wins by five to one."

The statement says the Senatorial contest really was ended August 29 and that thereafter the Governor campaigned California for Hughes.

William H. Crocker, Republican national committeeman, and Francis V. Keesling, former chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, are named as "having made it appear that Mr. Hughes was entirely reactionary, and that he was neither in accord with nor sympathetic with California's progress and achievement."

Mr. Crocker, after reading a portion of the statement said: "I prefer to maintain a dignified silence."

Francis V. Keesling was out of town today and could not be reached.

POINDEXTER HAS BIG MAJORITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Nov. 11.—The striking feature of the Washington election result was the enormous majority of Miles Poindexter, Republican candidate for Senator, over George Turner, Democrat. With 222 precincts missing, Poindexter leads by more than 54,000. Wilson's plurality continues nearly 14,000 and that of Gov. Lister, Democrat, over McBride, Republican, more than 11,000.

Returns from all the districts indicate the following division in the next Legislature:

Senate—Republicans, 38; Democrats, 4.

House—Republicans, 84; Democrats, 13.

JOHNSON'S WAIL OF HYPOCRISY.

Hit Bird Flutters at Expose of His Treachery.

Machinery in His Hands and Republicans Ignored.

Rowell Now Admits Progressives did the Work.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 11.—The hit bird flutters. Gov. Johnson deplores in a statement to the press that there should be any exposure of his political treachery and that of his machine at a time "when all loyal supporters of Mr. Hughes in California are straining every nerve in watching and guarding his interests." It is not of record, however, that the nerves of Gov. Johnson or any of his pay-roll patriots were strained in such service until the ballots had all been cast and California carried for President Wilson.

Weaklings and hypocrites wail over disasters that have past; strong men turn from the irrevocable to fix the responsibility, to determine whether there has been treachery or criminal negligence, and to guard against future repetitions of similar disasters.

It is a ridiculously weak defense to allege that the defeat of Mr. Hughes is due to the conduct of the stalwarts—reactionaries, the Governor calls them—when the whole Republican machinery of the State was in the hands of the Progressives. Gov. Johnson, a registered Progressive, received the Republican nomination for the United States Senate. Chester Rowell, a registered Progressive, was made chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. Every member of that committee was handpicked by Gov. Johnson. The Republican National Committee turned over thousands of dollars to the State Central Committee to be expended in the interests of Mr. Hughes.

IN JOHNSON'S HANDS.

None of the political opponents of Gov. Johnson were permitted to have the slightest voice in the conduct of the Republican campaign in California. They accepted this humiliation in silence, holding that the triumph of the Republican cause meant more than all else. Gov. Johnson and his political machine received everything that the Republican party had to give. In return they treacherously betrayed Mr. Hughes, traded their support for votes to perpetuate their control over the State finances by securing a majority in the State Legislature, and, now that their treachery has been exposed to the world, they are crying that those who were not permitted to have any active part in the campaign, but whose loyalty to Mr. Hughes has never been questioned, were responsible for his defeat.

They are convicted without extenuating circumstances by the vote cast in the general election. Gov. Johnson received the whole of his vote for Governor in 1914, plus practically the whole of that cast for John D. Fredericks. This is evidence of itself that the Republicans loyally supported the Governor in return for his promised support of Mr. Hughes. George Patton received little more than the number of Democratic votes cast for Curtin for Governor in 1914, but President Wilson received the Curtin vote plus more than half the number of votes which the Progressives cast for Gov. Johnson in 1914.

JOHNSON'S ASSERTION.

The Governor now asserts that he closed his own campaign when he received the Republican nomination and that during the rest of the period he campaigned for Mr. Hughes. But how? His savage speech occupied one hour and twenty minutes in delivery. In not one of these did he devote as much as two minutes to the Republican national candidate. During the first month of his campaign in the north his reference nightly to Mr. Hughes consisted of a single paragraph, which filled just fourteen lines of type in an ordinary newspaper column.

During this time hundreds of State employees were campaigning openly for President Wilson. Johnson solicited and received the support of Democratic newspapers that were making a campaign for Wilson. When he spoke in Dreamland Rink in San Francisco, in a hall paid for by Republican money, he was greeted with shouts of "Johnson and Wilson." Yet Johnson uttered not one word of protest, and it was common knowledge in San Francisco before the meeting that he had agreed to make no mention of the President's name, nor should any other speaker do so. Compare this with the campaigns which he made in California against President Taft. He knew that the southern border of the State he professes to love so much—in the same way that a wolf loves sheep—was menaced seriously by the growing power of Japan in Mexico.

He knew that men of California had been murdered and women and girls of California ravished and stabbed in Mexico, yet he uttered not one word of reproach against the administration responsible for these outrages. Why? Because he had been warned that to censure Wilson might lose him Democratic votes.

WEAR WILSON BUTTONS.

Members of his pay roll brigade wore their Wilson buttons while welcoming him at his meetings. Yet not a member of a department in the whole State over which the Governor has control expressed himself for the Democratic candidate for United States Senator. To have done so would have meant instant dismissal.

But the crowning offense of Gov. Johnson and of the mongrel Republicans on the State Central Committee was to organize fights in thirty Assembly districts against regular Republican nominees for the Assembly who had declined to vote for the Governor's candidate for chairman of the Sacramento convention. These men had all agreed to support the Governor as the Republican candidate for United States Senator, but this was not enough; they threatened that control of the next Legislature, not the Republican control, but control by the pay-roll brigade. Enough Democrats were hunted up by members of the Governor's official family and carried to the polls in automobiles to compass the defeat of the Republican candidate for President. There were at least 8000 of them.

In nearly all these districts cards were distributed bearing the name of Gov. Johnson and the machine candidate for the Legislature. But there has not been discovered a single instance in all Northern California in which a card was distributed bearing the slogan "Johnson and Hughes." Many of the unions circulated cards bearing the names "Johnson and Wilson," and the Governor made no protest.

ADMISSION TO ROWELL.

Johnson and Rowell now admit that it was Progressive votes that beat Hughes in California; that they failed to make good their promise to swing the Progressive vote to the Republican candidate.

Why did not the Governor sound a cry of warning before the election? Why did not Rowell utter a word to the effect that there was Progressive dissension and that the result was in doubt?

Why did members of the Governor's official family in Sacramento wager heavily during the last week before the election that the State would go for Wilson?

At the very moment that the Governor is making his protests some of his political supporters are boasting that the Wilson victory in California was a great boost for the Governor. They say that if Hughes had won he would have been a candidate again in four years; that it

SNOW DELAYING OFFICIAL COUN

Returns from the Mount Needed in Sacramento.

Parties Going Out on Skiis to Get Tally Sheets.

Some Counties Cut off from the Outside World.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 11.— excitement prevails all through the mountain districts of Northern Ca fornia as the day for beginning the official canvass of votes cast in the last election approaches. The will be slow, slowest probably the pioneer days. In at least northern counties a heavy snow in the mountains has snowed in tain precincts. This is true in vada, Eldorado, Plumas and counties.

From most of these the have been phoned out and are included in the unofficial count, there are unreported two precin from Alpine county and one from Lassen, where telephone and telegraph wires are down and nothing is yet known from the outside of Tuesday's results. Nor do the residents of these districts know how ly the returns from those precincts are sought.

Parties have been organized over the mountains on skiis bring forth the missing returns. official count cannot begin the precinct books are actually the Boards of Supervisors.

Reports from these counties still being received; there are slight corrections, but not enough change the result more than votes either way. Republican thusiasts are despairing of up enough votes in the count to overcome the 3000 lead reported for President Wilson. The wrong perpetrated through treachery of the State machine past redemption.

MILD DEMOCRATIC PARA

Democrats in Sacramento celebrated tonight their victory. But the parade was very mild; there was utter absence of old-time Democratic enthusiasm. This is accounted for in part because the Democrats felt themselves that it was treachery and not fair fighting that made the Wilson victory in California possible.

While more than half the State employees in Sacramento were for Wilson before the election Tuesday, not one of them appeared in the parade. Orders came from San Francisco last night that the State employees must cut out all Wilson talk, must not tell about voting for him and must take no part in the Democratic jubilation. The Governor, Rowell et al are busy preparing their alibi.

Old-time politicians in Los Angeles may be interested to know that Eddie Morris, Democratic political boss under former Mayor Snyder, is now one of the big guns of the Democracy in Northern California. He took a prominent part in the present Democratic campaign and is said to be listed for a slice of pie out of the new Democratic bakery. Sacramento is also in line for a new government building. Tom and George Vice think it would be a good plan to have a branch of

CHECKERBOARD ON WILSON

How President Can A Peace in Europe

BY HARRY CA

WHAT effect will the re-election of President Wilson have on the war in Europe?

This question is uppermost in the War Office of every country in Europe; not to mention Downing street and Wilhelmstrasse, where the diplomats are stacking the cards.

The answer seems to be written in blazing letters across the sky.

If he will consent to bind the United States to an alliance with Great Britain, President Wilson can bring about peace in Europe tomorrow morning.

Upon no other terms can England consent to peace without endangering her very existence.

This conclusion is so obvious that it admits of no possible argument or contradiction. Without an alliance with the United States, Great Britain dares not face the black future. The British diplomats often address burning words to Parliament, expressing their firm determination to fight on until Germany has been "punished." Anyone, who is not a fool, can see the real truth. Great Britain, like the other nations at war, would be only too glad to stop the war. But Great Britain would stand face to face with disaster should she consent to peace before having arranged new and powerful alliances.

CONDITIONS EXAMINED.

Let us look plainly at conditions as they are in the world today.

The war has been a failure from the standpoint of every nation involved with the possible exception of Japan.

It has become vividly clear that neither side is going to "get anywhere." The British offensive on the Somme represented the ultimate effort of the allies. Co-operating with the French, the British spent two years and a half; a million lives and countless and illimitable treasure on the "big push." And they didn't get anywhere. Although every effort has been made by the allied press bureaus to magnify the results of the British push, the glaring fact remains that more territory changes hands every day on the Russo-German front than the British were able to win in five months' slaughter.

On the east front, the effort of the allies to bring about a crisis was equally unsuccessful. Owing to the failure of the Saloniki expedition, the Rumanian campaign, which was the supreme effort of the allies in the east, has been a miserable failure.

Germany's objective was the capture of Paris. In this she has failed. The Marne and Verdun are the tombs of German hopes.

Except for the loot grabbed off by Japan when the other great powers were too busy to notice, no nation has anything to show for her fighting.

GERMAN GAINS.

Germany has won great expanses of territory for which she has no possible use; and has lost colonies that are essential to her development as a contender for world markets. France has won glory, but has lost everything else. Russia went into the war to get Constantinople and has no prospect of getting it. England has contrived to pick several islands in the Mediterranean Sea and much territory on the continent of Africa; but these gains are empty in view of the loss of her prestige as a military power. BERLIN, Nov. 11.—German newspapers received the news of President Wilson's re-election with skepticism and generally wait for the final announcement before again venturing extensive comment, but appear to feel little need for revising the opinions based on the first reports since that at that time they took the standpoint of complete indifference to Germany whether Hughes or Wilson was elected.

The Tageblatt points out that Wilson's election, if confirmed, indicates a continuation of present policies.

CHECKERBOARD OF WAR ON WILSON ELECTION.

How President Can Act to Bring About Peace in Europe Tomorrow.

BY HARRY CARR.

WHAT effect will the re-election of President Wilson have on the war in Europe?

This question is uppermost in the War Office of every country in Europe; not to mention Downing street and Wilhelmstrasse, where the diplomats are stacking the cards.

The answer seems to be written in blazing letters across the sky.

If he will consent to bind the United States to an alliance with Great Britain, President Wilson can bring about peace in Europe tomorrow morning.

Upon no other terms can England consent to peace without endangering her very existence.

This conclusion is so obvious that it admits of no possible argument or contradiction. Without an alliance with the United States, Great Britain dares not face the black future. The British diplomats often address burning words to Parliament, expressing their firm determination to fight on until Germany has been "punished." Anyone, who is not a fool can see the real truth. Great Britain, like the other nations at war, would be only too glad to stop the war. But Great Britain would stand face to face with disaster should she consent to peace before having arranged new and powerful alliances.

CONDITIONS EXAMINED.

Let us look plainly at conditions as they are in the world today.

The war has been a failure from the standpoint of every nation involved with the possible exception of Japan.

It has become vividly clear that neither side is going to "get anywhere." The British offensive on the Somme represented the ultimate effort of the allies. Co-operating with the French, the British spent two years and a half; a million lives and countless and illimitable treasure on the "big push." And they didn't get anywhere. Although every effort has been made by the allied press bureaus to magnify the results of the British push, the glaring fact remains that more territory changes hands every day on the Russo-German front than the British were able to win in five months' slaughter.

On the east front, the effort of the allies to bring about a crisis was equally unsuccessful. Owing to the failure of the Saloniki expedition, the Roumanian campaign, which was the supreme effort of the allies in the east, has been a miserable failure.

Germany's objective was the capture of Paris. In this she has failed. The Marne and Verdun are the tombs of German hopes.

Except for the loot grabbed off by Japan when the other great powers were too busy to notice, no nation has anything to show for her fighting.

GERMAN GAINS.

Germany has won great expanses of territory for which she had no possible use; and has lost colonies that are essential to her development as a contender for world markets. France has won glory, but has lost everything else. Russia went into the war to get Constantinople and has no prospect of getting it. England has contrived to pick several islands in the Mediterranean and much territory on the continent of Africa; but these gains are empty in view of the loss of her prestige as a military power. Without prestige, colonies constitute a danger rather than an asset.

Having gained nothing by fighting and seeing no prospects ahead, it would seem that all the nations would be only too glad to drop the whole thing and return to conditions exactly as they were before the war.

This arrangement would undoubtedly be consented to by all the nations involved except England. I think I can show you why England could not consent to do this.

If the war were to be called off tomorrow, Great Britain would face a tragic situation.

Since the war began, a great new alliance has been formed by Russia and Japan. This alliance is aimed directly at England. One of the twenty-one secret demands made by Japan upon China is the right to parallel the British railroad concession into the Yan-tse Valley. The is almost equivalent to handing John Bull his hat and telling him to get out of the Orient. For reasons that have been set forth many times, Japan must dominate China or perish from the earth. The principal obstacle to Japanese domination of China is the domination by Great Britain of an important part of China.

Alone, Japan would never dare to serve notice on Great Britain to move out. But standing back of Japan is Russia.

I take it that every reader of this article thoroughly understands the direct conflict of world interests between Great Britain and Russia. They have been in this war only half allies drawn together temporarily through the pressure of necessity. Every one knows that, sooner or later, the Russ and the Englishman are due for a big war.

SERIOUS FEATURE.

The most serious feature of this Russo-Japanese alliance for England is one that must be studied on a map. With the advance of the Russian troops into Persia (ostensibly in the interests of a campaign against Germany) the Czar has gained a strategic point against England. I have never believed—and I don't imagine that any one else has believed—that Russia was on the level in her Persian campaign. She went into Persia purely for the purpose of sneaking one over onto Great Britain.

Well, there they stand!

India is the keystone of the arch of the British Empire. Without India, the empire cannot endure. And upon one flank of India stand the troops of the Czar; on the other flank stand the battalions of the Mikado, ready to squeeze England's priceless jewel like two great jaws.

This is not the only serious situation to which England must look forward after the war.

Her great commercial competitor is Germany, which, at the outset of the war, was threatening to wreck British industries. The entire fabric of Britain's national life was built upon overseas markets. Germany was slowly but surely driving her out of these markets.

England's natural enemy is Germany. Her defenses since the development of steam-driven factories have been against Germany. Her enemy after the war will be Germany.

England has had in the past a twofold defense against Germany: her great war fleets which dominated the seven seas; and her alliance with France whereby she had an army ready for her occasions.

It is idle not to acknowledge that both of these staffs are now broken reeds.

France has made a glorious record in this war; but for a generation, if not forever, her strength is shattered. She has lost too much population to cut any serious figure as a great war power for a long time to come. The armies of France were bands of glorious heroes whose achievements have no equal in military history; but these soldiers sleep in graves in Flanders and at Verdun.

Great Britain will never again dominate the seas. An American inventor named Lake rang down the curtain on "Britannia Rules the Waves." The invention of the submarine made it impossible for any one power to rule the wave or to protect its own shipping on the wave.

As a matter of cold fact all that has prevented the rule of Germany instead of England over the wave has been the reluctance of the German Foreign Office to offend America.

Had America assented to a ruthless German submarine warfare, the German undersea boats could have destroyed every ship that attempted to cross the Atlantic Ocean. Great Britain would have been starved into submission within a month at the outside.

Before another war takes place, the submarine will have been perfected. The only defense against the undersea boat at the present time is a device made possible by the fact that a submarine has to come frequently to the surface to recharge its electric batteries. Inventions are already perfected obviating this necessity. The great British fleets which since the days of Nelson have ruled all ocean highways have become a mockery. The day of British sea power is done.

With no French army to rely upon for her left arm; with the navy, her right arm, crippled by the undersea boats, with Russia and Japan in combination against her in the Far East where her armor has a hole in it, what can Great Britain do to save herself?

THE OBVIOUS ANSWER.

The answer is obvious: Make a new alliance with the United States.

The circumstances draw the two countries together. Not through any sentimental rubbish about blood being thick, but through common interest. Nations have no friends and no enemies. They have interests that run together or crisscross. If they happen to run in the same direction, the nations slobber sentiment over each other and talk about each other as "brothers with the same ideals." If they run crisscross, they go to war.

It happens that the interests of America and Great Britain run nearly enough in the same direction to give Downing street a good case to argue.

In the face of the growing difficulties between Japan and the United States, the British empire and the United States could be very useful to each other. Great Britain is afraid of Japan and so are we: let's be frank about it.

There is another reason, however, why England courts an alliance with the United States.

With Japan and Russia arrayed against England and France, Germany is likely to be found at the close of this war in a peculiar position of power. I predict that both sides will be wooing the Kaiser, who will be able to say to both Ententes:

"Well, kid, you want me on your side!" What do I get out of it? You'll have to show me!"

England sees plainly that, in the scramble for trade after the war, Germany's hopes are based upon America. Especially during the period of soreness and hatred, Germany must look to the United States for her meal ticket. The German merchants told me this with frankness.

With Germany and the United States dependent upon each other in every large commercial way after the war, England could at least rely upon America to keep the Kaiser quiescent.

WILSON'S SMILE.

Woodrow Wilson has smiled with patient affection upon the allies during this war. His warmest supporter (I might almost say his mouthpiece) is the New Republic magazine. In a recent issue of this magazine, the editor points out with piety that Mr. Wilson's contribution to the "great cause" of the allies has been this much: That he suffered the allies to override American rights without serious protest while holding Germany strictly accountable for German misdeeds.

Does this mean that Mr. Wilson has already prepared the way for a British alliance? If so, an early peace in Europe is on the cards.

Comment.

WILSON TARIFF SYSTEM PLEASING TO GERMANY.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—German newspapers received the news of President Wilson's re-election with skepticism and generally wait for the final announcement before venturing extensive comment. They appear to feel little need for revising the opinions based on the first reports since at that time they took the standpoint that it made little difference to Germany whether Hughes or Wilson was successful.

The Tageblatt points out that Wilson's election, if confirmed, indicates a continuation of present policies, with the possible dropping of such cases as were introduced for campaign reasons. President Wilson, it adds, probably will now devote himself with increased vigor to the idea of an international peace organization, which as the debate in the Reichstag Main Committee showed, will be received sympathetically in Germany.

Another favorable aspect of the latest news, the Tageblatt concludes, is that the re-election of Wilson will prevent a return by the United States to a high tariff system and will be helpful to future German-American commercial relations.

Viewpoint.

FOREIGN PRESS COMMENTS WITH FAVOR ON RESULT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Nov. 11, 5:30 a. m.—The newspapers, while printing the news of the American election in prominent position, express no opinion as to the result. What comment there is, sympathizes with President Wilson.

Le Petit Journal says: "President Wilson's victory is highly satisfactory to us for two reasons—the first is that for four years American foreign policies will be free from all electoral considerations, as the Constitution forbids President Wilson from seeking a third term; the second reason is that the result of the election must put new life into American neutrality. Evidently an immense majority of the electorate pronounced against war, apart from the millions of voters who approved the vigor with which the President forced the Germans to cede on the submarine war question; other millions voted for Wilson because he demanded an energetic defense of American rights. The chief executive is bound to take into count this popular wish. Just as Hughes could not have ignored the verdict against him, so Wilson must take into consideration the condemnation of a policy which Roosevelt has described as 'Backboneless.'"

Le Matin and the Parisien express the same view. The latter concludes: "It is because he played a very important role in a moment of a crisis that the American people have renewed their mandate to President Wilson."

IN GREAT BRITAIN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Manchester Guardian attributes President Wilson's success to the rallying of a sufficient number of the Progressive votes which Roosevelt gained in 1912.

"It seems a small thing," this newspaper continues, "but yet it may indicate a new epoch in American political life. The Progressive movement arose entirely independent of foreign politics. Many Progressive votes given to Wilson are given with the mental reservation that they will not go again to a Democratic candidate unless Wilson confirms the faith of the Progressives by consolidating what is still only tentative."

JAPAN APPROVES.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE AND A. P.]

TOKIO, Nov. 10.—11:30 p. m.—The re-election of President Wilson is welcomed by the Japanese press which praises his peaceful disposition and believes his continuation in office augurs well for the futherance of American-Japanese friendship. Business circles are pleased as they feared a Republican protective tariff would be a blow to Japanese exports to America.

Johnson's Wail.

will now be necessary for the Republican party to pick its next national candidate from the West, and that there is but one available man. Some add, with a cunning leer, "that is why we all voted for Wilson. Johnson will be running again in four years."

Progressives now admit that they pretended to be for Hughes in order to keep the Republicans in line for Johnson for the Senate. The Governor knew this and Rowell knew this; but neither of them spoke; they feared that any protest might turn some votes to Patton.

To elect Mr. Hughes it was necessary to defeat Mr. Wilson. In his addresses for Roosevelt the Governor devoted two-thirds of his evening to castigations of President Taft and the Republican administration. In his present campaign Mr. Wilson and the Democratic administration were never mentioned. This of itself proves the mokery and the hypocrisy of the assertion that Gov. Johnson "did his best" to carry the State for Hughes.

the Government Printing Office established in the West, and they say Sacramento is the logical place for it. They argue that there is no more reason for the government publications to all come from one office than for the coin to all come from one mint.

Great expectations fill the breasts of the deserving Democracy since California has gone Democratic. They assert that the administration should go fifty-fifty between them and Tammany Hall on Federal patronage.

JOHNSON'S INTENTIONS.

A few straggling inquiries come to Sacramento about when the Governor is going to resign, now that he is elected United States Senator. It may be authoritatively stated that he is not going to resign. He will remain Governor until he takes the oath of office as United States Senator in order to attend a regular or special session of Congress. When he takes that oath he will be automatically separated from his present sinecure. During the last five months he has spent about thirty days in his office in Sacramento.

Recently, some wags placed a "for rent" sign on the Governor's mansion here. The Governor draws $800 a month from the State Treasury for maintaining a residence in the State mansion here—and lives in San Francisco.

STOCKTON, Nov. 11.—M. N. Beach, for twenty years a Constable of Stockton township, and as a young man identified with the hunt of Sontag and Evans, the notorious bandits and trainrobbers who terrorized travelers in the San Joaquin Valley in the pioneer days, died here today at his home. He was taken ill with pneumonia on Tuesday.

Mr. Beach came to California from New York State in 1884. His earliest service in California was with Constable Walker of Tracy. During the time that the Sontag-Evans trainrobbing gang was terrorizing the San Joaquin Valley, with Constable Walker Beach rode on trains throughout the valley, both being armed and known as "shotgun guards." Later he came to Stockton and became a deputy undersheriff, Cunningham, acting as jailer. When Mr. Beach was married, October 3, 1886, he gave up his position at the jail after four years. In 1894 he was elected Constable of Stockton township, and was re-elected continuously until 1914.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Disloyalty.

DISARM GUARDS, FEARING PLOT.

Believed Customs Men Were Going to Mutiny.

Thought Soldiers Were to Join Villa Forces.

Say They Passed Contraband Across the Border.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 11.—Because Carranza officials feared they might be disloyal, scores of former Villa soldiers, who have been serving as customs guards in Juarez since the Villa garrison joined the Carranza army, were ordered to the Juarez customhouse today and disarmed by the military.

One hundred and fifty guards and officers were disarmed, according to Gen. Francisco Gonzales, commander of the garrison in Juarez.

Commander Chavez, of the disarmed men was seen to enter a restaurant under guard today, but it is not known whether formal charges have been made against him. According to Carranza officials, no formal charges were made against the disarmed men.

Customs guards from Guadalupe and Zaragosa, southeast of Juarez, were brought to Juarez early today and placed in jail on charges of permitting contraband goods to cross the border. It is not believed their arrests have any connection with the disarming and discharging of the customs guards in Juarez.

Government agents here received a report from Juarez today that the men were disarmed because of a plot to have the Juarez customs guards and soldiers mutiny and to declare for Villa. These agents also received a report that Carranza soldiers who arrived from Chihuahua city yesterday were being closely guarded as their loyalty was also doubted.

TRY TO SAVE SCOUT.

Fear that Benjamin Brahan, a scout for Gen. Pershing in Mexico, may be sent to Chihuahua city and be excuted is causing army officials here to exert every effort to have the American scout released in Juarez.

According to the report made to the American State Department agents here, Brahan is held because of having formerly been with Villa. He is said to have been employed as trainmaster for Villa at one time and to have held a commission in the Villa army. Capt. William Reid, Gen. Pershing's intelligence officer in Mexico, is here making an effort to have the scout released. Brahan is said to have driven to Juarez in an automobile while in El Paso on leave from Gen. Pershing's column and to have been arrested as soon as he crossed the border.

Joseph Williams, a Mormon resident of the Colonia Dublan district of Western Chihuahua, is also being held in Juarez on a charge of having stolen cattle in his possession. It is feared by his friends that he may be sent to Chihuahua with Brahan.

HELD AS DESERTER.

A negro who gave the name of Ben Lee crossed the international bridge last night from Juarez and to provost officers admitted he was a member of the Twenty-fourth Infantry with Gen. Pershing's command. He arrived in Juarez from Casas Grandes on a freight train, was arrested in Juarez by Carranza soldiers and turned over to the provost guards here. He is being held at Fort Bliss on a charge of desertion.

KILL THREE CHINESE

Reports of a celebration at Santa Cruz de Rosales, about fifty miles southeast of Chihuahua city, by Villa bandits, have been brought to the border by Mexican refugees and reported to agents of the American government here. These reports vary but agree that a parade and celebration was held there and speeches made denouncing Americans and Chinese. Americans were blamed for Mexico's troubles by the speakers, according to the refugees' reports. Following the celebration three Chinese were killed in the plaza, according to the same source.

VILLA AVOIDS CLASH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ATLANTIC CITY (N. J.) Nov. 11.—Villa is now somewhere on the northern border of the State of Durango, Mex., south and west of the Carranza army sent north to capture him and his followers, according to reports reaching the American members of the Mexican-American joint commission.

These reports stated that while the Carranza army was moving northward through Escalon, Villa was avoiding a clash there by moving his force southward from Parral through mountain trails toward Durango State.

Progress of the campaign in the northern part of Mexico was discussed again today by the commissioners, but there was nothing to indicate they had reached a point where an agreement was possible.

Will End War.

to that grand nation and great people of George Washington, to produce the Prince of Peace who would lead a mad and exhausted Europe back into the path of peace, civilization and culture. The world has been disappointed. Peace? Yes. Who does not desire peace, but when, where, how? Where is the man who can show the way?"

A ROMANTIC FIGURE.

King Ferdinand I, Czar of the Bulgarians, received me today in the Royal Palace. An audience planned originally for perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes was extended into an informal and intensely interesting chat of about three hours, and was, next to my much shorter talk with the Pope, perhaps the most interesting conversation I have had with any statesman or ruler in my fifteen years of journalistic career. It is to be regretted that I cannot write an interview. Of all the interviews I have written, it would be far the most interesting. It afforded me, however, an opportunity to study the many-sided, brilliant, versatile, remarkably gifted and most romantic figure on any European throne today.

His career since the days he was in the United States as a young man, his acceptance of the Bulgarian throne against the warning entreaties of his friends, after the Bulgarians had dethroned and run Prince Alexander of Battenberg out of the country, his defiance of Russia and his meeting of the plotting and machinations to dethrone him, during which his life has been in constant danger, his bringing of Bulgaria to that point where it is a power Europe must reckon with is more romantic than any of the novels of Anthony Hope.

SCHOOLING HIS SON.

Much of the time I had a feeling that he was giving the Crown Prince a practical lesson and demonstration in "How to interview the interviewer." Every now and then, when I put a question to him, the King first would turn to Boris, as if to say: "This is how we do that."

Among his many other accomplishments, King Ferdinand is a linguist. Besides Russian, Bulgarian, Spanish, Hungarian, Turkish and Greek, he speaks wonderful French and goes from German into French and then into English. He is a botanist of no mean ability and might be a professor of natural science.

He has a wonderful knowledge of history, from which he drew frequent parallels to illustrate, compare or emphasize his points of view. He has an external, sensitive nature. Frequently he would turn to Boris to confirm his views or to ask the Crown Prince for his opinion. Boris took a lively interest and part in the conversation.

CROWN PRINCE ALERT.

The Crown Prince made an impression upon me of being a quick, bright, keenly alert young man of very democratic and engaging manners, and I can understand the great popularity which he enjoys with the Bulgarian people and the army, which I was assured in all circles were very fond of him.

I did not find him at all as described by "the man who dined with the Kaiser" at Nish. He has the rank of major in the army and the reputation of being a hard worker.

ABLE MILITARY YOUTH.

Though only 22, he has participated in his third war. In army circles he has received much credit for being no mean strategist and has shown great ability in the study of strategy. In the big battle of Dobrudja he was with the Third Army, which broke through the Rumanian-Russian-Constanza-Czernavoda line, and received much credit for his military ability.

The very critical German General Staff officers, who are difficult to please and grudging with their praise, even to princes, speak well of him.

A very sympathetic bond seems to exist between father and son. I gathered from conversation that the King has initiated the Crown Prince into much of his clever statecraft and that Ferdinand confers with him frequently and withholds few state secrets from him. He seemed especially well versed in the military situation and has his father's cool objective way of looking at things.

All in all, making due allowance for his years, I doubt whether Boris need fear comparison with the heir of any throne in Europe.

CLEVEREST STATESMAN.

Ferdinand of Bulgaria is the most astute diplomat and cleverest statesman among the central powers. That, at least, is the impression made upon me during my three hours' talk with him. Certainly he outranks any I have met and talked with personally. He has a rare sense of humor, simple graciousness and the faculty of playing off one factor against another down to a fine art.

This has enabled him to smooth away difficulties which often have confronted him. In the political chess game in the Balkans and Southeastern Europe he has been and still is the master player. The King described himself as more than an admirer—as almost a worshiper of the "Great George Washington," and spoke of two brothers, who have been much in the United States, as having been "fanatical Americans."

AMERICA'S DUAL ROLE.

But Ferdinand found what, to him, was an "incomprehensible gulf" between what he termed the principles of Washington and what he characterized as the principles involved in the dual attitude of America today —"humanitarianism on one side, prolongation of the war on the other hand."

The Czar did not know and was visibly surprised and deeply impressed when I told him that America had fed and was still feeding Belgians and the population in the occupied districts of Northern France, and especially when he was informed of the sum American philanthropy had devoted and was devoting to that purpose.

"Those are huge sums," he remarked.

He frankly said that that was wholly new to him. When I touched upon the Bulgarian army and people the Czar became almost eloquent over their patriotism, their spirit of self-sacrifice and their willingness to do with little, as shown through almost four years of three wars, and declared that for fighting ability, few requirements and endurance, the Bulgarian soldier is without a peer.

It developed from figures given to me by Ferdinand that Bulgaria, in proportion to her small population, has put more soldiers in the field in this war than any other nation.

Very much an idealist by nature. Ferdinand is anything but an illusionist. He sees things as they are and his career has shown almost intuitive political foresight. He is what Germans call a "Realpolitiker," one of the most remarkable and romantic figures in Europe.

The world will hear of him.

Service.

MEN TO STAY IN GUARD; HOME EXCUSES DON'T GO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Nov. 11.—National Guardsmen are not to be discharged from the Federal service for any reason other than the "interest of the government," according to general instructions from Secretary of War Baker to Southern Department headquarters. It was admitted by officers here tonight that this ruling practically closes the door to members of the National Guard who are desirous of leaving the service for various reasons.

The information was also given that it was impossible for the War Department to say definitely when the various organizations, or any particular organization, of the National Guard would be returned to their home stations.

Included in the order was the explanation that the "granting of all the numerous applications of business and professional men for discharge from the National Guard would disorganize many militia units and seriously impair the efficiency of the service, and favorable action on any individual application would be a manifest discrimination against many other soldiers similarly circumstanced and equally deserving of favorable consideration."

FOOD FAMINE WORSE; CAR SHORTAGE ACUTE

Potatoes are Now Accepted as Spot Ca by Theaters in Chicago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—The Federal government's inquiry into the soaring prices of staple food articles followed a new trail today when information was received by Assistant District Attorney Joseph B. Fleming, in charge of the inquiry, that upward of 2000 cars, loaded with cabbages and potatoes, have been lying in rail yards at Western avenue, Galewood and Mannheim, on the Western boundaries of the city, under orders not to be moved until released by certain men.

The information came in a personal letter in which the writer claimed to have positive knowledge of the facts he stated. The trainmen, he said, were forbidden to move the cars, which have been in the yards for almost a month, without orders from certain persons. Other cars are coming into the city and are being held, and the same condition is said to exist in other freight yards of the city.

The Department of Agriculture has also been interested in the Chicago food situation.

Eggs purchased in China for 2 cents a dozen and sold to the consumer of Chicago for the prevailing high prices, ranging from 40 to 48 cents, will be the subject of an interview between Miss Florence King, president of the Woman's Association of Commerce, and Secretary of Agriculture Houston early next week, Miss King announced today.

Miss King, who has been collecting data for months in an effort effectively to wage the battle of the Chicago housewife against exorbitant prices, announced today that she would see Secretary Houston principally on the subject of the new grain standards act, which gives the Secretary of Agriculture absolute power to grade grains and fix standards.

It is the contention of Miss King that the law permits the farmer to be arbitrarily cheated out of a fair price for his grain and that the miller purchases low grades of wheat at low prices and turns out flour which he classes first grade and for which he charges top notch prices. Miss King expects to ask for a proper enforcement of a new regulation in connection with the grain-standards act, which will force the proper grading of flour, so the housewife may know what she is buying.

PIN MONEY.

Boys with bulging pockets, little girls with small baskets, grown men looking somewhat sheepish and gingerly carrying paper sacks wended their way toward a given point in Waukegan today. The pilgrimage ended beneath the legend:

ADMITTANCE, TWO POTATOES.

Overhead flamed the sign of a motion picture theater and, beyond, the "ticket" taker busily plumped admission fees into a large barrel. The place was packed and a line extended to the curb outside. When Mrs. Carl Muller, who, with her husband, owns the theater, counted up the day's receipts they two barrels and a clothes full of the choicest tubers Waukegan markets. "I got the idea from grocery bills," said Mrs. "Vegetables, especially potatoes awfully high and just as as ever. So we tried the and it was a wonderful was delightful to watch the sters trooping in, a potato in each little fist. More came and from the time closed the theater was jammed.

"Next week we're going to two carrots, or two onions nips, or a cabbage. Then going to ask the bakers and to indorse the movement with mince pies and coffee Thanksgiving Day we'll provide all the materials mighty good dinner."

The prize "ticket" of the handed in by Louis weighed two and one half and was given place of top of the barrel.

BREAD MAY DISAPPEAR, OWING TO WAR EXPORTS

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—A bread famine is probable. It is thought that within the next six months the people of the United States will be forced to cut down the amount of bread they eat. If the famine comes it will be due to the fact that so much wheat has been exported that not enough is left to supply the normal domestic consumption.

B. W. Snow is one of the leading crop experts of the country.

"On August 1, last," said Mr. Snow today, "it was estimated that there were about 100,000,000 bushels of wheat in the country available for export. In other words, there was that much available above the amount needed for sumption in the United States July 1 1917 when the new crop come on the market.

"During the last two about 75,000,000 bushels—or quarters of the available has been sold and shipped The foreign demand continues think there is grave danger exportation."

The first three days of this the British government is to have bought 4,000,000 wheat for shipment abroad, siderable part of it, however, ing from Canada. Today purchases were said to 2,500,000 bushels.

FIGHTING STOPS PEACE MEETING.

Demonstrators Enter Hall, Fist Battles Follow.

Hollweg's Speech Still the Main Topic in Berlin.

Text of Russian Order Made Public by Chancellor.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A conference Cardiff, Wales, in favor of opening peace negotiations, which had been arranged by the National Council of Civil Liberties, was broken up today, the Cardiff correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company wires. A crowd of patriotic demonstrators broke into the hall and were fighting resulted, although there were no casualties.

The president of the South Wales Miners' Federation was in the chair. Speeches were made by James H. Thomas and Ramsay McDonald, members of the House of Commons. The delegates to the conference appeared to be mostly young men military age. A number of women also were present. The crowd which broke up the meeting first paraded through the town, its ranks growing constantly until several thousand persons were in line. When the demonstrators reached hall in which the conference being held they met with stout resistance from within, but eventually the doors were broken down. fighting followed, in which it reported that women delegates fought fiercely. Some stones thrown without broke windows.

Mr. Thomas attempted to rally supporters, but was dragged the platform and narrowly escaped serious injury. When the demonstrators were in full possession of the hall they waved flags sang "God Save the King."

HOLLWEG'S REVELATION.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov. 11 (via Sayville.) The assertion of Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg in his address to Reichstag main committee that, long ago as 1912, Russia had made plans for war on Germany, supplemented today by the semi-official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which published what is government as the text of the Russian government's general order to which the Chancellor referred. In address Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg said at the time the war began there was still valid an order "from the highest place that a proclamation of mobilization would made at the same time a proclamation of war against Germany." text of the order, as given by newspaper, follows:

"Secret.

"Chief of Staff of the Warsaw military district.

"Quartermaster's general section mobilization department.

"September 30, 1912.

"Number 2450.

"Urgent: To the commander of Sixth Army Corps: Modifying former orders, I communicate following by order of the chief commander:

EFFECT OF MOBILIZATION.

"It is ordered from the highest place that a proclamation of mobilization at the same time is a proclamation of war against Germany.

"The German army, in full readiness for war, can complete the occupation of strategic points in the district of the Mazurian lakes on the teenth day of mobilization. The German vanguard corps may cross frontier on the tenth day.

"The armed forces of Russia will divided into several armies, previously assigned for simultaneous operations against Germany and Austria-Hungary. The armies assigned for operations against Germany will be combined into one group under command of the chief commander of the group of armies on the German front. The Second Army, to which the Sixth Corps belongs, will be incorporated in a group of armies on the northwest front. The staff of the chief commander of the Second Army will have quarters in Warsaw until the day of mobilization and then at Volkovisk.

"The general task of the troops on the northwest front, after the completion of mobilization, will be to march against the armed forces of Germany with the object of carrying the war into its territory. The task of the Second Army will be the covering of mobilization and of the concentration of armies. In the event the army must maintain control of the Bialystok-Grodno district. For this purpose the Second will concentrate on the front Sopockini-Lomza."

Detailed orders are given, the newspaper continues, in regard to disposition of troops, transports, and finally the high political importance of the orders given is pointed out as follows:

"The contents of this order are a secret of state."

The order is said to have been signed by Lieut.-Gen. Kilouiew, Gen. Postovski and Senior Adjutant Colonel Daler.

The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung says this order was not cancelled and consequently was valid when the war began. It adds that, owing to the close co-operation of the Russian and French general staffs the order also must have been known to the French government and through it to the British government, inasmuch as in the last years before the war permanent relations had been built up between the French and British staffs, as was shown by frequent trips of Gen. to France.

GOETHALS TO QUIT NOVEMBER FIFTEENTH.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Maj.-Gen. George W. Goethals, governor of the Panama Canal zone, will pass to the retired list of the army on his application dating from November 15 next. Army orders today say President Wilson has approved his application for retirement after forty years of service. The order of retirement affects Gen. Goethals's military status but does not operate to relieve him from duty as governor of the canal zone. It is preliminary to his resignation. He probably will be succeeded by Lieut.-Gen. Chester Harding, Engineer Corps, now acting governor.

Gen. Goethals has been selected by President Wilson as chairman of the Eight-hour Commission, which will review the effect of the Adamson law. It has been understood that Gen. Goethals desires to be relieved from canal duties and before taking up this new task.

AMERICAN SHIP REPORTED SUNK

Crew of Steamer Columbian is at Corunna, Spain.

Two British and a Danish Vessel Also Victims.

Three Norwegian Craft Also Numbered Among Lost.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The American steamer Columbian is believed to have been sunk, according to an announcement by Lloyd's.

The crew of the Columbian has arrived at Corunna, Spain, in lifeboats, says a Reuter's dispatch from Madrid.

It was reported here on Wednesday that the Columbian was sending out wireless calls for help, saying she was being shelled by a submarine. The calls were picked up by Admiralty stations. Nothing further, however had been heard of the Columbian until tonight's statement from Lloyd's Shipping Agency.

The Columbian is under American registry and sailed from New York October 18 and Boston October 21, bound for Genoa. She was reported as touching at St. Nazaire, France, on November [illegible], leaving that port the next day for Italy. The Columbian is owned by the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company of New York and was built in San Francisco in 19[illegible]7. The vessel carried no passengers, but had a crew of about 113 officers and men. She was under charter by the France and Canada Steamship Company, with offices in New York.

BELIEF IN WASHINGTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The case of the American steamer Columbian, reported sunk off the Spanish coast, will be laid before President Wilson by the State Department early next week as part of a general summary of recent submarine operations, construed by some officials as forecasting a radical change in the German policy.

Information regarding the Columbian was so incomplete tonight that no official would predict what part the case might play in final determination of this government's course. Late in the day the American Consul at Balboa forwarded the report that the vessel had been sunk thirty miles off Cape Ortegal and her crew saved, but no details were given. The dispatch immediately was called to the attention of Secretary Lansing.

Points to be cleared up before a decision is reached involve the question of whether the vessel was fired on without warning, whether she carried contraband and whether she attempted to escape. The report received several days ago that the Columbian was being shelled by a submarine led many officials to believe that she probably was running away, thereby sacrificing her immunity from attack. If she carried contraband, and was properly warned, the case may resolve itself into a question of indemnity.

All available facts regarding the Columbian will be collected as soon as possible. Information in the cases of the Marina, Arabia and Lanao also is still incomplete.

The reported sinking of three steamships—two British and one Danish—and confirmation of the sinking of the British steamer Bogota is made in an announcement issued by Lloyd's tonight. The Bogota, the shipping agency said, last night was believed to have been sunk. The agency now reports that seventeen of the crew of the Bogota have been picked up and that two boats are unaccounted for.

The British steamer Marga and Earl of Forfar are reported lost, and the Danish steamship Freja has been sunk by a German submarine. The loss of three Norwegian steamers is reported in Reuter dispatches. The Norwegian Tripel is said to have been sunk by a submarine, while the steamers Baltimore and Fordalen were torpedoed. Thirty-six of the crew of the Tripel are reported to have been saved and the crews of the Baltimore and Fordalen have been landed.

CALIFORNIA FUNDS SPENT FOR HUGHES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—No State Central Committee money was spent in furthering Gov. Johnson's campaign for the Senatorship, Milton B. Esberg, chairman of the committee's finance committee, announced here today.

The committee, he said assumed unpaid bills to the extent of some $4000 incurred two years ago in John D. Fredericks's campaign for Governor, and this necessitated special collections.

"All other funds," Mr. Esberg declared, "were used solely in behalf of Hughes for President."

NEARLY A BILLION IN WAR EXPORTS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Exports of war supplies for the nine months ending September 31 amounted to $997,970,000 or more than 25 per cent. of the country's total export trade for the period, according to figures published here today by the Journal of Commerce. The value of explosives sent to belligerents was more than $500,000,000 and automobiles, horses and mules, metal working machinery and wire ranked next in that order.

According to a table published covering war supply exports since the movement began in January, 1915, their value for the twenty-one months was $1,617,845,000 or about 22 per cent. of the country's total exports. More war supplies were sent abroad during the first nine months of this year than throughout 1915.

ARABIAN NATION HAS A NEW KING.

HUSSEIN BEN ALI MONARCH, MECCA IS CAPITAL.

State Department Hears of Launching of Government and Throwing off Yoke of Turkey. Request for Recognition is Expected Shortly at Washington.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Formation of the new kingdom of Arabia, with Grand Shereef Hussein Ben Ali as monarch and Mecca as the capital, was reported to the State Department today in an undated telegram from Mecca signed by Shereef Abdullah, Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Arabic nation, Abdullah said, would henceforth be an active member of the society of nations and confidently looked forward to recognition by the United States. The kingdom resulted, he said, from a meeting of the nobles and citizens of the country who definitely threw off the yoke of the Committee of Union and Progress at Constantinople.

The State Department knows nothing of the new Foreign Minister and little of the circumstances surrounding the proclamation of the kingdom and does not know how to reach the Foreign Minister, owing to the absence of any consular or diplomatic representative in Arabia. Investigation into the situation, however, may be possible through British or French sources.

The request for recognition is expected to be met in much the same way as other governmental changes during the war. In Egypt when the new khedivate, was established in December, 1914, consular officers were instructed to recognize the new officials as de facto. With respect to the new government of Poland the United States will postpone final action until peace is established.

TEUTON DEMAND FOR MACHINERY

Work Begins on Readjustment of Industrial Plants.

Production of Implements is Given Big Boost.

Leipsic's Annual Fall Fair has Good Results.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Interesting notes on several phases of German industry are contained in reports from the American Association of Commerce and Trade which have just reached here from Berlin.

The German machine industry, it is declared, is now in the process of a general readjustment, back to the production of implements of peace times as well as war. The fact that for two years many of the machine-producing factories have been concentrating on implements of war, in order to save themselves from stagnation, has caused the supply of machines for all other purposes to decrease. "And," the report continues, "since competition of normal times has practically ceased, the demand for machines for peace production has steadily increased.

"This is the case, for instance, with agricultural implements, manufacturers not being able at the present time to satisfy the demand, and works, furnishing equipments and supplies to mining, steel and iron concerns, are occupied to full capacity and hardly equal to the task of filling orders.

"The result, therefore, is a period of replenishment and renovation of such overworked equipment that has now set in and which is limited only by the long deliveries required.

"It will be a tremendous undertaking after the war, to replace the worn out machine equipment of German factories, a work that will require several years to accomplish."

STEEL PRODUCTION.

Statistics of the German steel production month by month are given, showing substantial increases over 1915.

The coal and coke situation, the potash market and the linen industry are all favorably reviewed. The hop crop of 1916 is shown to be way below that for the previous year, there having been a considerable decrease in the cultivated area.

The number of transient visitors in Berlin during the month of August, was shown by the hotel registers to have reached a total of 110,452, which was a considerable increase over previous months. It is interesting to note that of this total number only 3600 were foreigners, including 163 Americans. From hostile countries were recorded one each from France and Italy, two from England and 200 from Russia.

The annual fall fair in Leipsic is reported by the American Association as having had very satisfactory results, showing a considerably increased demand for high quality goods of all sorts. "Experienced exhibitors," says the report, "explain this by the fact that a large part of the people are now earning much more than before the war."

GLASS INDUSTRIES.

The glass and ceramic industries reported good turnovers, as did the entire metal goods industry, the latter having learned to adapt itself to altered conditions, and many substitutes were in evidence for copper and brass. Large orders were recorded by the paper goods manufacturers, and novelties for the Easter holidays were sold in record time. Discussing the foodstuff branch inaugurated at the fair, the report says that the 100 exhibitors in this line were highly pleased with the results obtained, and the foodstuff exhibit promises to be a permanent feature of the Leipsic fair.

The text of an appeal to the people to subscribe to the fifth German war loan is quoted in the Association's report as follows:

"Notwithstanding recent political events, the Reichsbank once more is calling the roll for a war loan. The financial leaders of the empire confidently hope that the performance of duty in this respect will not need an appeal to patriotism, but that the will to take part in the achievement of an honorable peace is, at all times, alive.

"The very increased number of our enemies forms an incentive to our efforts spurring on to unsurpassed achievements.

"Our finances do not shake under the vast amounts which so far have been subscribed for, which will experience a further strengthening by the additional billions to be placed at the disposal of the empire."

I CURE PILES
FISTULA
and all Rectal Diseases WITHOUT AN OPERATION

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others. I cure without surgery and my patients are not confined in bed and seldom lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

Read what a few well-known Southern California people have to say of my method. Many similar letters are on file in my office.

WELL KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all his claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them, 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

H. B. Richmond's Final Sale

IS THIS MAN WORTHY YOUR CONSIDERATION AND RECOGNITION?

$22.50

GENTLEMEN—My sincere and heartfelt thanks is extended my friends and readers of The Times for their splendid and whole-hearted co-operation in responding so readily to my grand opening sale and the commencement of my commercial career in a supreme effort to win independence, the wonderful results that I have already attained speaks volumes for itself. I sincerely wish to assure my friends and readers of The Times the great and priceless confidence that I have been judged worthy of, has not been misplaced. It is utterly impossible for me to find words to express my feelings of gratification in the confidence which I have been entrusted with, and which I esteem so highly, but suffice it to say that in order to fully acknowledge my appreciation of the confidence I have instilled, which I maintain is priceless and beyond the power of gold, and which I intend to hold at all cost, I am going to bend every energy and strive with every means within my limited power to prove my appreciation of whatever confidence my friends and the public at large, will deem me worthy of. I fully realize too well that I am starting on my commercial career rather late in life, but better late than never, as my commercial career isn't the first that has been started late in life and brought to a brilliant and successful issue, which ambition I am imbued with, and which I hope to accomplish by honorable business methods and fair treatment to my friends and those of the public who will deem me worthy of their consideration—HONOR AND PRINCIPLE has always been the dominating factor in all of my social and commercial affairs.

GENTLEMEN—I have concluded on holding one more sale which will positively be the last sale of this kind I will ever hold. The feasibility of a continuation of a sale of this kind is absolutely out of the question, as it involves the practical elimination of my margin entirely, but the future, which I am striving for, will more than justify the tremendous sacrifice I am making during this last and final sale. Gentlemen! This beautiful assortment of foreign and American woolens which I am placing at your disposal, is the most predominating taibring values ever given the public of Los Angeles, particularly when the quality of the grade of woolens involved is taken into consideration. You hardly need be a judge of woolens if you only have the sense of touch. They are what is terned by all exclusive tailors novelties and very hard to duplicate, as every precaution was taken by myself personally in the selection of this magnificent high-grade line of fabrics. I am going to do my utmost to place you under obligations to me for your future business and the recommending of your friends to me, which is going to mean the saving of quite an item to you. It's going to mean one of the most beautifully hand-tailored suits or overcoats for $22.50 that I maintain and absolutely guarantee will be the exact equivalent in STYLE, QUALITY and WORKMANSHIP to an actual $40.00 to $45.00 SUIT or OVERCOAT bought anywhere throughout the entire country. Furthermore, the same identical grade of material will be given and same workmanship installed as though you had paid the original above-quoted selling figures. I will not deviate one iota.

GENTLEMEN—Bear in mind absolutely that if in your mind I haven't fullfilled every promise made, your money will be instantly refunded upon request or I'll undertake to make you an entire new suit or overcoat. My object is to make you one of my staunch and permanent future friends. Your garments will be lined with genuine French venetian silk or pure wool serge lining as you prefer and trimmed with French hair cloth and imported Belgian canvas, which insures an absolute unbreakable front which I absolutely guarantee.

The courtesy and services of my cleaning, pressing and tailoring department is extended to my friends where your garments will be kept cleaned, pressed and repaired at all times absolutely gratis. I deem it a pleasure in extending this little courtesy to my friends in order to fully acknowledge my appreciation of your tendering me the preference of your consideration.

Frank Statement of a Gentleman

Gentlemen:

I am candid in my admission in respectfully soliciting your patronage, conscientiously believing that through you and the remarkable and absolutely legitinate tailoring values I am going to produce in a final effort to thoroughly and firmly establish myself in the city of Los Angeles, I will eventually secure the patronage of those who deem it a pleasure and an honor in being termed as one of your friends whom you will in honor bound, naturally recommend to me in the event that I satisfy and please you.

I deem it a pleasure and an honor in extending my friends and readers of The Times a cordial invitation to visit my handsomely equipped Third Floor Tailoring Establishment, which is open for the inspection and for the edification of my host of friends and the public at large, where I will consider it a pleasure to show you over my entire line, immaterial of whether you place an order or not. This invitation is gladly extended solely for the purpose and pleasure of making your acquaintance, which I consider both a pleasure and an honor, as I fully appreciate the fact, as all men imbued with typical and natural American intelligence will readily admit, that friend is what usually counts in all social and commercial affairs, and possibly at some future date when you are ready for your next suit or overcoat, and being cognizant of the wonderful tailoring values I am producing, I sincerely hope that you will bear me in mind and deem me worthy of the preference of your consideration.

The very fact that my services in the capacity as General Superintendent for years of one of the most prominent Tailoring Establishments in the State of California, was instrumental in accomplishing the success that has been attained and made possible through my untiring conscientious loyal efforts in behalf of the well-known and reliable firm I was formerly connected with, has finally convinced me that what I have accomplished for others I, without a question of a doubt, could achieve for myself. Hence my determination in launching out in the commercial field of Los Angeles on my own account, in an effort to better my condition in life, which is only natural, and if the same identical courtesy and fair treatment that I have accorded to thousands in Los Angeles in the past while striving for the interests of my former employer, combined with honorable business methods which my host of friends stand ready to vouch for, will accomplish the success I was instrumental in attaining for others, then my commercial career and future success in the city of Los Angeles where I have been a permanent resident for years, is a foregone conclusion.

Once again I extend a hearty welcome to my host of friends and those of the public whom I have not had the pleasure of doing business with as yet, but with whom I hope to at some future date, to visit my Third Floor Tailoring Establishment, where you will be made to feel at home regardless.

I am catering to men of intelligence only—men who can be reasoned with—men who are fair and broad-minded enough and not ashamed to concede the telling points of an argument where the proof is absolutely convincing—that's the class of men that I will consider both a pleasure and an honor conferred in doing business with.

A personal interview with readers of The Times is respectfully requested regardless of any commercial transactions whatsoever. The same will be highly appreciated.

Wishing my friends and readers of The Times health, happiness and future prosperity.

Yours Respectfully,
H. B. Richmond

Has Used Duffy's 25 Years

C. H. PARROTT.

The excellent results obtained from the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey during 25 years prompted Mr. Parrott to express his appreciation in the following words:

"Twenty-five years ago, while in Albuquerque, N. M., I was taken down with stomach trouble. My doctor advised me to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, as directed, before meals. It fixed me up, and I have used Duffy's as occasion required all these years. Everyone in our camp was more or less troubled with stomach distress, which all said was caused by the alkali in the water, and it came to pass that a few others of the old pioneers, who like myself were trading and buying Navajo rugs and other Indian curios from the Indians, came to look upon Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as the old standby, and when any of us had a cold, or our stomach was bad, we used Duffy's, and we recommenced it, as I do, to all our friends."—C. H. Parrott, Belvidere Flats, 8th and Grand Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a tonic stimulant and body-builder and has stood the test for over 50 years. A tablespoonful in water before meals as directed assists in improving digestion and assimilation. Amendments.

DRYS WILL TRY AGAIN, BUT NOW ADMIT DEFEAT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—C. M. Gandier, State superintendent of the dry campaign federation, conceded today the defeat of amendments Nos. 1 and 2.

In connection with the concession of defeat the federation headquarters here announced that plans would be formulated immediately to put the prohibition amendments on the ballot in California two years hence.

Supt. Gandier's statement took comfort from many indications found in the returns.

"Although the measure received a majority of something more than 80,000 votes outside of San Francisco," the statement said, "that majority was not enough to overcome the overwhelming majority recorded against it in San Francisco, the San Francisco majority being 76,076. Nevertheless, the vote for this measure was 70 per cent. more than San Francisco's vote in favor of it two years ago.

"In Los Angeles county affirmitive vote was almost 40,000 more than the dry vote two years ago, increasing from 103,645 to 142,000. In Alameda county the vote in favor of prohibition two years ago was 29,068. The Alameda vote for amendment No. 2 this year was 46,123."

Similar gains, the statement says, were found in interior counties, and Fresno and other grape-growing counties a majority for the measure is claimed.

"The war will be continued until victory is complete," the statement said.

Franklin Hichborn, campaign manager for the federation, said the final count will show the majority against amendment No. 2 not much in excess of 20,000 instead of the 40,000 claimed by the wet forces.

H. F. Stoll, secretary of the California Grape Protective Association, made the following statement:

"Amendment No. 2 was defeated because the measure was deceptive and misleading. The public did not understand it. The public did not want to put the grape industry out of business. It wasn't what it claimed to be, and the voters wouldn't take a chance."

VILLA'S OBJECT.

A telegram from Consul Bravo at El Paso, given out at the Mexican Embassy today, announces that it becomes more apparent from day to day, that Villa's object is not to attack Chihuahua City. Despite this fact, the fortifications about that place are being strengthened and other preparations made to withstand attack. This is taken to mean that the Carranza government now is willing to admit the presence in the field of a considerable body of Villista troops prepared for offensive operations.

SITUATION IN CONGRESS FURTHER COMPLICAT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The probable complexion of the Sixty-fifth Congress was further complicated today by late returns from one close district and a reclassification of the politics of three members of the California delegation, the count in the one doubtful district, that in New Mexico, is not yet complete, but the election of Walton, Democrat, is probable, according to latest returns.

A reversal in the Tenth North Carolina District, where complete returns indicate the election of Congressman J. Britt, Republican, by a plurality of thirteen votes, broke the tie which existed on the face of the returns for Congress up to last night.

A reclassification of the politics of three members of the elected California delegation, John J. Nolan in the Fifth District, Everis A. Hayes in the Eighth and Charles H. Randall in the Ninth, in accordance with their political designation in the Congressional Record, also apparently was favorable to the Republican side.

The names of the three members appeared on the Republican and Democratic tickets, and Randall in addition was also on the Progressive ticket. In the returns as previously announced two had been credited as Democrats and one as a Republican. The Congressional Record, however, classes Nolan as a Progressive, Hayes as a Republican and Randall as a Prohibitionist.

As a result of these changes, the Republicans from present indications will have a small plurality in the House, latest figures giving them 216 members, the Democrats 213 and other parties six.

There are a number of close districts where on the face of complete returns members are apparently elected by very small pluralities. The Third New Jersey District, where Robert Carson, is apparently elected by over Thomas J. Scully, and present member of a case in point. The next week may change close districts.

NEED TEN MILLIONS FOR JEWISH WAR SUFFERERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A new campaign for the purpose of raising $10,000,000 for the relief of Jewish war sufferers will be inaugurated at a mass meeting to be held in Carnegie Hall here December 21, it was announced today. Louis Marshall will preside at the meeting, which will be addressed by Dr. Judah L. Magnes, who returned recently from European war zones, where he worked on behalf of Jewish relief.

President Wilson has been asked to attend the meeting. Prominent Jews who will be present, it is stated, will incude Oscar Straus, Nathan Straus, Representative Meyer London, Jacob H. Schiff, Felix M. Warburg, Henry Morgenthau, Dr. Cyrus Adler and Mayer Sulzberger.

GERMAN EDITORIALS CALL WILSON BRITAIN'S FRIEND.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) Nov. 11, 5:20 p.m.—Although further press discussions of President Wilson's re-election emphasize Germany's indifference as to the outcome, important organs like the Cologne Gazette note with satisfaction that the President's success, as they view it, has been due to the pacific temper of the American people.

The Cologne Volks Zeitung comments in a similar strain and expresses the belief that the neutrality of the United States now will be better secured than before election.

The Cologne Gazette, however, insists that the election has taught President Wilson a good lesson, for the paper asserts it was not a victory for the Wilson who was bellicose against Germany and "the obedient servant of England," but the Wilson who had boasted that he maintained peace and vowed to keep the same goal in the future.

Both papers see reasons for contentment with the result, from the fact that the Parisian press was jubilant over the reported election of Mr. Hughes.

Futurity.

MORE VIGOROUS POLICY EXPECTED IN LONDON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Newspapers in England that rejoiced over President Wilson's defeat when it was prematurely announced now are silent. Others, which awaited definite results of the Presidential election, in their comment expressed the conviction that a more vigorous foreign policy may be expected from Washington now that the election is over.

The Globe, expressing the opinion that the war, which is the "only real issue before any body of civilized men," hardly entered into the Presidential contest, says:

"The mass of the American people ask for nothing more than peace at almost any price with the liberty to gather wealth." Still, the Globe says, the result has importance for the belligerents and for President Wilson, adding:

"No longer preoccupied with thoughts of votes . . . it would not be surprising if his attitude toward foreign affairs underwent an immediate stiffening."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"The mere fact of the election being over is calculated to strengthen American diplomacy."

The Star:

"The most satisfactory feature of the situation is that, while the return of Mr. Wilson is no victory for the [Entente] allies, it is unquestionably a defeat for Germany."

DEMOCRATS CLAIM ALL IN NEW MEXICO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Nov. 11.—In a public statement today Democratic State headquarters claim the election of E. C. De Baca, Governor, over H. O. Bursum, by a majority of 1000 to 1500 and the election of W. B. Walton to Congress by a majority of nearly 1000.

The Republicans have not conceded either, but have made no claims of a Bursum majority today. The official count which will decide close contests will be reported in about a week.

BUNCH INDICTMENTS FOR CONSPIRACY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—United States District Judge M. T. Dooling today granted the motion of the government in the cases of Franz Bopp, German Consul-General here, and others to consolidate for trial the indictments of conspiracy to do certain acts in violation of the Sherman act, and to have set forth and attempted to carry out in the United States a military enterprise against a friendly nation.

Today's decision means that the cases will go to trial on December 4.

"The Best Disinfectant Known"—

That's what the U. S. Dispensatory says of Chlorinated Lime.

Disease germs cannot multiply where Sinclair's Chieftain Chlorinated Lime is used freely in all sickroom receptacles — toilet bowls, garbage cans, kitchen sinks, etc.

During the infantile paralysis plague, the New York City Department of Health urged the use of Chlorinated Lime wherever this frightful sickness was found.

Effective Economical Sold Everywhere

Put a package of "Chieftain" brand Chlorinated Lime on your grocery or drug list tomorrow. It's the best preparedness for making the home sanitary and free from insect carriers of disease.

The One Safe Laundry Bleach

"Chieftain" has hundreds of household uses—read the label. Don't allow your laundress to rot your garments with harsh chemicals. "Chieftain" makes the clothes sanitary and snowy white.

10c Large Can

Always ask for Sinclair's Chieftain Chlorinated Lime. The package can be reclosed tightly. The patented can does it. Ordinary chlorides of lime spoil quickly after being opened. Identify the package by its gold lacquered top and bottom.

NOTE:—The duty on the Turkish tobacco that goes into a 5c package of so-called blended cigarettes is greater than the cost of the tobacco itself! But Piedmonts, made of highest-grade Virginia tobacco, have all the value in the cigarettes—because there is no duty on Virginia tobacco—no ocean freight—no marine insurance, no wasteful handling.

In Virginia's sun-flooded fields grows the rich, golden tobacco that is in Piedmonts—it's ALL Virginia! As gratefully mellow as southern sunshine.

Dignity Be Darned!

Silver tableware at almost the price of old silver—$13.50 watches for $9.00 even—$15.00 watches at $9.50

Luckenbach & Co. are going to quit the jewelry business.

They couldn't remain in it now if they wanted to!

They have cut prices on watches, silverware and jewelry to such an extent that if they ever wished to purchase more the manufacturers probably would not sell it to them.

Of course, if the price cutting were advanced as a reason why retailers could not buy more goods the anti-trust law probably would be invoked against the factories, BUT THEY CAN BE CONVENIENTLY OUT OF GOODS THE PRICE-CUTTING RETAILER WOULD LIKE TO BUY.

LUCKENBACH & CO. are cutting prices, cutting prices to the bone, perhaps lower than Los Angeles ever knew before.

Let me show you how these prices have been cut:

Today you may buy a watch in this pioneer jewelry store for $9 that formerly cost $13.50—the fixed selling price as set by the factory—and take it from me—it is some watch. It is a 3-0 7-jewel Elgin bracelet with a twenty-year gold-filled case. Go anywhere in town and see what they want for it.

And here is another:

This one is for a man. It can be had open face with either a gold or white dial, 17-jewel adjusted movement, twenty-year guaranteed gold-filled case, for $9.50. IT FORMERLY SOLD AT THE "STANDARD PRICE"—AND NOT AN UNREASONABLE ONE, EITHER—OF $15.

Some bargains, but here is still another instance:

Luckenbach & Co. have thousands of dollars' worth of silverware in stock. Tableware that is known the world over and sells at standard prices is now being sold at little more than the price of old silver. When a store does that you are getting something almost for nothing.

The patterns are Washington, America and Carmel, all the very latest word in tableware; Lafayette, Old French, Norfolk, Buttercup and Lancaster.

And remember, they are all being sold at little more than the price of old silver.

If I were a woman and some of my tableware needed matching up, I surely would take advantage of this sale. If I were a man and wanted to give a woman that which pleases her most I would do the same thing.

Everything through the store is priced like these articles I have shown you. From $1000 diamonds to solid gold barpins, the price cutting has gone to the very limit.

Jewelry advertisements are dignified as a rule. It is a precedent of the business, but there can be no dignity to these prices. They fairly shout aloud to you when you look through the showcases.

This is a sale, the first and last ever held by Luckenbach & Co. It is the end of the firm as jewelers, the Alpha and Omega, the A and Z, and by the same token your last chance, for nobody knows how long again.

HEAVY ORDERS FOR EQUIPMENT

Quickest Possible Delivery Asked by Railroads.

Effort to Overcome Shortage in Cars is Under Way.

Thousand of Gondola Variety for Illinois Central.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—Heavy buying of railroad equipment continues and specifications call for the quickest possible delivery. For this reason the orders are turning more and more to the few companies which are not tied up with munitions orders. The Pullman Company and the Haskell and Barker Car Company, which have kept particularly free from war business and are better equipped than the eastern companies to take care of railroad business promptly, are now getting the bulk of the business especially in cars for western lines.

More than 50,000 railroad cars have been ordered since October 1. When they are delivered they will go far toward removing the car shortage but so rushed with orders are most of the equipment companies that the heavy deliveries of the finished product cannot begin for some time.

The Illinois Central has just ordered 1000 gondola cars from the Haskell and Barker Company and a similar number from the Pullman Company. The Haskell and Barker Company has also taken orders for 1000 stock cars from the Santa Fe and 450 refrigerator cars from Norris & Co. The Pressed Steel Car Company, has taken orders for 500 tank cars from the Santa Fe and 650 ore cars from the Northern Pacific.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. TIT FOR TAT.

"I will not at this time discuss the contents of the papers I had. I will say, however, that I was just employing the same methods which the German Embassy has used in this country for the past two years and four months."

Clifford Grant, chief of detectives, in a statement tonight, said: "There was nothing really official so far as I know about the letters this man had. There were three letters from the same person. Each wound up with the words, 'My Dear.' They were written in the form of a diary, apparently with a view of keeping a record until opportunity should present itself for dispatching the contents to the United States. Of course, there were some things in them which the British censor might not have passed.

"It seems that the letters were entrusted to some one aboard the Oscar II, who, after receiving them, saw an opportunity to use them. Graves admitted that he wanted to make money out of the letters. He said he paid $2400 for them and wanted to make a $600 profit."

Officials of the Department of Justice tonight communicated with agents in New York. Graves said he lived there at No. 65 West Sixty-ninth street. An effort will be made to secure certain evidence desired and material witnesses.

SEARCHED.

When Graves was searched detectives found in one of his pockets a small combination knife and pistol. The detectives handled the odd weapon carefully until Graves told them it was "just a noise maker," and that the bullet it carried "would not even pierce a man's coat."

It was said at the embassy that Graves claimed he had in his possession a letter to the managing editor of a New York newspaper from its correspondent in Berlin. The embassy does not know what became of this letter. The papers taken from Graves today remain in the hands of the Department of Justice and will be used as evidence.

A high official of the embassy said tonight:

"We had this man arrested because we wanted to let it be known that no person attached directly or indirectly to this embassy can be made a victim of blackmailing schemes. We have no secrets.

"It is quite true that some of the correspondence was in cipher. We do not know yet, however, what it is all about. We are most anxious to have it determined who brought the letters to this country and how they happened to fall into the hands of Graves. We presume the authorities will find answers to these questions."

MAY NOT APPEAR.

It was said tonight that the Countess von Bernstorff probably would not be asked to appear personally against Graves.

While attempting to secure his release, Graves told the bondsmen that he knew Robert W. Woolley, publicity manager of the Democratic National Committee. The bondsman said he communicated with Woolley, who declared he had met Graves only twice and knew nothing for or against him.

The warrant against Graves, sworn out by Mr. Bielaski, gives the prisoner the alias of "Meinke" and charges that he "did unlawfully verbally threaten to expose and publish certain letters addressed to Countess von Bernstorff, alleged to contain matters showing her infirmities and failings with intent to extort from said Countess Bernstorff the sum of $3000," and that in violation of the code he "did unlawfully bring into the District of Columbia certain letters addressed to Countess Bernstorff, obtained by him by theft committed in Hoboken, N. J., which act committed in the District of Columbia, would constitute a violation of the code," and working "against the peace and dignity of the United States of America."

Graves, in his widely-published, so-called exposure of international spying, described many sensational episodes, including purported interviews with the Emperor of Germany, how he was decorated for his services, the way in which he secured and sent to the government information of alleged extreme importance and what he claimed to be the whole of the German spy system. He admitted freely that he had been in prison in England and, in American slang, tinged with a German accent, told of his flight to this country.

Graves is about 45 years old.

Graves left for New York late tonight after issuing a statement denying that the Countess von Bernstorff's name had been mentioned in his talks with Prince Hatzfeldt. He declared the $3000 he asked for was solely to cover the expenses of conveying the documents to Washington.

"In my business connections with Prince Hatzfeldt," he said, "I considered that I was rendering the embassy a great service, letting the original letters go into the hands of the embassy for $3000. The parties who conveyed the letters from Germany to the United States incurred $2480 expense. Not one cent of the $3000 would have been mine. The benefit to me in handing the letters over to the German Embassy was in what good that service to the Embassy would be to me in Germany. Those documents were official, and would have helped me in certain quarters in Germany to get what has been long overdue me in the way of money owed me there.

"At no time in my interviews and conversations with Prince Hatzfeldt was Countess Bernstorff mentioned. In fact, Countess Bernstorff has nothing at all to do with it. It is true the letters were addressed to her, but that was just a 'cover.' These letters were entirely official documents. I have not said they were brought on the Oscar II. That's surmised."

Graves said two secret Embassy attaches were among the group of spectators at Commissioner Taylor's hearing.

THINKS ARIZONA VOTE MAY BE THROWN OUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Nov. 11.—M. E. Cassidy, Arizona chairman of the Finance Committee of the Republican National Committee, brought to the attention of the latter organization today the possibility that the manner in which the Presidential electors had been voted for was unconstitutional. In Arizona all of the electors are bracketed and the voter must cast his ballot for all or none. He cannot make a choice between the electors. On this feature the Arizona man believes the Wilson vote in Arizona may be declared void.

NAVY SUPPLY SHIP LOSES PROPELLER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The navy supply ship Culgoa struck an obstruction off Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, today and lost her propeller, according to a radio report reaching the Navy Department. The transport Prairie and the naval tug Potomac have gone to her assistance. The vessel was not believed to be in any danger.

HUNT MAY CONTEST ARIZONA ELECTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 11.—It is evident that the contest for Governor in Arizona will not be ended until after a recount of the votes cast. Both Campbell and Hunt today are reported leading by less than 100 votes, according to conflicting data from Cochise and other counties.

This morning, on an assumption that Campbell was 173 in the lead, information drifted out of the Capitol that the Governor had engaged E. S. Ives and Sam Pattee of Tucson and William B. Cleary of Bisbee to institute a contest in his behalf. Democratic claims especially affect Navajo county. This afternoon the Democratic State Committee was cheered by Cochise-county returns that seemed to place the Governor eighty votes ahead. Chairman Stoneman, however, stated that he would make no claims, but would wait for the official returns before thinking of challenging the correctness of the vote. According to the figures of Chairman Maddock of the Republican committee, Campbell is leading by 318. Eighteen precincts are missing, with about 500 votes, and may not be reported until the date of the county canvass the 20th inst.

Baughn, the only other Republican possibility, now is about 200 behind Ross in the vote for Supreme Justice.

PANAMA WANTS UNIFORM EXCHANGE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PANAMA, Nov. 11.—A bill providing for uniform bills of exchange between Panama and all other American countries passed the Assembly today on first reading. A law for uniform bills of exchange in Pan-America was recommended by the international high commission, which met at Buenos Aires, Argentina, last April, under the presidency of Secretary McAdoo.

FEAR PLOT TO KILL NICARAGUA PRESIDENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Nov. 11.—The Nicaraguan Minister of Foreign Affairs has telegraphed to the Costa Rican Foreign Office that a plot has been discovered in Costa Rica to assassinate Emiliano Chamorro, the President-elect of Nicaragua. The Minister requested that an investigation be made and that the execution of the plot be prevented.

CALIFORNIA'S VOTE IN NEXT CONGRESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—California's delegation in the next House of Representatives in Washington will consist of six Republicans and five Democrats, according to revised lists of the political status of the Congressmen-elect made today. This will give the Republicans a majority of the delegation and will also increase the lead of the Republicans in the House organization by one vote.

"Representative John I. Nolan will vote with the Republicans," said Representative Julius Kahn. "We therefore will have in the Sixty fifth Congress for the purpose of organization on the Republican side, Representative Curry of the Third District, myself from the Fourth, Nolan of the Fifth, Elston of the Sixth, Hayes of the Eighth and Osborne of the Tenth.

'The Democrats are Lea of the First, Raker of the Second, Church of the Seventh, Randall of the Ninth and Kettner of the Tenth."

JORDAN IN NEW YORK RIDICULES HIRAM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, delivered tonight the initial lecture of a half-dozen addresses on "Education" to be delivered during the next six weeks at Cooper Union. Dr. Jordan discussed "educating for peace" and also made an opportunity to ridicule Hiram Johnson of California.

"War talk, as a rule," he said, "emanates from New York—not from the West. I do not include California in this statement. That is a highly variegated political situation which I will not attempt to describe. Not every State has Hiram Johnson. Wherever he is, no one knows what will happen. He is a whole Oyster Bay in himself."

PRESIDENT SERENADED ON WAY FROM ALBANY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RHINECLIFF (N. Y.) Nov. 11.—President Wilson arrived here tonight from Williamstown, Mass., and at once boarded the naval yacht Mayflower, which lay at anchor in the Hudson River. The President directed that the Mayflower proceed slowly to New York at daybreak tomorrow. He expects to land in New York tomorrow afternoon. On his way here from Albany tonight the President was cheered at several small towns. At Germantown, N. Y., a band played in his honor.

DRUM BANISHED AS TOO LURING

Only "Jass Band" in Future for Co-eds of Chicago.

Tends to Immorality, Says Miss Talbot, the Dean.

Evangelist is Condemned for Tirade on Dancing.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—The "tum-tidi-tumtum—ta ra ta ta" of the drum, rhythmic and snappy, was banished today from the dance music at the Ida Noyes Hall, the new girls' clubhouse at the University of Chicago, because of its "provocative lure," the moaning tones of the "jass band" guided the feet of the co-ed dancers.

Because Miss Marion Talbot, dean of the girls, did not approve of the drum, that instrument was barred from the orchestra, and only a piano and the saxophones, the instruments composing what is called the "jass band" in the "black-and-tan" cafes, were allowed at the "hop" given by the Score Club.

Miss Talbot is quoted as explaining:

"It's not in keeping with the spirit of Ida Noyes Hall. The drum arouses all that is base in young people and tends to provoke immorality."

Leading musicians in Chicago indulged in hearty laughter at the statement that in the drum is to be found the siren song of enticement.

EVANGELIST'S TIRADE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Nov. 11.—"Seventy per cent. of the Aspasias of this country attribute their downfall to the dance," and that he forced an unwilling audience in the tabernacle to listen while he described this alleged condition in realistic, colorful terms was denied by E. J. Forsythe, evangelist, in the face of threatened prosecution by the city building inspection department.

The condemnation of city officials and a number of Milwaukee clergymen was elicited by the report that the evangelist ordered the doors locked, despite the protests of women, who tried to leave, while he gave his sulphuric arraignment of dancing and cards last night.

Here are some of the remarks, to which it is alleged several score of women were compelled to listen, against their will:

"I would rather have a daughter of mine waddle like a duck than to have her learn to dance.

"I have little respect for the wife who does not get enough hugging at home, without going to a dance for it."

NO QUININE IN THIS COLD CURE

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends colds and grippe in a few hours.

Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until you have taken three doses, then all grippe misery goes and your cold will be broken. It promptly opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing. Ease your throbbing head — nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

INDEPENDENT HOUSE FOR CITRUS GROWERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WALNUT, Nov. 11.—Hugh A. Thatcher, who managed the packing-house of the Walnut Fruit Growers' Association for two years and was manager for the Benchley Fruit Company at Pomona last year, has leased the packing-house formerly conducted by the American Fruit Distributors in Pomona, and will open it Monday. It will be an independent house, packing for any grower, or buying crops on the trees for cash. It will handle citrus fruits and walnuts. Mr. Thatcher ran the packing-house for the Fullerton Wanut Growers' Association this fall and handled 600 tons of nuts.

stock-fattening in Palo Verde Valley brings quick profits

Go down to Palo Verde Valley and talk to the men who are taking advantage of the abundant supply of green feed that can be produced on these lands at low cost. These men are fattening range cattle and other stock, and are taking down handsome profits. Go and ask James Walsh about the situation. Mr. Walsh has 340 acres in Palo Verde Valley which he is devoting entirely to the cattle raising business. Mr. Walsh says, "I have had long experience in cattle and sheep raising and I can state that the Palo Verde Valley has better stock raising advantages than any other section I know of on the map. We have a great abundance of feed the year round. With alfalfa hay and a little cottonseed meal we can fatten stock in 60 days.

"We produce more alfalfa hay here to the acre the year round than is produced in any other part of the State. With our all-the-year growing season it is an easy matter to make money here. I have raised thoroughbred Devonshire calves at 15 months old weighing 1000 pounds. I was offered $125 apiece for them. I have two twin shorthorn Durham calves which weighed 600 pounds apiece at six months."

25% cash; balance 1, 2 and 3 years.
Special terms to actual settlers.

You know how beef, pork and mutton prices are constantly going upward. You know that there is no better money-making business in the world than fattening stock for market in these days of high prices. Go down and see the tremendous opportunity that Palo Verde Valley offers for this industry. Go and see the big stock ranch established by Julius Hauser of Los Angeles. Why wait until all this choice, low priced land and water is gone? Go and see why nearly 1000 acres were sold last month. Our illustrated booklet will be forwarded by return mail.

ACTIVITY AT WHITTIER.

More Real Estate Movement than in Several Years.

Real estate has been more active in Whittier during the past few weeks than at any time during the past four years. Several citrus groves in the North Whittier district have changed hands and town real estate has been busy. W. B. Bailey reports the following sales in North Whittier: Whittier Williams to J. M. Cox of Whittier, five acres of 2-year-old lemons, with house and other improvements, for $7500; Kellar Bros. of Whittier bought five and three-quarters acres of Valencias planted this year for $950 per acre, the seller being the Whittier Extension Company. J. Howard Johnson reports the sale of the R. E. Heath home on North Painter avenue, Whittier, to Rev. Charles E. Tebbetts, a former Whittier resident, who has just come back to the Southland after spending some years in Indiana. Rev. Mr. Tebbetts was formerly president of Whittier College. The sale price of the property was $8000. The Heath family will move to Los Angeles.

MAYOR QUESTIONS POWER PURCHASE.

THINKS DEAL WITH PASADENA MAY BE UNLAWFUL.

While He Signs Ordinance Fixing City Rates for "Juice," He Says He will Investigate Traffic with Crown City, as Possible Violation of Charter.

Mayor Woodman signed the light and power rates ordinance yesterday, but will inquire into the arrangement under which Pasadena is furnishing the city with electric energy, as he is inclined to believe it violates the charter.

The power bureau did not advertise for bids and is purchasing from Pasadena in amounts less than $500. This is done in order to avoid the charter provision which says bids must be asked for furnishing supplies and so forth for an amount in excess of $500. The amount of power the city will buy from Pasadena before its own plant can supply energy is in excess of $500 and therefore the spirit of the charter apparently is not being lived up to.

Regarding the report that the Board of Public Utilities may be abolished, Mayor Woodman said it is a matter for the people to decide, as it is controlled by the charter. "It cannot be done without a charter amendment election," he remarked.

It has been suggested that the board could be abolished and the State Railroad Commission establish a local bureau in Los Angeles to handle service regulations. That would again raise the question of control over jitney busses. The Board of Public Utilities recently was given power to regulate this form of passenger service and the State Railroad Commission has declared the jitney bus is not a public utility and therefore does not come within its purview.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

WOMEN STUDY IN FIELD POMOLOGY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 11.—Forty members of the Pomological Club of Claremont, with an equal number of ladies, enjoyed the annual all-day picnic and field day of the club at the State Citrus Experiment Station here today.

The experimental plots were studied under the direction of the station staff during the forenoon, and after luncheon Dr. H. J. Webber, director, and others of the station faculty were heard in a number of short talks. Before leaving this evening the club members visited an old grove in the Arlington Heights district which is being subject to experiments designed to bring it back to normal production.

TWO ARE HONORED BY DRAMA LEAGUE.

POEL AND ORDINSKI GUESTS AT BRIGHT LUNCHEON.

Motion Pictures are Said to Have Come to Stay; are Now in Pioneer Stage of Development. Stage Offering in Los Angeles is Praised.

William Poel and Richard Ordinski were honor guests yesterday at a luncheon given at the Clark by the Los Angeles Center of the Drama League. Dr. Allison Gaw presided in place of Mrs. E. B. Jones, the president, who while suffering with a sprained ankle, was still present as hostess-in-fact.

Mr. Poel spoke of the motion pictures in the field of dramatic art. He declared the pictures have come to stay, and while it must be confessed they have numerous crudities at present, these are not more than are usually incident to new undertakings of similar magnitude especially in the pioneer stage of development, which time and thought and broader understanding will mitigate, if not entirely overcome.

He alluded to "Intolerance" as representing serious purpose, and paid a compliment to its historical fidelity, but was of the opinoin that until the tyranny of machine-made requirements are broken, or better understood, there can be no true dramatic art on the screen. The demands of the camera man, he said, make the actors do things that are not only inartistic, but unimpressive—in fine, unnatural.

He expressed a lively sympathy with the response of the people to this new form of entertainment and declared its influence is ultimately bound to be helpful to better drama.

Mr. Poel also spoke in the highest terms of the work now being done by Mr. Ordinski at the Little Theater, and urged that the people support Mr. Ordinski, as an exponent and champion of the best in drama today.

Mr. Ordinski spoke in happy vein of Mr. Poel's work, of their meeting in Berlin, and their friendship. Of his own work he said he is producing things he loves himself, and that he hopes he can bring others to love.

TO ORGANIZE BRANCH.

Mrs. Cecilia Greenbaum, former president of St. Cecilia's Institute, No. 73, and district deputy of Southern California, leaves for San Diego today to organize a branch of the Young Ladies' Institute in that city. A large class is ready for initiation and members of the local council, together with a number of the grand officers from San Francisco, will be present to participate in the ceremonies. Mrs. Greenbaum is firm in her belief that Southern California will be fraternally banded together in the ranks of the Y.L.I. before the meeting of another convention.

AD CLUB LUNCHEON.

City Superintendent of Schools Shiels will talk at a meeting of the Ad Club, Tuesday noon at the Clark, on "Education and Preparation." Other speakers will be Charles Murray, the motion-picture comedian, on "Fun in the Films," and E. G. Lewis, the colonizer and founder of Atascadero, on "Building an Empire." H. W. Frank will be chairman.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is ofttimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

VISIT PAID TO THE TANKER, LOS ANGELES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Nov. 11.—Officers and directors of the Union Oil Company of California were hosts yesterday to a party of city officials and leading business men at a luncheon served on board the new tank steamer Los Angeles, which is now in her home port for the first time to load cargo of crude oil for Chile.

The Los Angeles arrived here Friday after her first long offshore trip. The big tanker was built at the Union Iron Works at San Francisco and is the finest of the fleet of twelve tank steamers owned by the company.

The new steamer cost $850,000 and the construction occupied six months. She is 452 feet in length over all and draws thirty feet of water when loaded to her rated capacity of 75,000 barrels. Power is furnished by reciprocal steam engines rated at 2600 horse power. With the exception of the power plant she is a sister ship to the La Brea which is equipped with turbine engines. The Los Angeles makes ten knots per hour loaded and eleven and one-half in ballast.

On her first long trip of 5000 miles to South American ports, which ended Friday, the Los Angeles proved a fine sea boat. On the outbound trip the steamer encountered very heavy weather off the Gulf of Tehuantepec, but so easily did the steamer ride the waves that it was not even necessary to use guards for dishes on the tables, although there is still evidence of the damage done on deck by the force of the giant combers that broke over the vessel and carried away guard rails and steps. Every man of the crew of thirty-nine has taken a pride in the vessel since the storm.

"We want to prove to some of our northern friends that Los Angeles Harbor is the logical place to load offshore cargoes," said E. W. Clark, vice-president and general manager of the company, who hurried home yesterday from San Francisco to attend the reception on board.

"At the present time we are working every available facility to supply trade and could ship much more if we had the facilities. Lack of ships at the present time is a serious factor in the distribution of oil. Steel has got so high that the man who builds ships at the present time is gambling on a long chance, but as soon as normal conditions are restored we shall be able to increase our fleets. We now have besides seven steamers and seven barges of our own with a tonnage of 536,000 barrels vessels under charter with a capacity of 333,000 barrels.

"From our refinery at San Francisco, Port San Luis and Los Angeles Harbor we are now shipping by water about 1,500,000 barrels per month. Of this amount about 250,000 barrels is being shipped through this harbor. Of the 220,000 acres of land controlled by the company some of the best producing wells are close to this port. As soon as facilities can be provided we expect to greatly increase export shipment here.

"At the present time we have to ship our case goods down from San Francisco and tranship them to vessels loading crude oil here for South America. We expect to build a new refinery here and then this trade can be supplied from this point in both refined and crude oil. When drydock facilities are provided there will be no necessity of sending steamers further north than this port."

Mr. Clark for the first time admitted yesterday that the company has already purchased 231 acres of land, fronting on the west basin on the inner harbor and will build a refinery with wharves that would cost about $2,500,000.

Besides Mr. Clark, other officials of the company present at the reception on board the Los Angeles yesterday were O. B. Kibie, general superintendent of transportation; W. W. Orcut, manager of the land department; C. W. Brown, manager of the field department; John McPeak, secretary; R. J. Reed, chief engineer; W. B. Robb, secretary Independent Oil Producers' Agency; F. J. Silsbee, statistician; L. W. Andres, M. D. Andres and T. O. Toland, counsel; R. S. Mills, assistant controller; E. W. Alston, cashier; C. W. Ralph, manager of station; Frank Hill, superintendent of development; E. C. Cretchlow, superintendent of production; W. B. Scott, Columbia Oil Producing Agency; A. R. Carlyle, naval architect; F. C. Bolt, director; Arthur Bullock, May Dyer and J. Driscoll.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce was represented by R. N. Bulla, Sidney Briggs and Frank Wiggins, secretary. The San Pedro Chamber of Commerce was represented by S. M. Storer, secretary. Mayor Woodman was unable to attend, but was represented by his brother-in-law, E. E. Leighton. President C. M. Gordon and Secretary G. E. Wade represented the Harbor Commission. Councilmen Topham, Wheeler, Langdon and Roberts were also present.

Other invited guests included William Lacy and R. H. Lacy of the Lacy Manufacturing Company. O. M. Souden of the United States National Bank; C. E. Swindell of the Chamber of Mines and Oils; H. P. Anewalt, general freight agent of the Santa Fe; W. D. Pontius, traffic manager of the Pacific Electric; E. W. Clapp, district freight agent of the Southern Pacific; M. Essasser and H. R. Simpson of the Western Metals Company and E. T. Earl.

FALSE FIRE ALARM FROM FELT FACTORY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 11.—A fire alarm called the department to the felt factory on South Palm avenue today. A workman in the carpenter shop let a board fall which struck the handle of the fire alarm box, which brought the department to the factory in a hurry.

THRONGS GREET THE RETURNING SOLDIERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 11.—A great throng of people of Orange county gathered at the Southern Pacific Depot this evening to receive Co. L, Seventh Regiment, home from the border. Cheers and waving flags were much in evidence.

Formal welcome was given the returning soldiers by Mayor A. J. Visel. Stirring addresses were made by Attorney Clyde Bishop, who was with Co. L, in '98, and who was afterward its captain, and by County Surveyor J. I. McBride, who was captain of the company when it went to Nogales, Ariz., but who had to give up command on account of defective eyesight.

At the head of the parade was carried a beautiful silk flag that was presented to Co. L by the Santa Ana Elks on the day that it left Santa Ana, last June. Other organizations represented in the escort were the Spanish War Veterans, the G.A.R., the W.R.C., the Ladies of the G.A.R., the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and the Santa Ana Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Within a few days a big banquet is to be given in Odd Fellows Hall to the returning soldiers.

ALL "DOLLED UP," FELLOW IN JAIL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Nov. 11.—When "Eddie" Adams of Long Beach and Santa Barbara arrived in El Centro yesterday he started in to make a good impression on the girls of this city. His wardrobe was complete, his nails manicured and his face was washed. He registered at a local hotel. Then a valuable watch was missed from a garage. Adams was near by and was taken to police headquarters. The watch was later found hidden where the police say Adams put it. The prisoner faces a penitentiary sentence, but the District Attorney may let him off with hard labor on the county roads. When he appeared in court today Adams was all "dolled up," but agreed to change his natty suit to overalls if the District Attorney would promise him a short term on the chain gang.

COLLUSION HOLDS UP DIVORCE DECREE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 11.—A man believed to be Benigno Arellano, wanted for murder, is in the County Jail. He was brought here today from Los Angeles, to which place he had been taken from Owensmouth. Arellano is wanted here for the killing of Marcos Guerrero at East Talbert on the night of September 21, 1911. The two men left a tent, where they slept with other Mexican laborers, to go to Talbert. A few minutes later shots and a scream were heard, and the next morning Guerrero's dead body was found. Arellano disappeared. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Sepulveda of Los Angeles, who was informed that the man was wanted here for murder.

New Evidence.

QUARREL OVER DIAMONDS PRECEDED FEAR SLAYING.

Widow of Man for Whose Murder Boy is Asserted to be Serving Another's Sentence Throws New Light on Case. Missing Knife Brought to House by Howard Cramley. Convicted Youth Would Never Talk of Case.

FOLLOWING the publication in The Times yesterday of the remarkable new development in the case of Avalon Cramley, who is now serving ten years in San Quentin on a charge of slaying Joseph W. Fear, his friends redoubled their efforts to secure a pardon for the boy.

The first move was the publishing of the alleged deathbed confession of Howard Cramley, elder brother of the prisoner. This confession was made public by the father of the two boys, F. H. Cramley, a Chino rancher, who declares that Howard confessed the killing just prior to his recent death.

It was on the testimony of Howard Cramley that Avalon was convicted, the former testifying that on the night of the killing, Avalon rushed into the restaurant where Howard was employed and demanded money, declaring that he had just cut Fear. At the preliminary examination and under cross-examination, Howard changed his testimony to the extent of saying that Avalon might have said "I just saw Fear cut." But in the trial Howard again testified that Avalon used the words, "I just cut Fear." Except for this damaging testimony Avalon would have been freed.

KNIFE ACCOUNTED FOR.

One of the strange things surrounding the murder of Fear was the fact that no knife could be discovered. Mrs. Fear, widow of the murdered man, yesterday accounted for the knife or rather for a knife that might have been used in the crime. Mrs. Fear, who says she was completely ignored by both sides at the time of the trial, now says she wants to tell all she knows. Here is her story of the crime:

"Mr. Fear, with whom I lived up until the time of his death, was in the furniture business at Redlands until his health failed. We moved to Pasadena, after living in Arizona for a time. We purchased a rooming-house and one of the lodgers was Mrs. Nellie Greaney. That was how we became acquainted with her. When we sold out and took a small house Mrs. Greaney asked to come and live with us, helping me with the work and sharing in the household expenses. She had as a friend Howard Cramley. It was my house, although it has always been referred to as the Greaney place for the reason that when she paid the rent she got a receipt in her own name.

"After living in this smaller house several months I decided to return to Redlands to live. The day I left was the day before the killing. Mr. Fear was in the country, buying iron and other metals for Philip Senegram, the junk magnate.

"When Mrs. Greaney first came to live with us in the small house, she tried to borrow $150 from us to redeem some diamonds that she had pawned. Mr. Fear told her he could not afford to let her have the money but that a friend of ours would. She went to this friend and he redeemed the diamonds. About three days before the killing of Mr. Fear, Mrs. Greaney again called on this friend and asked him to let her have the diamonds for a time, saying that she was going to her home and could not return without the stones. He told her, she said, that he could not let her have the diamonds without the money and further stated that Mr. Fear had borrowed an additional $100 on them. This statement was not true, he making it only to get rid of Mrs. Greaney and prevent her from bothering him about the diamonds unless she produced the money.

"On the night that Mr. Fear was killed, he (Fear) returned to Pasadena from a trip in the country, expecting to find me at the house. He went there and found Mrs. Greaney and perhaps Avalon and no doubt Howard. She reproached Mr. Fear for getting a loan on the diamonds without her consent. Then a quarrel followed and Mr. Fear was killed. Who did it I don't know unless Howard Cramley's story is correct.

KNIFE DISAPPEARS.

"There was some mystery about the knife he was killed with. Three days before the murder, or about the time Mrs. Greaney and Howard Cramley learned of the supposed loan on the diamonds, Howard Cramley brought to the house a big, sharp butcher knife, with a 12-inch blade, and handed it to Mrs. Greaney and said, 'Now you won't have to cut bread with a table knife.' We had been complaining because there was not a butcher knife in the house. That knife disappeared the night of the killing.

"The night the butcher knife came to the house Howard Cramley and Mrs. Greaney came to my room and demanded money. Mrs. Greaney was in a terrible rage and was restrained by Howard. That was the chief reason for my moving away from the place, as I was afraid.

"Since the conviction of Avalon, whom I never for a moment thought guilty, I have written personal letters to every one of the jurors, the attorneys, the judge, the warden at San Quentin and to Howard Cramley and his father. I am not vindictive. I do not care if anyone else is punished or not. I have been the one that suffered, but I can hardly rest at night knowing that Avalon is in prison and innocent. He may know who did the killing—may have witnessed the murder, but he did not do the act. I

PHONE MERGER SAVES THOUSANDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 11.—That the consolidation of the telephone systems in this city, authorized yesterday by the State Railroad Commission, will result in an annual saving to patrons of $16,000, is the opinion of City Attorney A. H. Winder, who has been making a careful study of the order.

The commission holds that since the Pacific company has owned the Home company's plant since early in 1913, and is virtually buying the plant fro mitself, "no specified price will be authorized." The Pacific company's engineers placed a value of $245,282 on the Home system.

The decision further holds that no increase over the present rates shall be made until after the decision is reached on the State-wide case.

Long Beach Man Accused of Having Three Wives.

Wealthy Texas Woman Here to Prosecute Him.

Omaha and Minnesota Wives Figure in Case.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Nov. 11.—Accused of having four living wives and about to embark in a fifth matrimonial venture without the formality of a divorce, Henry H. Burgess, alias Henry H. Hall, is in the City Jail charged with bigamy. Mrs. Josie A. Bolin, owner of a cotton plantation in Texas, came here yesterday with a tale that landed Burgess behind the bars. She alleges that she and Burgess were married last February, but lived together only two weeks. "He was after my money," she said today.

Burgess is supposed to have married Mrs. Annie Burgess at Fort Worth, Tex., twenty-four years ago. He was still living with her today. According to the story of Detectives Mitchell and Cervantes, whose clever work landed Burgess in jail, the aged real estate man made sojourns from home occasionally for the purpose of marrying women with money, returning anon to live with his first wife.

Burgess's other matrimonial ventures were said to be with Mrs. Lillie Beck Mull, whom he is alleged to have married in Omaha in 1910, and Mrs. Effie Murray of Minnesota, who married Burgess, it is charged, in Santa Ana, September 15, 1915. Each of these women were possessed of small fortunes, which, Mrs. Bolin charges, he attempted to get control of soon after the ceremony. Mrs. Bolin says he married for a livelihood.

Wife No. 3 is expected to arrive here from Minnesota soon and take up the cudgel against her former husband. Wife No. 1 stands by her husband. She says he is innocent and may have carried on an innocent flirtation with the women, but that is all. She is endeavoring to raise $2000 bail to get her hubby out of durance vile.

The detectives have been watching Burgess for some time, and he was arrested only when he had stepped aboard a car for Los Angeles. The officers say that he was courting a Los Angeles woman with a view to matrimony.

SOLDIER BOYS RECEIVED.

Members of Co. H, N.G.C., mustered out of the Federal service, arrived home this afternoon at 5:30 and were welcomed by a crowd of thousands. They were escorted from a Pacific Electric train to their armory behind the Municipal Band and followed by a cheering crowd of citizens afoot and in autos. Later they were tendered a banquet at Hotel Virginia. Postmaster Desmond was toastmaster and Rev. O. H. L. Mason was the chief speaker. Capt. A. C. Borden responded for the company.

Three Men are Knocked Down When Automobile Runs Amuck on the Streets—Injured are Taken to the City Hospital for Attention.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Nov. 11.—Reaching up to give the horn a jab with her right hand in order to warn several pedestrians who were starting across the street, Miss H. C. Wing of Claremont accidentally struck the throttle of her Studebaker roadster at the intersection of Second and Thomas streets this noon and sent her car crashing into a crowd.

The auto knocked down three men and landed against an ornamental lamp post. All three men were hurried to the Pomona Valley Hospital. They are John Yates and P. J. Perrine of Hemet, and George Binford of this city. Mr. Binford has several crushed ribs and is suffering from deep scalp wounds. He may not recover. The other men are badly scratched and bruised, but their recovery will be rapid. They were here visiting the Joe Yates family when the accident occurred.

Miss Wing and Mrs. S. J. Whyte of Claremont were riding in a new roadster. While going east on Second street Miss Wing undertook to turn west at the Thomas-street intersection. She went into intermediate, and seeing that it would be a wide turn, she reached up to give the horn a jab in order to warn pedestrians. Her hand hit the accelorator and the car was going like an express train when it hit the curb, but the driver was standing up on the foot brake.

INTAKE GATE BIDS.

Imperial Valley Calls for Prices Upon One of the Improvements Suggested by Consulting Engineers Recently Employed.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Nov. 11.—Bids for the construction of a new intake gate, between the present structure at Hanlon heading and the main stream of the Colorado are to be advertised for by the Imperial irrigation district.

The bids are authorized in a resolution adopted by the board of directors as the first step in the plan of carrying out the recommendations in the report recently filed by the district's advisory board of consulting engineers. The new intake is intended for a sort of skimming weir to prevent the carrying of heavy sand and silt deposits from the Colorado into the Alamo channel. The new gate will be of the overpour type instead of undershot, the plan of the Hanlon heading structure.

Other improvements recommended by the advisory board, which is composed of George G. Anderson of Los Angeles and C. E. Grunsky of San Francisco, are to be carried out by the irrigation district as soon as financial arrangements can be made. Chairman Leroy Holt of the board and Director J. M. Edmunds have been named as a finance committee to obtain funds for the improvements, which the engineers estimated would cost about $750,000. Both Mr. Holt and Mr. Edmunds are valley bankers.

Another important recommendation made in the advisory board's report is the connection of the recently-constructed Cerro Prieta canal, which leads from Volcano Lake to the west side main, with the Alamo canal at a point near Cudahy check, thirty miles southeast of Calexico. This plan, it is hoped, will provide relief for the Alamo channel while improvements are being made and at the same time furnish an adequate supply of water for the west side of the valley.

Three dredges are being worked to full capacity in the Alamo channel in the sections where silt removal is most required at this time. It is the declared intention of the board of directors of the irrigation district to force through all needed improvements along the lines suggested by the advisory board with a view to obtaining more efficient diversion of the Colorado flow and assuring plenty of water for all of the 600,000 acres of and to be under cultivation next season. From present indications the emergency work recommended by the advisory board is expected to give the desired result.

SEEK SEPTIC TANKS FOR HYPERION SEWER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Nov. 11.—Mayor Gerety of Venice presided at a meeting of the representatives of the Santa Monica Bay district cities who met at the City Hall here last night to give reports on the Hyperion sewer fight.

A protective association, formed of four representatives from each of the cities of Venice, Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Manhattan, Hermosa and Redondo Beach, which was appointed two weeks ago at a mass meeting in Hermosa Beach, reported that the city of Los Angeles was putting in 250,000 feet of new tunnel near the sewer between Hermosa and Del Rey and 2000 feet of pipe into the ocean.

The bay cities are fighting this extension, claiming that the method of disposal is unhealthy and asking that septic tanks be installed.

The Mayors and members of the Board of Trustees and Chambers of Commerce from the bay cities were present at the meeting and will meet two weeks hence in Pasadena to discuss the advisability of annexation. Six advisory committees were appointed last night to work with the protective asociation.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

25-cent bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff of falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance, an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it you will just try a little Danderine.

Crown City Civic Bodies Seek Conquests.

Meeting to Consider Ways to Win Success.

Pasadena's First Librarian is Called by Death.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Nov. 12.—In an effort to make the coming year of 1917 the greatest by far in the history of the city, the commercial and civic bodies have already began to make definite plans for new municipal conquests. The Board of Trade has announced a meeting at the Maryland on the 16th inst., to be followed on the 21st inst. by a gathering of the Pasadena Merchants' Association at the Tea Cup Inn. At both gatherings ways and means of spreading the fame of the Crown City will be discussed.

President Scherer of Throop College will be toastmaster at the Board of Trade dinner and will be introduced by F. E. Wilcox, president of the board, who will preside. The board has recently completed some excellent moving pictures of Pasadena, which will be prominently used in the "See America First" campaign. The Pasadena pictures will be shown at a local theater on the evening of the "get-together" dinner.

Following the banquet feature and the survey of the past year's work, the merchants association will elect officers. The organization has gained fifty-one new active members during the past year. The association had pledged itself to fill a larger sphere of influence and the next gathering will be used to further this ambition.

Pasadena's first librarian, Mrs. Sarah E. Merritt, died in Oakland day before yesterday, according to a report received here yesterday. She was in charge at the opening of the library on February 26, 1884, and served for three years. From 1884 to 1889 she was secretary of the library board. The success of the library in its early days was largely due to Mrs. Merritt's faithful and enthusiastic work. She is survived by three sons, one of them Frank T. Merritt of Pasadena.

Girls! Try this!! Before curling or waving your hair with pins, papers or a heated iron, just moisten each strand with atalpa water and you will be delighted how natural the curls and waves appear and how long they last in spite of wind, dampness or prespiration. A few ounces of atalpa water will cost very little at any drug store and there is nothing better to help retain the curls and waves or to soften, gloss or fluff the hair and to make it look thick and abundant.

NEEDS FOUND FOR YOUR OLD SHOES.

AND CLOTHES, FURNITURE OR SECOND-HAND BEDDING.

Coleman House Settlement Association, that is Enlarging its Work Among the Poor, will Have Rummage Sale at its Headquarters Next Tuesday.

Have you any old clothing, shoes, bedding, newspapers or furniture you don't want?

Coleman House Settlement Association is to have a rummage sale Tuesday at the settlement house, No. 462 Bauchet street. Things to be sold are almost as much in demand as purchasers. Mrs. T. L. O'Brien, president of the association, will send for saleable articles if donors will telephone A5897. Delivery of goods by the donor will be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. E. M. E. Jenkins, first vice-president; Dr. Nina Stevens, head of the settlement clinic; Mrs. Fenner Webb of the board of directors and others have for weeks been working earnestly on the plans for the rummage sale, which will be continued until everything has been disposed of. Proceeds of the sale are to be used for current expenses of the settlement association. Many social service workers and several church organizations will participate.

Since its reorganization Coleman House has been rubbing elbows more than ever before with the people for whose weal it is working. Mrs. O'Brien has a plan which she believes will be of material benefit to the people of the Coleman House neighborhood. This is to give entertainments every Saturday night at the Macy-street school free of charge.

The first entertainment of this kind was given at the Macy-street school last Friday night. W. J. Byers gave a stereopticon lecture on Uncle Sam's possessions from Alaska to Panama. It was illustrated with more than 100 views. The school auditorium was insufficient to seat the men, women and children who flocked to the entertainment.

Humphreys' Seventy-seven For Grip, Influenza

COLDS

The Diagnosis of a Cold

If a person subject to Catarrh or Influenza finds himself sneezing and sniffing, he has taken Cold, though he cannot tell how.

If a person liable to Bronchitis, has roughness, scraping or dryness in the throat, he has taken Cold.

If a person subject to Quinsy finds his tonsils swollen and painful swallowing, he has taken Cold.

A Cold, however slight, should never be left to "get well" of itself, but always be helped away. This at first is not alone very easy, but a very simple matter, because these early symptoms are all caused by congestion and inflammation.

To get the best results and help the Cold away take "Seventy-seven" at the first sign of a Cold.

Brilliant.

TO MAKE BROADWAY ONE OF WORLD'S BRIGHTEST STREETS.

Noted Illumination Engineer Here to Work Out General Electric's Plans for Remarkable New System of Lighting Great Thoroughfare.

THE PROPOSED system of illumination for Broadway will, if realized, extend from the tunnel to Tenth street. Ornamental lighting standards twenty-five feet in height, supporting two 1500-candle-power luminous arc lamps are to replace the present unsightly lamp posts and ineffective incandescent lights. The proposed lamps would be inclosed in gold carrara globes, the latest thing in glass for illuminating purposes.

The plans call for 128 standards, located over existing outlet boxes approximately 115 feet apart. A total illumination of 184,000-candle-power reflected and subdued by the light-colored buildings along Broadway will make the system the most effective and modern in America.

San Francisco, Salt Lake, El Paso and other cities who have tried out the system have ordered extensions which in some cities more than trebles their existing systems. Merchants on Market street, in San Francisco, with $100,000 invested in the noted "Path of Gold" have decided to extend the system to more than twice its present length.

If the proposed new lighting system is carried into execution the Broadway of Los Angeles will be one of the brightest and most beautiful streets by night in America, according to W. D'Arcy Ryan, the foremost authority on street illumination in the United States.

Mr. Ryan arrived here yesterday from San Francisco with his corps of assistants and opened a suite of offices in the Corporation Building, at 724 South Spring street, preparatory to making a survey of Los Angeles and preparing plans of the proposed system of illumination. An appropriation of $12,000 for this survey has been made by the General Electric Company, which is making a campaign of education in the matter of street illumination. The result of the survey and Mr. Ryan's report and recommendation will be presented to the city.

Work on the survey was started immediately upon Mr. Ryan's arrival. In company with A. F. Dickerson, his assistant, the noted engineer made a preliminary trip of inspection "to see how the land lies." As a result of that inspection he enthusiastically proclaimed that many of the difficulties found in other cities do not exist here, and that because of the width of the street and the amount of reflection furnished by the numerous light-colored buildings, Broadway will require 33 per cent. less lighting units per [illegible] feet than does Market street in San Francisco.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS.

According to tentative plans Mr. Ryan will recommend that the present incandescent lights be removed, with their twelve-feet standards, and supplanted by luminous arc lamps mounted on ornamental standards twenty-five feet in height. These standards would be made of cast iron and would be located over the same outlet boxes now used with the incandescent system, as a matter of economy.

Each standard would be surmounted by two 6.6-ampere, 6500-volt series luminous arcs, inclosed in gold Cararra globes twenty inches in diameter. Each lamp to deliver 1500 candle-power illumination.

Located over present outlet boxes, these lamps would illuminate Broadway from the tunnel to Tenth street with a total of 184,000 candle power, diffused from 256 lights mounted on 128 standards. According to Mr. Ryan it would result in giving Broadway three times the amount of illumination it now receives, dollar for dollar.

Aside from that economy, the benefits of the system, according to Mr. Ryan, whose statements are seconded by C. C. Moore, president of the Panama Pacific International Exposition, which was lighted by Mr. Ryan, include increasing the value of Broadway property, filling vacant stores, lessening the probability of burglaries, improving traffic and decreasing traffic accidents. In addition, according to Mr. Moore, the lighting system would be a world-wide advertisement for Los Angeles and would promote civic pride.

IN OTHER CITIES.

San Francisco's "Path of Gold" is at present but a trifle larger than the proposed Broadway system. Arrangements were completed during the past week, however, to extend it to more than double its present length. That, according to Mr. Ryan, shows what San Francisco has to say about it.

Salt Lake, which more than a year ago installed the Ryan system of street illumination on one of its principal thoroughfares, has again secured the services of Mr. Ryan to plan similar systems on two other streets in the business district and it is probable that Mr. Ryan will divide his staff next week and put several of his assistants to work on that survey. It is stated that the merchants of Salt Lake are willing to stand practically all the expense of the additional lights as a purely business proposition which will mean increased sales and increased realty values.

Mr. Ryan hoped to complete his survey of Broadway and tender his report and recommendation in about thirty days. Yesterday, however, he received a wire from Omaha requesting him to come there at once and prepare a set of plans for a new system of municipal lighting, for which contracts will be let next month. It is probable a delay of two or three weeks locally will ensue from the additional work there.

El Paso merchants tried Mr. Ryan's system as an experiment about two years ago on a small scale and Tuesday last, in San Francisco, Mr. Ryan received a lengthy telegram from the El Paso Chamber of Commerce requesting him to name an open date on which he could visit El Paso and make a preliminary survey of an extensive addition which is to cover the principal streets of the business distcirt.

With the amount of work which has piled up ahead of him since he was here about three weeks ago, Mr. Ryan was last night loath to make any prediction as to the length of time necessary to complete plans and install the proposed Broadway system.

FOR GENERAL SYSTEM.

"There are many things which must be taken into consideration," he said. "I want to recommend a system which will not only make Broadway without a peer in the world at present, but will also dovetail into similar systems that may eventually be installed on Main, Spring, and Hill streets. I will, of course, utilize all I can of the existing ducts and outlets as a matter of economy, but it is hard to say what I will find when I begin to investigate the underground facilities.

"I should think, however, that if proper attention were paid to installing the system and there were no unnecessary delays, that six months should be sufficient. If my plans are adopted in January, the lights should be turned on in June."

J. W. Gosling, who has done most of Mr. Ryan's architectural work, has been secured to design the standards for the proposed Broadway system. He is now en route from New York and will meet Mr. Ryan in Omaha if a telegram sent last night reaches him in time. Otherwise he will probably come on through to Los Angeles as was originally planned.

MISSION STYLE.

Mr. Ryan thinks his designer will be able to embody something of the Old Mission type of architecture in the standards which will be designed for Broadway, without at the same time making them too cumbersome. He says that the finished design will be without a peer and will be "distinctively Los Angeles in effect."

Leo Lentelli, the noted sculptor, who has been declared the foremost artist in his line in America and who carried off the honors at San Francisco, will make the models from which the standards will be patterned. Mr. Lentelli is now in San Francisco.

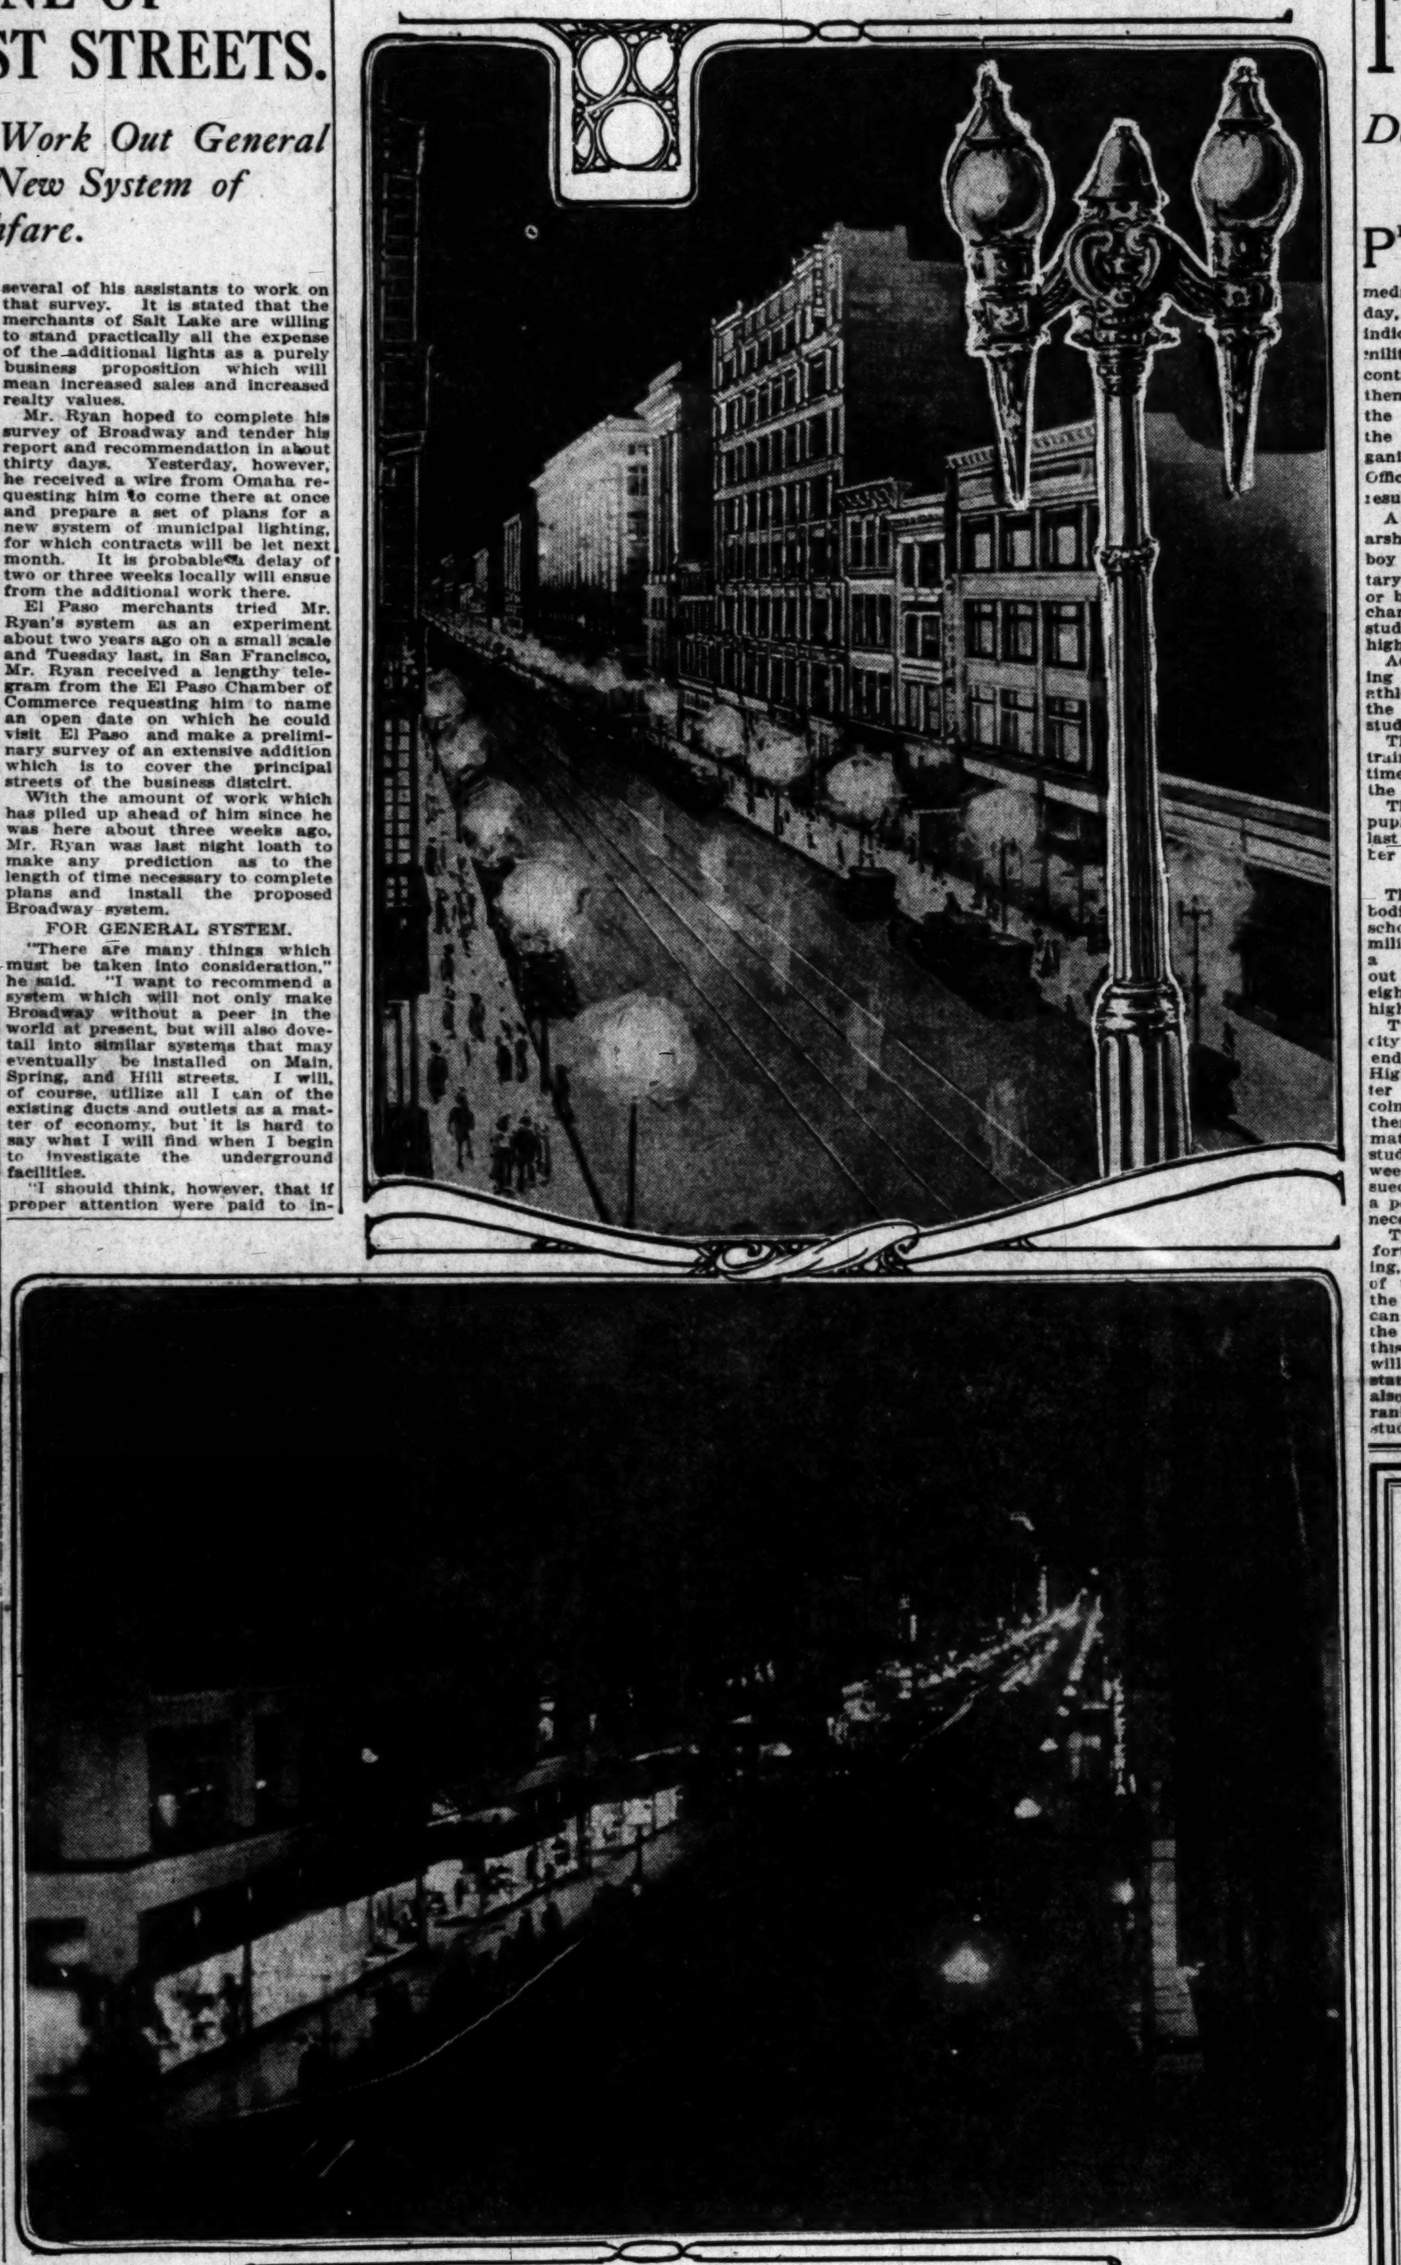
The approximate cost of the propposed system will be announced when definite information as to the amount of actual construction is obtained. Pending an exhaustive survey Mr. Ryan will make no estimate.

In San Francisco, however, it cost about $100,000 to complete the "Path of Gold," 60 per cent. of which sum was expended for labor. Mr. Ryan says it is impossible to compute the cost of the Los Angeles system on a comparative basis because of the difference in obstacles encountered and the difference in the type system used.

San Francisco's system includes 137 standards as against 128 for Los Angeles. The "Path of Gold" has three arcs to a standard, where Los Angeles will use but two. The standards in the north are "disguised trolley poles"—to quote directly—and it is proposed to install shorter and different type supports locally.

The cost of maintaining San Francisco's new street lamps is about $78 per lamp per year on the circuit which is turned off at midnight, and approximately $96 each per year for the all-night lamps.

Broadway as it Looks and as it Would Look.



Two views at night of our principal business thoroughfare.

The lower picture shows Broadway looking north from Seventh under the present system of illumination. The top picture shows Broadway looking south from the same point. With the assistance of photographs of San Francisco's "Path of Gold" and Salt Lake's Main street, both lighted by the new system, the artist has shown how the appearance of the street will be altered if present plans are realized. At the right is one of the proposed lamps.

In Texas.

LOCAL LAWYER'S FREED IN SENSATIONAL CASE.

GEORGE RYAN, the young Los Angeles attorney who was one of three Texans accused of the killing of William Black, an anti-Catholic lecturer in Marshall, Tex., in February, 1915, and who went to Galveston to stand trial on a murder charge, has been exonerated by the court and his case dismissed. Mr. Ryan has been a practising attorney here for about two years. He has offices in the Black Building and resides at No. 532 South Fremont avenue.

One of the three men, John Rogers, who was with Mr. Ryan at the time of the tragedy, was killed and C. F. Hall, Black's bodyguard, was arrested and will probably be tried in connection with the death of Rogers.

John Copeland, a Texas banker, and the third man in the party, was tried and acquitted on a murder charge, the evidence showing that he and Mr. Ryan had shot in self-defense. As a consequence of this verdict, the court instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in favor of Mr. Ryan, and his case ordered stricken from the docket.

Upon his return to this city, Mr. Ryan said last night that Black, representing himself to be an ex-priest, went to Marshall to deliver two lectures. He spoke once and is said to have attacked the women of the church. Marshall is a town of some 16,000 inhabitants with less than 150 Catholics. They are all southerners. Being a lawyer Mr. Ryan went to the District Attorney and asked that Black be compelled to cease his lectures, but was told that nothing could be done: So he and his friends, all of them among the most prominent citizens Deliberation.

TIDE OF SCHOOL VOTES FOR MARTIAL TRAINING.

Deep-reaching Changes are Portended by Students' Referendum.

PROSPECTS of quiet but far-reaching changes in the Los Angeles city high and intermediate schools loomed large yesterday, when it became apparent that indications point to the adoption of military training under Federal control, by vote of the students themselves. It is declared that if the boy pupils are enrolled under the clause in the new army reorganisation act, providing for an Officers' Reserve Corps, these three results will almost certainly ensue:

A new standard of grit and scholarship will be established, because a boy who should take up the military course would have to stick at it or be barred from graduating. Now changes of mind as to courses of study are somewhat common in the high schools.

Advantages of good physical training will be offered apart from the athletic field and will probably raise the general physical standard of students.

This city will have a body of well trained young officers, that will in time give a large soldierly leaven to the civilian population.

There are about 18,500 high school pupils in Los Angeles, according to last month's census. Of the number about 7400 are boys.

DR. SHIELS'S PLAN.

The proposal that the student bodies of the various secondary schools of Los Angeles decide this military question was advanced in a letter Supt. Shiels sent out Friday to the principals of the eight intermediate and the thirteen high schools.

Two of the largest schools in the city will have decided before the end of this week. Manual Arts High School will vote on the matter tomorrow and the boys of Lincoln High School will have declared themselves by next Friday. The matter was submitted to the student bodies of both schools last week and the discussions which ensued were so long and spirited that a postponement of the decision was necessary.

The letter from Dr. Shiels, sets forth the proposition, explaining, as far as possible, the details of the plan. "No student," reads the letter, "who takes up this course can graduate until he has finished the work. If the measure is adopted this may be a very good rule, as it will give many boys a greater understanding of their civic duty and will also eliminate all those from the ranks who are wayward in their studies and who start a subject with good intentions but drop it before they realize the benefits."

According to the new law, the students of the various high schools may enroll as members of the Officers' Reserve Corps and secure the necessary military training to enable them to hold commissions in the regular army.

The government will agree to furnish uniforms and equipment to each school which can enlist a body of not less than 100 boys. The equipment will be free of charge and the boys will be trained in military science by men appointed by the government. The matter is yet in a formative stage, as no appropriation has been made at Washington to care for the demands that later will be made upon the War Department by the high school students of the country.

EAGER DISCUSSION.

"In presenting the matter to the boys at their assembly," said Dr. A. E. Wilson, principal of Manual Arts High School, yesterday, "we gave as detailed an explanation as possible, stating plain facts. The discussion which resulted was very much in the nature of spontaneous combustion. Every boy in the house seemed to have an opinion and clamored to be heard. For forty minutes they argued and as they were unable to reach a decision on the matter, we postponed it until Monday.

"It is impossible to say just how the matter will be decided. Many of the boys are in favor of it, as it would give them each an opportunity to train physically, while football and other games benefit the few. There are points on both sides and the boys will have to do their own thinking."

At the meeting held by the Lincoln High School student body, those in favor of taking advantage of the act were in the majority when a standing vote was taken, but when it was asked that they submit their names as applicants for enlistment the response was less. The boys of this school will report the opinions their parents hold on the matter. "It was decided," said Miss Ethel Andrus, principal of Lincoln High," that the boys had better bring notes from their parents, informing us of their desires. This suggestion was made by Dr. Sheils."

The matter was presented to the Lincoln High School boys by J. H. Whitely, vice-principal. "The new law," said Mr. Whitely yesterday, "seems to be generally misunderstood throughout California. We were as impartial as possible and made no exaggerated statements, nor did we color the facts. If the boys wish to take advantage of the new

WHAT VOX POPULI SAYS OF THE BARRETT CASE.

Baleful Stars, Evil Eye and Witch Rod are Rivals for Favors as Answers to the "Murder Mystery" Among Those Who Have Studied Case in the Newspapers. Diagnoses by an Astrologer and a "Body-finder."

HAD Benton L. Barrett, confessed "murderer" of his wife and stepson, Raymond Wright, lived several hundred years ago, when the general public believed in witches, divining rods, astrology and the evil eye, and had he then confessed a crime of the atrocious ferocity his present recital would indicate, he would still have had a fifty-fifty chance of being acquitted.

Today, when most people look with disfavor on effort to resurrect these ancient superstitions, he will stand or fall by the evidence and on the findings of science. That, however, does not prevent the astrologer or the owner of an evil eye from expressing an opinion. According to the astrologers the prisoner would not have a chance; the divining rod gives him a mysterious even break and the evil-eye expert would free him. These are some expressions of opinion on the case evoked by The Times' invitation that the general public offer theories on the puzzling mystery.

A devotee of astrology, living near the scene of the supposed double murder, has bad news for Barrett and all others born in the latter part of October. They will "do anything and think no more of committing a murder than a tiger does." There you are. Perhaps you did not know that tigers commit murders. Well, then, listen to this. "Astrology proves him (Barrett) guilty of the murder. He is governed by Mars. He was born in the sign of Scorpio and stops at nothing to gain his end. Men (and women) born under this sign are the kind who send poisoned candy through the mail or put poison in the chocolate or arsenic in the sugar. Born under this sign, a man would kill his own brother to prevent him from telling a secret.

"These Scorpions pass the contribution box on Sunday, but look out for them on Monday, as they are as cunning as the fox and they can love and they can hate and have strong likes and dislikes."

Just how Barrett managed to keep from displaying such a character during all of his sixty-five years, during many of which he was raising a family of children back in Indiana, working from sun to sun, is not explained.

A BODY-FINDER.

Mysteries such as the Barrett case, in which bodies are supposed to be hidden somewhere underneath barn floors or secretly carried to some distant point for burial, are not approached with fear and quaking by a certain expert of Los Angeles, for he has an instrument intended to locate such missing bodies by some occult power. Detectives, it would appear, are not needed, except to handle the bodies when found. The doctor tried out the "body-finder" at Santa Monica and, though he failed to locate the bodies of Mrs. Barrett and her son, he was the cynosure of admiring and wide-open eyes for an hour.

Speaking unscientifically, the instrument, or witch stick, looks like two whip handle ends with a pivot and a "finder" hand where they come together—like a "water finder" or divining rod.

Taking one of Mrs. Barrett's gloves and a piece of a shirt that belonged to her son, the operator wrapped these about the ends of the handles, to give the "body finder" the personal touch.

Then he closed his eyes in concentration and slowly turned around. The bystanders pressed as close on the Barrett preserves as the police would permit and watched with bated breath. When the instrument pointed towards the Barrett barn, it slowly dropped from an angle of 45 degs. and the finder swung around, pointing right at the barn.

ON THE SCENT.

The expert then opened his eyes and followed the "scent." He walked to the side of the barn and, being unable to go farther unless the walls were removed, went around the structure. On the other side he readjusted the "finder" and declared it pointed still farther. He came to the fence, and, climbing over, landed in nettles two feet deep. He stopped short.

"Ah," he exclaimed, "where is Topanga Canyon?"

"Over that way," came the response, "about ten miles."

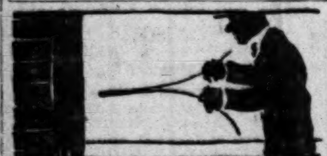
The man's body relaxed.

"Ah, that's it," was the remark that left the mystified bystanders still in doubt, as the expert looked at the nettles and adjourned.

Later the "body-finder" was taken into Topanga Canyon and a detective sat up all night coaxing it to work. The "finder" pointed to a field and the detective secured a spade and dug up nearly an acre of good corn land before he became convinced that the "finder" was kidding him.

NOW THE EVIL EYE.

A young lady, residing on Thirtieth street in this city, has made the discovery that "a certain person close to Barrett, who he thought was a friend, is possessed of an evil eye. This person exerted a malign influence over the old man, causing him to confess to a murder he did not commit. If the proper method (not explained in the letter) is used, the influence of the evil eye can be overcome. Certain religious observations are also needed to assist Barrett in combating the evil eye and proving to the world that he is innocent.



A young man connected with the County Hospital wants the police to hunt for the person who "knew that Mr. Barrett had mental lapses and who swooped down on him during one of these mental lapses and forced him to confess to a murder. If this person can be located he or she will also be able to tell where Mrs. Barrett and her son are now in hiding."

See? Simple enough. Just go out and locate the evil eye and then you will have all the conspirators in a tight place. But when the police were told about the new "dope" that was theirs for the asking, they were positively rude. That's the trouble with policemen; they have no head for science.

Quite another way to get at the truth is suggested by a man who gives his address as the Pottinger Sanatorium, Monrovia. He says that if Barrett suffers from delusion, the real facts are hidden away in his subconscious mind, and a possible way to get at them is to question the old man while he is in a state of hypnotic sleep. This because, "in hypnotic sleep, as in ordinary sleep, the power of reasoning is sufficiently suppressed to keep it from acting as a barrier, shutting out from consciousness facts which might be stored away in the subconscious mind, but cannot enter the waking consciousness, either for lack of proper association or because they do not fit the present, prevailing reasoning of the mind." At any rate, this is one thing the investigators have not tried.

There is another explanation, about the "cosmos being at oneness with the ego," but there is a haziness about all this that would also baffle the police. At any rate, when this occurs, Barrett with a directness that will be convincing will reveal the entire truth. Fair enough.

Reason.

SAYS TWO PERSONS ARE THE SLAYERS.

PHYSICIAN WRITES ANALYSIS OF "MURDER" MYSTERY.

Thinks Most Tenable Theory is that Woman and Boy Were Really Killed, but Bodies Weren't Burned by Barrett—"Planned Disappearance" Scouted.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Benton L. Barrett case has already brought forth such a variety of opinions from intelligent people, both pro and con, as to its being a case of murder, that one now hesitates to express an opinion further regarding this most remarkable case, although invited to do so by you.

To our mind many of the theories given as to the planned disappearance of the woman and her son are too puerile for serious consideration. Personal interests and motive would have been strong inducements for them to remain and defend her interests in the property.

The husband had accumulated enough evidence from letters reputed to have been written by the wife to other men, indicating her intimacy with them, to have caused repeated, bitter quarrels between them, and to have prompted many a man to murder such a treacherous wife. And a careful review of all the facts in the case as given to the public through the daily press makes it seem more reasonable that the wife and son were murdered, and rather by the help of some other interested party than by the husband alone; but that the bodies were disposed of in some other manner than heretofore given.

No ordinary open fire would or could consume fresh bodies in three times as many hours as Barrett gives for their consuming. And any one familiar with comparative anatomy could tell at once upon examining the bones whether they were parts of a young or an elderly person, and whether they had been burned. If the craniums are found a moment's inspection would tell whether they were of a young or a mature person, and the long bones of the arms and legs would also show the same thing. The pelvic bones of a matured woman are broader and the illii are more flaring than in the male, particularly in one under 20 years of age. Again, the epiphyses of the long bones in one under 20 years of age have not formed a perfect bony union with the shaft bone, while in a fully-matured person they have. Again, a fresh bone is pink outwardly, and redder as the center is approached, and the marrow is not decomposed in a week's time after death, in this climate, and still, again, bones of a person under 18 or 20 years of age contain 20 per cent. more animal matter than those of persons of mature years, especially past 40 or 50 years, and when incinerated become more porous and brittle than the matured person's bones subjected to the same consuming heat. Again, if the bones found were from fresh bodies, but incinerated, charred flesh would still be adherent to them.

Again, no person can be involuntarily hypnotized, nor made to do anything they would be unwilling to do in their natural state, and no one can be permanently hypnotized; "the spell" will pass off in a short time after the hypnotist has withdrawn himself from the presence of the one hypnotized.

To our mind, all the conditions revealed in this mysterious case point to murder, either provoked or premeditated, in which more than one person took part.

WANT NEW DEVICES.

Local Federation Seeks Revision of Traffic Ordinance by City Council Compelling Electric or Mechanical Stop Signs to Reduce Casualties.

An effort is being made by the local Safety First Federation to reduce the number of casualties in the downtown congested district by urging the City Council for a more stringent enforcement of the traffic ordinance.

The federation has compiled figures showing that to the end of this year, using an average month as an estimate, that 11,112 automobile accidents have occurred and that 132 persons have been killed and that 3900 were injured. The figures are taken from the records of the traffic bureau of the police department.

A revision of the ordinance is suggested, which it is believed will materially cut down the danger to pedestrians as well as motorists. Accidents which have occurred, it is said, have been largely due to improper signaling by the hand when making turns. Some uniform signaling device for automobiles to be operated electrically or mechanically and visible day and night for some distance from the car has been recommended to City Council.

SCHOOL DESKS FOR POLICEMEN.

Chief Asks Money Needed to Put His Men Over the Mental Hurdles.

It is not a case of "let's go back to baby days," nevertheless the Los Angeles police officers are going to school if the City Council grants a request made by the Police Commission yesterday for an appropriation for forty desks.

Chief Butler intends to establish the school for which these desks are wanted. It is not intended to teach the men reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic—they are supposed to be sufficiently well acquainted with three R's before they get onto the force.

This police school is for instruction in duties. It is on the line of schools in other large cities. The emergency men who are to act during the winter will be among the first pupils if the Council supplies the necessary money.

Military Vote.

law it is up to them. The majority of them seemed to favor it when the matter was put to a decision by a standing vote, but when we requested that all those who wished to enlist submit their names, we received comparatively few answers."

"The young men who have had the advantage of a course of military training," said Maj. A. J. Copp of the Board of Education, yesterday, "are better, morally and physically, than the boys who merely participate in field sports. It has been my experience that the cadet in the high school has a new pride when he realizes he is taking special instruction in the matter of the defense of his country, and it gives him a greater understanding of his duty to his nation.

"The disciplinary side is not to be gainsaid. The training teaches a boy to think and act without wasting time and to judge men and conditions. The health standpoint is very important and a boy who has had field work understands matters of sanitation that are unknown to the other boys.

"The benefit of military training is unquestioned. It does not make a boy fight, but it teaches him how to fight if it is ever necessary for him to do so. It gives all the boys equal physical training and it teaches them cleanliness of body and mind. The boys who have had military training are better citizens than the boys who lack it."

He stated he hopes the boys generally will take advantage of the government's offer.

NEW LAND OFFICE LOWERS FEES HERE.

IMPERIAL CONTEST HEARINGS GO TO EL CENTRO.

Constant Entry and Relinquishment of Claims Continues—This, with Litigation, Places Costs on Settler, with Plenty of Emolument for Government Officials.

The opening of the new land office at El Centro has operated to deprive the local land office of nine-tenths of former contest hearings, as most of such actions arise in territory covered by the new office, located in the heart of the Imperial Valley.

In spite of this, the financial end of the business transacted by Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell is about as large as ever, and as long as the receipts keep at a high standard there is small probability of their fees falling below $3000 a year.

It is one of the peculiar features of public land development that there are always settlers willing to take a chance in making a home, either by the desert or homestead entry route. Scores give up in disgust, either through illness, disappointments or a lack of money, and they file relinquishments on their land, but these are snapped up immediately, and under the law no one gets credit for work done. Reclamation must then be performed over again; fees must be paid, and this question interests the local officials. There seems to be an endless chain, and those coming just about equal those giving up the game.

The contests pay none but the attorneys representing the litigants. The clerk who acts as stenographer gets a legal fee for the transcript of evidence, and in many cases the amount is quite large.

FORGERY CHARGE.

The Federal grand jury on Friday indicted Philip Muscero and Jose Salazar on a charge of having forged the signature of Henry Cort to money orders aggregating in value $110. The warrant of arrest was served on Muscero in the County Jail, where he is held for another offense, and Salazar has been located in the army, at Honolulu.

MERCY KEEPING COURT SILENT.

Compromise Urged in Strange Chicago Blood Muddle.

Meanwhile Judge Declines to Decide Will Contest.

Wants Assailed Woman Given Absolutely Clear Name.

Compromise is sought in the strange Chicago blood muddle that involves the estate of the late Mrs. Theresa Wilson. The court has urged that attorneys for both sides confer, in an effort to reach a compromise that will allow the judge to enter an order establishing the legitimacy of Mrs. Etta Wilson Gebhart, the strange story of whose ded life has been bared in the t of Charles O. Lowman of this against the appointment of Mrs. hart as administratrix of the son estate. Mr. Lowman is the Mrs. Wilson's brother.

His Chicago attorneys have notified him the case is practically closed, with no result for either side. The judge refused to decide the matter; he does not want to hand down an order that might be construed as branding Mrs. Gebhart, a woman 40 years old, and a well known teacher in Chicago, as having an illegitimate child. The court informed the Wilsons, in that they had adopted the child, and thereby avoided possibility of present complications.

A settlement on the half basis has been suggested to both sides. Mr. Lowman said he agreed to this, provided Mrs. Gebhart should return the money and jewelry of the estate, and he would allow her the rent of the home for the past two years. This was refused.

BROTHER'S ATTITUDE.

"This thing never would have come up," declared Mr. Lowman last night, "had Mrs. Gebhart not gone into court and sworn she is the only living heir, when she has known since she was 16 years old that she was not my sister's child. I am the only living heir, but I have made my sister and my two nieces co-heirs with me, as they are in Chicago and can look after our interests, and because my sister, Mrs. Mary C. Betts, and my niece, Mrs. Cora Gale, were with my sister Theresa when she died, and cared for her during her last illness.

"My niece, Mrs. Gale, had lived with Theresa for years. When Theresa grew very ill my niece sent for her mother, and it was she who told me of how Mrs. Gebhart had gone into court and sworn she is the only living heir.

"There was nothing in our testimony that could be construed as giving the impression that Mrs. Gebhart was a foundling, and if we are compelled to take the case to a higher court, it will be partly on a technicality that we shall expect a judgment in our favor."

STORY OF SUBSTITUTION.

According to Mr. Lowman, who resides at No. 2147 South Main street, his sister Theresa's child was born dead and to save the life of the mother, another infant whose mother had died a few da-s previous was substituted. After Theresa had grown strong again she was told of the substitution, but she had become so fond of the infant that she kept it and brought her up, although she never legally adopted her.

Mr. Lowman stated last night that his sister had educated Mrs. Gebhart and sent her abroad, and had it not been that she declared herself the only living heir she would have been allowed to have practically the whole estate, as neither he nor his sister cares for or needs the property. "But I do insist on getting fair treatment," he added.

Plot Exposed.

CONCERTED ATTACKS ARE PLANNED BY THE I.W.W.

Arrest of Confessed Holdup Men Reveals Them as Scouts for Desperate Gang of Yeggmen Now in the South — Chief of Police Butler will Ask Council for Authority to Swear in Fifty Additional Patrolmen.

TWO self-confessed holdup men, who early yesterday morning robbed Philip Stevens as he was preparing to open his store at No. 965 North Broadway, and who were caught only after an exciting chase by the "Flying Squadron," yesterday afternoon confessed to Lieutenant of Detectives Home that they are the scouts of the desperate gang of yeggmen and I.W.W.'s now infesting the south, come to look over the ground in preparation for a concerted attack on the peace of Los Angeles. While they declared they knew nothing of the plans of the gang, it is believed by the police that this band had planned to unite with the Seattle I.W.W.'s here in this city, with the view to starting trouble they expected would help the cause of the labor unions.

ASK FOR MORE MEN

As a result of the investigation of the two prisoners Chief of Police Butler last night prepared an application that he will present to the City Council tomorrow morning, asking for the addition of at least fifty patrolmen with the alternative of swearing in 100 more a the first sign of trouble. However, the quick action taken by Chief Butler may act as a restraining force upon the gang leaders so that they may change their plans.

For some time it has been rumored that the I.W.W.'s of Seattle, repulsed with bloodshed when the decent citizens of Everett refused to permit their city to be overrun, are planning new conquess in Southern California. The first plans were to go into the Imperial Valley, with its rich resources and scattered ranch communities, where they would have a chance to strike and run. However the first small band that went south received such severe warnings and promises of a united resistance that the instigators of the plan hesitated.

SPYING OUT LAND.

Then it was decided to feel out Los Angeles, with its excellent but extremely small police force. The great expanse of the city offered many places, where, by no manner of stretching, this police force was unable to guard.

Early yesterday morning Mr. Stevens started to open his store. He had unlocked the door and was preparing to enter, when someone behind him told him to hold up his hands. Looking around, he saw two poorly-dressed men, one armed with a revolver, menacing him. They extricated a purse of money from his pocket and tore his watch from his chain. Then they ran.

As it so happened, only one patrolman was walking the two beats that join near Mr. Stevens's store. At the time, this officer was on the other beat. Because of the insufficient number of men, he had been assigned double work temporarily.

FOLLOWS YEGGMEN.

Unlike other victims, Mr. Stevens refused to let the matter go at that. A minute after the thieves started running down the street, a huge oil truck driven by Robert Ruel, a chauffeur, passed by. Mr. Stevens jumped up besides the driver, shouting him to follow the flying yeggmen. These men, seeing themselves pursued, dived headlong under a house porch at No. 828 San Fernando street. Ruel stayed near by with his machine, to watch while Mr. Stevens telephoned for the Flying Squadron.

Detectives Greely, James, Haver and Davidson surrounded the house. The first two poked shotguns beneath the porch and a few seconds later the yeggmen, much dilapidated in appearance and spirit, crawled out. The small revolver and Mr. Stevens's purse were found underneath the house where the men had hidden.

THEIR CONFESSION.

At headquarters yesterday the men were put throuh a gruelling examination. They gave the names of Frank Williams and William Driscoll; occupation, none; address, floaters.

When Lieutenant of Detectives Home questioned them they admitted having come to this city for the express purpose of scouting about getting the lay of the land and the positions of the police force members. This information, they confessed, was to be forwarded, by the "underground" route, to their companions. It is declared by the police that this word would later be received by the I.W.W. leaders in Seattle, and the order given to unite in Los Angeles.

During the past week depredations have been committed in Los Angeles by two holdup men men. Whether it is the same two arrested yesterday, or another pair of scouts is as yet undetermined. However, the police will keep a sharp lookout, and, if necessary, the officers will be requested to work extra hours until a sufficient reinforcement is permitted by the Council.

Adventure.

FIND TREASURE OF THE INCAS.

Los Angeles Engineers Back from Peruvian Wilds.

After Wresting Gold from a Torrent of the Andes.

Declare McAdoo Incident is Handicap to Americans.

Back from a successful treasure-hunting expedition into the heart of the Andes, where they wrested from raging mountain torrents thousands of dollars' worth of the gold that the Incas of a bygone age had mined, two Los Angeles engineers, Ross S. Covert of No. 1737 Garfield place and George B. Carpenter of No. 175 South Commonwealth avenue, reached their homes yesterday.

The experience of the two since they left New Orleans almost eight months ago, as related by Mr. Covert yesterday, rivals the tales of fiction. Photographs of their expedition, of the country traversed and of the actual work of recovering the gold, support their story to the minutest detail.

Leaving April 1 last with approximately $12,000 worth of machinery and supplies and several thousand dollars in gold, the men reached Mollendo, Peru, three weeks later. From there they made the long journey through the Southeastern Pass in the Andes, 17,411 feet above sea level, to the Michicamani River, 3000 feet above sea level and one of the Amazon River headwaters. The journey was made on foot with about fifty Indians and a llama pack-train.

UNDERWATER LOOT.

The gold they sought was at the bottom of a narrow canyon 1000 feet in depth, in a deep pool hollowed out by a waterfall. This pool was about sixty-eight feet in depth, 100 feet long and sixty feet wide. An English syndicate spent $250,000 trying to recover the gold about fifteen years ago and failed.

Taking advantage of a tunnel 600 feet in length which that syndicate had constructed to divert the water around the waterfall the Americans constructed a dam across the narrow gorge above the fall and started to pump out the pool. With about half the task complete an unexpected thaw set in on the mountains and within twenty-four hours the water roared down the canyon, washed away the dam and wrecked their gasoline engine, and in an effort to save the most valuable part of their equipment, three of their laborers were lost.

Another dam was constructed, the engine repaired and work begun again. In less than a week another flood washed away the dam and damaged the engine beyond repair.

Finally a third dam was built, and by working with hand pumps night and day, the pool was emptied of its 6,000,000 gallons of icy water. Gigantic boulders which had been carried into the hole were blasted and laboriously hoisted out of the way by crude slings, makeshift winches, etc.

During the latter part of July, by the work of day and night shifts, the sediment at the bottom of the pool was reached. Some of it was hoisted and "washed" in sluice boxes constructed of lumber carried up from the coast. Nuggets weighing as much as several ounces were recovered. Much of the sediment the engineers were unable to disturb because of limited time.

HAVE TO LEAVE.

When supplies began to give out the party regretfully sacked up the gold and prepared to break camp. Hardly had they moved their effects when another freshet came, and in a few hours the tunnel could not conduct the flow. When the party started back to the coast their last view of the scene was of water pouring over the dam into the pool, although the sturdy dam itself was still intact.

Satisfied with their clean-up, which more than repaid them for their way and expenses, the members of the expedition worked back to the coast, arriving at Mollendo October 2. The next day the two men boarded a steamer for Panama. They arrived in New York the latter part of last week.

Mr. Covert stated last night that the country he visited is fairly impregnated with gold. He states it is very difficult, however, for an American to pick up laborers along the coast because of the effect of the McAdoo "friendly relationship" tour.

"In fact," he said, "that put the finishing touches to the already damaged status of the United States in Peru. I was there during the incident and it certainly was a raw deal.

"You see, McAdoo and his party landed at Santiago, Chile, attended a banquet, got disgracefully drunk, insulted some of the Chilean girls and left town very much in disgrace the next day. They went on up to Callao, Peru, where the President had declared a fiesta in honor of the occasion and all the ladies had spent a year's allowance on Parisian dresses, etc. The whole town of Lima was assembled to meet them at Callao and when the boat came in at about 10 o'clock in the morning there was all kinds of fireworks.

"Finally, at 11 o'clock, McAdoo sent in word that the party had decided not to land. In consternation the President sent out his Prime Minister to ascertain the reason and to urge the party to reconsider.

"From what the papers quoted the Prime Minister as saying the next day, it seems McAdoo did not even invite that official to have a seat, cigar or drink and stated that because of reports of plague in port it was inadvisable to carry out the programme arranged. The Prime Minister then offered to have a special train meet the boat at a landing twenty-eight miles up the coast and bring the members of the party direct to Lima, but this, too, was refused.

"The Prime Minister then left. Later in the day McAdoo decided to pay his respects to the President and, alone, went to Lima. I understand the President let him cool his heels in he anteroom for three-quarters of an hour and then gave him fifteen minutes.

"I don't know what transpired but there was wailing and gnashing of teeth over the incident right up to the day I left, a month ago. The Peruvians were mad as hornets and did everything except desecrate the flag and I am not as sure as are a lot of people that they stopped there. In fact I very much doubt it."

Before that incident, he said, when Americans wanted anything they had to go to the British or German Consul for it—that our own consular representatives are jokes—and after the incident Americans were simply out of luck.

Individually, he declared, the Peruvians respect Americans because we make them, but as a nation they have no use for us.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Family Laxative for Many Years.

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlyle, Ill., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell at Monticello, Ill., that she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the bowels in an easy, natural way, and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sickness to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should have a place in every family medicine chest. It is pleasant to the taste and children like it, and take it readily, while it is equally effective for adults.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. Gen. Public's Views.

WHAT VOX POPULI SAYS OF THE BARRETT CASE.

Baleful Stars, Evil Eye and Witch Rod are Rivals for Favors as Answers to the "Murder Mystery" Among Those Who Have Studied Case in the Newspapers. Diagnoses by an Astrologer and a "Body-finder."

HAD Benton L. Barrett, confessed "murderer" of his wife and stepson, Raymond Wright, lived several hundred years ago, when the general public believed in witches, divining rods, astrology and the evil eye, and had he then confessed a crime of the atrocious ferocity his present recital would indicate, he would still have had a fifty-fifty chance of being acquitted.

Today, when most people look with disfavor on effort to resurrect these ancient superstitions, he will stand or fall by the evidence and on the findings of science. That, however, does not prevent the astrologer or the owner of an evil eye from expressing an opinion. According to the astrologers the prisoner would not have a chance; the divining rod gives him a mysterious even break and the evil-eye expert would free him. These are some expressions of opinion on the case evoked by The Times' invitation that the general public offer theories on the puzzling mystery.

A devotee of astrology, living near the scene of the supposed double murder, has bad news for Barrett and all others born in the latter part of October. They will "do anything and think no more of committing a murder than a tiger does." There you are. Perhaps you did not know that tigers commit murders. Well, then, listen to this. "Astrology proves him (Barrett) guilty of the murder. He is governed by Mars. He was born in the sign of Scorpio and stops at nothing to gain his end. Men (and women) born under this sign are the kind who send poisoned candy through the mail or put poison in the chocolate or arsenic in the sugar. Born under this sign, a man would kill his own brother to prevent him from telling a secret.

"These Scorpions pass the contribution box on Sunday, but look out for them on Monday, as they are as cunning as the fox and they can love and they can hate and have strong likes and dislikes."

Just how Barrett managed to keep from displaying such a character during all of his sixty-five years, during many of which he was raising a family of children back in Indiana, working from sun to sun, is not explained.

A BODY-FINDER.

Mysteries such as the Barrett case, in which bodies are supposed to be hidden somewhere underneath barn floors or secretly carried to some distant point for burial, are not approached with fear and quaking by a certain expert of Los Angeles, for he has an instrument intended to locate such missing bodies by some occult power. Detectives, it would appear, are not needed, except to handle the bodies when found. The doctor tried out the "body-finder" at Santa Monica and, though he failed to locate the bodies of Mrs. Barrett and her son, he was the cynosure of admiring and wide-open eyes for an hour.

Speaking unscientifically, the instrument, or witch stick, looks like two whip handle ends with a pivot and a "finder" hand where they come together—like a "water finder" or divining rod.

Taking one of Mrs. Barrett's gloves and a piece of a shirt that belonged to her son, the operator wrapped these about the ends of the handles, to give the "body finder" the personal touch.

Then he closed his eyes in concentration and slowly turned around. The bystanders pressed as close on the Barrett preserves as the police would permit and watched with bated breath. When the instrument pointed towards the Barrett barn, it slowly dropped from an angle of 45 degs. and the finder swung around, pointing right at the barn.

ON THE SCENT.

The expert then opened his eyes and followed the "scent." He walked to the side of the barn and, being unable to go farther unless the walls were removed, went around the structure. On the other side he readjusted the "finder" and declared it pointed still farther. He came to the fence, and, climbing over, landed in nettles two feet deep. He stopped short.

"Ah," he exclaimed, "where is Topanga Canyon?"

"Over that way," came the response, "about ten miles."

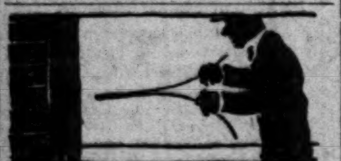
The man's body relaxed.

"Ah, that's it," was the remark that left the mystified bystanders still in doubt, as the expert looked at the nettles and adjourned.

Later the "body-finder" was taken into Topanga Canyon and a detective sat up all night coaxing it to work. The "finder" pointed to a field and the detective secured a spade and dug up nearly an acre of good corn land before he became convinced that the "finder" was kidding him.

NOW THE EVIL EYE.

A young lady, residing on Thirtieth street in this city, has made the discovery that "a certain person close to Barrett, who he thought was a friend, is possessed of an evil eye. This person exerted a malign influence over the old man, causing him to confess to a murder he did not commit. If the proper method (not explained in the letter) is used, the influence of the evil eye can be overcome. Certain religious observations are also needed to assist Barrett in combating the evil eye and proving to the world that he is innocent.



A young man connected with the County Hospital wants the police to hunt for the person who "knew that Mr. Barrett had mental lapses and who swooped down on him during one of these mental lapses and forced him to confess to a murder. If this person can be located he or she will also be able to tell where Mrs. Barrett and her son are now in hiding."

See? Simple enough. Just go out and locate the evil eye and then you will have all the conspirators in a tight place. But when the police were told about the new "dope" that was theirs for the asking, they were positively rude. That's the trouble with policemen; they have no head for science.

Quite another way to get at the truth is suggested by a man who gives his address as the Pottinger Sanatorium, Monrovia. He says that if Barrett suffers from delusion, the real facts are hidden away in his subconscious mind, and a possible way to get at them is to question the old man while he is in a state of hypnotic sleep. This because, "in hypnotic sleep, as in ordinary sleep, the power of reasoning is sufficiently suppressed to keep it from acting as a barrier, shutting out from consciousness facts which might be stored away in the subconscious mind, but cannot enter the waking consciousness, either for lack of proper association or because they do not fit the present, prevailing reasoning of the mind." At any rate, this is one thing the investigators have not tried.

There is another explanation, about the "cosmos being at oneness with the ego," but there is a haziness about all this that would also baffle the police. At any rate, when this occurs, Barrett with a directness that will be convincing will reveal the entire truth. Fair enough.

Reason.

SAYS TWO PERSONS ARE THE SLAYERS.

PHYSICIAN WRITES ANALYSIS OF "MURDER" MYSTERY.

Thinks Most Tenable Theory is that Woman and Boy Were Really Killed, but Bodies Weren't Burned by Barrett—"Planned Disappearance" Scouted.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Benton L. Barrett case has already brought forth such a variety of opinions from intelligent people, both pro and con, as to its being a case of murder, that one now hesitates to express an opinion further regarding this most remarkable case, although invited to do so by you.

To our mind many of the theories given as to the planned disappearance of the woman and her son are too puerile for serious consideration. Personal interests and motive would have been strong inducements for them to remain and defend her interests in the property.

The husband had accumulated enough evidence from letters reputed to have been written by the wife to other men, indicating her intimacy with them, to have caused repeated, bitter quarrels between them, and to have prompted many a man to murder such a treacherous wife. And a careful review of all the facts in the case as given to the public through the daily press makes it seem more reasonable that the wife and son were murdered, and rather by the help of some other interested party than by the husband alone; but that the bodies were disposed of in some other manner than heretofore given.

No ordinary open fire would or could consume fresh bodies in three times as many hours as Barrett gives for their consuming. And anyone familiar with comparative anatomy could tell at once upon examining the bones whether they were parts of a young or an elderly person, and whether they had been burned. If the craniums are found a moment's inspection would tell whether they were of a young or a mature person, and the long bones of the arms and legs would also show the same thing. The pelvic bones of a matured woman are broader and the illii are more flaring than in the male, particularly in one under 20 years of age. Again, the epiphyses of the long bones in one under 20 years of age have not formed a perfect bony union with the shaft bone, while in a fully-matured person they have. Again, a fresh bone is pink outwardly, and redder as the center is approached, and the marrow is not decomposed in a week's time after death, in this climate, and still, again, bones of a person under 18 or 20 years of age contain 20 per cent. more animal matter than those of persons of mature years, especially past 40 or 50 years, and when incinerated become more porous and brittle than the matured person's bones subjected to the same consuming heat. Again, if the bones found were from fresh bodies, but incinerated, charred flesh would still be adherent to them.

Again, no person can be involuntarily hypnotized, nor made to do anything they would be unwilling to do in their natural state, and no one can be permanently hypnotized; "the spell" will pass off in a short time after the hypnotist has withdrawn himself from the presence of the one hypnotized.

To our mind, all the conditions revealed in this mysterious case point to murder, either provoked or premeditated, in which more than one person took part.

WANT NEW DEVICES.

Local Federation Seeks Revision of Traffic Ordinance by City Council Compelling Electric or Mechanical Stop Signs to Reduce Casualties.

An effort is being made by the local Safety First Federation to reduce the number of casualties in the downtown congested district by urging the City Council for a more stringent enforcement of the traffic ordinance.

The federation has compiled figures showing that to the end of this year, using an average month as an estimate, that 11,112 automobile accidents have occurred and that 132 persons have been killed and that 3900 were injured. The figures are taken from the records of the traffic bureau of the police department.

A revision of the ordinance is suggested, which it is believed will materially cut down the danger to pedestrians as well as motorists. Accidents which have occurred, it is said, have been largely due to improper signaling by the hand when making turns. Some uniform signaling device for automobiles to be operated electrically or mechanically and visible day and night for some distance from the car has been recommended to City Council.

SCHOOL DESKS FOR POLICEMEN.

Chief Asks Money Needed to Put His Men Over the Mental Hurdles.

It is not a case of "let's go back to baby days," nevertheless the Los Angeles police officers are going to school if the City Council grants a request made by the Police Commission yesterday for an appropriation for forty desks.

Chief Butler intends to establish the school for which these desks are wanted. It is not intended to teach the men reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic—they are supposed to be sufficiently well acquainted with three R's before they get onto the force.

This police school is for instruction in duties. It is on the line of schools in other large cities. The emergency men who are to act during the winter will be among the first pupils if the Council supplies the necessary money.

Military Vote.

law it is up to them. The majority of them seemed to favor it when the matter was put to a decision by a standing vote, but when we requested that all those who wished to enlist submit their names, we received comparatively few answers."

"The young men who have had the advantage of a course of military training," said Maj. A. J. Copp of the Board of Education, yesterday, "are better, morally and physically, than the boys who merely participate in field sports. It has been my experience that the cadet in the high school has a new pride when he realizes he is taking special instruction in the matter of the defense of his country, and it gives him a greater understanding of his duty to his nation.

"The disciplinary side is not to be gainsaid. The training teaches a boy to think and act without wasting time and to judge men and conditions. The health standpoint is very important and a boy who has had field work understands matters of sanitation that are unknown to the other boys.

"The benefit of military training is unquestioned. It does not make a boy fight, but it teaches him how to fight if it is ever necessary for him to do so. It gives all the boys equal physical training and it teaches them cleanliness of body and mind. The boys who have had military training are better citizens than the boys who lack it."

He stated he hopes the boys generally will take advantage of the government's offer.

NEW LAND OFFICE LOWERS FEES HERE.

IMPERIAL CONTEST HEARINGS GO TO EL CENTRO.

Constant Entry and Relinquishment of Claims Continues—This, with Litigation, Places Costs on Settler, with Plenty of Emolument for Government Officials.

The opening of the new land office at El Centro has operated to deprive the local land office of nine-tenths of former contest hearings, as most of such actions arise in territory covered by the new office, located in the heart of the Imperial Valley.

In spite of this, the financial end of the business transacted by Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell is about as large as ever, and as long as the receipts keep at a high standard there is small probability of their fees falling below $3000 a year.

It is one of the peculiar features of public land development that there are always settlers willing to take a chance in making a home, either by the desert or homestead entry route. Scores give up in disgust, either through illness, disappointments or a lack of money, and they file relinquishments on their land, but these are snapped up immediately, and under the law no one gets credit for work done. Reclamation must then be performed over again; fees must be paid, and this question interests the local officials. There seems to be an endless chain, and those coming just about equal those giving up the game.

The contests pay none but the attorneys representing the litigants. The clerk who acts as stenographer gets a legal fee for the transcript of evidence, and in many cases the amount is quite large.

FORGERY CHARGE.

The Federal grand jury on Friday indicted Philip Muscero and Jose Salazar on a charge of having forged the signature of Henry Cort to money orders aggregating in value $110. The warrant of arrest was served on Muscero in the County Jail, where he is held for another offense, and Salazar has been located in the army, at Honolulu.

MERCY KEEPING COURT SILENT.

Compromise Urged in Strange Chicago Blood Muddle.

Meanwhile Judge Declines to Decide Will Contest.

Wants Assailed Woman Given Absolutely Clear Name.

Compromise is sought in the strange Chicago blood muddle that involves the estate of the late Mrs. Theresa Wilson. The court has urged that attorneys for both sides confer, in an effort to reach a compromise that will allow the judge to enter an order establishing the legitimacy of Mrs. Etta Wilson Gebhart, the strange story of whose clouded life has been bared in the fight of Charles O. Lowman of this city against the appointment of Mrs. Gebhart as administratrix of the Wilson estate. Mr. Lowman is the late Mrs. Wilson's brother.

His Chicago attorneys have notified him the case is practically closed, with no result for either side. The judge refused to decide the matter; he does not want to hand down an order that might be construed as branding Mrs. Gebhart, a woman 40 years old, and a well known teacher in Chicago, as having been an illegitimate child. The court assured the Wilsons, in that they never adopted the child, and thereby avoided possibility of present complications.

A settlement on the half basis has been suggested to both sides. Mr. Lowman said he agreed to this, provided Mrs. Gebhart should return the money and jewelry of the estate, and that he would allow her the rent of the home for the past two years. This was refused.

BROTHER'S ATTITUDE.

"This thing never would have come up," declared Mr. Lowman last night, "had Mrs. Gebhart not gone into court and sworn she is the only living heir, when she has known since she was 16 years old that she is not my sister's child. I am the only living heir, but I have made my half sister and my two nieces cohelrs with me, as they are in Chicago and can look after our interests, and because my sister, Mrs. Mary C. Betts, and my niece, Mrs. Cora Gale, were with my sister Theresa when she died, and cared for her during her last illness.

"My niece, Mrs. Gale, had lived with Theresa for years. When Theresa grew very ill my niece sent for her mother, and it was she who notified me of how Mrs. Gebhart had gone into court and sworn she is the only living heir.

"There was nothing in our testimony that could be construed as giving the impression that Mrs. Gebhart was a foundling, and if we are compelled to take the case to a higher court, it will be partly on that technicality that we shall expect a judgment in our favor."

STORY OF SUBSTITUTION.

According to Mr. Lowman, who resides at No. 2147 South Main street, his sister Theresa's child was born dead and to save the life of the mother, another infant whose mother had died a few days previous was substituted. After Theresa had grown strong again she was told of the substitution, but she had become so fond of the infant that she kept her and brought her up, although she never legally adopted her.

Mr. Lowman stated last night that his sister had educated Mrs. Gebhart and sent her abroad, and had it not been that she declared herself the only living heir she would have been allowed to have practically the entire estate, as neither he nor his relatives cares for or needs the property. "But I do insist on getting fair treatment," he added.

FRAME TAX RULES.

Sherman Jones, chief clerk in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, is in San Francisco collaborating with Collector Scott on rules and regulations covering the new income tax law. The ruling of the Treasury Department is a distinct departure in many particulars, and it is necessary that an understanding be reached and uniform rulings be had by the California officials.

Lowman of this city against the appointment of Mrs. Gebhart as administratrix of the estate. Mr. Lowman is the late Mrs. Wilson's brother.

Chicago attorneys have notified him the case is practically closed, with no result for either side. The judge refused to decide the matter; he does not want to hand down an order that might be construed as branding Mrs. Gebhart, a woman 40 years old, and a well known teacher in Chicago, as having been an illegitimate child. The court pointed out the Wilsons, in that they never adopted the child, and thereby avoided possibility of present complications.

Settlement on the half basis has been suggested to both sides. Mr. Lowman said he agreed to this, provided Mrs. Gebhart should return the money and jewelry of the estate, and he would allow her the rent of the house for the past two years. This was refused.

BROTHER'S ATTITUDE.

"This thing never would have come up," declared Mr. Lowman last night, "had Mrs. Gebhart not gone into court and sworn she is the only heir, when she has known since she was 16 years old that she is not my sister's child. I am the living heir, but I have made my sister and my two nieces co-heirs with me, as they are in Chicago and can look after our interests, and because my sister, Mrs. C. Betts, and my niece, Mrs. Gale, were with my sister Theresa when she died, and cared for her during her last illness.

"My niece, Mrs. Gale, had lived with Theresa for years. When Theresa grew very ill my niece sent for her mother, and it was she who told me of how Mrs. Gebhart had gone into court and sworn she is the living heir.

"There was nothing in our testimony that could be construed as giving the impression that Mrs. Gebhart was a foundling, and if we are compelled to take the case to a higher court, it will be partly on a technicality that we shall expect a judgment in our favor."

STORY OF SUBSTITUTION.

According to Mr. Lowman, who lives at No. 2147 South Main street, his sister Theresa's child was born dead and to save the life of the mother, another infant whose mother had died a few da-s previous was substituted. After Theresa had grown strong again she was told of the substitution, but she had become fond of the infant that she kept and brought her up, although she never legally adopted her.

Mr. Lowman stated last night that his sister had educated Mrs. Gebhart and sent her abroad, and had it not been that she declared herself the only living heir she would have been allowed to have practically the entire estate, as neither he nor his family cares for or needs the property. "But I do insist on getting fair treatment," he added.

Plot Exposed.

CONCERTED ATTACKS ARE PLANNED BY THE I.W.W.

Arrest of Confessed Holdup Men Reveals Them as Scouts for Desperate Gang of Yeggmen Now in the South — Chief of Police Butler will Ask Council for Authority to Swear in Fifty Additional Patrolmen.

TWO self-confessed holdup men, who early yesterday morning robbed Philip Stevens as he was preparing to open his store at No. 965 North Broadway, and who were caught only after an exciting chase by the "Flying Squadron," yesterday afternoon confessed to Lieutenant of Detectives Home that they are the scouts of the desperate gang of yeggmen and I.W.W.'s now infesting the south, come to look over the ground in preparation for a concerted attack on the peace of Los Angeles. While they declared they knew nothing of the plans of the gang, it is believed by the police that this band had planned to unite with the Seattle I.W.W.'s here in this city, with the view to starting trouble they expected would help the cause of the labor unions.

ASK FOR MORE MEN

As a result of the investigation of the two prisoners Chief of Police Butler last night prepared an application that he will present to the City Council tomorrow morning, asking for the addition of at least fifty patrolmen with the alternative of swearing in 100 more a the first sign of trouble. However, the quick action taken by Chief Butler may act as a restraining force upon the gang leaders so that they may change their plans.

For some time it has been rumored that the I.W.W.'s of Seattle, repulsed with bloodshed when the decent citizens of Everett refused to permit their city to be overrun, are planning new conquess in Southern California. The first plans were to go into the Imperial Valley, with its rich resources and scattered ranch communities, where they would have a chance to strike and run. However the first small band that went south received such severe warnings and promises of a united resistance that the instigators of the plan hesitated.

SPYING OUT LAND.

Then it was decided to feel out Los Angeles, with its excellent but extremely small police force. The great expanse of the city offered many places, where, by no manner of stretching, this police force was unable to guard.

Early yesterday morning Mr. Stevens started to open his store. He had unlocked the door and was preparing to enter, when someone behind him told him to hold up his hands. Looking around, he saw two poorly-dressed men, one armed with a revolver, menacing him. They extricated a purse of money from his pocket and tore his watch from his chain. Then they ran.

As it so happened, only one patrolman was walking the two beats that join near Mr. Stevens's store. At the time, this officer was on the other beat. Because of the insufficient number of men, he had been assigned double work temporarily.

FOLLOWS YEGGMEN.

Unlike other victims, Mr. Stevens refused to let the matter go at that. A minute after the thieves started running down the street, a huge oil truck driven by Robert Ruel, a chauffeur, passed by. Mr. Stevens jumped up besides the driver, shouting him to follow the flying yeggmen. These men, seeing themselves pursued, dived headlong under a house porch at No. 828 San Fernando street. Ruel stayed near by with his machine, to watch while Mr. Stevens telephoned for the Flying Squadron.

Detectives Greely, James, Haver and Davidson surrounded the house. The first two poked shotguns beneath the porch and a few seconds later the yeggmen, much dilapidated in appearance and spirit, crawled out. The small revolver and Mr. Stevens's purse were found underneath the house where the men had hidden.

THEIR CONFESSION.

At headquarters yesterday the men were put throuh a gruelling examination. They gave the names of Frank Williams and William Driscoll; occupation, none; address, floaters.

When Lieutenant of Detectives Home questioned them they admitted having come to this city for the express purpose of scouting about getting the lay of the land and the positions of the police force members. This information, they confessed, was to be forwarded, by the "underground" route, to their companions. It is declared by the police that this word would later be received by the I.W.W. leaders in Seattle, and the order given to unite in Los Angeles.

During the past week depredations have been committed in Los Angeles by two holdup men men. Whether it is the same two arrested yesterday, or another pair of scouts is as yet undetermined. However, the police will keep a sharp lookout, and, if necessary, the officers will be requested to work extra hours until a sufficient reinforcement is permitted by the Council.

Adventure.

FIND TREASURE OF THE INCAS.

Los Angeles Engineers Back from Peruvian Wilds.

After Wresting Gold from a Torrent of the Andes.

Declare McAdoo Incident is Handicap to Americans.

Back from a successful treasure-hunting expedition into the heart of the Andes, where they wrested from raging mountain torrents thousands of dollars' worth of the gold that the Incas of a bygone age had mined, two Los Angeles engineers, Ross S. Covert of No. 1737 Garfield place and George B. Carpenter of No. 175 South Commonwealth avenue, reached their homes yesterday.

The experience of the two since they left New Orleans almost eight months ago, as related by Mr. Covert yesterday, rivals the tales of fiction. Photographs of their expedition, of the country traversed and of the actual work of recovering the gold, support their story to the minutest detail.

Leaving April 1 last with approximately $12,000 worth of machinery and supplies and several thousand dollars in gold, the men reached Mollendo, Peru, three weeks later. From there they made the long journey through the Southeastern Pass in the Andes, 17,411 feet above sea level, to the Michicamani River, 3000 feet above sea level and one of the Amazon River headwaters. The journey was made on foot with about fifty Indians and a llama pack-train.

UNDERWATER LOOT.

The gold they sought was at the bottom of a narrow canyon 1000 feet in depth, in a deep pool hollowed out by a waterfall. This pool was about sixty-eight feet in depth, 100 feet long and sixty feet wide. An English syndicate spent $250,000 trying to recover the gold about fifteen years ago and failed.

Taking advantage of a tunnel 600 feet in length which that syndicate had constructed to divert the water around the waterfall the Americans constructed a dam across the narrow gorge above the fall and started to pump out the pool. With about half the task complete an unexpected thaw set in on the mountains and within twenty-four hours the water roared down the canyon, washed away the dam and wrecked their gasoline engine, and in an effort to save the most valuable part of their equipment, three of their laborers were lost.

Another dam was constructed, the engine repaired and work begun again. In less than a week another flood washed away the dam and damaged the engine beyond repair.

Finally a third dam was built, and by working with hand pumps night and day, the pool was emptied of its 6,000,000 gallons of icy water. Gigantic boulders which had been carried into the hole were blasted and laboriously hoisted out of the way by crude slings, makeshift winches, etc.

During the latter part of July, by the work of day and night shifts, the sediment at the bottom of the pool was reached. Some of it was hoisted and "washed" in sluice boxes constructed of lumber carried up from the coast. Nuggets weighing as much as several ounces were recovered. Much of the sediment the engineers were unable to disturb because of limited time.

HAVE TO LEAVE.

When supplies began to give out the party regretfully sacked up the gold and prepared to break camp. Hardly had they moved their effects when another freshet came, and in a few hours the tunnel could not conduct the flow. When the party started back to the coast their last view of the scene was of water pouring over the dam into the pool, although the sturdy dam itself was still intact.

Satisfied with their clean-up, which more than repaid them for their way and expenses, the members of the expedition worked back to the coast, arriving at Mollendo October 2. The next day the two men boarded a steamer for Panama. They arrived in New York the latter part of last week.

Mr. Covert stated last night that the country he visited is fairly impregnated with gold. He states it is very difficult, however, for an American to pick up laborers along the coast because of the effect of the McAdoo "friendly relationship" tour.

"In fact," he said, "that put the finishing touches to the already damaged status of the United States in Peru. I was there during the incident and it certainly was a raw deal.

"You see, McAdoo and his party landed at Santiago, Chile, attended a banquet, got disgracefully drunk, insulted some of the Chilean girls and left town very much in disgrace the next day. They went on up to Callao, Peru, where the President had declared a fiesta in honor of the occasion and all the ladies had spent a year's allowance on Parisian dresses, etc. The whole town of Lima was assembled to meet them at Callao and when the boat came in at about 10 o'clock in the morning there was all kinds of fireworks.

"Finally, at 11 o'clock, McAdoo sent in word that the party had decided not to land. In consternation the President sent out his Prime Minister to ascertain the reason and to urge the party to reconsider.

"From what the papers quoted the Prime Minister as saying the next day, it seems McAdoo did not even invite that official to have a seat, cigar or drink and stated that because of reports of plague in port it was inadvisable to carry out the programme arranged. The Prime Minister then offered to have a special train meet the boat at a landing twenty-eight miles up the coast and bring the members of the party direct to Lima, but this, too, was refused.

"The Prime Minister then left. Later in the day McAdoo decided to pay his respects to the President and, alone, went to Lima. I understand the President let him cool his heels in he anteroom for three-quarters of an hour and then gave him fifteen minutes.

"I don't know what transpired but there was wailing and gnashing of teeth over the incident right up to the day I left, a month ago. The Peruvians were mad as hornets and did everything except desecrate the flag and I am not as sure as are a lot of people that they stopped there. In fact I very much doubt it."

Before that incident, he said, when Americans wanted anything they had to go to the British or German Consul for it—that our own consular representatives are jokes—and after the incident Americans were simply out of luck.

Individually, he declared, the Peruvians respect Americans because we make them, but as a nation they have no use for us.

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld

Keeps Her Children In Perfect Health

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the Family Laxative for Many Years.

Mrs. Aug. Doellefeld of Carlyle, Ill., recently wrote to Dr. Caldwell at Monticello, Ill., that she has used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in her home for a number of years and would not be without it, as with it she has been able to keep her four children in perfect health.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that acts on the bowels in an easy, natural way, and regulates the action of this most important function. Nearly all the sickness to which children are subject is traceable to bowel inaction, and a mild, dependable laxative such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should have a place in every family medicine chest. It is pleasant to the taste and children like it, and take it readily, while it is equally effective for adults.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure you get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

An especially fine shampoo for this weather, one that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be made at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.

WOULDN'T IT?

Now would it not be a good plan for all hands to unite in efforts for the upbuilding and development of our California and quit this wicked warfare on her industries and her products?

LADIES LAST.

An obnoxious form of sex discrimination that has hitherto been practiced by the Federal Department of Labor at Washington, has been the obtaining of jobs for men only. Recently the department has extended its services to the female sex and in announcing its purpose to hereafter aid women to obtain employment, it says "a similar system for men and boys is already in operation."

The motto of "Women First" is evidently not the slogan of the Washington employment bureau.

UNJUST COMPARISONS.

A correspondent is indignant at The Times for comparing Hiram Johnson to a political Benedict Arnold. He says that the friends of Arnold are hot about it, for Arnold was guilty of but one act of treachery, after which he left the country, while Johnson has committed a dozen or more such acts, and yet still remains in the State. The Times offered to placate its correspondent by comparing Johnson to a political Judas Iscariot. But that, he says, would be unfair to Judas, for that historical character threw the price of his treachery upon the ground and went and hanged himself, while Johnson pocketed his gains and has no use for a rope.

A CHECK ON IMMIGRATION.

The political treachery of Hiram W. Johnson will cost California hundreds of millions of dollars in the lessened value of property which the perpetuation of Democratic politics of revenue and taxation will entail, and in the loss of tourist travel and of immigrants which will ensue. The leading Republican journals East and West are printing columns of denunciation of Californians for their abject submission to the selfish domination of Gov. Johnson and are recommending their readers to keep away from the Golden State.

The Times assures the eastern public that notwithstanding the result of the election California has the best climate on this continent, and that it offers larger opportunities to men of brain and men of brawn than is afforded by any other State in the Union.

THE NET RESULT.

The people of California have voted:

(1.) To surrender the market for lemons east of the Mississippi to the importers of citrus fruit in New York City, and to reduce the wages of California orchard hands to the Sicilian standard.

(2.) To cause California sheep owners to sell their flocks for mutton, and discharge their herders.

(3.) To perpetuate the imposition of Panama Canal tolls on the exports and imports of California.

(4.) To be content that our traffic with the Orient shall be conducted upon vessels flying the Japanese flag.

(5.) To abandon the towns and ranches on the Mexican border to the ravages of Villa and Carranza bandits.

(6.) To submit to have our citizens murdered by German submarines, our mails censored and rifled of their contents by British officials, and our merchants blacklisted by the British government.

(7.) To compel employers of labor and their employees to relinquish the right of private contract and allow Congress to fix the wages of labor and the hours of toil.

(8.) To welcome the dangerous industrial conditions which will come upon us after the close of the European war, and meet all criticism with the quotation "Blessed are the poor in spirit."

ANTI-CONSERVATION CONVENTION.

In eleven Pacific and inter-mountain States, six Southern States, five trans-Mississippi States, and the three Northern States of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota there are 428,921,552 acres of public land which have been reserved by the United States in forest reserves, national parks and military reservations, and 254,946,589 acres that have not yet been appropriated, or reserved by the government.

Ten Southern States, six New England States, three middle States and three middle Western States have no public lands, and their Congressmen and Senators and public journals are clamorous for "conservation." They want the lands now subject to homestead and desert land entry and the mineral and oil lands subject to location to be withdrawn from entry and location and made the subject of revenue to the government by being leased to private persons and corporations. The citizens of twenty-two States which favor this "conservation" policy have acquired all the land within their confines which was once public land and now want a share of the revenue to be derived by leasing the public land in the other States. Having eaten all their own cake they now clamor for a share of the other fellow's cake.

A Congress of delegates from the twenty-five public land States will meet in Denver this month to devise ways and means for efficient opposition to the new policy of conservation by bringing organized effort to bear upon Congress to repeal existing conservation legislation and substitute laws that will give private capital and enterprise access as of old to the "conserved" land and its resources.

CALIFORNIA INCONSISTENCY.

Little wonder is it that Republican leaders in the East are gasping while Democrats are chuckling over the election returns from California. It seems hardly credible that a State whose interests are so closely allied with the policies of the Republican party should be found in the Democratic column. California's material prosperity depends upon a tariff adequate for the protection of California products and California labor. Our wage scales average higher than those of any other State of equal population in the world. In order that these scales may be maintained it is necessary that the products of this labor shall be protected against the ruinous competition of goods of foreign states where the average wage is less than half that of California. This should seem too fundamental to admit of further demonstration; yet California has just voted for free trade.

During the whole fiscal year of 1915 Sicilian lemons sold on the curb in New York for less than the cost of placing them on the cars in California, yet California has given a vote of confidence to an administration that put our lemons practically on the free list. Italian olives and olive oil have been sold to consumers right here in California during the last year for less than the cost of local production; yet two of the largest olive producing counties in California have voted in support of an administration that favors placing olives on the free list. Fresno county begs of every administration for protection for its raisins, and Fresno county has just aided in electing a President and a Congressman on a free trade ticket.

It is not edifying to be forced to realize that a considerable body of California residents could be unable to detect this free trade pill under its transparent sugar coat known as a tariff commission. They imagine this commission, if created by a Democratic Congress, will be willing to replace the tariff on lemons when shown that the foreign lemons are selling in American markets for less than the cost of production in America.

They have been too credulous to realize that this cost of production theory is purely Republican doctrine and that it is stoutly challenged by the Democracy. Tariff for revenue only never did and never can mean adequate protection of American industry and American labor.

Here is the attitude of the present administration in relation to that cost of production theory. It is copied from the preamble of the report of the Ways and Means Committee submitted to the House of Representatives of the Sixty-third Congress by Oscar Underwood on April 22, 1913.

"The so-called theory of cost of production as a regulator of rates was fully discussed at the time the tariff revision bills were introduced by the Ways and Means Committee of the Sixty-second Congress. Much was said by protection advocates in support of the view that it was incumbent upon the United States to maintain a system of tariff rates which would cover the differences in cost of production between the United States and foreign countries, in addition to a reasonable margin of profit. For instance, if it is assumed that given unit of a commodity can be produced in England at $1, or the equivalent of that sum, while in the United States the money expenses of production are $1.25, it is necessary to have a tariff duty equal to the difference in these money expenses of production, in order to place the producers in the two countries upon an equal market footing. This assumption is based upon an erroneous view of international trade and finds no warrant whatever in economic reasoning."

Continuing in this strain the report avers: "Thus, if the price of wheat is 75 cents a bushel, wheat will command that figure independent of whether it is produced at 25, 50, 75 cents or $1 per bushel. The price is fixed by a comparison of supply and demand."

In other words: The price of labor in this country will be regulated by a comparison of the demand in California with the supply in Asia and India, and the price of the products of labor will be regulated by a similar comparison. This is not the doctrine of the California producer and never will be; but it is the doctrine which he has been led to support through permitting his passions and prejudices to blind his intellect.

We have an abiding faith that this triumph of free trade Democracy is but a passing victory and that the sound economic doctrine of Republican policies will rise like truth itself from the dust and mire. But it is not surprising that the rest of our country, which sees plainly where our real interests lie and is not blinded by our local passions, should be inclined to follow the lead of the Chicago Tribune and refer to California, in the light of its recent political inconsistencies, as "the boob State."

AFTER IT'S OVER.

Regardless of the result of the election, the average man will emit a sigh of relief now that it is all over except the Jeremiads, the post-mortem and the recount.

In itself, there is a certain dignity about a Presidential election that is refreshing, after the silly campaigns that have afflicted California; but even the main event carries with it minor issues in the way of small offices and smaller office seekers, giving a splash of the ridiculous to the lofty and serious.

There were the usual petty annoyances ranging from the one-cylinder spellbinder to the candidate who pastes his profile on the billboards, backyard fences and other unoccupied territory.

For a time at least the dear people will be permitted to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, their ears unassailed by the ravings of small-bore stump speakers or the screams of the superheated suffragettes. The speakers have all cooled down after letting off steam. No longer will we enjoy the gorgeous spectacle of the tender candidate being held up and skinned, peeled and dissected in public.

The professional card passer also will be compelled to go to work. Having made the election a thing of horror, he should enjoy the sensation of having done his full duty. Almost anybody can be a card passer; age, sex and looks are no bar; they are of all shapes, sizes, shades and colors—a castiron nerve being the one distinguishing feature.

A card passer who knows his business, and most of them are adepts, takes up a position on the most traveled part of a downtown street, and crouching in a door way, pounces out on the unsuspecting wayfarer, forcing some candidate's card on the latter. The defenseless citizen generally accepts the card because to do so insures his escape. He either is too proud or too busy to fight.

It has been a dull day of late when a man hastening from his home to his office failed to accumulate fifty-two cards, which, according to Hoyle, constitutes a full deck, and then on investigating he would find the deck worthless because it contained so many jokers.

Each card urged you to vote for some candidate, probably the only living office-seeker of his kind, and who would prove indispensable to the State and county if elected. Otherwise, the State and county simply would have to give up. No information is vouchsafed as to what would have happened to the candidate if he isn't elected. However, chapters from the lives of our candidates who weren't elected reveal the fact that most of them, as a last resort, went back to work. You suddenly discover the use for which waste baskets were invented and deposit the cards in their proper place.

Prior to this, in the early days of the primaries, when the campaign was young and full of sap, the public had to be on its guard against the strong ladies and "gents" who made business of circulating petitions. Many an unarmed voter, being overmatched in weight, height and reach, signed a petition because it seemed to be the only means of escape. For all that he knew he might be signing away his life or his home, or going on somebody's note. It were better to run the risk of all these things than pass his remaining days trying to read all the petitions circulated at large.

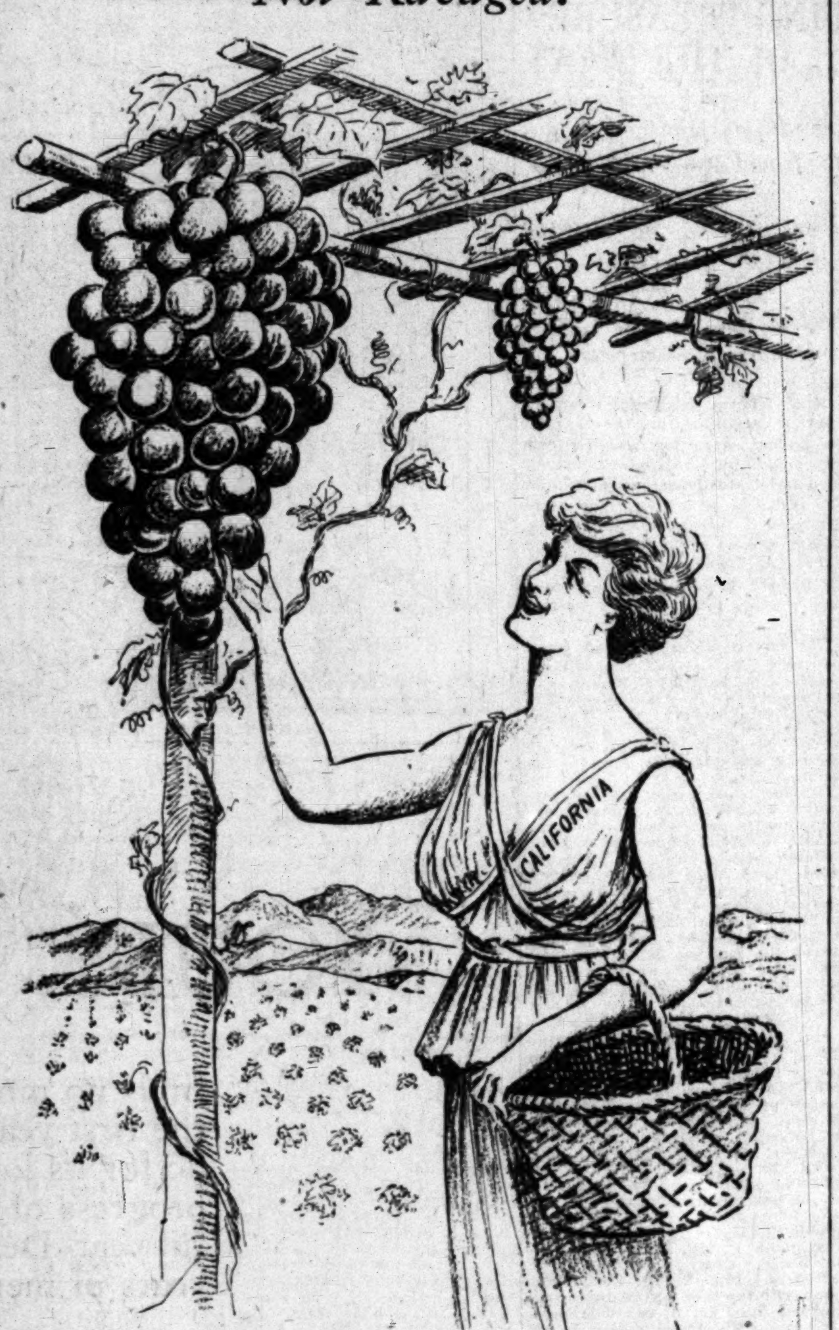
How lonely all of us will be without the casual acquaintance who asks you as a personal favor to vote for a certain candidate! This is usually done with a smooth, oily suavity and an assumption of friendship, and an assurance that makes you want to knock his teeth down his throat.

We will all miss the hand-made brass band riding the main deck of a dinky, superannuated car bobbing up and down the street.

Also, it will seem deadly quiet without the monotonous ding-dong of the campaign bell with its tireless clapper. The bell generally was set up on a creaky express wagon drawn by a horse that appeared to be in the last stage of hunger, and which was doubtless dejected because none of the candidates had boldly announced himself the champion of cheaper horse feed. The bell always attracted attention. Many a tramp pricked up his ears, believing it to be a dinner bell. Combined with the rattle of street cars taking a crossing, it created some strange illusions. A dozen times this fall we have looked over our shoulder under the impression that a freight train was coming down Broadway, and wondering how it got there.

A practice which should be discouraged is that of plastering the well-known faces of our great men on billboards. That is no place for the profile of a fearless and able citizen who has just started out to jerk the country back on its feet and help it amount to something. It cheapens a famous man to have his mug displayed next to a biscuit sign or have his whiskers draping a patent medicine ad. To do so gives the impression that he is in the market to sell something like a special brand of overalls, or has had his life saved by taking Pale Pills for Pink People. It tends to confuse the issues, and ball up the public mind.

Not Ravaged.



A GREAT ENGLISHMAN'S VIEWS.

In a recent speech of Lord Bryce at Birmingham on the possibility of obtaining and insuring permanent peace, he insisted that the war must be prosecuted to a complete victory and that in any treaty then made the policy of hatred must be avoided and repressed. To indulge in revenge would be to sow the seeds of future wars. Nations could not hate one another forever and the sooner they ceased to do so the better for all of them.

Lord Bryce evidently did not approve of the plans agreed upon by the Conference of Paris to inaugurate a trade war to follow the war of arms. Such a trade war would prolong and would embitter afresh those hatreds that ought to be allowed to pass away, and it assumed the continuance of those very things from which victory was expected to deliver Europe, once for all. The main purpose of Great Britain would have failed, said Lord Bryce, if they did not secure a durable peace. To prolong hatreds would increase suspicions, would compel the maintenance of enormous armaments and would lead in time to a recurrence of those very calamities from which the country was suffering. If severe terms had to be imposed, let that be done only so far as was necessary for securing future peace—not in the vindictive idea, which, in perpetuating hatreds, would end by relighting the flames of war.

Lord Bryce hinted that one factor that would tend to promote a permanent peace would be such a change in the government of Germany as would include the retirement of the Hohenzollern family from its executive department.

Finally, said Lord Bryce, the war had brought sufferings on a greater scale and in more awful forms than war ever brought before, had forced all to ask whether mankind must expect from time to time a recurrence of such calamities, becoming more terrible with the unceasing advance of natural science. If so, one might well despair of the future. But if something effective could be done to prevent their recurrence there would be at least some compensation for what was being now endured. Could any international machinery be created after the war was over whereby the peoples that desired peace could league themselves to restrain aggression and compel a reference of controversies to arbitration or conciliation?

Lord Bryce in conclusion said that to establish any machinery for preserving peace in the future would be impossible without the co-operation of neutral nations and especially of the greatest of all neutral nations. People had been waiting and watching to see whether America would, in view of the immense interests at stake, depart from her old policy of complete isolation and bear her part in the efforts for securing a permanent alliance for peace.

The Times assures Lord Bryce that in co-operating with the nations of Europe for the formation and conduct of a World Peace League, the United States would not depart from any policy it has ever pursued. Our motto has ever been: Friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none." This meant that in quarrels between nations we would not espouse the cause of one power against another. It would not be an "entangling alliance" for us to join with all nations in a peace league which would prevent wars, which would be a nation of nations with a national code of laws enacted by a national Congress, construed by a national court and enforced by a national constabulary supported by a national army and navy. In cases of dispute between nations, arbitration would be substituted for war.

CHILE CON CARNAGE.

BEING THE PARTICULAR PEPPER IN SOME PERSONAL OPINIONS

Of Don yo de Chiltepin.

It would be hard to say which is the more disappointed, now, the Bootleggers or the We'll-See-To-Yous—the two classes most anxious for Prohibition—that California has voted to retain its Relative Humidity. It is an Awful Blow to both the Speak-Easys and the Blow-hards.

Not to be allowed to Didy your adult neighbor is a cruel Bereavement to the Maternal Instinct of the Reformer. What? Can't we prescribe to the Other Fellow "What ye shall eat and what ye shall drink; and where withal ye shall be clothed?" If we dislike red meat, shall we be debarred from herding the rest of the world to vegetarian cafeterias? What are we here for? If we cannot Think, ourselves, isn't it our God-given duty to think for others, and keep them from thinking for themselves?

A "Reformer"—what it is? Someone who has made a perfect, noble self, and then humbly reaches out to help others better themselves by his good example and his helpful hand? Boo! Do you know anyone who uses, hears, or understands the word "Reformer" in that sense? Of course you don't! In our bright lexicon, "Reformer" a sunny, self-satisfied, self-indulgent Meddler; mostly honest and earnest and disastrous, and inhuman.

"Politics makes strange bedfellows" indeed—but not half so funny as Intolerance does. The Bootlegger is the disowned but legitimate son of the Prohibiter. He would never have his disreputable life, save for his Holier parentage. He is the blockade-runner between the ironclads of Intolerance and the open seas of Wayward Human Nature. He is "a long, low, rakish craft," disreputable—but as sure as the blockade. An open harbor—Free Will—is the natural right of nations and of men. When our ships can sail out free, we freight them as we will and as commerce calls for. The moment there is a blockade, we load them with the forbidden thing.

The Bootlegger is not so personable a citizen as his Parents. He is furtive and somewhat brave. He shuns the limelight as much as they seek it. He is a disreputable sort of Red-Cross, dodging under the bullets to give First Aid to the Wounded. Makes no odds whether they ought to have a drink—they are going to. "Peaceably if they can, forcibly if they must." Lawfully and little, if it may be so—but—anyhow. Until those themselves denatured can Abolish Human Nature, we shall hang on to our Natural Rights.

But the poor Bootleggers. If "One" or "Two" had carried 20,000 of them could have made a fat living—while their Respectable parents in far greater number would pat themselves on the back and proclaim (with all the noise of Conscious Virtue:) "Aha! Now break the Law!"

A really "Temperance" amendment, formulated by temperate people and not by hysteric Inquisitioners, would sweep not merely California but the nation like a prairie fire. Local option; the immediate decimating of saloons in such grown-up cities as vote to have them at all; the multiplying of the license price to correspond; the enforcement of the laws we have already against excess—that's the way sane people would go at it.

Meantime, mebbe it's just as well that we decided not to say: "Here's your hat, Mr. Tourist—what's your Hurry? Certainly, we will forward your mail to Florida."

"Politics" are no special sweethearts of mine. Being an American, I never fail to vote—and as I think and believe. But my training has been to judge these things from the angle of Past and of Posterity. We know a lot better today what the election of Lincoln meant than the wisest did that voted either for or against him.

Yet even a current election in a republic may interest the historian whose foot-rule is by centuries. The Student never Worries, but he may Wonder. So I may be pardoned a little marveling as to the election just past—for in many ways it bumps my Funny Bone. I can understand why California drowned the Drys—it had to. Not only its Prosperity but its personal liberty and its sanity were involved.

But why the nation re-elected Mr. Wilson—I'm groping to see. It did. He's Our President, again; and though he was Wished On Me, I'm game. Whether a majority of my fellows chose him because of Mexico or the tariff or the Lusitania or his looks, machts nicht aus. And, by the way; what have we against Whiskers? Look up all their portraits—then tell me when the United States ever elected a full-bearded President! Lincoln had "chokers," Arthur wore "mutton chops," Teddy and Taft confined themselves to mostachios. Garfield, if I remember, was the only unshaven President of the United States—and he clipped close.

Far be it from me to question the intelligence of my countrymen. They vote for what they wish—and in proportion. I'm sure they do not wish the murder of Americans in Mexico, nor the piracy of American mails, nor the Gomperizing of Congress. But they do wish a Shaved President. And they have their wish. Not a whisker to his name!

What we need in the movies are pictures that deal more with the the great out of doors, of lives rightly lived, and of people we recognize in real life. There ought to be an end of the films that represent a very doubtful morality.

AMERICA A SUBJECT NATION.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

BY P. H. W. ROSS.

President the National Marine League of the United States.

ANOTHER outburst of patriotic self-congratulation may now be expected from certain sections of the American press because of the official announcement by the Department of Commerce that the new shipbuilding in American yards nearly rivals that of Great Britain, thus presaging the rebirth of an American merchant marine. The actual figures show a new tonnage under construction or contract of 1,554,270 in American yards as against 1,545,118 in British yards; and this further means the construction of 417 steel merchant vessels in this country as compared with 439 in England. Apparently we are indeed again a close rival of Great Britain, so why should we not rejoice?

Unfortunately there are several flies in the sweet ointment of our self-satisfaction. The British report is for ships actually on the ways and under construction, while our figures are for those that are either building or that are to be built whenever the facilities of American shipyards may permit. Further, the only ships built in this country that will in any way advance us towards our goal—our place in the markets of the world—are those that will be engaged in overseas trade under the American flag. If we analyze the American figures further we will find that by the elimination of barges, tug-boats and ships for the Great Lakes, the number of American ships now building that may be available for foreign trade is but ninety-six, with a gross tonnage of 462,199. But we further learn that of the new tonnage under contract, twenty-four ships with a gross tonnage of 104,343 are for Norwegian account, thus reducing the number that will perhaps come under the American flag to seventy-six, with a gross tonnage of 357,856. There is no present way to determine what proportion of this tonnage will go into our coastwise trade and be of no service in reaching foreign markets.

We have hardly ceased patting ourselves on the back because of the fact that in the past two years we have more than doubled our tonnage engaged in foreign trade and under the American flag when our vanity is again fed by this kind of perfectly truthful but quite illusive statement. The unfortunate thing is that this is but another anodyne draught that lulls us to sleep by making us think that we are in a way to achieve the dream of half a century—the dream that we have had ever since our merchant marine began to show anemic symptoms—that some day we would again come into our own and replace the American flag on the high seas.

The truth is that, owing to conditions over which we have had no control, we have been forced, in spite of ourselves, to the very verge of a great opportunity which we may seize if we are awake, but which we will let pass if we dream that anything definite and permanent towards the establishment of an American merchant marine has been accomplished. Under the spur of emergency legislation we have added to our merchant tonnage in the overseas trade. Because of abnormal conditions we have, for the first time in many years, found that even under our high cost of building and operation we can now operate American ships at a profit because of the excessive freight rates caused by the temporary withdrawal of our rivals from the field. But what of the years that are shortly to come when the foreign tonnage now otherwise occupied is released for peaceful trade; when the nations now at war will be striving with all the newborn national efficiency engendered by this conflict to regain their lost commercial advantages; when every shipyard of England and Germany, now engaged in the building of war vessels, is again devoted to turning our vessels for the trade war that is not only suspected but announced?

Mr. Walter Runciman, a British Cabinet Minister and president of the Board of Trade, placed his country on record when he said recently in the Parliament:

"So far as commerce is concerned, Germany is a beaten nation, and it is for us to see that she does not recover."

Secretary Redfield said in a recent address:

"We are a subject nation, so far as our foreign commerce and maritime affairs are concerned."

We, like Germany, are a "beaten nation, so far as foreign commerce is concerned," and we may be absolutely and positively certain that Great Britain will be forced "to see that we don't recover," if within her power to prevent us, with no particular feeling of hostility towards us, but simply because she must fill British stomachs before she fills American.

We have had our warning and should heed it. We must not be lulled into a false sense of security because we have made a little progress. We must not be deluded into the belief that we rival Great Britain as yet in any maritime way. When the war comes to an end then will come our trial. Are we ready for it? Are we preparing for it?

Restoring Soldiers' Hearing.

The newest therapeutic machinery on record is that now being tried out in a French hospital to restore the hearing of soldiers who have lost it in battle. The machine is a phonographic instrument which pronounces vowels forcibly. These vowel sounds cause a vibration which acts upon the sensitive drum of the ear like massage, overcoming its numb paralysis. A number of tests have already demonstrated the power of the instrument to restore hearing to soldiers who are totally deaf. It must be tried continuously for several hours a day for two weeks at least.

As Constitutional.

SAN BERNARDINO'S DRY LAW UPHELD ON APPEAL.

SAN BERNARDINO county's dry law, that is unusual because it gives the Superior Court, and not the justice courts, jurisdiction over offenders against the statute, is constitutional and valid, according to a ruling made yesterday by the District Court of Appeal. Jean Fages and others, convicted in Judge Dewhirt's court, appealed on the ground that the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors exceeded its legislative powers when it defined a crime commonly classed as a "high-grade" misdemeanor. The finding of the Court of Appeal upholds Judge Dewhirst, who denied the defendants a new trial.

The Penal Code of the State gives justices' courts jurisdiction in cases of misdemeanors punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 and imprisonment not exceeding six months in the County Jail. The San Bernardino statute fixes a fine not to exceed $600, with not more than seven months in jail. The main contention of Fages and the others was the Supervisors had overshot their powers in fixing penalties that removed jurisdiction automatically from the justice courts.

The Court of Appeal holds that, as the Legislature has given to justices' courts jurisdiction only in misdemeanor cases in which the punishment may not exceed six months in the County Jail and a fine of $500, all misdemeanors not falling within the class so limited are triable in the Superior Court, subject to the further exception that municipal courts in some instances are by statute vested with jurisdiction to try all misdemeanors.

The court further declares that the ordinance complained of is not inconsistent with kindred enactments of the State and there can be no legal objection to the Superior Court's assuming jurisdiction in such cases, instead of the justices' court, even if the penalty is more severe in one than in the other.

In the case of the Montgomery & Mullen Lumber Company against the Ocean Pork Scenic Railway, the judgment of Superior Judge Shenk, denying the defendant a new trial, was affirmed. Plaintiffs got judgment for $2000 balance due on a lumber bill.

GAVE GERMAN BONDS?

Fresno Decorator Arrested Here for Paying for Automobile with Securities Which it is Alleged Had Depreciated Because of War.

On the ground that certain German securities had become valueless during the war, although not so represented in the deal for an automobile, Carl Lawrence, alias Carl E. Eichenherr, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Wright and Strong on a telegraphic warrant from Fresno. Lawrence is said to have been an interior decorator of considerable reputation in New York and Philadelphia prior to coming to California.

He went to Fresno with his family and while there decided to buy a machine. As security for a part of his purchase the information in the hands of the local officers is that he gave German bonds. These bonds, owing to the war, are said to have lost their value and it is alleged Lawrence knew this when he made the deal. He will be taken to Fresno tomorrow.

FRENCH PREMIER'S GREAT TRIUMPH.

HIS DIPLOMACY SAVED A COLLAPSE A YEAR AGO.

When the British Favored a Retreat from the Aegean Mr. Briand Interposed a Determined Negative and Under Joffre's Influence the British Bowed to France.

[New York Tribune:] To no one man is the change in the fortunes of the allies in the Near East due so much as to Aristide Briand, the French Premier. It was his influence, his earnest and even desperate fight, that prevented the surrender of the whole Near Eastern field to the Germans a year ago, when the collapse of Sir Edward Grey's diplomacy had brought with it the ruin of the Gallipoli campaign and the destruction of Serbia.

At that time British policy, political and military, favored a retreat from the Aegean. England proposed to defend Egypt at Suez, to accept the loss in the Balkans as complete and leave Germany control of the route from Berlin to Bagdad. The late Lord Kitchener was strongly opposed to the expedition to Salonici. British press and British politicians alike demanded that the allies cut their loss by abandoning a "sideshow" which had been expensive and disastrous.

To such policy Briand interposed a determined negative. He foresaw the political and the military perils of abandoning Serbia. He foresaw the tremendous possibilities for allied interest if Sir Edward Grey's disastrous failure could be repaired. Above all, Briand understood the emotion of the French people, which was clear and compelling.

The French people, even in their hour of suffering, were unwilling that Serbia should be deserted. The time had passed when there could be any hope of an immediate deliverance of the little State. But there could at least be a gesture, a beginning, a promise that the greater allies would not betray and abandon the weaker, and to this work Briand bent his efforts.

GEN. JOFFRE'S HAND.

It is an open secret now that the decisive influence in the great debate was lent by Joffre himself, who made a trip to London and in brief and emphatic words set forth the military aspects of the case and the necessity from a military point of view of sending troops to Salonici. Not easily, but in the end completely, the British bowed to their French ally, as they have many times in the war.

Today we see the result. It was no little thing for Briand, before the German invader had been driven out of France, to advocate and carry through the plan to send French troops to the Aegean. It was no small thing to keep those troops there all through the long agony of the attack upon Verdun, which was sustained by France alone. You get an interesting measure of Premier and nation alike in this episode.

GREY'S ABSURD POLICY.

Sir Edward Grey believed that the Near Eastern situation could be handled by a restoration of the old Balkan alliance, which had conquered the Turks in 1912. British military command believed that it was more useful to send British troops to Gallipoli than to the Danube. But when the troops at Gallipoli met defeat, then the Bulgarians, who had been merely playing with the honorable but wholly absurd policy of Sir Edward, mobilized and struck at Serbia, left defenseless.

Great as was the first blunder, however, it is now plain that the second, the proposed retreat from the near east, would have been a far greater. The story of how French diplomacy repaired the mistakes of the British, pulled together the seemingly hopeless situation and brought it to the present moment of success will be one of the most fascinating details of war history when it can be told in full. It ought to be said, of course, that once Britain had yielded to French purpose it was British ships that did the larger part of the work; it was the British who supplied the larger number of troops.

BRIAND'S GREAT RISE.

War has a curious way of elevating as well as destroying public men. When, at the time of the first economic conference held in Paris, Briand, representing his nation, sat at the head of the table, Parisians said not inaccurately that no Frenchman since Napoleon had known such a marvelous rise from poverty, obscurity, privation, to the very pinnacle of European influence, as Aristide Briand.

Yet despite his great rise, despite a certain cynicism, which has somewhat marred him, Briand has preserved a strong and sure sense of the people from whom he came and whose servant he is. He is one of the rare men in a democracy who has the capacity to feel today what masses, the majority of his countrymen, are going to feel tomorrow. He has a Lincoln-like quality of understanding the mind of the masses. That he possesses Lincoln's confidence in the millions no one will allege.

VERDUN MEANS BRIAND.

Paris credits Briand with having cast the deciding vote when the debate over the defense of Verdun was going forward in the critical days of February. His voice prevailed against that of Joffre, because he perceived most clearly what France would feel and say, even if no military results accrued from the surrender of Verdun to the Germans. We shall not have all the truth or much of the truth of the Verdun thing until the end of the war, but Verdun holds and Falkenhayn has gone. If Paris is right, and this was Briand's work, he has earned the enduring gratitude of his fellow-countrymen.

At all events, neither in London, Petrograd nor Paris will there by anyone to challenge the statement that the revolution in the near eastern situation is the fruit of the effort of Aristide Briand; it is the greatest allied triumph since the Marne, and in its larger aspects it is the contribution of Briand

A HERITAGE OF HATE.

Fear that the Nations of Europe will Have it in for the United States.

[Boston Transcript:] America bids fair to come out of the great world disturbance with more enemies than any other nation. The belligerent powers, if they ever stop fighting, will glare at and boycott their late enemies for a time, but they will, by the very necessities of the case, be bound with hooks of steel to their allies. Between France and Britain, between Britain and Russia, between Germany and Austria and the Turk, what love-feast of decades—until by and by their interests clash! But America—there will be a large drop of poison in the cup of friendship which every nation will offer her. The Germans are openly bitter. They do not hide the dagger they are carrying for us. We have helped the allies; our statesmen are mere bootlickers to the British power; we have sold our neutrality for pounds sterling and the neat little franc—that is the view of us which the German takes, and he will not forget.

As to the British, they also are convinced—so we are told by American observers on the spot—that all we have done for them, in the way of making and selling munitions, in lending money, and so on, has been for pay. Even for our moral support we have got our pay. Beyound all doubt there are many Englishmen, chiefly of the governing and the literary classes, who do not take this view; but it is nevertheless the view of the British majority. As for the French, toward whom our sympathy has been more directly and more dramatically asserted than toward any other nation, we are told by capable observers in France, men who themselves are hearty friends of the country, that with them there is a strong undercurrent of suspicion of our motives. Those who get rich when others grow poor—will they ever be liked?

All this, perhaps, is the penalty of neutrality. Perhaps it is the penalty of the wrong kind of neutrality—of safety-first neutrality, lee-wall neutrality. Neither men nor nations are hated for a bold and open assertion of right. The British never hated us, never sought to retaliate upon us, for our sharp threat of war in the Venezuela case. Here was a nation without a navy or an army which suddenly defied the power of Britain for a principle. No looking about for a lee wall in that case. It was principle first, and all other considerations thrown to the winds. England stepped aside, desisted from her course—then came forward and grasped our hand. France never hated Britain for the fierce challenge that was sent when Marchland walked to the central lakes of Africa and at Fashoda flung out the French flag. France gave up at once—with black looks at the time; but within a year the foundations of the Entente, under which France and England are now fighting together like brothers, were laid. All the world likes to grasp the hand that can be a hard fist on occasion.

Canada's Loyalty to England.

[Boston Transcript:] Canada, after furnishing about 350,000 men to fight Great Britain's battles in Europe, is now threatened with the conscription to fill out the half million which is supposed to be her quota. Voluntary enlistment has come almost to a standstill, and Sir George E. Foster, Dominion Minister of Trade and Commerce, says: "If more men are needed, and will not voluntarily go, the lesson of Great Britain will have to be learned in Canada." This statement involves the admission, on the part of Canadian statesmen, that the relation of Canada to the war is the same as that of England. Canadians generally have not admitted that. They regard Canada as a nation in herself, bound, indeed, by the strongest ties to Great Britain, but helping her in this war rather as a matter of grace and sentiment than on account of direct interest or necessity. Taking that view of the matter, Canada has surely done magnificently in putting 100,000 men actually in the front of battle, and suffering a loss of some 33,000 in killed and wounded.

Snails are Nutritious.

[Tit Bits:] "All snails are edible and nutritious," says Canon Hersley in a book on British land and fresh water molluscs, just published. He goes on to say that even the common or garden snail, though insipid, is as nourishing as calf's foot jelly.

There is a large white shelled snail called Helix pomatia that is commonly eaten by connoisseurs in the south of England, while all over France, Italy and Spain several species are used as food. In France there are many snail farms which yield a good profit to their owners. In the French and Italian quarters of New York snails may be bought, either alive or cooked, and at most of the French restaurants they are served, "escargots farcis" being the most usual form of dish.

Snails are easy to raise in large quantities. They need lime for making their shells, but they do not have to be fed, as they can find their own food, which is exclusively the leaves of many plants. They are most delicious when properly prepared and cooked, and, as Canon Hersley says, as nourishing as calf's foo jelly.

Very Strict.

GERMANY CLOSED, EXITS WATCHED.

STRENUOUS THING TO PASS OUT OR INTO COUNTRY.

Every Person is Thoroughly Searched and no Printed or Written Matter Can be Taken Out—The Baggage is Ripped to Pieces if Anything is Concealed.

[New York Times:] The examination which one has to undergo when entering or leaving Germany is very stringent and trying, and as the war continues is gradually becoming more rigid. When I went into Germany in 1915 via Bentheim and came out again by the same route my examination was reasonably thorough, but this year, going into Germany and coming out via Warnemunde were revelations of examination of luggage and of person carried to a point beyond which it would be almost impossible to concieve.

As the examination is made stricter and stricter from time to time, and as it is also changed, whenever it is found that spies try to smuggle cipher dispatches in new and hitherto unsuspected ways, I will describe my personal experiences coming out of Germany via Warnemunde and also relate, as they differed from mine, the experiences of other Americans who came out at the same time.

Having been told that no one was allowed to take out either printed or written matter, and also having heard that there was much trouble about photographs, I took all my books, photographs and manuscripts to the German Foreign Office. There everything was carefully examined by Assessor Roediger, done up in one package and sealed in several places. I received a letter signed by Baron von Munn, head of the press department of the Foreign Office, asking the frontier authorities to pass the sealed package without opening it. My request for a letter asking the frontier authorities to pass me and my belongings "with as little trouble as possible" was refused, and I was told that such letters were no longer given.

A friend of mine, who had come into Germany a few days before told me that on reaching Warnemunde tickets were given out and that passengers were examined in the order of the number of their ticket; so I arranged matters with the conductor of the train from Bern. He told me where to stand just before we reached Warnemunde, pointed out to me, when we arrived, the man who gave out the tickets—and I received No. 1.

I had with me a large trunk, two grips and a hat box, and my experience coming into Germany led me to believe that unless I was well up in the line I might possibly be held over in Warnemunde until the following day. As the steamer I planned to take for the United States sailed from Copenhagen the next day, it was essential that I should not be detained.

Entering a building right by the train, I was told to go through a long room, and was halted at the door of another room and asked to produce my passport. After it had been carefully scrutinized I was passed into another room. There I found a porter with my grips and hat box, and I was asked to identify my trunk. All my luggage was then placed on a wooden bench, and an officer and subofficer came over to take charge of the examination. Fortunately for me the subofficer had lived in New York for eight years, and not only spoke English very well, but was also inclined to be friendly. I was informed that everything would be examined and that all my things must be taken out of my grips and trunk as well; moreover, I was told that I must take out and also put back the things myself.

I never pack my trunk; it had been packed by the chambermaid at the Hotel Bristol on Unter den Linden, and when I left Warnemunde its appearance beggared description. All my handkerchiefs, collars, shirts, drawers and socks were examined, one by one, to see whether any concealed papers could be located or whether anything was written on or sewed into them.

Handkerchiefs were entirely unfolded, shirts, drawers and socks were turned inside out, and always there was a careful and persistent search. Every crease was examined. My soap was cut in pieces and a stick of camphor ice that had been cut in two places when I came into Germany was cut in another place. First the grips were examined, and then the hatbox; then, tray by tray, everything in the trunk was gone over. My boots and slippers were examined with great care, and, fortunately, I had no boots that had been recently resoled or reheeled, otherwise they might have been ripped apart. This, I was told, is frequently done.

Coming into Germany the examining officer had torn out the stand in my hat box, on which the hat rests. I had this fixed in Berlin, but I might better have waited until I returned to New York, because, as it was impossible for him to get his hand between the stand on which the box rested and the side of the box, the examiner simply tore the stand out. The band of my silk hat was pushed up to see whether anything was concealed underneath, and the cushion for brushing the hat was ripped open.

My evening hat was opened. Although it was bought in the United States, it seems that it had been made in Paris, and, as that fact was stamped inside, I had a feeling that it did not lessen the care with which it was examined. In the bottom of my trunk there were about a dozen summer shirts. I had not worn them since the previous summer, and each had a piece of cardboard placed in it when laundered in order to hold the shirt in shape. The cardboard was taken out of each shirt and laid aside.

This completed the examination of my luggage, and I was then told to go with another subofficer and submit to a personal examination. I was directed to go into a compartment and was told to take off all my clothing except my undershirt. I was also told to take everything out of my pockets and put it on a shelf. Bank notes were unfolded, one by one, to see that there was no tissue between; my match safe was opened, so was a small metal case that I carry my subway tickets in.

The outer and inner cases of my watch were opened. The pockets of my topcoat, coat, waistcoat, and trousers were turned inside out, and fingers passed over every seam. My boots and socks, drawers and shirt received the same careful attention previously accorded those in my trunk. The band around the hat I wore was pushed up and the sweat-band was turned down.

Next I was handed a paper to sign, stating that everything had been returned to me, and I was told that my examination was over. Although I had the No. 1 ticket, I was next to the last allowed to go on board the steamer waiting to take us to Denmark; this was on account of the fact that most of the people carried little luggage with them.

The last passengers to come on board were an American lady and her daughter, who had lived in Germany for six years while the daughter was completing her musical education. They had with them a number of photographs of friends and relatives, and the pictures were all soaked in water until they could be removed from the cardboard on which they were mounted.

One woman had her back rubbed with a lemon in order to wash off anything that might be written on it. All the women had to undress and take down their hair. All children, even infants in arms, are undressed and examined with the utmost thoroughness when there is the least suspicion of those with whom they are traveling.

The examination of suspected women is, of course, conducted by women inspectors, and I was told cipher dispatches written on oil paper had sometimes been discovered, and that the examination is rigid in the extreme. In fact, American women who consider going to Germany before the end of the war must make up their minds in advance that they may possibly be subjected to an examination that to many would be humiliating.

Cannot Help It.

ENGLISH VS. GERMAN.

British People Have Been Developing a Deep Hatred Against the Germans Because of the Kaiser's Way of Warfare.

[New York Tribune:] Mr. McClure, who has only recently been in Berlin, and has since sent dispatches from London, tells us that all things considered he finds the British hatred of the German a far more impressive and fearsome thing than the German hatred of Britain, and his belief is that it will prove more lastingly so. And this is about the conclusion that must be reached by any visitor to England who takes the trouble to look about him.

As a hater the Briton is totally unlike the German. He is incapable of producing a hymn of hate, such as delighted German hearts in the early days of the war. He doesn't hate as a race or as a group, he doesn't hate to order, and he is very slow in bestowing his hate upon any one outside his own immediate vision. Above all he is hopelessly inarticulate, and his professors have failed to supply him with any inspiration.

Thus, when the war began the Briton had only the most confused notion about "Fritz," as he then named his foe. He certainly did not hate Fritz, and taken in the mass he was a good deal puzzled about the whole affair. He had no emotions about a "place in the sun," he was not highly impressed with the ideal of a British "Kultur" to be imposed on the outside world. Being at war he went somewhat blindly and slowly toward the job in hand; his opinions, so far as he had opinions, were wholly tentative.

FIRST CAME UNBELIEF.

As for the British soldier, he went to war in a frankly sporting spirit. There is something enduringly pathetic about the fashion in which that slender expeditionary force sailed away to stop the avalanche, the "Tommies" singing "Tipperary" and promisng to be back by Christmas.

Even when the first Brtish troops had been well nigh exterminated, when the reports of German atrocities, murders, burnings and unspeakable abuse of women and children were general, the average Englishman held his peace. He did not believe what he heard, and his characteristic explanation was "such things are not done any more." He did not easily come to hatred.

But there came a time when all through England the truth had to be accepted. Too many Englishmen had seen with their own eyes, had beheld the actual German fact at first hand to admit of further doubt. If you should settle on the date of the German gas attack, the first one at Ypres, you would not be far from the date when the Englishman actually made up his mind about the German, and about that time, too, the Englishman—taking him by the million—went to war.

THE BALD, NAKED FACTS.

After that there came the deluge. The execution of Miss Cavell, the sinking of the Lusitania, the Zeppelin raids, these accentuated, but did not greatly accentuate, the feeling. The British soldier had made up his mind in full and sufficient evidence that the German soldier did not fight "clean." Some hundreds of thousands of these soldiers, each to his own class and circle, recounted by letter or while on leave, what he knew about the "Hun," for there was no more talk of "Fritz." For the odd thing is that a little later, when the Briton met the Turk, he bestowed his complete admiration upon the Osmann. After Gallipoli England was simply filled with praise of the Turk by the troops he had defeated; the Turk as contrasted with "the Hun" fought clean.

Slowly, amazingly slowly, this process of education went forward in England, this education in hate. It was not a matter of governmental activity, it was not fed by professorial eloquence, it did not come from the classes to the masses or from the educated to the ignorant. It marched straight through the nation, and it was at all times traceable to individual decision; it grew out of the experience of the mass of Englishmen, either direct experience at the front or through authentic chronicle of the experience of those they knew and trusted.

And it became universal. Probably never have Englishmen of all classes so completely hated and loathed a foreign nation as do the British now hate and loathe the German. There was little of this in the Napoleonic wars, and there were thousands of Britons of that time who made no concealment of their admiration of the France of the revolution and afterward. Even Bonaparte had his champions.

But today the German is for the Englishman the man who abuses women and children on land and murders them on water. He is the man who brutally maltreats British wounded and prisoners. He is the author of the Zeppelin raids, and he is the criminal who employs the submarine for assassination, not for war. Above all, and this is comprehensive, he is not a "clean" fighter, he doesn't "play the game," he recognizes no rules of humanity, of law, of sport. Wherefore the Englishman hates him, not as a nation primarily, there is nothing of this, but as an individual; it is a personal matter between the individual Briton and the German, and being such it cannot be settled by a government or disposed of by a treaty of peace. A hundred years from now there will still be some Englishmen who hold to the notion as to Germans that prevails in England now, and, knowing the English, one would say that there would be a goodly number.

The most pathetic thing in the world just now is the German who wants to see the war end and have everything forgiven and forgotten. He naturally doesn't believe what the Englishman knows to be true about the German actions in Belgium and France. He cannot be expected to look upon things from the English point of view, but what he does not realize is the existence of an English point of view. He doesn't realize that years and years will pass before the Englishman, because this is his habit, will get over regarding the German as he now regards him.

Here, then, are some 40,000,000 men and women and children who hold with an intensity that cannot be described, and for reasons that are a part of their human experience, of their personal sorrow and suffering, certain feelings toward the German, have acquired a hatred which, if it is not exactly vindictive, actually bars the way to all possible friendly relation for many years to come. And on the other hand here is Prof. Munsterberg preaching about an Anglo-German-American alliance!

GERMAN-ENGLISH "ALLIANCE!"

At all events let us hope that the United States will not become the ally of Germany before Great Britain does. That will give us all time to prepare for it. And the British ministry that first proposes that alliance to the British people is going to have an interesting experience. There are several streets in Liverpool almost entirely given over to the widows and fatherless children of British sailors murdered by submarines while on merchant ships. There are some east coast towns where Zeppelin bombs have disposed of many women and children, and there are a thousand English, Scotch and Welsh villages where old men and old and young women have known what Germans have done to those they loved best, not according to the rules of war, but in disregard of them, and it will be worth knowing what happens in them when Prof. Munsterberg's proposal is actually accepted either by Mr. Asquith or his successor.

All of which is another way of saying that no nation can go forth to burn and to murder, to dishonor and destroy the helpless, and escape the consequences. Least of all can Germans do what they have done to British men and women and children, and to other women and children within the British vision, and escape the consequences. These consequences will not be abolished by a treaty of peace, they will not be liquidated by victory or settled by indemnity. The Englishman will never shout his hate, much less will he sing it, but those who know the Englishman best are at times a little awed by the revelation of the effect upon him of two years of wartime relations with his German neighbor.

Her Love Potion.

[Tit-Bits:] A young woman who thought she was losing her husband's affection went to a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter for a love powder. The mystery woman told her:

"Get a raw piece of beef, cut flat, about an inch thick. Slice an onion in two, and rub the meat on both sides with it. Put on pepper and salt, and toast it on each side over a red coal fire. Drop on it three lumps of butter and two sprigs of parsley, and get him to eat it."

The young wife did so, and her husband loved her ever after.

Eyewitness.

FROM BRINK OF NO-MAN'S LAND.

Religious Worker Comes Here in Cause of Belgians.

Seeking Christmas Cheer for Two Hundred Thousand.

One of Few Yankee Civilians Ever on Firing Line.

One of the very few Americans ever permitted to visit the first-line trenches in Belgium is in Los Angeles, relinquishing for a time efforts to spread the message of Jesus to the borders of no-man's land, in order that he may help relieve suffering beyond the comprehension of peace-blessed Americans. He is Ralph C. Norton of Chicago, long in evangelistic work, who began distributing testaments to soldiers when the war broke out, but soon mixed with the little books a generous sprinkling of sox and gloves and food. Mrs. Norton has remained in London to direct the work of religion and relief.

Mr. Norton is here in the interest of Belgian's soldiers—the men in the trenches and those wounded, prisoners or interned in various concentration camps. He is traveling throughout America in an effort to raise $200,000 with which to pur- 200,000 Christmas boxes that he proposes to distribute to the troops. He says this will mean a can of sausage, a can of chicken, a can of salmon, some tinned cheese, canned fruit, a box of chocolate and a testament for each of 200,000 suffering men.

He has already spoken in a number of Los Angeles churches. This morning he will talk at the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, Pasadena, and Tuesday at the Long Beach Auditorium.

WOE IS TERRIBLE.

"Few persons who have not seen for themselves realize what the life of the Belgian soldier has been and is today," he said yesterday. "It is a fact that during the first year of the war these men fought sockless and often without shoes, standing in freezing water that reached to their knees, their hips, and even their shoulders. Today they are poorly fed and suffering the greatest hardships. They are given bread and coffee in the morning and again at night, and at noon a thick soup containing meat and vegetables. The variety in their diet is furnished by the fact they sometimes eat the French and sometimes the English bread, known to them respectively as Joffre and Kitchener bread.

"The wounded who can be of no further service are crowded into concentration camps in France, as they cannot return to their own land. Their life is blank and miserable. Then 30,000 of them were interned in Holland when they fell back from Antwerp, and there are many in German prison camps, whence come tales of suffering also.

"I want all these shut-ins as well as the men on the battle front to have Christmas cheer from America."

ON THE FIRST LINE.

Mrs. Norton has the distinction of being the only woman, except the Queen of the Belgians, who has ever been in the Belgian first-line trenches. She and Mr. Norton, after overcoming huge barriers of red tape and being received by the Queen, went into the dug-outs during a bombardment, when shot and shell screamed over them. Mr. Norton had made an earlier visit to the first line, also during a bombardment, and as he tells it:

"I am not a newspaper or magazine writer—I am a worker in the cause of Christianity, and I do not exaggerate. The limousine in which I was transported was marked by the Germans, as such a car usually is occupied by officers. The shells began to fall about us, one fifty and one twenty-five yards away. In the trenches the shells were thick overhead. It was the real thing."

He also tells of extraordinary precautions considered necessary to protect a vessel crossing the English Channel.

"Through Madame Vandevelde, wife of the Belgian Secretary of State," he said, "we secured military passports and crossed from Folkstone, Eng., to Boulogne. On the ship were 1200 officers; my wife and I were the only civilians. When the vessel left the dock all of us were made to don life preservers, and these were kept on until the trip ended. Four dirigible balloons accompanied us and there were two destroyers to the port side and one to starboard of our ship. We made our way between two lines of merchant ships that reached clear across the channel—unusual precautions, because 1200 officers cannot well be spared in this war."

HIS RELIGIOUS WORK.

For ten years Mr. Norton was business manager of Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist. Mr. and Mrs. Norton and Dr. Chapman were in England when the war began. Mr. Norton resigned his position with the evangelist, came to America, and, with the backing of a number of prominent business men, organized the work he has since pursued.

He and Mrs. Norton first held evangelistic meetings in British recruit camps, distributing 125,000 testaments and copies of the Gospels. Belgian troops they met in London and Paris interested them in King Albert's heroic little army and they converted 135 Belgian soldiers, who later organized and conducted religious meetings at the front and in the firing line. More than 100,000 of the testaments and editions of the Gospels were distributed to Belgians also, together with waterproof coats, socks, gloves and other material comforts urgently needed. It was this work that finally brought the audience with the Queen.

By every indication this should have been a poor duck season locally. There is less feed on the fields than for several seasons. The migrants are making what shooting there is.

Taking the Gospel Into the Tren

On the firing line.

The lower view was made in a first-line trench near Dixmude, on the occasion of the only visit ever American woman to the Belgian first-line dug-outs. The woman is Mrs. Ralph C. Norton of Chi ligious worker, and on her right is her husband, now a visitor in Los Angeles. Beside Mr. Norton Peter Von Koechkoven, son of a baroness and a big coal merchant of Antwerp. At Mrs. Norton's major in command of the immediate sector, and beside the major is Commandant Le Duc, condu party. Immediately back of them is the major's dug-out, faced with brick from a near-by brick are three converts of Mr. and Mrs. Norton. From left to right, they are James Dewar, awarded (King's) medal as the best shot in the British army; Louis Valkenaers, twice winner of the Belgi racing championship and later recipient of five shrapnel wounds that sent him to a London hos mie" Dawson, star of 20,000 British football players and one-time hard drinker, a member of Engineers.

County Semi-official Results.

HUGHES'S MAJORITY HER TWENTY-ONE THOUSAN

J. F. CARLSTON, heading the Republican ticket of candidates for Presidential elector, received a total of 135,445 votes in Los Angeles county, according to the semi-official count which was completed yesterday afternoon by Registrar of Voters McAleer. Edward L. Doheny, who headed the Democratic ticket, received 114,112. Francis J. Heney, whose vote was second on the Democratic ticket, received 114,133.

The Republican majority is 21,312. These figures indicate the difference between the total votes for the high men of the two parties. Mary Roberts Coolidge, one of the Republican candidates, was given the smallest vote, running 358 behind the head of the ticket. Mrs. Carrie F. Tyler, one of the women Democratic candidates, was lowest on that ticket.

Owing to the discrepancy between the head and bottom of each ticket are small local Republican leaders have little or no hope of materially changing the final totals in a recount. The tally shows that Republicans lost about as many votes as the Democrats.

The totals in the District Attorney contest give Thomas Lee Woolwine 147,341 votes, while Capt. Helms, his opponent, received but 94,417. Mr. Woolwine's majority is 52,924.

The single-tax measure, known as Amendment No. 5, was defeated by a majority of 110,463. The vote was as follows: Yes, 63,548; No, 174,011.

BALKS AT EMBARGO.

Council Holds Up Resolution that Asks President to End Export of Certain Foods; Whole Matter is Referred to Committee.

An attempt on the part of Councilman Roberts to get the Council to appeal to the President to place an embargo on many food exports was unsuccessful yesterday, and a resolution on the subject, addressed to "His Excellency President Woodrow Wilson" as "Honored Sir," was consigned to the Public Welfare Committee.

The Roberts resolution asked for an immediate embargo upon wheat and flour, sugar, potatoes, canned milk and other canned goods "being shipped to warring nations in such quantities as to affect and raise the price of flour."

Councilman Topham said he saw no reason for the Council to appeal to President Wilson for anything of the kind. He said America is seeking markets all the time and is now getting a market for her goods she never before enjoyed. So why should she voluntarily restrict her own trade? He also declared that had it not been for the market offered in Europe by the war, California bean growers and others would never have been able to get rid of their surplus stock, much less receive the high prices now obtaining.

Councilman Wright said the high cost of living is a matter which needs investigation and on his suggestion the Public Welfare Committee was instructed to conduct such an investigation and report to the Council.

FUGITIVE FOUR YEARS.

Man Alleged to Have Shot His Rival at Party Announcing Latter's Engagement to Mexican Girl Is Arrested and Must Stand Trial.

Fernando Arayano, after being a fugitive from justice for four years, was arresttd by deputy sheriffs early yesterday morning and landed in the County Jail on the charge of killing Nicola Castamon. The two men were in love with Margaretta Sanchez, a Mexican girl of Orange county. Castamon was the winner of her hand. On the night after the dance celebrating the engagement Arayno waited outside the place where this was held, and then made slighting remarks about Castamon and the girl.

In the fight that ensued, Arayano is alleged to have shot and killed Castamon. He disappeared and was traced to various parts of the State, then to Las Vegas, Nev., and across the border. Several months ago he was reported near Compton, but when the officers went there he had disappeared. Several days ago the strange actions of one known as Fernando Marez, a beet trimmer at Owensmouth, were called to the attention of the Sheriff's office and the man was arrested. He admitted his identity when threatened with being confronted by his former sweetheart. He will be turned over to the Orange county authorities, the killing having occurred across the Los Angeles county line.

Woman Says Husband Knocked Her Down; He's Gone.

Fearing that her husband was going to desert her for all time, when she found his suit case packed and ready for departure, Mrs. W. H. Chatten accused him of this, only to be knocked down, according to the story she told to a deputy district attorney who issued the complaint charging the former secretary of the Venice Chamber of Commerce with failing to provide for his family.

The Chattens have several children, and two of these accompanied their mother to the District Attorney's office.

Deputy Sheriff Bright started in pursuit of Chatten, but failed to locate him yesterday afternoon.

Costly Luxury.

INSURANCE REMEDY FOR HIGH COST OF DYING.

THE high cost of dying was emphasized by Dr. I. M. Rubinow, social insurance expert of New York, who spoke at the City Club luncheon yesterday on "Social Health Insurance in California."

Dr. Rubinow pointed out that it is very expensive to be sick in California and equally expensive to die and be buried. He said there is no better and more scientific method of handling the destitution due to sickness than through a compulsory system of health insurance, and it is proposed to ask the people to vote upon a constitutional amendment in 1918 which will permit of the institution of compulsory insurance in the State.

"The workingmen of this country spend $225,000,000 a year for the purpose of providing themselves with a higher standard not of living, but of dying," he said.

He declared that the doctors' bills in California are too excessive as far as wage-earners are concerned. "The cost of getting back to health and wage-earning capacity for both men and women is even more serious here than in the East," he asserted. "I wish to say quite frankly that the rate charged for medical services is quite beyond the capacity of the wage earner. This is a situation that must be met. You must recognize that when you have efficient medical provisions here as we have in the East that matter will be solved."

The high cost of funerals also was attacked by Dr. Rubinow. He said when he offered in San Francisco to conduct funerals for $50 apiece they said he couldn't do it. He said that at funerals attendants used the same gloves over and over again, the same extra tails on horses, when horses were used, the same plumes and other articles, but in each bill the full amount was charged as if for new gloves, plumes and other accessories.

"To meet the problems of health and sickness California should establish social insurance plans now in effect in Europe," said Dr. Rubinow, and he described the methods so successfully carried out in Germany and Great Britain.

The speaker said there should be no limitations on the amount and quality of medical aid, workers should be guaranteed two-thirds of their income and there should be maternity and funeral benefits attached.

Husband Admits Leaving Wife Minus Gold Grinders.

Frank Rivet, who admitted to Judge Craig that he did not provide for his family, would not admit he had recently sold his wife's false gold teeth to buy himself drink. He was arrested November 6, pleaded guilty two days later and was up yesterday for sentence. Deputy Public Defender Varcoe appeared and informed the court there were extenuating circumstances. Rivet did admit, after some interrogation, that he had sold his wife's teeth three years ago, but said he had been good after that until a short time ago, when he fell off the water wagon.

Of Federal Service.

SEVENTH REGIMENT IS FINALLY MUSTERED OUT.

LOS ANGELES has a National Guard once more. Capt. H. A. Hanigan, U.S.A., Federal mustering and inspecting officer for California, said the magic words which yesterday transferred more than 850 officers and men from the ranks of the United States Army to those of civil life and the California National Guard.

The formality was quite brief. Capt. Hanigan mustered the regiment out by companies. Each company was formed, the roll called, the men received their pay as Col. A. D. Smith handed it to them and then Capt. Hannigan said:

"Don't forget what you have learned. You don't know all there is to know but you know something of what a soldier's duties are. Considering everything, I believe you California boys have a right to be proud of yourselves. The State is proud of you. Now beat it!"

The Second Regiment is scheduled to be mustered out Wednesday and the First Squadron of Cavalry Friday next. The companies and troops will not be disbanded until their equipment is stored in the respective armories at their home stations. Immediately after the soldiers are mustered out of the Federal service they resume their former status as National Guardsmen and are as much under command of their officers as they have been for the past four months, until their officers order them to disband.

THE PLATT PLAN

The Platt Plan is based upon DIRECT DISTRIBUTION. It allows many manufacturers to place their outputs in homes through a single distributing center. It is cheaper than selling direct by one factory, for it is MANY factories distributing with the expense of but ONE store.

The Platt Plan is CO-OPERATION in its broadest sense. It means ACTUAL SAVINGS of from ONE TO TWO HUNDRED Dollars upon the prices of pianos.

The combined resources of the factories distributing by the PLATT PLAN in Southern California amount to more than $22,000,000.

Pianos are distributed by CARLOADS and CARLOADS.

Finally payments are taken care of by a system of AMORTIZATION. This is perhaps the greatest feature of the PLATT PLAN.

It includes many of the underlying principles of the Government Farm Loan bank and also has some of the good ideas of the sinking fund system used by cities for dissolving bonded indebtedness.

By the PLATT PLAN everyone may have a piano who wants one.

YOU, if you wish, may have a GOOD PIANO in your HOME TOMORROW.

Unsanitary.

REFUGEE CAMPS NEED CLEANING.

Mexicans Liable to Bring in Grave Diseases.

Hygiene Can be Enforced to Scotch Menace.

All Local Health Boards to Take Action.

The August issue of the monthly bulletin of the State Board of Health calls attention to the menace of typhus fever and smallpox, both of which are filth diseases, and which are being imported from Mexico into this State. These diseases are being fostered in the unsanitary camps where Mexican refugees assemble, and which are beyond the control of the State Immigration and Housing Commission, whose jurisdiction extends only to labor camps.

There were twenty-six cases of typhus reported from June 1 to October 2, 1916, and with the exception of two contact cases, one of uncertain origin in San Francisco and one of a Los Angeles attorney who was infected from a bunch of Mexicans who entered his office, the cases were all found in camps of recently-arrived Mexican refugees.

The prevalence of this disease among Mexican railroad laborers can be checked in time, as the Commission of Immigration and Housing can deal with it, but the greatest danger of infection is among these destitute Mexicans. These cases come under the jurisdiction of the local health authorities, and prompt steps should be taken to clean up the plague-breeding spots at once.

Typhus is transmitted by body vermin and in no other way. This of itself is sufficient reason for drastic action, as the ordinary pedestrian, who unconsciously brushes against the person of an infected Mexican in a crowd may contract the disease without knowledge of the source from which the disease was acquired.

The State of Texas is taking measures to combat this disease, four cases having developed in El Paso. The first case was that of a physician who had charge of a hospital in Juarez where typhus was prevalent among the soldiers. A nurse was also infected. A Mexican woman was also taken and died.

Cases have appeared in many counties, and, unless the State is to stand a serious siege of this filthy and readily communicable disease, all local health boards must take prompt and vigorous action.

Smallpox, which has been a rarity in California, and then only in a very mild form, has also appeared. The origin of these cases is also Mexican. This, too, is a filth disease, and must be combatted by cleanliness of person and sanitation in the abode and general surroundings.

There have been seven cases reported in Riverside county and two have terminated fatally. In suggesting methods of combatting these diseases, the board says: "Wherever cheap lodging-houses tained, wherever ters' are maintained tion should be paid to sanitation among the introduction of a single phus into such a be the means of starting spread epidemic. Every upon arrival, should be and thoroughly cleansed gated. All quarters cleaned up and strict ulations introduced."

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 18C Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Direct News from Turkey.

Miss Nina Rice, who has recently returned from Sivas, Turkey, where she served for twelve years as a missionary sent out by the First Congregational Church of this city, spoke on Thursday before the women's missionary societies of that church. In common with other missionaries Miss Rice was ordered out by the Turkish government and was forced to quit the field. She is at present with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. O. V. Rice of Upland.

Miss Rice in her talk told of the situation in Sivas as seen by an eyewitness, of the deportation of the Armenians, of the 100 High School girls in the missionary school where she was a teacher who were sent out to almost certain death on the desert from whom no word has ever come back to tell of their fate, with the exception of five, who have sent brief messages to Miss Rice. The story of the bravery of the Armenians who held fast to their Christian faith in face of massacre and deportation was the tragic tale of noble martyrs of the twentieth century.

The Turkish government has taken possession of the valuable property belonging to the American board in Sivas, most of the buildings being used for hospital purposes.

The annual free-will thank offering from the women of the First Congregational Church was taken at the meeting on Thursday and amounted to $118—the largest ever offered by these societies. The needs of the missionary home at Claremont were presented and met with generous response. This is one of three such Congregational homes in this country designed for the benefit of the children of missionaries on the foreign field where they can be cared for and educated. The other two are at Oberlin and at Auburndale, Mass. Dr. Daniel Fox of Pasadena is president of the Claremont Home Society, Miss Mary H. Porter of San Diego is vice-president, and M. Abernathy of Claremont is treasurer. One bungalow has been built and furnished largely through the generosity of Miss Porter, and the second bungalow is built, but lacks the necessary furnishings, and it was for this that the plea was made. Anything suitable for the furnishing of this bungalow will be gratefully received by the society.

The women of First Congregational Church are preparing for their annual bazaar, which comes off next Thursday afternoon and evening with a chicken dinner at 6:15 and a delightful little Japanese play given by the Japanese themselves in the evening. There will be booths with fancy work and useful articles for sale.

SANTA CLAUS IS HERE.

Jolly Old Saint Drives Around Town in an Auto Giving Each of His Subjects a Box of Candy; He Will Stay with Us Until Christmas.

Santa Claus arrived in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon and proved to thousands of his youthful subjects that the doubts of larger brothers and sisters as to his existence are unfounded. Not only did he ride in an automobile, where all who desired could see him, but he even stopped at many corners, shook hands with his subjects and gave each one of them a tiny box of candy.

By the time he reached the Broadway Department Store he had given away the 15,000 boxes of candy he brought with him from the North Pole and was forced to alight and refill his packs. The floor walker met him at the door. With several hundred wide-eyed and open-mouthed subjects toddling in his wake the journey was successfully made to the toy department.

This so appealed to Santa Claus, however, that instead of returning to his automobile with his new packs, he found a workshop in one corner and appropriated it for his own. From this vantage spot he distributed more boxes of candy and small toys. Last night when the janitor locked the door Santa was still busy making toys. He says he will be in the Broadway Department Store every afternoon until Christmas.

GILBRETH SICK.

Will Not Be Sent to Prison Until After Major Operation.

Owing to the serious illness of G. W. Gilbreth, a local contractor recently sentenced to San Quentin after being convicted of embezzlement from the company bearing his name, he will not be sent north until a decision on his appeal has been reached. Judge Craig yesterday granted this motion, after affidavits from several physicians had been entered to prove that Gilbreth is in need of an operation of major character.

Dr. Andrew J. Berry testified that incarceration of the man at this time, without the prescribed treatment, might prove fatal. On the presentation of bond in the amount of $5000 Gilbreth was allowed to be removed to a hospital. Deputy District Attorney Mark Keys acquiesced to this.

REMARKABLE COME-BACK BEING ACHIEVED BY YUMA INDIANS.

Tribe of Real Americans in Southeast Corner of California, Once Dying Out and Discouraged, Begins Climb to Real Achievement and Wealth.

BY LEWIS HAVERMALE.

AWAY in the extreme southeastern corner of California Yuma Idians are making a record for themselves that is attracting notice among all persons interested in Indian affairs, and the particular observation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs at Washington.

The Yuma Indians—once a disappearing tribe—are "coming back." Their birth rate is far exceeding their death rate.

The Yumas are demonstrating that they are the best money makers of any of the American Indian tribes. They are taking to scientific agriculture, are learning trades and are developing a wholesome pride in their advancement. The progress of the past four years among the Yumas is said by those who have closely studied them to have been greater than that of the previous decade.

And now the Yumas propose to make a beauty spot and show place that will spread its fame over the United States, and to make it on what at present is the barren, volcanic point rising above the westerly banks of the Colorado River, and which for many years has been known as old Fort Yuma Hill.

OVERCOMING DIFFICULTIES.

I have just returned from a brief sojourn at the Yuma Indian Reservation. There I saw at first-hand the progress the Indians are making, under difficulties that are little appreciated by the white people. I saw the adults plodding away to repair the damage caused by the great floods of last January, which, in many a white settlement would have been overwhelmingly discouraging. I saw the Yumas reclaiming the lands that have been silt-covered and then sun-baked, until the general appearance of the ground was that of great areas overlaid with immense adobes. The floods' silt deposits, lacking in humus, have been cracked open by the heat of the sun, and it has been necessary to work and rework the earth to get it into such condition that crops may again be sown. The Yumas have kept persistently at this task, under direction of the reservation farmers, with only the future to look to for reward, as their lands have been in such condition that they have been able to produce only light crops this season.

I have seen the Indian boys and girls gathered at school, bright and happy in their studies and eager for the manual instructions as well as for their regular classes.

In the city of Yuma, it is true, the gaudily-dressed Yuma women and men lounge along the street, with apparently but little evidence of any ambition, yet those who are in close touch with them say the leaven is working and the influences of the Fort Yuma Indian School are constantly reaching out and making changes in the community life of the aborigines.

The Fort Yuma Indian School was first established by a Catholic sisterhood. Years ago it was taken over by the government. Finally it was given the use of the buildings that had been erected on the hill for the use of the fort.

NEW BEAUTY SPOT.

This hill, which is also used as the westerly base for the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway bridge across the Colorado River at Yuma, is a forbidding pile of volcanic origin. Year after year attempts have been made to beautify it with flower plots and grass spaces, but all the soil has been hauled up the hill and even after growth has been started it has withered as the alkali worked upward from the natural formations of the hill. Hence it is that, although the institution has been on Fort Yuma Hill for many years, the place stands barren and dismal, with the exception of a few plots of struggling green.

But the hill is to be maintained as the permanent home of the Indian school, and under the inspiration of Larson L. Odel, the superintendent, the Indians have taken enthusiastically to the idea of a transformation that has some unique features—a landscaping of the hill that will make it notable in the Colorado River country, and an object of special interest to overland tourists on the Southern Pacific.

Today the mails are carrying to Washington, for the final approval of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, plans and specifications for the modernizing of the buildings of Fort Yuma Indian School and the landscaping of the hill itself. It is expected that work on the project will begin during the present month, and that the big task will be entirely completed during the winter. It will all be done by Indian labor.

First is the plan to overcome the upreaching of the deadly alkali. It is proposed to give the entire hilltop a coating of cement. On this will be spread rich earth hauled from the Indian lands in the valley below. With this for a basis, an extensive system of tree-planting, lawn-making and shrubbery and flower beds will be carried out. With ample water at hand, from the Colorado River, and with climatic conditions such that trees and flowers make marvelous growth, the transformation of Fort Yuma Hill will be very marked by springtime, say the men in charge of the plan.

MISSION-STYLE BUILDINGS.

All the buildings are to be given a mission-style finish, and mission arcades or archways are to be contructed in front of each house. These are grouped around a square that is to become a spot of living green.

Southern Pacific officials have become deeply interested in this novel plan of creating an oasis on top of a volcanic rock, and this, in addition to the interesting sights to be seen at the Indian school, has caused plans to be made for the stopping of certain trains at the base of Fort Yuma Hill, when the transformation is completed, in order that tourists may have time to visit the place and see its wonders. With the turgid Colorado River laving the base of the hill, and the great Yuma reclamation district stretching out for miles in the valleys below, the spot offers some rare features for exploitation in the sight-seeing field.

There are 797 Yuma Indians on the reservation rolls. The total number of Yumas is probably 1000. In the schools there is an enrollment of 188 children, from the ages of 5 to 14.

All the heads of families on the reservation have received allotments of ten acres each. Under the direction of reservation farmers the Indians cleared their lands, leveled them and put in crops. Then came the disastrous floods of last January. All but twenty acres of the lands were covered with silt. In some cases the Indians' homes were destroyed. They were completely discouraged, and their white leaders feared a general going backward, but soon the idea of reclamation was spread and it took hold. The Indians have been constantly working the silt, breaking up the large sun-baked clods, watering the lands and then working them again, until this winter they will be able to put in crops again.

FOR SEED RAISING.

The Yuma Indian lands, as well as the San Pasqual and Yuma Valleys in general, have been proved highly adaptable to the raising of alfalfa seed. No pest has interfered and the climatic conditions are ideal to produce a clean, bright seed. The Indians have gone into this somewhat, and an effort is to be made to have them specialize in alfalfa seed growing. Without irrigation, and carried simply by the submoisture, they are able to raise one hay crop and then let the alfalfa go to seed. The present price of the seed is 13 cents per pound, and it is predicted that it will reach 20 cents before spring. It is highly profitable.

Supt. Odel declared statistics show the Yuma Indian is the best money-maker of any aborigine in the United States. Many of the men have taken up trades, and the constant aim at the school is to select such of the boys and girls as show special adaptability for trades and to give them every advantage.

The school has a staff of thirty employees. On the reservation are two agency farmers, J. H. Justice and George V. Perce, and B. F. McCombs is school farmer. In the school itself there are three divisions of instruction—primary, prevocational and vocational. Two day schools are maintained in the reservation. After finishing the work at the schools there, at the age of 14, the boys and girls are given their choice of going either to the Sherman Indian School at Riverside or the Phoenix Indian School at Phoenix, Ariz. They choose about equally between these two schools.

At the Yuma Indian schools, besides the regular school work, the girls are taught cooking, sewing, laundry work, nursing, poultry raising and gardening. The boys have the opportunity to learn concrete work, carpentering, farming, dairying, poultry raising, blacksmithing, mason work, painting and leather work.

Formerly the girls were allowed to go to their homes during the summer vacations, but their drift back during this period was very noticeable, and it is now the policy to keep them at the school during the entire year, with much gain in their general advancement. The older boys go out to work during the vacations, efforts being made to place them in environments where they will come into direct touch with American methods and usages.

BIRTHS BEAT DEATHS.

In 1911 there were thirty-six more deaths than births among the Yumas. The death rate overreached the birth rate for several years previous to that time. Then it was that a systematic effort was made to change conditions. Medicine men, who operated freely on the reservation, were closely watched and prohibited from practicing their incantations, etc. An agency physician made daily rounds of the homes, and in cases of illness immediately ordered the invalid to the hospital. The physician even now continues to make his daily rounds, but conditions of health have become so improved that patients outside the reservation are being taken into the hospital. It is declared a single active tuberc the reservation, and has been almost eradi during and following the Civil War.

Founding schools of engineering in Pittsburgh, Chicago and San Francisco, Dr. van der Naillen has since spent considerable time abroad studying engineering and undertaking many projects. A charter member of the l'Institut General Psychologique of Paris, he was one of the first to make public experiment of wireless telegraphy and the X-ray. He has crossed the Atlantic Ocean seventeen times in search of new facts, and on his European visits gathered much material which he later used in the form of interesting historical works and for entertaining fiction.

OFFERED FRENCH HOME.

His best known books, "On the Heights of Himalaya," "In the Sanctuary" and "Balthazar the Magus" have been translated into French, Portuguese and Spanish and the esteem in which he was held by prominent Europeans was so great that following the San Francisco earthquake several superior officers of the Prince Regent of Monaco, and unknown correspondents, who had merely read his books, wrote and besought him to come and make his home along the Riviera.

After thanking his unknown friends for their spontaneous offers to share their surplus, Prof. van der Naillen assured them he would call on them as soon as the opportunity afforded and, completing an engineering task in New York, he sailed for Italy. Making new friendships abroad, these persons have frequently written him since the European war inquiring about the advantages of Southern California, for many have expressed the opinion that following the cessation of hostilities America must become the mecca of those who will emigrate from their native land.

PRAISES GOLDEN WEST.

To all such requests for information the venerable scholar has replied that the beauties of the climate, seashore and mountains, the unsurpassed automobile roads traversing the incomparable magnificence of nature abounding everywhere Tehachepi's top, make this section of the United States the only region which in any way simulates the countries that border along the Mediterranean. The climate here in many respects is superior, the professor declared, to that of the Riviera, called the "Cote d' Azur," owing to its beautiful blue sky, and in urging them to come here declared that nowhere else can the and richest families of France and Italy find so many diversified interests that will appeal to them, as he has found here himself.

He is making his temporary home at the Rosslyn.

COMEDY POTIONS RULE.

ELIXIR OF LAUGHS TO REST THE TIRED BUSINESS MAN.

Comedy and farce will be given the scepter along the Rialto this week, with the result that the tired business man is promised unusual entertainment. "Papa," a comedy by a new author, will be one of the offerings, while "Jerry," Billie Burke's biggest success, and "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" are other attractions. A new leading woman, Ruth Robinson, will make her appearance at a Morosco house, while Inez Plummer assumes leads at another theater. Local vaudeville has a quaint conceit known as "The Clock Shop," promising much delightful comedy, while other varied offerings include a complete circus and the famous Chinese jugglers, headed by Long Tack Sam.

Morosco.

A bright new comedy and a new leading woman will make their appearance at the Morosco, commencing with the matinee this afternoon. Ruth Robinson is the name of the young lady, and "Jerry," which was Billie Burke's biggest success, is the play. Miss Robinson is a well-known stock actress in the East. She is said to have youth, beauty and experience and to be well fitted to please the public.

Miss Robinson played the name part in "Jerry" in the East and was very successful.

The cast of the play includes Edmund Lowe, Richard Dix, Gertrude Maitland, Joseph Eggenton, Lillian Elliott and Harry Duffield. Fred J. Butler is directing the production. It will be elaborately staged.

Burbank.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" will be the offering at the Burbank commencing tomorrow night. Inez Plummer, former leading woman at the Belasco, who made many friends at that house, will play the leading feminine role, while Joseph Galbraith will have the masculine lead. Burt Wesner has speeded the piece into the high and promises a roaring comedy.

Many theatergoers are familiar with the story of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram." It is based upon the breaking down of the machinery of a Ferris wheel, which furnishes many husbands with alibis at the time of the occurrence.

The cast will include, besides Miss Plummer and Galbraith, Warner Baxter, Nolan Leary, Frank Darien, Dora Howe, Emelie Melville, Mennette Barrett, Russell Powell and others.

Orpheum.

One of the quaintest and most delightful comedies of the season is promised at the Orpheum commencing tomorrow in "The Clock Shop," which headlines the new bill. Upon a shelf sit two little Dutch clocks, a boy and a girl, in love with each other, but the grandfather clock naturally does not approve and the false alarm clock makes trouble, but the dog watch stands by the lovers and helps them all he can. The playlet is a pretty fantasy, in which Sam Chip and Mary Marble, John W. Dume and others play leading roles. The piece was originally a Lambs' Club offering.

Others on the bill will be Marshall Montgomery, ventriloquist, with Edna Courtenay; Frank Orth and William J. Dooley, in "The Fool Detective;" McDavitt, Kelly and Lucey in "The Piano Movers," Jule Bernard and Florence Scarth in a patter act, and the holdovers, including Ralph Herz in a monologue, Allen and Howard and Britt Wood. The Paramount Weekly, a new series of educative motion pictures, will be installed as an added attraction.

Little Theater.

Commencing Thursday evening the attraction at the Little Theater will be Zoe Akins's comedy "Papa," presented for the first time on any stage. High comedy in the sense in which it is applied to many English and continental plays of pointed situation and brightly-equipped dialogue has not been the chiefest forte of our native playwrights, but it is said to have found an able exponent in Miss Akins. Such a captious critic as Edwin Bjorkman has not hesitated to rank "Papa" with the "Anatol" of Schnitzler.

The staging of a comedy should reveal another facet of Richard Ordynski's genius, and the settings for an American town and French country house, as well as a suite in London's Ritz-Carlton, will offer varied opportunities to Mr. Geddes as a designer. The cast will include Percival Vivian, Kirah Markham, Violette Wilson, Joe King, Irving Pichel and others.

Mason.

Isadora Duncan, world-famous as an interpretative dancer, who was first to gain international fame both at home and abroad for her novel and artistic esthetic dances, will be seen at the Mason Operahouse for a limited engagement of three performances, including Monday and Wednesday evenings, the 20th and 22nd, and Friday afternoon, the 24th. Her programmes include the famous and spectacular ballets, "Orpheus" and "Iphigenia," both with music by Gluck, and the "Bacchanale" of "Tannhauser," by Richard Wagner. A score of beautiful girls will assist the star and the production promises to be one of the most brilliant ever staged in this city.

Hippodrome.

John White's circus will be the headline attraction at the Hippodrome on the bill opening tomorrow.

THE MUSICAL PROPHETS OF WAR.

Artists who have been the Forerunners of Tremendous World Tumults—After the War, What?

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

IF HISTORY repeats itself all this talk about music after the war is futile. It is the sort of talk that drove J. J. Rousseau to silence and to his determination long before his death never to talk again, much less to listen. If musical history repeats itself, music after the war will be very much as it was before. It sounds preposterous to say that the great upsetting of Europe will not have a revolutionizing effect upon music, but that is, most probably, the truth.

We were in the throes of the greatest musical revolution since the seventeenth century when the great war broke out. Music and wars go almost by contraries. They never go hand in hand save in the concrete sense of singing "Tipperary" as one marches to battle. The effect of a war song is indubitable, but the point is, what is the connection between a battle and "Tipperary," for example? The song is simply a good thing to march to, and was on sale before it grew to be a war song.

The editor of a great newspaper expressed to me something of his emotion upon hearing the "Marseillaise" sung by thousands of Socialists in procession on a night previous to an election for Mayor. "I had a feeling of an evil doom," he said, "which amounted to terror." One can understand the effect such a demonstration would have, and yet where is the analogy between the situation of the French at the time that song was composed, and that of the freeman in a democratic western metropolis?

Musicians, like poets, are prophets, and the musical revolution in Europe just prior to this war was a forerunner; certainly it was not an effect. Concrete happenings do not affect the musical genius; or, if they affect him, it is in a way entirely different from the way in which they affect the rest of us. The war comes to them as from a great distance; they hear rumblings and are inwardly disturbed, but they go on with their composing, as they have begun, or they go on with their etudes as usual, jealous of anything that changes the trend of their thought. If you ever have seen a musician on the day that is reserved for the cleaning and setting in order of his music-room, you have an idea of what I mean.

This war may not affect music in Europe; that is, the nature of the compositions, one whit. Nobody can tell what will affect a musician, for there is no more unexpected type of mind in the world than the musical type. We hear much of the effect upon Chopin of the sorrows of Poland and of the purely visionary persons who peopled his world; but we hear these things from the critics who, with high imaginations have attempted to account for certain of the composer's inspirations. From Chopin himself, we hear such a string of inconsequential complainings that we are tempted to seek out wholly different motives for his melancholy. We have, for example, his Storm Prelude, about which our imaginative critics write so touchingly; there were raindrops on the roof, and rain in the heart of the composer; and a host of ghostly monks stalking through the room, and so forth; but all we can find in Georges Sand about that particular afternoon is poor Frederic's unreasonable and persistent demands for a foot-warmer.

Chopin may have been inspired by the sorrows of Poland in his Polonaise in A; but again we find intimations in Georges Sand that the evident fury of that work was inspired by a failure to procure the particular brand of gloves that were necessary to complete the happiness of the great composer. No, it is not safe to say what has inspired a musician. There is the endlessly pathetic story of Tschiakowsky and his continual attempts at suicide. Was it the downfall of the kingdom of Poland, or was it, as the artist's patroness—and was there ever another such patroness as Tschiakowsky's Frau von Meck—implies, because there were not enough honors coming to the Russian, and because he could not always make his ever devoted brother feel quite poignantly enough the shortcomings of Tschiakowsky's wife? Does anybody know just why he walked into the half-frozen river and stood there in the hope of contracting a fatal illness? Tschaikowsky had terrible toothaches. . . .

This is too delectable a subject for a journalist to get hold of; it has endless possibilities. Some day the temptation will take hold of one of us and there will result a collection of Those Things Which Have Furnished Inspiration to Composers. It would take an American to do the thing thoroughly, for they are the farthest from understanding the temperament of the artist of any people on earth, and they would not be too sympathetic to give the subject the full benefit of their humor. Think of such a subject in the hands of Mark Twain! Regretfully I refer it to Irwin Cobb, and proceed.

Have wars in the past caused any great upsetting in the musical world? I think not. It may be that the work of a composer is colored by the history of his country; that seems extremely probable. The heirs to a persecuted nation always seem to have something of the defensive about them and something of the suspicious, but it is generations before a national uprising can be felt in the work of a composer. Men compose with their blood, and in the moods common to their temperaments, but not with their opinions. Witness Richard Wagner, who held opinions of the most violent description upon all topics connected with politics and the welfare of the "people," and who lived the time of the Franco-Prussian war and the struggles of 1866, and wrote many a pamphlet, but at the same time devoted his musical gifts to the absolute molding of music and the drama and wrote libretti which had no bearing upon the Prussian spirit of the time, or upon the sufferings of Europe during the Napoleonic campaigns. He was concerned with the ancient sagas of the north and with the pursuit of the ideal. It is true that he was a great musical revolutionary; but as is the case with the present music revolution, he preceded the wars and foreshadowed them. It is remarkable that during the time of the political agitations of 1849, in which Wagner took such an active part he was compelled to flee to Paris at the close, he was engaged in writing "Tannhauser," the libretto of which deals with mediaeval times. Then followed "Lohengrin," than which nothing can be imagined less akin to Prussian riotings. Then came the rest of the Nieblungen series, and later the plan of "Tristan." Wagner might as well have lived in the sixteenth century for all the effect of the Prussian wars upon him musically. Wagner, as a revolutionary, preceded the Austro-Prussian war of 1866 and the Franco-Prussian war; a prophet, if ever there was one.

Hector Berlioz, too, is an example of a revolutionary who preceded the wars. There is nothing warlike, in the concrete sense, in his music, and yet he was one of the great revolutionaries. He gave France an intimation of war in musical terms some years before Prussia did, and his war with the critics was comparable to the one that followed. Berlioz died a year before the Franco-Prussian war began, with a record of broken idols behind him and a musical world aghast as to what was to follow. The wars within Berlioz made themselves felt all over Europe, but the wars raging outside made no impression upon his consciousness except as the sound of drums far off.

A theory of musical prophecy such as I have pleaded could scarcely carry without the example of Beethoven, the greatest anarch of them all. It is edifying to observe that he preceded and predicated wars in a fuller sense than any of the others. Beethoven's smashing of idols came before the French Revolution, the War of Liberation and the Revolutions of 1830. Europe was in a state of chaos which only Napoleon could cause, while the world of music was absorbed by the later blasphemies of Beethoven.

Gluck reformed opera shortly before Napoleon reformed Europe. Napoleon's desire to put Europe in her place in his scheme of things is not unlike Gluck's mature desire

MUSICAL

Gala Week.

TWO STRIKING EVENTS.

SYMPHONY SEASON OPENING M'CORMACK RETURN.

Two distinguishing features will make the present week the most notable so far this season in the local musical world. One is the return of John McCormack, whose popularity is equaled by few concert singers, and the other the opening of the new Symphony season, which promises to be the most successful enjoyed by that organization. Except for one or two recitals by local musicians, the field will be left to the two major events mentioned.

John McCormack will sing twice at Shrine Auditorium, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, respectively. He will be assisted by Donald McBeath, violinist, and Edwin Schneider, pianist and composer. Two years have elapsed since the noted tenor's last appearance here.

McCormack is one of the greatest lyric tenors of this generation. His art has an unusual humanness and heart appeal that has won him hosts upon hosts of admirers. The sweetness of his voice and the simplicity of the manner in which he tells the stories of his songs ever captivate the public.

McCormack is to open the second evening course of the Philharmonic Tuesday evening. Other artists who will appear on this course are Percy Grainger, Mme. Melba, Maud Allan, the Flonzaley Quartette, Louis Graveure, Albert Spalding, Rudolph Ganz and Elena Gerhardt.

Following are the McCormack programmes:

Tuesday evening: "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave me?" and "Tell Fair Irene" (Handel,) Mr. McCormack; Largo and Vivace (Marcello-Salmon,) Mr. McBeath; "Singer's Consolation" (Schumann,) "May Night" (Brahms,) "When Night Descends" (Rachmaninoff) and "Autumn" (Bleichman,) Mr. McCormack; "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell) and "Spanish Dance" (Granados,) Mr. McBeath; Irish folk songs: "Norah O'Neale," "A Ballynure Ballad" and "Kathleen O'More" (arranged by Hughes,) and "Pastheen Fionn" (Milligan-Fox,) Mr. McCormack; "L'abeille" (Schubert-Wilhelmj) and "Mazurka" (Wieniawski,) Mr. McBeath; "The Bitterness of Love" (James Dunn,) "The Old Refrain" (Fritz Kreisler,) "Your Eyes" (Edwin Schneider,) and "Before You Came" (Lane Wilson,) Mr. McCormack.

Thursday evening: Recitation, "Jehovah, Hear Me," and aria, "Oh, My Heart is Sore Within Me" from "Engedi" (Beethoven,) Mr. McCormack; Adagio and Allegro (Cervetto-Salmon,) Mr. McBeath; "The Poor Irish Lad" (Handel,) "Faded Flowers" (Schubert,) "Serenade" (Raff,) and "If I were King" (Liszt,) Mr. McCormack; Sarabande and Allegro (Leclair) and "Pantalon" (Fiocci,) Mr. McBeath; Irish folk songs: "As I Went a Walking" (arranged by Page,) "Dracherin O'Machree" (Dr. Joyce,) "In Dublin's Fair City" (arranged by Page,) and "Nelly, My Love and Me" (Dr. Joyce,) Mr. McCormack; Adagietto (Bozet,) and "Zigeunerweisen" (Sarasate,) Mr. McBeath; "When I Awake" (H. T. Burleigh,) "Bonnie Wee Thing" (Liza Lehmann,) "When the Dew is Falling" (Edwin Schneider,) and "The Trumpeter" (Airlee Dix,) Mr. McCormack.

Symphony Concerts.

Never, it is said, has the local Symphony Orchestra faced a season of brighter promise than the one which will open Friday afternoon of this week. Not only is the assurance of success, financially, given by the general interest in the work of the organization, it is believed, but artistically the concerts this season promise better and bigger things than ever. Conductor Tandler has arranged an unusually strong and interesting series of programmes, while the membership of the orchestra has been enlarged to full Symphony strength, assuring a richer blending and greater volume of tone.

Socially, too, the Symphony season is to be made a feature, not only in Los Angeles itself but also in the neighboring cities and towns.

In Hollywood Wednesday the Woman's Club featured a Symphony day programme, with Conductor Tandler and a number of the orchestra players as guests. Mr. Tandler gave an interesting talk on "The Material and Means of Expression in a Symphony Orchestra." Other orchestra members present were Sigmund Beel, concert master; A. F. Hundhammer, G. Allan Hancock, C. H. Rheinhardt, Max Blaes, Theodore Berth, F. A. Marsales, F. Pierno and A. F. Wiedoeft.

The first concert of the orchestra Friday afternoon will be followed by another Saturday evening. The nine pairs of concerts to follow will be given about two weeks apart.

Following is the programme for the concerts this week: Overture in D major (Schubert;) Symphony No. 5, in E minor, "From the New World," Op. 95 (Dvorak,) Adagio, Allegro molto, Largo, Scherzo, Allegro vivace—Poco sostenuto, Allegro con fuoco; Symphonic Poem No. 1 (after Victor Hugo,) "Ce qu'on entend sur la Montagne" ("What One Hears on the Mountain,") by Liszt; "Invitation to the Dance" (Weber-Berlioz.)

Oratorio Announcement.

Handel's great oratorio, "The Messiah," will be heard in this city at Christmas time. The Los Angeles Oratorio Society, under Eduard Lebegott's baton, will present the work. Rehearsals are now being held every Tuesday evening in the Y.W.C.A. Building, at No. 251 South Hill street. It is hoped to bring together a chorus that will surpass any hitherto heard in oratorio in this city, and, therefore, the rehearsals have been arranged so as not to conflict with church or choir meetings. The presentation of the work will take place on a Sunday afternoon. The members of the society under the direction of John A. Wilferth, the president, and Mr. Lebegott are busy increasing the forces of the organization for the event.

Benefit Concert.

A concert will be given for the benefit of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church this afternoon at Trinity Auditorium by Jean de Chauvenet, organist, pianist and composer; William Reher, violinist and Helene de Chauvenet, soprano

OF ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

The Pines and the Sea.

Beyond the low marsh-meadows and the beach,
Seen through the hoary trunks of windy pines,
The long blue level of the ocean shines.
The distant surf, with hoarse, complaining speech,
Out from its sandy barriers seems to reach;
And while the sun behind the woods declines,
The moaning sea with sighing boughs combines,
And waves and pines make answer, each to each.

O melancholy soul, whom far and near,
In life, faith, hope, the same sad undertone
Pursues from thought to thought! thou needs must hear
An old refrain, too much, too long thine own:
'Tis thy mortality infects thine ear;
The mournful strain was in thyself alone.
—[Christopher P. Cranch.

Interpretations.

All art is a criticism of life. That is to say, life reacts on the poet and the composer, the painter and the novelist, and each in his own way tries to express its meaning. The multiform phenomena of life that assail the ear and the eye, sink into the soul and the heart, where they are pondered and sifted, ultimately to be recorded in terms of art.

If the record is a true one, if the artist has not been influenced by others in his seeing, it will be of unique value to those of us who are not artists, and who must therefore be guided to a clear and vivid understanding of life's meaning. No one artist can do this for us, but we look at the works of many, and so arrive at a fairly-correct criticism of art, thus completing the circle and coming back to life itself. To our amazement, we find that art is not the luxury of the few, but the necessity of the many. We may reasonably change the word "education" in Danton's famous sentence and make it "art," thus: "Apres le pain, l'art est le premier besoin du peuple." For art is truly one of the most important branches of education.

Regarding art as a criticism of life, you begin to understand the ugliness, the incoherence and the chaos of the works of the cubists and futurists in paint, prose and verse, for these men spoke through the zeitgeist—the spirit that brought about the terrible world war. It has been said that if we had been wiser we might have foretold this war from their works. Even so highly sensitized is the artist, the critic of life.

All the arts do not inform us about the same things in life, though all are concerned with ideal beauty. All art is moral, but only the art of literature can deal with morality per se; painting touches it but lightly, music not at all. But the spirit of man breathes through each and all of the arts, man's hopes, fears, passions and aspirations, his perpetual search for God. This is why art becomes somewhat of a religion with the artist.

The chief concern of the plastic arts is the delineation of visible beauty. This, one would suppose, is a self-evident truth, but many laymen hold the very opposite, and even some artists are in doubt. These would carry painting and sculpture into the domain of literature, telling a tale and reading its moral. This may sometimes be done, but not often, and always with doubtful success. The artist who wants to preach should seek the pulpit, where he may exhort to his heart's content. My advice is particularly apropos among Anglo-Saxons, who are all born with an itch to reform the world.

No, the object of the painter is not reform, but inspiration. His mission is not to teach, but to uplift. His appeal must be made to our emotions, not our conscience, though through our emotions he often reaches and conquers the inmost citadel of the soul. It would seem that, in the last analysis, the preacher and the painter accomplish very much the same thing, though by totally different methods, and that the artist who makes art his religion is not so very far wrong, after all.

The glory of painting is its color, and the glorious names among painters are those of the colorists. You may have perfection of form in sculpture, but the crowning loveliness of color is denied you. Color is emotionally exhilirating to most of us, and when a man feels color with poignancy and weaves patterns with it on canvas we are eager to see the result. A primitive appeal, you may say, far below the intellectual demand of the statue or the etching—but food, drink and sleep all alike make primitive appeals, and who dare deny their necessity?

Consider a colorless world. No gold in the sunset, no blue in the midday sky, no red in the summer rose, no green in the spring—the situation is unthinkable. We would all commit suicide within a week. Yet these are but the primaries, nature's first crude efforts in color. How wonderfully she has learnt to mix them, grandly flinging toward us a thousand ravishing tints to steal the very souls out of our bodies! This is the state of rapture, common to poets, painters and other mad enthusiasts. The love of color primitive? Go to!

And so, color, being a thousand exquisitely lovely and subtle things, can say a thousand beautiful things to the beholder. And the painter whose love for color is a passion spells his devotion in a thousand ways, and the last word in his sentence is always "beauty." Having found beauty, he may rest assured that he has won truth, for beauty is truth.

A colorist of a thousand tints is Hovsep Pushman, who proves his right to the title by the pictures he is now exhibiting in the gallery at Exposition Park. The canvases shimmer and shine like jewels, and their truth is the truth of beauty. You and I may not see all these colors in nature. How, indeed, should we? We have never looked for them. When Pushman searched, we may be sure that he did not use his eyes only. If he had, he would have produced dull copies of nature, not brilliant transcriptions in art, interpretations as haunting as a poet's vision—which, of course, they are.

I have already written several times about the superb art of Pushman. My words were the expression of a personal conviction, but I find that they are echoed by numerous men and women in Los Angeles. Perhaps no appreciation is truer than that of purchase. Two of the finest of Pushman's canvases have been bought for a downtown gallery noted for its quality in selection, and I am informed that Exposition Park is considering another. I wonder if "A Priestess of Madagascar" is the committee's choice. If so, it is certainly absolutely right, for this picture is a magnificent piece of color, and the priestess is as cryptic in expression as the Mona Lisa. "The Pilgrim from Mecca" belongs to the Rockford Art Guild, "The Hour of Rest" and "Long-Wong" to the Milwaukee Art Institute.

In "Marguerite" and "Narcissa" the Pig'n Whistle Gallery has certainly acquired gems—in the case of the latter, almost literally, for it sparkles with color like a veritable casket of jewels, a casket of enormous size. "Marguerite" is more subtle, more reserved in its harmonies, but it is not more beautiful than "Narcissa." "Marguerite" gives us the portrait of a long-legged child of 10 or 12, who is seated in a chair, her attitude quiet and pensive. The expression is as "natural" as the pose, for childhood ponders many things deeply and seriously. Deeply serious, too, almost sad, is the expression of the charming red-haired young girl in "Youth," a color-combination of great beauty and originality.

Pushman's color, as you may imagine, is never applied haphazard. It has both esthetic and spiritual meaning. It is as carefully thought out as any other part of his subtle "arrangements"—perhaps even more carefully, for the artist is an oriental, to whom red and green and purple are much more significant than colors. His search for recondite meanings and suggestions in color may seem strained to the occidental mind, but it must be admitted that his results are his triumphant justification.

In that rich little canvas, for instance, "A Memento of Old Madrid," the life and tragedy of Spain are hinted at in the dark red shawl drawn upward toward the woman's face, and in the black of the mantilla. In the exquisite "Page from Omar Khayyam" the lovely lavender background suggests lost delight and present regret, the wilting rose in the girl's lap speaks of dreams that will never quite pass away, though the reality has crumbled to dust. "Poppy in the Garden of Allah" has great distinction, the red blossom in the extended fingers of the negro girl typifying the elusive, flaming spirit of the girl herself. In "Dreams" the purple gown gives the mood. The colors of Armenia are incorporated in the charming portrait of his wife—the black and red and purple of tragedy and grief—but as the sitter is smiling, the screen in the background is light yellow and green, spring's colors of gladness.

Everywhere the painter seeks harmony, in the color itself and in color as it is related to the mood of his sitter. He balances full tones with half-tones in the ratio of one and two, distributing his lights and darks with the utmost care.

You will note that he concentrates expression in the eyes, and that he models the lips with consummate precision. In finding the soul of his sitter he attenuates the body, and, though he paints beautiful women, I believe he has never painted a voluptuous one, and I doubt whether he ever attempts the nude.

Much more might be written about the art of Hovsep Pushman—indeed, I have much more to say, for it interests me greatly—but lack of space must make me content with what I have put down last week and this. It is good to know that we have a genuine colorist among us—a man tuned emotionally to the expression of harmonies in paint.

News and Notes.

A few current exhibitions—all of interest, one or two of note—will receive attention in this column next week. At the Friday Morning Club, Guy Rose is showing about twenty-five pictures, many of them Californian in subject. They will remain on view to the end of the month. Edouard Vysekal is exhibiting brilliant color studies at the Daniell gallery, No. 640 South Hill street, to be followed by pictures from the brush of William Lees Judson. Dana Bartlett has a number of water colors and monotypes in the little gallery at the Public Library and also is showing through the month at the Hollywood Woman's Club.

William V. Cahill has been showing at the Daniell gallery for the past week the study of a girl in sunlight. It is now on its way to an exhibition in the Corcoran gallery. Though there are some faults in drawing, this is undoubtedly the best thing this talented young painter has yet done, a truly remarkable exposition of the effect of sunlight on the human figure, a beautiful piece of color. Cahill's career will be watched with interest, for he is a coming man.

An unusually attractive meeting of the California Art Club was held last night, on which occasion two pictorial photographers, Messrs. William and Sheehan, who for the past year or two have been making experiments with lumiere slides in landscape, gave an exhibition of hundreds of successful landscapes in color.

Luvena Buchanan is holding an exhibition of paintings in the Harmonia Club, Brack Shops, on West Seventh street. It will remain to November 16.

Cadwallader, the etcher, who is now in Oraibi, Ariz., making a series of plates for an eastern magazine, will exhibit at Exposition Park in December.

The exhibition of the San Francisco Art Association opened November 10. Prizes to the value of $1500 are to be awarded, all exhibitors being eligible for competition.

Albert Abraham Michelson, who has been added to the National Research Council, by Presidential appointment, is professor of physics in the University of Chicago. He is a native of Streino, Germany. His parents having settled in the United States, he was educated in the schools, and later found his way to the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, where he was graduated in 1873, and became an instructor in physics and chemistry. Later he served for a time in the office of the Nautical Almanac, at Washington, and then he went to Europe and studied at the best universities of Germany and France. Returning to the United States with a doctor's degree, he taught, in turn, at the Case School in Cleveland, at Clark University and at the University of Chicago, where, since 1892, he has been the head of the department of physics. For his researches in connection with light, as well as for his general attainments, he has had the highest honors from the societies of Europe and election to their membership. His supreme recognition came in 1907, when the sum of $40,000 from the fund given by Nobel, the Swede, was awarded him, he being the second American so honored.

HAPPY THOUGHT CLUB SYMPOSIUM.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

Talking about native poets, the Happy Thought Club is likely to add to its membership one whose ancestors were here long before Columbus met the queenly Isabella.

At that, however, the candidate would hardly gain admission had not the club already torn down all barriers of race, creed or color by extending the right hand of fellowship to Harkirai Shimose, the Nipponese nightingale.

The new applicant is none other than Peter Horse Pistol, the medicine man of the Pawnee reservation and a son of the old chieftain, Panther's Breath. He is a graduate of both Sherman and Carlisle, and is the author of the class yell which, when played on the trombone, snorts like this:

"Woof! woof! woof! who's ahead?
Big chief Thunder, painted red,
On the warpath, ripe with rum,
Bust my buttons! here I come."

Peter's father, on his retirement from the war trail, got a position with a local tobacconist. For nine years he stood in front of the shop with a box of cigars in one hand and a tomahawk in the other, advertising Pittsburgh stogies. He wished that his son might take his place when he passed to the happy hunting grounds, but it was not to be. When Peter grew up and secured his education he ran away with a musical comedy company and the first thing they knew he was writing lyrics about the American flag for Georgie Mazuma Cohen. Now he is recognized as quite a flinger of frivolous verse and he is also a handy man around second base on the diamond and first bass in the Tammany Glee Club. He visits his reservation twice a year and draws down his government allowance, which he spends for fiz water at Venice. The survivors of his tribe still know him as a great medicine man because he has a plug hat which he can pull in and out like a concertina.

When Harikari Chimose learned of the proposed admission of Peter Horse Pistol to membership in the club he became very enthusiastic: He said:

"Oh brothers glorious of Glad Thinkso Association: Is it to permit dishonorable Japanese school boy, aged about 40, to admit those hand of greetings to these happy wild mans of Indian races only more so? I am hungry to being companions of these red man, who has rotten such rich and immense poultry. Oh! greatest of these days, oh! splendor, oh! mamma."

On motion of Mavourneen Briggs the noble red man was admitted upon his record.

The club was asked to arrange for bail for Charlottessen Rubendahlia, who, as a judge of election, was pinched for stuffing the ballot box in her precinct. The lady is one of the most ardent of the water-wagon sisterhood and, although there is a Republican club of 130 members in her precinct, she reported the vote as follows: Hughes, 4; Wilson, 4; Hanly, 216. This was more than the authorities could stand for.

The members looked to the Old Resident, the official bailer of the club, for relief, but the pioneer shook his head. In apprehension that the prohibition amendment would carry he had stocked up with 200 cases of beer and had invested all he cared. "Nothing doing," he said. "While I hate to see a lady suffer, it will do her good to stay in jail for a few days."

However, word came later that Charlottessen had been released on her own recognizance.

The national election having been put across, club interest reverts to the coming election of its own, which takes place next month. The campaign of Esmerelda Hooligan and others in the interest of Uncle William Swaggs, the wild sage of the San Gabriel wash, is quite an effective one, although it seems to lack the enthusiastic backing of the candidate himself.

Uncle William is still laid up with a wobbly hind leg, but from his retreat he wires his sympathy to Myra Marr over her affliction in having red hair in the family—he is something of a human torch himself. Then he says:

However, as Gen. Coxey or some other celebrity said, "Let us have peace." Election is over and we can once again grasp the hand of good-fellowship without guessing what the good fellow has concealed in the other hand. Relative to the approaching election to the club presidency, I greatly appreciate the honor my friends would thrust upon me, but I hae me doots as to the result. Not as to my election, for that is a foregone conclusion—I won my rep. as a good loser because I've never lost anything—but I refer to my future standing in the society of which I am now a pillar. My native State sent me to California, homely, but pure, and I hesitate lest there be a stain put upon my 'scutcheon at this late day. So here goes:

What's the Use?

I've never held an office in my life,
Although I have been tendered one or two,
But I'm a whole lot leary of the knife
The opposition always keeps in view.
Though my career has been one long sweet song,
With not a single blot to mar my fame,
They'll swear I've thrived on misdeeds all along,
And prove it, too, these experts at the game.

To charity I've always been inclined,
I've never left a brother in the lurch,
But if I'd run for office they would find
I often robbed the poor box in the church;
I always spend my evenings in my home,
But let the opposition tell the tale,
And they'll describe the paths of sin I roam,
And set the vice commission on my trail.

The gravest crime that I have ever done
Was hooking apples in my early youth,
But if for office I should try to run,
And even tho' my middle name is Truth,
They'd soon produce the goods to show that I
Am one grand expert at the burglar's trade,
And that from truth I fight a whole lot shy,
For that is how the campaign game is played.

No, friends, I've never sought a public trust,
Although I have been offered one or two,
They banged at me as if they thought I must,
But I could never see that point of view;
For though my Christian virtues brightly shine,
I know, as sure as little apples grow,
The other gang is sure to get a line
Upon my past, and prove it to be so.

Friends of the wild sage refused to consider this as a declination and announced that they would press him for the club leadership until the last armed foe expired.

Likewise certain admirers of Violet Veronica Busby continue to urge her for the presidency. "Votes for women" is their cry, but it is strange that the Sunshine sisterhood is solid for Uncle William, while the male members are boosting the frolicsome violet.

It is the way of the world.

The prize tournament for verses, epigrams and literature concerning the kiss and kissing goes merrily on. The judges in the contest, consisting of the shades of Lord Byron, Tom Moore and Bobbie Burns, are once more working in perfect harmony and their conclusions will be reached without further friction.

Lorena Westminster Young, the Normandie Niobe, offered up these thoughts:

"About the mystery of a kiss. Ah, yes! who can describe it? Through a kiss one may see the gates of heaven opening, and a kiss also can be as meaningless as a wart on a pickle. But after all is said and done in its praise or blame, can you refuse it?

"But was there ever a kiss given which had so much consequence and was so far-reaching as the kiss that Judas gave? Nearly 2000 years of history have not been able to wipe it out or atone it."

Oscar Opdyke Onions, the cheerful nut, broke out in a new place in the kissing game when he offered this frothy fragment:

The Mormon.

I'm kind of careless in my kissing;
I never want to lose a bet,
And so for fear of something missing,
I've fondled every maid I've met.

The wholesale business is my fancy,
And constancy I fain despise,
And so from Alice down to Nancy
I make their lips the hunter's prize.

At this point arose J. Walsingham Cooney, the bland Old Bard of Barred Rock and said: "How do the osculatory sentiments of the club's poets compare with the impassioned outbursts of the Victorian highbrows? How does that immortal line of the fair Esmereldа, "The lips that lick liquor shall never lick mine," compare with the work of Mrs. Browning, for instance, at her best? I quote—"There were words

That broke in utterance, melted in fire,
Embrace that was convulsion; then a kiss
As long and silent as the ecstatic night,
And deep, deep shuddering breaths that meant beyond
Whatever could be told by word or kiss."

And what sang the Victorian laureate, Tennyson? Here is the heart cry of poor, forsaken Enone:

"Ah me, my mountain shepherd, that my arms
Were wound about thee, and my hot lips prest
Close, close to thine, in that quick falling dew
Of fruitful kisses, thick as autumn rains
Flash in the pools of whirling Simois."

And again in "Queen Guinevere":

"A man had given all other bliss,
And all his worldly worth for this,
To waste his whole heart in one kiss
Upon her perfect lips."

"What is the consensus of opinion Mr. President? Are not these specimens too smooth and saccharine—too faultily faultless? In this twentieth century do we not crave something more rugged and piquant—something with a dash of tabasco in it—something with a kick like that in the lines of the fair laureate of Watts Yea, Bo."

Virginia Van Nuys, the pink and white peri of South Paradise, is anxious to mingle in companionship with the club. Virginia is something over 7 years of age and when not writing poetry or doing moving picture stuff she is training lobsters to jump through a hoop. She's a regular lightning bug with the fountain pen and her noodle works with equal facility whether it be on a poem of passion or a cider vinegar advertisement. She is also very easy on the eyes and looks almost too good to be true. She has had both a stage and a newspaper career and specializes in putting the punch in her stuff. One would fancy she used paprika instead of ink. In her application she says:

"As a lady scout I want to be loved and I think you can get along with me right well. I don't take up as much room as a phonograph and I can make almost as much noise. I have monkeyed with the muse for my amusement and have handled news without being a nuisance. If you think you can put up with this send me a wire. In connection with your kissing game I make this little offering:

The Single Thought.

Through the drawn portals of the jeweled night,
Your soul and mine shall wander side by side,
In that communion, careless of time's flight,
In which no prayer of love may be denied.
The clinging kiss of passion shall be mine,
And lips on lips shall seal a lover's sighs.
No fairer flame from heaven could ever shine,
Than when I see the lovelight in your eyes.

"Looks like Virginia was one of our kind of people," remarked the Old Resident, as he turned to bestow a wink on Gladys Canby. "For shame!" said Gladys, hotly, "And you with Myra Marr's picture in your watch."

The secretary was authorised to inform the fair Virginia that she would be welcomed to membership and Prof. Watts Eaton Hughes said he would try and make a place for her in the club drama.

Ananga May Monrovia, the willowy warbler of Glassell Park, put one over on the strength of the big picture show, as follows:

Intolerance.

Standing forth, at the close of a Cycle,
To daringly, hold up the glass,
A mirror of truth, which shows up the world,
Regardless of pretense, or class.

From the days of old Babylon's splendor,
The cradle has swung to our day,
The merciless dragon, Intolerance,
Has still held the sceptor and sway.

"Rachel weeps on for her children,"
And her cries, have reached the great throne,
The hour has struck, and the sharp sword of truth,
Gleams forth, as it strikes for love's own.

Yes! Awaken to Brotherhood, Service,
May God bless the man, and the stage,
That will open the bars, for our freedom,
Then Love shall be Queen of the Age.

After this outburst the symposium closed and the members crossed over to the studio of the club to look at the costumes prepared for Myra Marr as the heroine in "Henrietta of the Hungry Heart." There is the creation of Mme. Barbara Breecheaux, the immodest modiste and are wonderful works. There is a court costume of shrimp pink chiffon held together at the waist with a G string, and calculated to concealingly reveal the adorable charms of the bewitching Myra.

As usual all applications for club membership or communications of interest; all entries in the prize competitions for verses to the kiss, to your favorite film star, or for the world's best limerick should be addressed to Eugene Brown, editorial rooms, The Times.

And that's about all for the present.

EDUCATORS.

George Andrew Reisner, who has recently made important discoveries relative to ancient Ethiopia, is director of an expedition jointly supported by Harvard University and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Dr. Reisner and his aids have been working at Gebel Barkal, 250 miles up the Nile from Kerman, in the province of Dongola. He has found remains of the civilization there between the years 1600 B. C. and 100 A. D. He is a native of Indianapolis, and won his A.B. and Ph.D. degrees at Harvard, where he specialized in Semitic languages. After an apprenticeship of a year as an assistant in the Royal Museum in Berlin, where he worked in the Egyptian department, he returned to Harvard and began to teach. In 1899 he went to Egypt to explore its soil for the University of California.

Howard Lee McBain of the Columbia University faculty of municipal science and administration, has been made one of the commissioners of education of New York City by Mayor Mitchel. Mr. McBain is a Canadian, who was educated at Richmond College, in Virginia, at Columbia University, and at the University of Chicago. After teaching in Richmond, and in the University of Virginia, he returned to Columbia and resumed the study of his specialty, which he now teaches. Then followed a year of service on the faculty of George Washington University, in Washington, D. C., and three years of work on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. A. J. Mundella, the secretary of the British National Education Association, has had many years' experience of educational administration. His own education he received at Nottingham and also in Paris, and subsequently he entered upon a business career. Eventually he took up the journalistic profession, and while engaged in this work the opportunity came to take up the occupation in which he was most interested, and which has, in many directions, since claimed most of his energies. He was a member of the London school board before its abolition in 1902, and since that date has occupied himself with tasks which bring him much more into touch with the schools in actual operation. At present, in addition to carrying out the duties of secretary of the National Education Association, he is chairman of the managers of about fifty schools in the St. Pancras district, where 50,000 children are taught.

Organ Recital Series.

Ernest Douglas, organist and musical director at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, is conducting a series of Sunday evening recitals that will form a very interesting exposition of the development of organ music. Following are the selections: "Introit" (Felix Antonius Cabezon;) "Pavanne" (William Byrd;) chorale, "Es is das Heil uns Kommen Her" (Johann Philipp Kirnberger,) and prelude, Musette and Air Majestueux (Jean Philippe Rameau.) Schubert Club.

An exceedingly gratifying reception was given the attractive performance of excerpts from "Shadowland," a musical fantasy with words by Henry Hurlbut Victor and music by Mrs. J. T. Anderson, president of the Schubert Club, at the meeting of that organization last Wednesday at the Alexandria Hotel. The fantasy proved interesting and beautiful to an unusual degree in its words and music. Stage settings, posters and costumes designed by Belle N. Hall, also had much to do with the success of the performance. Those taking part included: Margaret Stockwell, soprano; Harold Proctor, tenor; James H. Anderson, baritone; Katherine Fiske, violinist; Robert Alter, 'cellist; Mrs. J. Mitchell Jones, harpist; Mary Smith Cable, reader, and Julianne, character dancer, Mrs. Anderson was at the piano. Many requests have been received for an early repetition of the fantasy.

One of the most successful affairs recently given by the club was the recital of manuscript compositions by nonresident composers. The programme included a selection from the works of Ernest Kroeger, played by a trio made up of Arnold Krauss, violinist; Edward Kuster, 'cellist, and Anna Schulman, pianist; Mary Turner Salter songs given by Dorothy Beach, contralto; songs, Sidney Homer, presented by John Buchanan; songs, Horatio Parker, given by Mrs. Grace Widney Mabee, soprano; "The Fountain Song," by Axel Raoul Wachtmeister, sung by the women's chorus of the Schubert Club, under the direction of Eduard Lebegott, with Mrs. Joseph Zuckerman as soloist; Concert Etude, by Roy Lamont Smith, played by Olga Steeb, pianist; songs by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, given by Constance Balfour, soprano; Peace Jubilee Chorus from "Zuniana," presented by the male chorus of the Schubert Club, under the direction of Mr. Lebegott, with Mrs. Gloria Mayne Windsor as soloist. Accompanists were Grace Andrews, Gertrude Ross, Lorna Gregg and Will Garroway.

The students' extension section of the club, under the direction of a committee composed of Mrs. Edith Lillian Clarke, chairman, Mrs. Henly Bussing and Arnold Krauss, will present in recital before the club representative artist pupils of teacher members. Applicants will have a hearing next Thursday from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

At Friday Morning Club.

Much interest revolves around the recital to be given by Charles Henri de la Plate before the Friday Morning Club next Friday at 10:30 a.m. Mr. de la Plate has achieved an enviable reputation as a singer. This will be his first public appearance here.

Matinee Musical Club.

A particularly delightful programme is announced for the meeting of the Matinee Musical Club next Thursday afternoon at the Little Theater clubrooms. Miss Helen Mears of Pasadena, an exceedingly gifted young pianist, will be heard in recital; an interesting series of more or less popular numbers being featured by her.

The programme was in charge of Mrs. Rowena Blincoe. Besides the reading Miss Mildred Dawson sang a group of numbers by modern composers and Elizabeth Barrett played several Cyril Scott selections, both musicians achieving very pleasing effects.

Harmonia Club.

A programme devoted to the music of Brahms and Hugo Wolf will be given at the meeting of the Harmonia Club this week, under the leadership of Mrs. William F. Howard. Following the musical numbers there will be an exhibit of the water-color sketches by Edward Vysckal, a native of Bohemia and student of art in European centers, who has been residng here for the past eighteen months.

Symphony Study Club.

An interested audience was present at the first recital of the Symphony Study Club last Friday afternoon at the residence-studio of Mme. Mathilde Rudorf, No. 243 Carondelet street. Mme. Rudorf gave a very effective interpretation of the Second Symphony in D major by Beethoven, playing the work from the Liszt piano arrangement. Other programmes devoted to orchestral works, principally symphonies, are to follow at intervals.

St. Cecilia Club.

A programme devoted to sacred music will be given the 20th inst., St. Cecilia's Day, by the club of that name. The affair will be in charge of Mrs. Jesse Philip McKnight. Mrs. John W. Thayer will be hostess.

Piano Students Meet.

The Beethoven Club, made up of younger students of the Lillian Adams Piano Academy from Los Angeles, Santa Monica and vicinity, met at the studio of Miss Adams, No. 740 Marco place, Venice, last Saturday. The afternoon was spent in discussing the composer and playing selections from his works. Those taking part in the programme included Leanora and Mildred Brick, Andrea and Aileene Burks, Viola St. Germain, Helen Sheahan, Mildred Ellison, Helen Holbrook, Irene Harris, Evelyn Hughes, June Maddy, Margaret Michel, Dorothy Steinberg, Margaret Van Dyke and Mrs. A. Elliott.

Lectures on Symphonies.

Her lecture marked by exceedingly-well-brought-out analogies between music and literature, Mrs. Ethel Graham Lynde, interpreter of musical meanings, opened a series of six recitals before the Ebell Club with an exposition of orchestral works to be presented on the first two symphony programmes. Mrs. Lynde set forth that topic, emphasis, reiteration, etc., was followed as clearly in a symphony of the Beethoven type, as in such an abstract treatise as Edmund Burke's "Conciliation." Her reading of Victor Hugo's "What is Heard on the Mountains" was also a delightful feature of the morning. Grace Adele Freebey assisted effectively at the piano.

Beside the Ebell Club lectures Mrs. Lynde is also to give a series on the development of opera before the Woman's Club of Glendale, and ten talks on the development of song before a class made up of local society people.

Last Repertoire Recital.

Miss Margaret Goetz gave her last recital of the students' repertoire course last Thursday at Blanchard Hall. She was assisted by Mrs. Grace Widney Mabee, Mrs. May MacDonald Hope and Miss Grace James in the presentation of songs from the programmes of noted artists. Composers included on the programme were Faure, Lalo, Wekerlin, Strauss, Tschaikowski, Nevin, Mazzoni, Reger, Schumann, Franz, Hildach, Sinding, Brahms, Fuentes and Cadman.

Local musicians represented among the composers were Monimia Laux Botsford and Gertrude Ross. Mrs. Botsford, Mrs. Ross and Franklyn Newman played the accompaniments. The recitals this year have been very successful. The attendance was about double last year.

The idea in the recitals has been to prepare pupils for the hearing of the programmes of noted artists by giving them a better understanding of the music. About sixty-six composers were represented in the numbers given this season.

Elsa Cross Recital.

Elsa Cross, gifted Welsh pianist, will present a recital of modern compositions at the twilight hour the 27th inst. in the ballroom of the Little Theater. Her programme will include selections from the works of Schumann, Chopin, Liszt, Alkan, Borodine, MacDowell, Cadman, Scott and Grainger. Songs will also be given by some well-known local musician, it is announced.

Pupils Present Programme.

Mrs. Ruth Ritter Howell, Miss Ione Gale and Miss Lucy Hayes, pupils of Mrs. Jones-Simmons, were heard in recital last Thursday evening at the Stillwell Hotel, and proved their attainments in very interesting fashion. The programme included two trios, arrangements of "Were My Songs with Wings Provided," by Reynaldo Hahn, and the "Boat Song," by Harriett Ware, beside solo numbers chosen from the sides solo numbers chosen from the Rogers, Ronald, Sidney Homer and other popular modern writers, besides several clever dialect songs.

Opera Lecture.

Sydney Francis Hoben, well-known lecturer on musical topics, gave the first of a series of opera recitals last Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. C. A. Goodyear, No. 1230 Oakland avenue, Pasadena. The subject was Massenet's "Thais." Other lectures are to follow at the homes of prominent Pasadena people during November and December. Mr. Hoben is also to give a series in Oakland and San Francisco. His first Oakland recital will be at the residence of Mrs. William Griffith Henshaw.

Donahue's Success.

Lester Donahue is again reaping the reward of valor in the East. His recital at Aeolian Hall, given just a few weeks ago, has given him even greater standing in New York than he had last season, and he appears due for a very successful career. Says the New York Tribune: "Mr. Donahue has deepened in his art since last season without in the least departing from his straightforward sincerity of manner or of outlook. In his playing last night there was no excess of sentimentality, but throughout an emotional glow and strong imaginative feeling. His rendition of the Bach-d'Albert "Passcaglia" was finely conceived and brilliantly executed, and in the Brahms and Chopin numbers, especially in the former composer's D major ballade, his tone color was exceedingly fine."

The New York Herald said: "He played the Brahms Ballades with coviction. He is much in earnest in his explorations of the intellectual domain of Brahms. The loveliness of his tone and his clear sustained thought aroused the audience to enthusiasm. He was unusually brilliant in Schumann's "Tocatto." He brought out the tenderness of Chopin's "Berceuse" with a delicacy of feeling that never bordered on the mawkish. His excellent phrasing and his straightforward manliness made a strong appeal to the audience. He was recalled many times."

Whistling School Musicale.

The California School of Artistic Whistling gave an informal studio musicale in the Blanchard Building Saturday afternoon to an appreciative audience. In addition to whistling numbers by Shirley Irvine, Felice Jung and Helen Long, there were vocal selections by Bertha Davis Rossiter, recently returned from Chicago, where she was heard on a conventiol programme of the International Lyceum Association. Humorous and dramatic reading by Eliza Hood-Talbott, the celebrated Hoosier story teller, completed the programme. Miss Woodward, directer of the school, plans to hold these studio musicales every two weeks during the winter season.

New Glee Club.

Nearly 100 young men and women met at the Y.W.C.A. Thursday evening for the first gathering of the glee club for mixed voices under the leadership of Horatio Cogswell. This new musical club is not yet completely organized, although a most enthusiastic beginning was made. The next meeting will be on Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Musical Notes.

Mrs. May MacDonald-Hope, assisted by Mrs. Monimia Laux Botsford, recently gave a programme at the Knights of Columbus Hall, presenting a varied series of piano and vocal selections. Songs by Mrs. Botsford were a feature of the programme. Mrs. Hope played the "Ballade, opus 47," by Grieg; "Polonaise in E major," by Lizst, and sang a series of songs, including "Psyche" by Palahilde; "Fruehlingsnacht" by Schumann, and her own arrangement of "The Shoogy Shoo." Hostesses at the musicale were Mrs. Gregory Cotter, Mrs. Alexander J. McCone and Mrs. Dennis J. Cahill.

Miss Eleanor Lee, soprano, gave the following interesting programme at the last meeting of the Music Teachers' Association: "Zueignung" (Straus,) "Rosamunde" (Schubert.) "Nachtigall" and "Botschaft" (Brahms,) aria, 'Mon couer s'ouvre a ta voix" from Samson et Dalila" (Saint-Saens,) "Psyche" (Paladilhe,) beside a group of songs in English.

Mrs. Hennion Robinson made her debut as accompanist of the Ellis Club during the past week, with the result that the accompaniments were a feature, though ever an unobtrusive one. Her playing was an integral part of the selections. Morton F. Mason in several choruses given with organ accompaniment, proved himself an artistic complement for Mrs. Robinson. The work of both had a rare degree of finish.

Los Angeles will not be overlooked when it comes to the tour of the student singers of the University of Uppsala, Sweden, according to a letter received from Dr. Ernst Bolin, president of the body of student singers, received by A. O. Almen, of Glendale. For the present the plan of the tour has been abandoned, however. The singers were contemplating a visit to the United States next spring.

John McCormack,

One of the best-loved artists of the recital stage, who is to sing at Shrine Auditorium Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and (left) Adolf Tandler, director of the Symphony Orchestra, which will open its season with concerts Friday afternoon and Saturday evening at Trinity Auditorium.

Helene de Chauvenet,

Soprano, who will sing this afternoon at a concert by local musicians at Trinity.

BITS OF VERSE.

A Dream.

I dreamed you stood far up upon a hill,
So steep, its very memory haunts me still.
About you women stood—some pale and fair,
Some beautiful as night, with sable hair,
All grouped about in one great human ring—
Gazing with rapture, as upon a king.
Each one you took, and clasped unto your heart,
Then thrust her from you, standing far apart.
Yet still the others waited, with a sigh,
And smiling lips, the hour when they should die.
Each one you kissed in turn, and cast away,
I waited for my turn. The world seemed gray.
And yet, in wondrous radiance like a flame,
I waited, all alone, until you came.
You took my love, my soul, my dearest hope,
We stood, heart close to heart, upon the slope,
And as you held me close, and had your will,
I saw a woman climbing up the hill.
I knew, my life to save, I must destroy
This love within my heart—this one great joy.
But, try with all my strength, I could not tear
It from my heart, it was so rooted there
By memories so sacred, bitter sweet—
Alas, your arms relaxed, I saw you meet
This other woman, and my heart stood still
And silence reigned upon that barren hill.
You tried to thrust me down its slanting side,
And still my love engulfed you in its tide.
We sway together on that treacherous slope—
Then came the sun, and from my dream I woke.

. . . .

Ah, wondrous dream, so filled with joy and woe—
My loved one loves me not—for this I know,
His way is that of every mortal man—
He loves not deeply, but the best he can,
To him, love is a game—a moment's joy—
The passing of an hour—a pretty toy—
To play with for one little happy day;
The toy grows wearisome—'tis cast away.

—[Elsie Steiner, in Pictorial Review.

"Groves were God's First."

With reverent step and heart with worship filled,
Enter God's temple—one not built by hands,
Whose Gothic arch toward heaven's blue dome expands,
Beneath our feet the pines their needles spilled—
Soft carpeting the aisles. My being thrilled
When from choir invisible, near at hand,
The timid hermit thrush, at His command,
In deep and bell-toned notes its solo trilled.

The slanting sunbeams filtered through the trees—
Day's benediction resting on my head,
With grateful heart I sank upon my knees
In silent prayer. The breeze my Amen said—
While through the quiet woods, in shadows pale,
I felt the presence of the Holy Grail.

—[Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

An Old Maid.

She loves each little, helpless thing,
Babies, or pups, or kittens;
She's always making little gifts,
From lolipops to mittens.

She gladly leaves her book or task
To help some busy mother
Who simply has to lunch or dine
With one friend or another.

How sad that fate should portion so
That she may only share them;
She's so much more a mother than
Some foolish ones who bear them.

—[Charlotte Becker, in Life.

Cardinal Bella Volpe, camerlingo of the papacy, reported in a dying condition a few days ago, was at the time of his elevation to the cardinalate the maggiordomo of the Pope and controlled the whole administration of the papal residence. The camerlingo, by virtue of the office, becomes acting Pope during the interegnum between the demise of the Pontiff and the elevation of a successor.

Musical Prophets.

to fit his music to his characters and to avoid the old Italian idea of giving a singer a chance to hold a high note interminably or trill indefinitely, no matter what the sense of the situation required, in order to show her technique. "I shall make my music realize my characters," said Gluck, and not long afterward Napoleon said, "I shall make my characters realize my scheme." During Gluck's long struggle against the tradition of Italian prettiness he produced his great opera "Alceste" in Paris, and at first it was received with denunciaation and contempt. In despair, the composer exclaimed to Rousseau, "Alceste has fallen," much as Napoleon announced to his Marechal at Moscow, "Our forces have fallen;" but Napoleon had no friend to answer, as Rousseau did, "Yes, fallen from the skies."

The vital point is not what music will follow this war as what music foreshadowed it; and undoubtedly the shadow cast by the new composers of Europe is in proportion to the enormity of the war. There has been no such musical revolutio since the seventeenth century as has stirred Berlin, Vienna and Paris the twentieth. Schoenberg in Vienna, Debussy in Paris—and I cannot speak of the men at Berlin, becaus Richard Strauss is there in the full glory of his return to the symphonic form and he furnishes the exception which capsizes all my laborious theory! He followed the struggle of 1866 and he preceded forty years of peace.

Stage Offerings.

Owing to the size of the big Hip stage a most spectacular offering is promised.

Others on the bill will be the four Bonnells in a potpourri of music and comedy; Bert Lennon, character impersonator; Maurice Downey and company in "An Irish Arden;" Alice Allison, billed as the Boston banjo girl; the flying LaMars in a thrilling gymnastic casting act, in which they toss one another about in defiance of the laws of gravitation, and Abbott and Mills in a budget of songs and stories.

Pantages.

With a company of eight or ten oriental acrobatic jugglers and magicians, Long Tack Sam, the Chinese wonder-worker, will head the bill at Pantages commencing tomorrow. Long Tack has an enviable record on "big time" with his big production.

Eva Shirley is a dainty young lady with a voice and considerable individuality, while her act is attractively costumed. Dooley and Nelson, two clean-cut young men, sing, dance and comedy together. Gaylord and Lancton will present a glimpse of life before the footlights and behind the scenes, their act closing with a view of their dressing-room, where a comedy quarrel ensues. Others on the bill are Keno and Green in acrobatic dancing, singing and chatter, and Wills, Gilbert and company in their "Masked Frolic.

The second chapter of Helen Holmes's new serial, "The Lass of the Lumberlands," rounds out the programme.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, who has finally succeeded in isolating the germ believed to be the cause of infantile paralysis, is head of the bacteriological department of the Mayo Foundation at Rochester, Minn. He was invited to New York to study the disease, and began his experiments on a scale which had been impossible during his earlier experiments in Minnesota. The germ which he has isolated was found in the tonsils of children suffering from infantile paralysis.

Capt. Alfred W. Bjornstad, U.S.A., recently on duty as an instructor at the Army Service School at Washington, has been assigned as professor of military science at Harvard University. Capt. Bjornstad is an expert on infantry conditions, and it was his study and knowledge of the methods used by the Boers that caused some years ago the revision of the American infantry drill regulations.

Bunji Susuki, who came to this country from Japan to attend the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, is president of the Laborers' Friendly Society of Japan, an organization as near a trades union as the imperial government will permit. Dr. Susuki is a graduate of the Imperial University, who became a journalist, and then, as private secretary for one of the leading American missionaries, was led to take an interest in ethical and social phases of the native labor problem.

George Fillmore Swain, appointed chairman of the board of engineers employed to place a valuation on the railways of Canada, is professor of civil engineering in Harvard University. From 1887 to 1914 he was consulting engineer of the Massachusetts Railway Commission, and from 1894 to 1913 he was chairman of the Boston Transit Commission. In 1910 he was employed by the Massachusetts Railway Commission to make an appraisal of the assets and liabilities of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, and he has since done similar expert work for the Chicago elevated road and for the New York Central. Prof. Swain has had recognition from European societies, and has been president of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is a native of California.

Robert Archey Woods, who has been elected president of the Massachusetts State Board of Charities, is one of the veteran social settlement workers of the United States, having been the head of the South End House in Boston since 1891, when it was called the Andover House. He is an Amherst College graduate, who studied for the ministry at Andover Theological Seminary, and came under the influence of Prof. William J. Tucker, later president of Dartmouth College. The new social ideal of Christian service attracted Mr. Woods. He went to reside in Toynbee Hall, London, and on returning home he set about arranging for a social settlement in Boston to be carried on by men.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable.

AMONG THE STORES AND AMID THE SHOPPERS

BY OLIVE GRAY.

Now is the time to buy:

The practical gift for her. From out that completed of gift wearables, especially prepared in celebration of fourth anniversary, by that house on Spring street, where outcounts all else, you may select the gloves, the neckwe silken sweater, the scarf or hat which will give joy to season through.

The do-upping for your Christmas gifts. Selecting now stocks are complete and before the last-hour rush, you will yourself no end of trouble. And truly the wrapping of a gift almost half the value of the gift, since therein is embodied of good taste.

The kalogram and stationery for your best friend's Christ gift. You really must begin in time, or you will come up and be obliged at the last moment to substitute something neither you nor she will like as well.

There is an over-tone about a gift.

Some are swathed in an atmosphere which says: "Well, here is the thing I was obliged to buy! Glad that is off my mind!" The gift is merely an article purchased to fulfill a duty. This is said, first in the article itself, which is chosen at random, and obviously without regard to the pleasure it will give to the recipient. Chosen, too, regardless of any expression as to the taste, or the loving kindness of the donor.

On the other hand, a gift may express far more than its intrinsic value. In fact it should do this, if it be a perfect gift—rather than a mere duty stopper. The ideal gift is one selected to fulfill both the taste of the recipient and of the one who gives. It should convey the thoughtfulness of the friend who sends it. It should bear the mark of studious regard as to the character and the fastidiousness of the one to whom it goes. The smallest article, thus given, is valued more as a testimonial of esteem, than the most stupendous thing purchased haphazard and sent for the sole purpose of having the matter off one's mind. The same overtone may be expressed in the manner of wrapping the gift. The package daintily done up and bearing some distinctively individual touch, carries an intimation of appreciation in the recipient as well as in the sender.

Not Fifty-seven but Fifty-four.

Not "fifty-seven varieties" but fifty-four years! That is the proclamation of that mens furnishing house on Spring street which is celebrating the anniversary of it's first year in the new home, and at the same time, the fifty-fourth year of its establishment in Los Angeles. The celebration is marked less by any sort of bargain sale than by the complete showing of high-class goods, a full line—in readiness for the holiday buyer. Not alone are the offerings for men, although originally this was a store for men—but now it has become as its slogan proclaims "Your Store"—whether you are man or woman. For women the finest of silk sweaters, high-class gloves and neck wear, and sports wear of all the better kinds, are shown there. Thus the man who "just hates to enter a dry goods store" may, while buying for himself, pay a visit to the balcony shop and there select whatever his taste may dictate as Christmas remembrances for the women of his family.

To-and-Fro Hat.

The very latest fad is the To-and-Fro hat. It is an adorable confection of lace, ribbon, and hand-made posies; a really truly hat of an evanescent sort, having a cloth of silver or of gold crown and a filmy brim and it is worn going to and from parties or theaters. It may be made to match your evening coat, or to emphasize your gown or just to become yourself! So soft and light are these novel hats that they do not muss the hair. I have seen these charming French creations at but one place as yet—ye Hand Made Shoppe, of course. You may there order them in any color or style; or you may purchase them all ready-to. To what? ensnare the affections of all ers, to be sure!

SOCIETY.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.

Dear Margaret:

I am consumed with jealousy. [illegible] McGowan, new debutante, is [illegible] all the attention. She is the [illegible] interesting thing on the social [illegible] and the rest of us feel like [illegible] little glow worms on a bright [illegible] night. As sure as anyone [illegible] a party it is for her, as sure [illegible] is waxing eloquent over [illegible] sartorial, you know they [illegible] describing one of Eleanor's [illegible], as sure as anyone gushes [illegible] sweet dispositions you know [illegible] mean Eleanor. The elect four [illegible] assembled to bubble effer[illegible] praise at the California Club Wednesday, and you would have [illegible] they never had seen a [illegible] debutante before. I will [illegible] jealous if I like. Of course one [illegible] so strongly in Eleanor's favor [illegible] that she possesses an ultra[illegible] mamma. And rose pink [illegible] her color. If Eleanor can man[illegible] to look as handsome as mamma [illegible] years hence, Eleanor's hus[illegible] will be a proud man.

Isn't it jolly? Hostesses are prop[illegible] imbued with their duties to [illegible] debutantes and any amount [illegible] is in the offing. And two pop[illegible] bachelors are excogitating seri[illegible] as to whether or no they shall [illegible] a dinner dance, but they [illegible] to cut me dead if I blurt[illegible] out before they were ready. It [illegible] that bachelors are having [illegible] of consciences. They have [illegible] considered that on their per[illegible] charms, reciprocity was un[illegible]. Now they are not so [illegible]. Besides, they are getting old[illegible] and consequently more thought[illegible] all the time.

The Amateur Players did them[illegible] proud at the Gamut Club on [illegible] evening. Such a dazzling [illegible]—and such clever acting. [illegible] I. S. Vallely made no end of a [illegible] her part as the angelically [illegible] mamma of the cockney beau[illegible]. Her dresses were so clever, so [illegible] "nearly right," the self[illegible] imitation of the real thing. [illegible] just started giggling the moment [illegible] walked on the stage, with that [illegible] wisp of hair, and that [illegible] natural effort to appear "at [illegible]" at all costs. Really her amaz[illegible] sporting togs were not far out [illegible] can see their counterpart on [illegible] a local golf course. And, oh, [illegible] rectors could all be like John [illegible] as the Rev. Hildebrand Her[illegible]. One just knew he didn't do [illegible] but hover gracefully round [illegible]-rooms and hand tea. There [illegible] air of modest uncertainty [illegible] him that must have been the [illegible] thing for him to acquire [illegible]. For in private life [illegible] is decisive, irrevocable, ada[illegible]. What he has said he has [illegible].

[illegible] Brown looked quite [illegible] as the gentle ingenue, [illegible]-open baby blue eyes and [illegible] of pretty faces. Mrs. [illegible] Macbeth was very self-sac[illegible] in the ungrateful part of the [illegible], for she let them make her [illegible] wrinkles, which, with her [illegible] disposition, she could never [illegible] naturally in a lifetime.

[illegible] have been much more [illegible] if the cockney charmer had [illegible] with the handsome butler [illegible] played by Charlie Adams—he [illegible] to create joyous laughs [illegible] the audience withhout speak[illegible] a word or cracking a smile. But [illegible] needs select the Major, [illegible] was too terribly like some [illegible] own passe bachelors to [illegible] any enthusiasm.

[illegible] Mrs. Irwin Muma and Mrs. [illegible] Henshaw were clever enough [illegible] professionals, the former as [illegible] grande dame and the [illegible] as the cockney charmer.

Which reminds me. Aren't the [illegible] actors basking in the smiles [illegible] society maidens just now? When [illegible] for a marked preference [illegible] movie actors, Helen remarked [illegible] they were the only men with [illegible] manners and who dressed [illegible]. A popular pastime with society [illegible] just now is writing scena[illegible] for their particular movie hero. [illegible] rather famous debutante has [illegible] Jack Holt of the Universal, [illegible] plays handsome wicked Mexi[illegible] bandits so convincingly, for the [illegible] of her attentions—much, it [illegible] declared, to his embarrassment.

[illegible] a certain society hostess [illegible] pie at her husband, that sort [illegible] seems to be becoming [illegible]. One hears of a society [illegible] who likewise threw the [illegible] pie at his wife. It splashed [illegible] a lady guest, and left its im[illegible] on the rich curtain behind her. [illegible] these playful little ways [illegible] be so sadly misunderstood, and [illegible] broke up the party. Ladies [illegible] were to be fetched at 11 wait[illegible] in line at the telephone to de[illegible] instant conveyance. People [illegible] conservative.

Of course, the next step will be [illegible] pie. It was getting a lit[illegible] démodé anyway at really smart [illegible]. Conservative hostesses, [illegible] the suggestiveness engen[illegible] by pie in recent events, will [illegible] it with care. They must be [illegible] forward to Thanksgiving [illegible] with considerable perturbation [illegible] households. Still, if the [illegible] persists, there is no know[illegible] what can be done with ice [illegible].

[illegible] pretty Elizabeth Compton [illegible] played bowls with at Coronado [illegible] married the attentive lieuten[illegible] Maitland McIlvain. Think of [illegible] wicked children arranging for [illegible] big church wedding for Friday [illegible] then getting married on the sly [illegible] Wednesday instead! They don't [illegible] to get any wedding pres[illegible]. They were comfortably desig[illegible] "such a nice couple," but I [illegible] know how anyone found out, [illegible] they were so wrapped up in [illegible] other they never saw anyone [illegible].

[illegible]: Mrs. Seward Simons [illegible] discard her white aigretts. Mrs. [illegible], stern officer of the Audu[illegible] Society, got wind of the graceless [illegible] of aigrettes by presiden[illegible] femininity and registered indig[illegible]. Mrs. Simons pleaded she did [illegible] know they were real! Ignorance [illegible] plea, according to the law. [illegible] who is going to believe that [illegible] did not know her aigrettes [illegible] real? But the Friday Morning [illegible] will be able to point with pros[illegible] pride at the president's [illegible] no more.

[illegible] insist upon improving our [illegible], don't they? The drama [illegible] elevating us with little the[illegible] the music people elevating us [illegible] symphony concerts, the liter[illegible] people elevating us with poetry [illegible] and now the artists insist [illegible] elevating us with compelling [illegible]. Compelling is the word, [illegible] you don't wander round an [illegible] clothed in a wrapt, [illegible] you have no [illegible] these days. Hen[illegible] and Helena Dunlap are now bent upon raising our artistic tone. They are importing painters from New York and Chicago with glittering names, and will duly set them up for our worship at Brackett Hall on the 20th. How does one talk to "'great modern painters,'" dear? One might quote John D. Trask, and murmur that "there is nothing more worthy of human consideration than art," even if one did make a mental reservation in favor of plumbing, but that would be an exacting topic to pursue through a long conversation.

That's the worst of the elevating things, they make such a perpetual demand for intelligent comment, which is so wearing.

Yours yearningly, BETTY.

Now the Debutantes.

NOW that the excitement of a Presidential election has subsided, and shopping, informal bridges and luncheons, dinners and suppers and week-end parties are taking their usual place on the calendar of happenings, society still cannot settle into normal activities. For there are the debutantes to plan for, that their first season may make social history.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weeks Banks are now making out their list preparatory to issuing invitations for a dance December 22, complimenting Miss Eleanor MacGowan, the first of the society girls to be presented, and Miss Eleanor Workman, and also the Misses Gertrude and Marion Kerckhoff, who are to make their official bow at a debutante tea their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Kerckhoff of West Adams street, are to give Wednesday. The Banks dance will be one of the brilliant events for the younger marrieds and unmarrieds, at the parental W. D. Woolwine home, No. 1201 Lake street.

Miss Dorothy Lindley also has in the planning a compliment to Miss MacGowan, Miss Workman, the Misses Kerckhoff and Miss Marion Wigmore—to be presented the 25th inst. at a tea that will be given by her mother, Mrs. George Herbert Wigmore of No. 949 West Adams street, assisted by Mrs. John Wigmore. Miss Lindley's courtesy to the bevy of debutantes will be a dinner dance at the Los Angeles Country Club, and though the cards are not yet out, the date has been set for the evening of December 6.

Mrs. Homer Laughlin, Jr., is also on the list of prospective hostesses, but ere the winter is over nearly all of the people of the blue book will have paid their social homage.

A sweet bit of sentiment was linked with Miss Workman's presentation, which took the form of a tea dansant at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday afternoon, for the event was timed to fall upon the date of the twenty-first wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Workman, and also the forty-eighth wedding anniversary of her grandparents, Judge and Mrs. R. M. Widney.

Mr. and Mrs. Workman received with their daughter in the large reception-room of the clubhouse, banked in potted plants and ferns, and with a wealth of flowers which had been sent Miss Eleanor in welcome to her coming out. She wore a debutante frock of sea-foam green taffeta, run with gold threads in pattern and made over a foundation of gold cloth and lace, and she carried orchids. Mrs. Workman was in a handsome gown of white satin and mink. Both wore picture hats.

Among those asked to assist were Mmes. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Ernest A. Bryant, Allan C. Balch, Guy Cochran, George J. Denis, John S. Ellis, John A. Fairchild, John F. Francis, Robert N. Frick, William May Garland, Frank Griffith, Stephen C. Hubbell, John Percival Jones, Frank S. Hicks, William G. Kerckhoff, E. Avery McCarthy, Charles M. Masson, W. H. Workman, W. H. Workman, Jr., R. M. Widney, Harry Watson, Randolph Huntington Miner, Dean Mason, James Rathwell Page, Walter Raymond, Joseph Francis Sartori, I. N. Van Nuys, George H. Wigmore, Woods Woolwine and Wesley Clark, John H. Norton, Wylie Mather and Miss Mary Workman. All the debutantes were also there, receiving their share of the homage.

The tea tables were in red rose mounds resting on bases of maidenhair fronds.

The younger set stayed to a dinner dance, those bidden numbering the Misses Gertrude and Marion Kerckhoff, Miss Marion Wigmore, Miss Eleanor MacGowan, Miss Mary Forve, Miss Louise Hunt, Miss Mary McMillan, Miss Dorothy Williams, Miss Eleanor Banning, Miss Helen Jones, Miss Albertine Pendelton, Miss Widney Watson, Miss Rosemary Sartori, Miss Dorothy Lindley, Miss Beatrice Finlayson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weeks Banks, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Locksley Stanton, Messrs. Willoughby Page Rodman, Harrell J. Harrell, Robert Craig, Charles Stimson, Hilliard MacGowan, Preston Hotchkiss, Frank Simpson, Maynard McFie, Field Staunton, John Garner, William Lovett, Joe Banning, Jr., Wheeler Chase, Horace Scarborough and Webster Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mason will be hosts the evening of the 21st inst. at a dancing party for Miss MacGowan. Their home on Andrews boulevard will be given over almost wholly to the younger set. Others of the society buds will share in special recognition.

The Marshall dancing party previously announced has been postponed indefinitely, because of a bereavement.

In Retrospect.

Wednesday evening a brilliant throng gathered at the ball which Mr. and Mrs. James Calhoun Drake and Mrs. Mary Wilcox Longstreet gave at the California Club, honoring the season's first debutante, Eleanor MacGowan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Granville MacGowan, who are old-time family friends of the hosts. Nearly 400 guests attended, many of whom were in dinner parties earlier in the evening.

The clubhouse was aglow with goldeny-yellow chrysanthemums, the ballroom and salon containing hundreds of the autumn blossoms against trellises of pale green. The walls were festooned and garlanded in bright ropes of green and here and there were recesses to hold great urns of the "mums." In the supper-room a debuntante table held the center, surrounded by smaller boards, each having French baskets of gold lacquer, which showered cyclaman, heather and pink rosebuds. Miss MacGowan had seated with her Mr. and Mrs. Sayre Macneil, the Misses Gertrude and Marion Kerckhoff, Miss Eleanor Workman, Miss Marion Wigmore, Miss Helen Jones, Miss Phila Miller, Miss Louise Hunt, Miss Helen Duque, and Messrs. Hilliard MacGowan, John Garner, Garretson Dulin, Don O'Melveny, Harrell J. Harrell, Gabriel Duque, Robert Craig, Frank Simpson, John Rankin and Field Staunton.

Mrs. Drake received in a handsome importation of silver and white satin, with Mrs. Longstreet in black lace and velvet with diamond ornaments. A dream frock of silvery lace over silver-embroidered orchid cloth, ornamented with silver threads run in by hand in distinctive pattern, was Miss MacGowan's debutante frock, and she carried orchids. Mrs. MacGowan, who stood with the hostesses and honoree to welcome the large assemblage of matrons and belles and their escorts, was in rose satin, while her mother, Mrs. Mary Briggs, wore a black lace and sequin costume. Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner was in cerise velvet with wrought embroidery in silver and gold.

A second large happening of Wednesday—a bridge luncheon carried out in yellow and brown—had for hostess Mrs. Joseph Harvey Miles, who entertained at her home, No. 43 Westmoreland place, and was assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Mendel Myer, Mrs. Edgar Shelton Dulin and Miss Edna Miles. Mrs. Miles wore pale yellow to harmonize with the decorative motif, and the tables, covered with imported filet over which were scattered autumn leaves in colorful tints, each held elaborate floral centers of pompons and other yellow chrysanthemums, which came from beds of moss. The doilies and nut cups, bonbon and frosted cakes were done in brown and yellow borders.

At the Country Club.

Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mrs. Joseph Frances Sartori, Mrs. William S. Hook, Jr., Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant and Mrs. Frank Griffith, who will supervive this season's dinner-dances at the Los Angeles Country Club, are to be responsible for much gaiety there, not only at the teas which are to be an innovation fortnightly, but at the dinner-dances twice a month.

Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Mrs. Earle C. Anthony and Mrs. Guy Cochran will be "official hostesses" next Wednesday night, and have in the planning a merry evening, with numerous parties to add gusto. Of course the debutantes will be signally honored—there is something at the club that makes for success during one's first season, as was proved in the case of Miss Eleanor Banning, who came in for so much attention all through last season. So the hostesses, in turn, are to bestow pretty courtesies on the bevy of buds now making their bows. There will also be the "no host" table—absolutely indispensable since it was instituted.

Honoring Visitors.

For Mrs. Sidney Cloman and her niece, Miss Natalie Campbell, who were passing through the city to Arizona from San Francisco—where Mrs. Cloman has been since her return from Manila—to join Maj. Cloman of the service, Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy gave a buffet luncheon at her home the past week. Miss Campbell will return by Los Angeles and spend next month as a house guest of Mrs. McCarthy.

Initial Dance.

Mrs. A. P. Kendis was hostess at a dance the evening of the 4th inst., with more than 200 guests present. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. G. Lynch, Mrs. Lee Utley, Mrs. Grover Ketchum, Mrs. J. Wickham, Mrs. Bluett, Mrs. J. Bartels, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. MacNaughton and others.

In the ballroom were clusters of yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves, while the reception hall carried out the same decorative scheme. Punch was served off the billiard-room, and a midnight supper gave a substantial climax to the much-enjoyed event.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. L. W. Snow of No. 929 Catalina street gave a bridge luncheon at Christopher's yesterday afternoon, when forty-six guests were included.

One large oval board, glistening with its crystal and silver, had a bed of Enchantress carnations running down its length and was banked in maidenhair. Covers were marked by plain cards, on which was the hostess's initial in pink. Assisting Mrs. Snow were Mrs. Frank Noah Dewey of Alameda, Mrs. Thomas Dack and Mrs. J. L. McDonald of Hollywood. Games of auction employed the time following luncheon.

Formal Dinner Dance.

Chrysanthemums in rich autumn shadings were used in profusion at the Sierra Madre Club last evening in dressing up the rooms for the second formal dinner dance. Many large parties were noted among the 250 guests present. Dancing continued until the wee, sma' hours.

November has opened the way for many enjoyable entertainments at this club, the advance schedule of dinners and luncheons being especially large.

Joliet Guest.

Mrs. Albert Crimper Weaver of Joliet is the house guest of Mrs. John J. Kinehan, No. 3027 La Salle avenue, and will be with her one month. Mrs. Kinehan has just returned from a trip throughout the East—most of the time being spent in Northern Illinois, her former home. While she was in Rockford twelve of her schoolmates entertained with a reception in the afternoon at the Elk's Club, followed by a banquet in the evening.

Home from Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hillerman, who went by automobile to Chicago, where they were the guests of Mrs. Hillerman's father, H. A. Newkirk, returned Tuesday. They made the trip in about three weeks.

At Beverly.

The pergola tearoom in the Beverly Hills Hotel grounds was the scene of an attractive bridge tea Friday afternoon, when Mrs. Sol Goodman of the Hotel Darby entertained fifteen of her friends. Those who enjoyed the afternoon of bridge and the dainty repast served afterward are Mrs. Berthold Baruch, Mrs. Max Newmark, Mrs. J. Hellman, Mrs. Phil Newmark, Mrs. I. Marschutz of New York City, Mrs. B. Schwob, Mrs. Joseph Goodman of San Francisco, Mrs. S. Wolfstein, Mrs. Jacob Stern, Mrs. I. Kaufmann, Mrs. Andrew Armer, Mrs. Sol Schiff, Mrs. M. Reinhaus of Santa Ana, Mrs. S. G. Marschutz and Mrs. Leo Himmelstein of San Francisco.

Wed at Holiday Time.

Miss Alma Wallace Taylor, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wing Taylor, and whose engagement to William Henry Eaton, Jr., of Jerome, Ariz., was announced recently, is to be married some time during the holiday season. The bride-elect was educated at Miss Head's school in Berkeley. She spends much of the summer season on the Trojan, a yacht owned by her brothers, and there she entertains jolly house parties.

Week-end in Country.

At Casa Loma ranch, Fullerton, Miss Cristene Fricke was hostess over the week-end to Miss Hazel McNeal, Ernest Cranson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fricke, Jr., Miss Edna Fricke, Miss Ellen Bandina of Seattle and John Setterfield of New York City. Miss McNeal left yesterday for San Francisco to spend the winter.

Gamma Phi Beta Tea.

Saturday afternoon at the studio of Mrs. Nell Brooker Mayhew, No. 5016 Aldena street, Garvanza, the Gamma Phi Beta alumnae will give a tea honoring Miss Margaret Machtrieb, formerly of the University of Minnesota, but now visiting delegate for the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority.

Merry Dance.

Miss Dorothy Seymour of No. 1691 West Adams street, assisted by Miss Faye Hughes, gave a dancing party to fifty couples of their young friends Friday evening.

For Young Folk.

Last evening Miss Irma Weber was hostess to a coterie of her young friends, when she entertained with a dancing party at her home, No. 512 Park front. Bidden were Misses Anne Kelly, Louise Hamilton, Cecilia Brigham, Helen Watts, Helen Ferguson, Marie Rendall, Lillian Ferguson, Inez Grosfield, Hazel Grundy, Nora McSweeney, Marguerite Cheever, Margaret Kemp and Elizebeth Hughes, and Messrs. Oliver Blake, Charles Havens, K. L. Colburn, Warren Martin, Ira Sanders, Joe Ferguson, Howard Gould, Eben Wheatley, Harold Barnett, George Burall, Bernard Studor, Sumner Cheever, Harold Gunnison, Herbert Jones and Lester Havens.

Prospective.

Mrs. Frederick A. Jungquist is to entertain at the Sierra Madre Club on Friday a large number of friends, with an auction bridge luncheon. Several affairs are given annually by this hostess.

Rustic.

Ten young ladies of the high school department were entertained over the week end by Mr. and Mrs. Will E. Chapin at Pine Cliff, their mountain ranch in the wilds of Big Tejuna Canyon. Hiking on the trails, picnics and other outdoor diversions added to a stay, every hour of which was enjoyed to the utmost. Miss Dorothy Seymour, Miss Bessie Chapin and Mrs. G. B. Tibbot were among those who went along with the girls.

James Slauson Host.

More than 100 members of the Ellis Club of Los Angeles gathered last evening at a dinner given at the Los Angeles Athletic Club in their honor by James Slauson. It has become the annual custom of Mr. Slauson to give these and similar affairs for the Ellis Club, of which he is president. The party assembled in the Ladies' Annex at the L.A.A.C. The programme, which followed an address by Mr. Slauson, consisted of vocal and instrumental music.

The athletic club has seldom seemed more attractive than last Tuesday evening, when several hundred members and guests gathered to hear the election returns and enjoy an informal dance. Throughout the evening the clubhouse was ablaze with light and color. Numerous dinner parties were given, the largest being that of Dr. A. B. Perkey, host to a company of forty. Other entertainers were Homer Laughlin, Jr., whose party included eight, and Dr. H. M. Voorhees, who invited six. Dinner hosts Monday evening were John McPeak, whose party included four, and L. A. Greenwood, who had a company of fourteen in the English room. A Wednesday hostess was Miss Mary Y. Moore, whose luncheon in the English room was in compliment to seventeen guests. C. E. Van Laningham entertained the evening of the 4th inst., with a diner to which fourteen guests were invited.

Hostesses and hosts of the week in the Ladies' Annex icluded: Mrs. J. T. Fisher, Mrs. J. M. Rugg, B. F. Graham, V. R. Salinger, Sherman Pease, Mrs. J. V. McClatchy, Mrs. J. Murry Page, Mrs. M. L. Baldwin, Mrs. Charles O. Bradley, Mrs. Roy A. Baker, F. C. Valentine, L. Frank Baum, G. Allan Hancock, Mrs. Waller Taylor, E. R. Billett, John A. Boyle, Warren Bovard, Mrs. M. S. Robertson, Mrs. D. H. McCartney, Miss Marion Judah, Mrs. Cecil Frankel, Mrs. F. S. Schuyler, Mrs. Earl Mueller, Mrs. E. D. Roberts, and C. H. Baker.

Coronado.

Mrs. C. L. Tilton of Boston is at Coronado for the winter, with her daughter, Miss Marion Goodrich. Mrs. Arthur Dodd Cook of Boston is also there with her two children. Other winter guests are Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schuyler of Denver and Mrs W. H. Brun, Mrs. Schuyler's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew E. Carlson of Boise are there for a brief stay, which they will lengthen to several months after a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Bell of the First Cavalry, at Nogales.

For Musician.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Godowsky, Mrs. Jotham Bixby, Jr., presided at dinner at her Long Beach home Wednesday evening, covers being marked with place cards brought by her from Japan for the honor guests and Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Dreyfus, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Behymer, Mme. Esther Palliser, Earl Bright, Miss Fannie Dillon, Reece Llewellyn, Mrs. D. A. Goodwin and Mr. and Mrs. Bixby. The table was decorated with a huge basket of pink roses and fern, with lights subdued beneath pink silk shades and the confections and nut baskets in the dominating tone. Mme. Palliser sang a group of Miss Dillon's latest songs, which were highly praised by Mr. Godowsky.

Antenuptial.

With the house beautified by great, shaggy chrysanthemums and ferns, save the dining-room, which was in Enchantress carnations, Miss Delta Kapp gave a tea from 3 to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home on Romeo street to meet Miss Marion Moore, the fiancee of Edgar K. Brown. Her marriage at the West Adams Presbyterian Church the evening of December 5 will be witnessed by several hundred guests, and Miss Kapp is to serve as maid of honor. A kewpie doll, dressed in bridey filminess, was held among the blossoms at a vantage point over the mantel, and little Marjorie Tribit, a diminutive attendant-to-be at the approaching wedding, distributed individual lace-frilled corsages for favors. Miss Ruth Lorimer and Mrs. Clifford Morrison Steves presided at the tea table, and Miss Mil-

All Three of the Above Works Printed on the Famous India Paper

—This is the last opportunity the public will have to get sets of these famous works printed on this wonderfully thin and strong paper. It can no longer be made because the supply of the principal raw materials, which come from abroad, has been stopped on account of the war. We therefore arranged for this interesting exhibition of all of the above sets so that our customers could drop in and see the Encyclopaedia Britannica and the Century Dictionary before the last sets have been sold, in the form which has so greatly increased their convenience and added to their attractiveness.

Come in and see the "Revolution in Publishing" which India paper has made possible.

Save Your Hair—

Prof. Austin will tell you what to do —It is the birthright of every man and woman to have thick, glossy, luxuriant hair. Thin, faded, falling hair, dandruff, etc., are simply unhealthy conditions and can be cured.

—Prof. Austin, the hair and scalp specialist of Chicago, says the use of dandruff cures and hair tonics is very much like taking medicine without knowing what you are trying to cure.

—The particular trouble with which your scalp is afflicted must be known before it can be intelligently treated.

Thirty-five years' experience as a bacteriologist and specialist in conditions of the hair and scalp qualify Prof. John H. Austin to give worth-while information and advice.

—Prof. Austin will make a microscopic examination of your hair and scalp free. Private office, second floor. Hours 10 to 12 and 2 to 4. (Hamburger's—Second Floor)

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

Says Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast Washes Poisons from System.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

This Store Has Always Been Looked Up To

—Because we show styles different than can be found elsewhere.

—Because we give extra value, not just at sale times, but every day. And because we are, above all else, honest and straightforward in our dealings.

—Now, under strained market conditions, we give you even more, this Wonderful Sale of Suits Coats and Dresses

—No store can go into the open market today and buy reliable merchandise at reduced prices. The market is what is called TIGHT. Materials are scarce, labor is at a premium, and trimmings are higher than we ever knew them to be.

Yet, for the Style Shop's Customers We Have Hundreds of Fine New Garments at Special Prices

—Finding the market in this condition, we had the garments made TO OUR OWN ORDER from materials which we ourselves purchased. We found a maker who agreed to use our materials and the styles of our own choosing. Our New York office worked with designing and planning, rejecting and accepting, until we had suits that will please Los Angeles women better than any that could be found in the market and at much smaller prices.

200 Suits—$19.50, $25.00 and $29.75

—At $19.50 there are wonderful serge suits and fine velours, youthful looking, with box yokes, pleats and belts. Colors are dark blue, taupe, black, brown, plum, Burgundy and green.

—At $25 tailored whipcords, gabardines and velours in Norfolk styles, belted and fitted at the waist; models with fur trimmings of different kinds or collars of velvet or of the material itself. And there is every fashionable color.

—At $29.75 there are nearly all lustrous broadcloths, very smart and distinctive in cut. Very many of them are fur trimmed.

Bolivia and Velour Coats at $27.50

—Compare them with any other coats you can find in Los Angeles at prices as high as $40.00.

—Every woman who takes advantage of this wonderful coat offering tomorrow will believe what we say about these coats being the greatest values ever offered, even at the New York Store.

—They are unusual and handsome models. All are full and very ripply. Many have pockets in new shapes, cape-like, turn-over and monk collars. None of these coats are fur trimmed, because many women prefer to wear their own furs with them.

Serge Dresses $14.75, $18.50 and $22.50

—They show entirely new style lines. Many are straight line from shoulder to foot and a great many are pleated. A few have little bands of plush, beads and embroidery that are put on in a different way than anything so far seen this season. They are in fawn color, black, gray, brown and navy blue.

ONE of the merriest affairs of the season was the old-fashioned Halloween party given Sunday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Haddock of this city. Two ghosts were stationed outside the door with lanterns, and these welcomers used chains and lanterns in a mysterious fashion in admitting the guests. After being initiated into the ghost world by secret witchcraft displays the evening was spent in singing and feasting. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. Dillard, Miss Dillard, Miss Josephine Spellman, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Evans, Miss Marie Mossman of Los Angeles, Harold Thorson of Redondo Beach, W. Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McIntire.

A dainty luncheon was served Tuesday at noon by Mrs. Katherine Dunbar, who entertained several of her friends in a most charming fashion. Mrs. Dunbar had her home on Whiting street artistically decorated in yellow and black, and those at the luncheon were Mrs. Amanda Fitzgerald, Mrs. Dora Gahring and her sister, Mrs. William Turner of Franklin, Pa.; Mrs. Silas Ladd, Mrs. Frank Dunbar, Mrs. Fred Fitzgerald and Miss Virginia Fitzgerald.

Inviting several of her friends in for an old-fashioned quilting bee, Mrs. August Rose was hostess Friday afternoon at her home. Tuck, Mrs. Edward Booth, Sr., and Mrs. Charles Whitehead.

Colton.

CREATING a ripple of surprise in school circles of two cities was the secretly-planned wedding of Miss Oda Leonard Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones and a Colton High School junior, and Brooks Richard Bussey, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bussey, a popular athlete at the San Bernardino High School and member of the senior class, which occurred on November 3 at Santa Ana. The ceremony was witnessed by the bride's mother and her sister, Mrs. J. E. Womack, the bride and groom returning afterward to their respective homes and managing to keep the event a secret until just prior to their departure on Tuesday for Fullerton, where they are to reside, the groom having accepted a position with the Santa Fe. Each is exceedingly popular in the younger social sets of Colton and San Bernardino.

Another secret wedding to be revealed during the week was that of Miss Rhoda Ella Ahman and Forrest Marvin, which took place on October 28 at Arlington at the parsonage of the Methodist Church. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Ahman and the groom the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Marvin. The happy pair have gone to housekeeping at the Pioneer apartments. Mrs. Ahman has the distinction of being the first member of the 1916 High School graduating class to fall a victim to Dan Cupid.

Although not celebrated in Colton, the nuptials of Miss Blythe Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Webb, and Raymond Lee Hawley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hawley, occasioned much surprised interest among scores of friends in this city of the petite young bride. The wedding was an event of November 3, and took place in Los Angeles. As Miss Webb, the bride was a general favorite here in social circles. She attended the High School for two years, and then, after graduating from the Los Angeles Normal, returned to accept a position as teacher at the Garfield school, making her home during the two years of her teaching with her sister, Mrs. Ralph Bailey. The "at-home" cards read "after December 1 at the Hercelene Apartments, No. 1617 South Flower street."

In social courtesy to Dr. J. Grinnell, head of the Museum of Vertebrate Zoology at the University of California at Berkeley, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hanna threw open their home on Friday evening to members in this district of the Cooper Ornithological Club, of which Dr. Grinnell is one of the founders. Great pleasure was taken in meeting the distinguished honor guest and of listening to an interesting talk on his experiences and bird lore in general. The autumn note of yellow was carried out in decorations, and in the collation, served at a late hour, the ices being in the shape of birds, complimentary to the occasion. Sharing the evening with Dr. Grinnell were H. Arden Edwards, Halstead G. White and Wright M. Pierce of Claremont, Mr. and Mrs. M. French Gilman and Miss Mabel Gilman of Banning, Dr. F. D. West of Beaumont, Judge Edward Wall of San Bernardino, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pemberton, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Wiggins, Judge and Mrs. J. B. Hanna, Miss Tacie Hanna and the host and hostess. A branch of the Cooper Club was informally organized, to hold meetings once a month, the first to be with the J. R. Pembertons.

Using a Halloween motif, Mrs. O. G. Crawford, Worthy Matron of Colton Chapter, O.E.S., gave pleasure to her staff of officers in the form of a delightfully-appointed luncheon on Saturday afternoon. By the light of one wee candle in the den wraps were removed by the guests, who found the subdued illumination continued in the [illegible] on the lovely luncheon [illegible] trally ornamented with a [illegible] ket of immense yellow [illegible] mums, yellow tapers [illegible] crystal holders. KEEPS KIDNEYS ACTIVE WITH A GLASS OF SALTS

Must Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

Noted Authority Tells What Causes Backache and Bladder Weakness.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys, and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all meat-eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

ONE of the prettiest weddings of the season took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Learned of No. 137 South Maryland avenue when their daughter, Mary Edna Learned, became the bride of Lloyd W. Wilson Thursday evening. The house was elaborately decorated with pink and white flowers, mingled with masses of greenery and potted shrubs. In the center of the living-room was a bower of smilax and a suspended wedding bell made of white roses under which the couple took their place to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The bride was gowned in white voile with a shimmering tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and maidenhair fern from which cascaded tiny sprays of lily of the valley. Miss Esther J. Andrae attended the bride as maid of honor, and Verne Wilson attended the groom. Little Russel Newton was the flower bearer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"Only 'Gets-It' for Me After This!"

It "Gets" Every Corn Every Time. Painless. Nothing More Simple.

"I'll tell you what, I've quit using toe-eating salves for corns. I've quit making a package out of my toes with bandages and contraptions — quit digging with knives and scissors. Give me "GETS-IT" every time!"

GETS-IT
GETS-IT

When You See These Pretty Girls in Your Druggist's Window It's a Good Time To End Your Corns.

That's what they all say the very first time they use "GETS-IT." It's because "GETS-IT" is so simple and easy to use—put it on in a few seconds—because there is no work or corn-fooling to do, no pain that shoots up to your heart. It gets your corns off your mind. All the time it's working—and then, that little old corn peels right off, leaves the clean, corn-free skin underneath—and your corn is gone! No wonder millions prefer "GETS-IT." Try it tonight.

"GETS-IT" is sold and recommended by druggists everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Silk Price Approaches Vanishing Point $1.45

Pictorial Review Patterns —2nd floor. Bullock's Los Angeles Ivy—the Style Corsets 3rd floor.

The silks themselves will reach the vanishing point on Monday—think of it!

—$1.45 for 36-inch fancy striped Gros de Londre; $1.45 for 36-inch satin striped taffetas, for 36-inch moire striped faille; for brocade taffeta, brocatella, tinsel stripes and 40-inch French taffetas. Think of it!

—Think of $1.45 for 40-inch striped silk voiles—two-toned bengalines; 35-in. plain colored taffetas. About 2000 yards in all, at one price, $1.45.

—It seems ridiculous. It sounds ridiculous. It is ridiculous, considering the present value of these silks—their high quality and the esteem in which they are held.

—But it is, at the same time, fact—proving that fact is at times truly stranger than fiction—women should not overlook these quality silks, Monday, at $1.45 yard

Another Coterie Silks at $1.10

—Also, a price lower than you would expect—
—35-inch Satin de Cygne; 35 and 36-in. Fancy Stripe Taffetas; 35-inch Fancy Stripe Pongee; and 36-inch Plain Lining Satin included. A range of colors—at $1.10 yard.

36-in. Costume Velvet at $2.45

—in the desirable winter colorings—A quality that the price does not suggest. A value extremely worth while—$2.45.

—42-inch black chiffon velvet at $5.75 and $6.50 yd.

—100 colorings in 18-inch millinery velvet at $1.25 yd.

—35-inch black satin de cygne; noteworthy, $1.10.

—35-inch black satin duchess; priced $1.25 yd.

Christmas

—Yes, indeed—You might be astonished if you knew how many are in the midst of their Christmas shopping at Bullock's already—

—The week just past saw several of the exclusive, "not-to-be-duplicated - before - Christmas" silver pieces spoken for (notably one magnificent tea set) as well as many Christmas sales of other silverware—

—The more elaborate Books are becoming more and more active. There are Fine Linens being sold every day of which no more will be obtainable particularly at present markings—

—The Fancy Leather Goods, and certain Handbags de Luxe are being chosen with an enthusiasm that promises exhaustion—

—All Christmas stocks are being attacked with vigor that no previous season has approached at an equally early date.

—Take that notable Gift Section on the Second Floor, with its host of different gifts for everyone. Come and watch it —Monday.

—More than one—many, many more buyers are realizing the fact that

Christmas is but 6 Weeks Away

—They appreciate the advantages of early shopping and are acting—Everyone should follow their example—but many are still waiting.

It just seems to be one of the peculiarities of human nature to delay until the last minute —And to shop when conditions are least favorable. We all know how much more pleasant and resultful morning shopping is from every point of view—particularly from the standpoints of smaller crowds and less "hurry." Why not apply our knowledge and shop in the morning whenever we can—why not apply our knowledge and Do Our Christmas Shopping Now—instead of waiting for last minute crowds and depleted stocks?

The ladies of the auxiliary of the Eastern Star, to the number of thirty, gave a surprise party at the home of Mrs. William Salvin, No. 237 Gentry street, Saturday afternoon, in honor of Miss Laura Brewer. Miss Brewer, who is president of the auxiliary, expects to go to Idaho to reside in the near future. The ladies presented the honoree with a beautiful brooch pin. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in conversation, at the close of which a dainty luncheon was served by the charming hostess.

The annual high jinks party given by the Girls' Glee Club for the girls of the High School and their mothers in the High School auditorium last Friday evening was a decided success. All the girls and the faculty were dressed in costume. Many beautiful, artistic and original costumes were to be seen among the gay assembly. The programme, which consisted of original "skits," was cleverly given by the girls. The first prize for the best stunt went to little Sophie Zakoff, who, dressed in a quaint costume, played the violin and sang. Light refreshments were served after the entertaining programme of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wheat entertained the members of the minstrel show recently put on by the Building Committee of the Masonic Lodge at their spacious home on South Pacific boulevard last Wednesday evening. Masons and their wives to the number of twenty-five were present and enjoyed a most delightful evening. Several solos and quartettes were given by the men, and Mrs. Dr. Hubbard gave a beautiful reading. This party was in the nature of a farewell to Mr. Brewer, who leaves for Idaho in the near future, where he expects to reside.

The Woman's Club programme, given under the leadership of Mrs. Edith Hubbard at the home of Mrs. Elise Brown last Thursday, proved to be most entertaining and enlightening. The theme, "How to educate the mothers to care for the children," was one of much interest that attracted a large gathering of the members. The initial number was a well-chosen musical selection given by Mrs. Brown. Humorous and clever were the "bright sayings of children" told by the members. The closing number was very appropriate to the occasion. Little Miss Dorothy Brown, aged 3 years, with childish sweetness sang to the accompaniment of her mother at the piano.

Mrs. Russell Allen entertained the members of St. Clements Guild Wednesday of last week in honor of Mrs. Perkins, who is leaving soon for San Marcus. The honoree was presented with a handsome piece of cut glass. Deli

The Drinking of Water

(By M. C. LUCAS, M.D.)

The general conclusions of the latest medical scientists proves that drinking plenty of pure water both between and with one's meals is beneficial to health. It has also been proven by means of the X-rays and actual tests upon many healthy young men that the drinking of water with meals is not harmful to digestion. Those suffering from a catarrhal condition of the stomach will find benefit in adding about 10 grains (one-sixth of a level teaspoonful) of baking soda to a pint of hot water, drinking it a half hour before each meal. Such as are inclined to hyper-acidity should drink a pint of medium cold water two hours after meals. If you ever suffer from headach, lumbago, rheumatism or any of the symptoms of kidney trouble — such as deep colored urine, sediment in urine, getting out of bed at night frequently and other troublesome effects, take a pint of hot water and a little Anuric before meals. These Anuric tablets can be obtained at almost any drug store and were first discovered by Dr. Pierce.

American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and often the poison reaches the tissues, causing rheumatism and gout.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, when your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night, when you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, ask your druggist for Anuric. I have found in practice that Anuric is more potent than lithia and in most cases it will dissolve the uric acid as hot water does sugar.

S. W. Barton left Thursday for a visit of several weeks with friends throughout the East. Ohio, Michigan, Iowa and other States will be included in the trip.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Garden Grove.

THE women of the F.A.C. Club successfully entertained their husbands recently with a jolly party held at the handsome country home of Mrs. J. V. McConnell. The men were treated to all the fantastic diversions of Halloween, the season that affords real mirth to joy seekers. Weird ghosts greeted the masculine visitors, who were conducted on an out-of-door excursion to every nook and corner of the ranch, the route being made thrilling by up and down-hill wanderings over obstacles to overcome in every path. As the men were blindfolded they found the roadways indeed hard ones to travel. Led back to the house, the men were taken into a dark room, where they were relieved of their blindfolds. As the lights were turned on the electric blaze revealed a sumptuously spread table, where weary masculinity was feasted with pie and accompanying substantials. Later al fresco diversions of stirring nature were enjoyed on the brilliantly-illuminated lawn. Indoor jollities followed and a contest in stunts resulted in prizes given to Mrs. J. D. Price and Mr. Kellar Koplen. The men unanimously declared the club women to be royal entertainers at the close of an evening of wholesome fun.

The young people of the Epworth League took advantage of the Halloween season to give one of the most successful parties of the season at the Garden Grove school building. Ghosts, witches and gnomes, as well as other fantastic figures, flitted through the rooms of the big building on a spooky journey to "haunts below," where an impressive fortune-telling witch foretold futures, and where huge dangling spiders, hideous faces and icy hand clasps were startling features of the weird place. Bells clanged and chains rattled as a prelude to a blood-curdling tale of adventure as told by an "ancient mariner." After the downstairs session was ended with long weird moans, and the mysterious rattling of doors, the company trooped gladly upstairs to the cheerful and well-lighted auditorium, where Halloween games of joyous and exciting nature were played. Well filled lunch boxes, to which strings were attached, were captured by the young men with the fair owners of the various boxes. Miss Agnes Christensen and a group of efficient helpers were responsible for the delightful evening.

Miss Mildred Spain was the charming young hostess for a dozen of her Anaheim friends on a recent Tuesday evening. She made her home most attractive for the entertaining of her guests, and arranged a round of amusing diversions that were immensely appreciated and enjoyed. The daintiest of refreshments were served after the round of amusements.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. William Adland was the scene of a merry social event on Tuesday evening, their guests being the members of the choir of the Methodist Church. Miss Winifred Adland efficiently aided her parents in entertaining. The choir members indulged in a brief, but enjoyable, rehearsal, their musical session being much enjoyed by those who listened. Lively games and several musical numbers, alternated with animated chat and seasonable refreshments of pumpkin pie, grape juice, delicious home-made candy, nuts and apples, were served in the pretty rooms, decorated with autumn leaves, corn and pumpkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Head and their daughter, Miss Percy Claire Head, and Mr. and Mrs. Mott and children were the members of a party motoring from Garden Grove to Los Angeles on a recent Sunday to join in a reunion of the Head family, well known in Southern California. The reunion took place at the home of Mrs. Pumphreys.

Mrs. May Yancey and her son, Kenneth, of Oakland are house guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rolfe of this city, and, to the great pleasure of their friends, will spend several weeks in Southern California. Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe are the grandparents of Mrs. Yancey, and motored to Los Angeles to meet their incoming guests.

Mrs. W. H. Johnson is hostess to her sister, Mrs. Orvilla Keep of Massachusetts, who will spend the winter in sunny Garden Grove. The two ladies motored to Long Beach recently for a several days' visit, returning on Sunday from the seaside city.

Orange.

MISS HILDA KIRCHOFF, who is soon to be married to Carl Gates of Mesa, Ariz., was the charming honoree of a linen shower on Saturday evening, her friends delighting in bestowing many dainty marks of esteem on the bride-to-be. Mrs. Will Porter, a sister of Miss Kerchoff, and Miss Mabel Haynes were hostesses at the event, which was a surprise. The South Center-street home of Miss Haynes was the scene of the affair and fifteen guests were bidden. Various social pastimes and delectable refreshments rounded out a delightful evening.

The Woman's Club had one of its charming sessions at the Colonial Theater on Monday afternoon with an appreciative and goodly attendance of members. A unique musical motif prevailed, a wild-bird song recital being wonderfully given by Louise Carola Davis with Miss Eva Sumner Cchauer as accompanist. The Woman's Club is proving a high-class factor in the social, artistic and literary life of Orange, and the event of Monday was one of the gems of the entertainments offered by this efficient organization.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moberly were hosts at one of the most successful of the many parties of the Halloween season, which has been extended to meet social requirements. Wonderful decorations that included fantastic Halloween symbols as well as a wealth of greenery made the Moberly home most bewitching. Mrs. Emil Miller, Mrs. Walter Rurup, Mrs. Carl Pister, Mrs. Garrett and Messrs. Garrett and Lloyd Folger each rendered specialties and appetizing eatables were served by Mmes. Garrett, Rurup and Parker. Besides those mentioned there were present Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Luke, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Park, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Folger, Mr. and Mrs. Max Simons, Mrs. Frank Pister, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton T. Parker, Mrs. Gertrude Barnes, Mrs. Martha Kase, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Kueschel, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ensign, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klahn, Mr. and Mrs. James Weideman, Mr. Walter Rurup, Mr. and Mrs. Drew; Misses Letitia Park, Nellie Pister, Lois Park; Messrs. J. Harbor, S. C. Edwards, R. D. Tillinghast, Lloyd Folger of Orange; Mr. R. A. Perker and Jersey Overshiner.

Tustin.

DECKED with lovely chrysanthemums the cosy home of Mrs. Howes was the attractive meeting place for a recent meeting of the Coreopsis Club. Five dimpled babies present successfully detracted attention from embroidery, tatting and crochet stitches that ordinarily engross the members of the club, and the coos of the youngsters mingled happily with the animated conversation of the elders. A repast that included sandwiches, doughnuts, pumpkin pie, relishes and fruit with a delectable brew of coffee was served at a daintily-appointed table, where the following ladies had places with their hostess: Mmes. Charles Lambert, Ida King, E. E. Smith, Jack King, Hattie Swartz, George Prather, Hart.

The Young ladies' class of the Presbyterian Sunday-school observed the Halloween season with a jolly party in the domestic science rooms of the public school building, black cats, bats and witches mingling with decorations of trailing vines and gay jack-o'-lanterns in the adorning of the rendezvous. Special guests were the young men of the Sunday-school and both hostesses and guest were masked. Fortune-telling proved deeply exciting and ghost stories thrilled the imagination of the merrymakers. Amusing stunts and games with the serving of toothsome refreshments added to the merriment of the occasion.

A Holloween whist party was the recent entertainment offered by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kendrick to a coterie of their friends Seasonable deckings brightened the charming Kendrick home and in addition to the whist games violin and piano music by Mr. Kendrick and Mrs. Floyd Turner provided huge enjoyment to the guests. Prize winners in the whist contest were Mrs. Edith Matthews and F. C. Matthews. Good things to eat closed an entertaining event in which the following were participants: Mr. and Mrs. Fenlon Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trickey, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. John Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brookbank, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Holderman, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Turner, Miss Stella Jessup, Miss Ethel Alderman and Harry Rhiel.

Rialto.

SOCIAL activity has gone on apace during the week, notwithstanding the absorbing interest taken in the election, which furnished the cause for the largest event of the week—the "election" party, held in Crowder's Hall. The affair was given by the Public Entertainment Committee of the Woman's Club, whose chairman is Mrs. B. S. Casey. Many tables were arranged for games about the large ballroom, while screens divided the smaller into a smoking-room and kitchen. Direct election returns were flashed upon the curtain until long after midnight. A small admission was charged and coffee and doughnuts were served from dainty tea carts presided over by a bevy of pretty high school girls. The rooms were filled by a jolly crowd during the entire time. Mrs. Casey was assisted by others of the committee, who were Mmes. F. H. Followell, R. J. Dahlem, Lee Rice and Miss L. M. Henry.

Miss Mae Helen Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Sharp of Willow street, and Roscoe E. Watts were united in marriage last Thursday afternoon at a quiet wedding at the home of the bride's parents with only members of the families present. The rooms were beautifully decorated with twining vines and pink roses. This dainty combination used in an artistic canopy marked the place of ceremony beneath a bell. Rev. G. F. Mathes of the Congregational Church read the ring service. The bride wore a dark-brown broadcloth suit with georgette crepe waist of white and yellow. After the wedding collation they left for a trip to San Diego, returning Monday evening, and are nicely domiciled in the pretty ranch home. The groom is the only child of George E. Watts and one of Rialto's most popular and worthy young men. The heartiest felicitations are showered by the many friends of both bride and groom.

Mrs. H. P. Welborn opened her pretty home to a number of friends and neighbors Saturday afternoon, last, when she entertained with an informal farewell complimenting Mrs. C. E. Tibbot. Mr. and Mrs. Tibbot recently sold their pretty home on Riverside avenue and Tuesday they moved to their new home on the orange ranch just south of town. Beautiful chrysanthemums and roses were used in the large rooms of the home of the hostess, who had provided a lively contest and music to fill the hours until the delicious luncheon closed the afternoon. Mrs. W. E. Elliott won the trophy in the contest and a pretty gift was presented the honoree.

A large number attended the annual thank offering given by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Episcopal Church Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. Mae Nealey had charge of the splendid programme given and a committee furnished a collation.

Mrs. M. F. Biglow has returned from an extended visit with her daughter in Denver.

Mr. James Quinn returned last week from Oregon and Eastern States, where he has spent several months.

Upland.

A VERITABLE bower of choice chrysanthemums made a beautiful setting for the bridge luncheon of smart appointments with which Mrs. Dalton A. Field entertained Tuesday afternoon at her home on East Ninth street. Luncheon was announced at 1:30 o'clock, and was served in six courses. Place cards were hand decorated and marked covers for Mrs. Jerome Hill Titus, Mrs. George Augustus Hanson, Mrs. George Edward Bender, Mrs. Charles H. Wimpress, Mrs. Gordon D. Wimpress, Mrs. Charles Pierce Fuller, Mrs. Charles Eugene Grier and Mrs. Field. Auction bridge followed the menu, two tables being used. Mrs. Field was hostess at a second bridge tournament on Wednesday afternoon. She was assisted on this occasion by Mrs. A. C. Beattie. The guests of Wednesday included Mrs. Paul Bodenhamer, Mrs. Glenn E. Atwood, Mrs. Frederick C. Froehde, Mrs. Jedd F. Sawyer, Mrs. Reid B. Bordwell, Mrs. James Lynward Grahame, Mrs. Patrick Henry McQuillen, Miss Mildred Ware, Mrs. Gordon Wimpress, Mrs. Bender and Mrs. Fuller.

Earl Naftel was happily surprised Monday evening on the occasion of the anniversary of his birth, when a number of his friends in the younger set gathered at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Naftel in West Tenth street. Merry games were indulged in and supper was served at a late hour. Those who enjoyed the happy event besides the guest of honor included Miss Myrtle Davis, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Melvina Slugg, Miss Carol Duley, Miss Gladys Cole, Miss Janet Hohl, Miss Ruth Cline, Miss Florence Hawthorn, Miss Marjorie Anderson, Emerson Spicer, Ralph Garrison, William Derwin, Kelly Kirkwood, David Wilson and Hubert Manker.

The Frances Paul girls of the First Presbyterian Church entertained a happy party of friends Monday evening at their classroom in the church with a fancy-dress affair. Autumn decorations were in evidence and various jolly games were followed by a tempting supper. Those enjoying the event numbered Miss Lela McClelland, Miss Ida Caldwell, Miss Lillian Sondraker, Miss Elsie Adams, Miss Iva Dell Murphy, Miss Viola Manker, Miss Edith Hitchcock, Miss Eva Gerry, Miss Helena Weichmann, Miss Ruth Duncan, Miss Linda Schmidt, Miss Minnie Schmidt, Miss Anna Wilson, Miss Janet Stone, Miss Olive Brooks, Miss Elizabeth Jones, Miss Louise Jones, Miss Irma Thomas, Mrs. Mildred Jacobs and Mrs. J. Lynward Grahame.

Mrs. Egbert Bailey Clark was hostess Monday afternoon to the members of the Woman's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal Church at her home on Euclid avenue. The afternoon was devoted chiefly to sewing for the annual bazaar, which is scheduled for one week before Thanksgiving. Tea was served to twenty towards the close of a pleasant afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Neece entertained a merry party of young people Tuesday evening at their Etiwanda home in honor of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Neece. Mr. and Mrs. Neece were assisted in entertaining by Miss Flora Brownless and Miss Isabelle Smith. About forty young people enjoyed the evening. Jolly games were indulged in and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Utman entertained with charming informality Saturday in honor of Miss Margaret Fears of Porterville, their house guest. Covers were arranged for Miss Fears, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Flinspach of Claremont, Miss Margaret Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Utman.

Mrs. Charles Eugene Grier, wife of Mayor Grier, has returned from a delightful eastern visit of several weeks, spending the greater part of her time in Cleveland and Columbus, O.

A Single Application Banishes Every Hair

(The Modern Beauty

Here is how any woman can easily and quickly remove objectionable, hairy growths without possible injury to the skin: Make a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a painless, inexpensive method and, excepting where the growth is unusually thick, a single application is enough. You should, however, be careful to get genuine delatone.

Such Pretty, Fluffy Curls—In Three Hours!

Have you tried using liquid silmerine before rolling the hair in curlers? If not, by all means do so. When you let your hair down, within three hours, you will have just the loveliest curls and waves! They will appear so perfectly natural, and you'll be surprised how long they will last. When the hair is combed out it will be beautifully fluffy.

Silmerine should be applied with a clean tooth brush, passing this through the hair from the roots downward. It may be used before retiring if preferred. A few ounces of the liquid from your druggist will last many weeks. This will also be found to be a splendid dressing, keeping the hair fine and glossy. It is, of course, entirely harmless.

Wonderful Creations in Evening Gowns & Wraps

VOGUE COMPANY is fully prepared to meet every apparel requirement of the incoming social season. The galaxy of wonderful creations in gowns and wraps for evening wear is beyond the power of pen to describe. From among the many, the following may be mentioned as typical—

AN EVENING GOWN, COPY OF CHERIOT. A beautiful creation of white net, made over silver, with flounce of silver lace and sequins. The bodice is charmingly formed of sequins, with French flowers carelessly draped.

A COPY OF LUCILLE. A GERANIUM CREATION composed of flounces embroidered in silver. The bodice is a deep girdle, with rhinestone trimmings and straps, completed by an imposing butterfly of rhinestones. This is a most wonderful model.

A MAGNIFICENT WRAP OF BOUGAINVILLEA velvet. This is a copy of the most wonderful model Paquin has created this season. It is a mandarin style, with full cape collar, trimmed with real bear fur. The lining is a very unusual novelty white silk.

SAPPHIRE BLUE PANNED VELVET WRAP lined in that deep dark shade of brown so much in vogue. It has a marvelous monk collar of real Kolinsky, with cuffs of the same fur. It is a copy of Premet.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL WRAP IS A COPY OF Callot. It is of pale green velvet, with Oriental applique medallions. It has a deep seal collar and cuffs—mandarin model.

The beautiful gowns and wraps merely reflect the unusualness of the many exquisite creations to which we invite the attention of the fashion-loving women of Los Angeles.

Awards will be made for those answers which offer the most satisfactory solutions to the questions asked, in accordance with conditions as they apply to the business, same to be determined by Mr. W. $10—Ten Dollars—$10 in Weekly Cash Awards

$5.00 Cash for Best Answer—Five additional Prizes, $1.00 Cash Each, for the next Five Best Answers.

New Question, No. 3

A great many people select goods to be held for Christmas presents and promise to pay for them before they are delivered. This takes the articles from our stock so that we cannot show or sell them to anyone else; makes extra work for our clerical force in holding the orders, and congests our warehouses. Sometimes the intending purchasers fail to notify us, and sometimes payment is made too late to properly prepare the goods for delivery at specified time. In cases of this kind, what rules or course of procedure would you adopt?

Consult your fathers and mothers—ask them what they would do—and when you have decided what you think would be the best solution of our question, write us, clearly and briefly, your answer. Do not use more than 150 or 200 words, write on one side of paper only, give the name of school you attend and grade, give your father's or mother's full name and address and sign your name. Answers to this week's question must be mailed to reach us not later than Thursday, Nov. 16th.

This contest is NOT open to the children of any employees of Barker Bros.

Our Solution of Last Week's Question!

When customers select articles as Christmas gifts, to be sent to another party, and ask to have them sent C. O. D.—or collect on delivery—our salesmen are instructed to explain the inconsistency and unreasonableness of this request.

We ask them to either pay for the goods before delivery, or see the credit man and establish their credit, so there will be no confusion at time of delivery.

Should this request not be complied with, we take the order with the purchaser's address and also the place where the article is to be delivered.

A few days before Christmas we notify the purchaser of the conditions, and ask them again to either pay before delivery, or establish their credit.

Should THIS fail, the delivery man delivers the goods as instructed and tries to collect the money, but if unsuccessful, he telephones the credit department, whose instructions are final.

SEEKS WAYS AND MEANS TO GET STEAMSHIP LI

Business Associations Come to Conclusion th
Municipally-owned Vessels Could be Used to B
Large Traffic with West Coast Ports in Repub
South, and this Pioneering Would Attract Other S

WAYS and means for the purchase and maintenance of two or more steamships as the nucleus around which a municipally-owned line of vessels may be formed are now being considered by the Board of Harbor Commissioners and interested business men. The ships will be used to satisfy present demands for cargo carriers between this port and South America, and for the furtherance of Latin-American trade.

The matter of establishing a municipal line of steamships was indorsed by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last Wednesday, after an extensive investigation covering a period of five weeks. F. P. Gregson of the Association Jobbers and James M. Sheridan, consular agent in Los Angeles for several South American republics, were appointed by the Chamber of Commerce to investigate the advisability of establishing a municipal steamship line. Their report was made to the Foreign Trade Committee and, after passing through various other branches of the Chamber of Commerce, the report was indorsed by the directors. It carries a recommendation that the matter be presented to the Mayor and City Council, with the request that the Board of Harbor Commissioners make a detailed investigation and report within thirty days.

GREAT TONNAGE AWAITS.

Harbor Secretary Matson has been working on the proposition since it was first considered by the Chamber of Commerce and states that his investigations have proven very satisfactory so far as he has pursued them.

"I think I am safe in saying that the railroads which touch our port," said Mr. Matson yesterday, "stand ready to make export rates that will move a great tonnage through here if we can only get ships to transport the material."

The report of the subcommittee of the Chamber of Commerce is, in part, as follows:

"Numerous propositions have been presented to the chamber for indorsement and encouragement of steamship lines between our port and Mexico and Central and South American points. Several persons and concerns have sought financial and moral support for this purpose. All propositions have, however, failed of fruition.

"Our merchants have sent representatives into the territory south of us, and results have proven, beyond a doubt, that a large and lucrative tonnage would result, providing we could furnish adequate and dependable transportation facilities. Action of the latter kind would redound to the benefit of our entire citizenship, create new markets for our manufacturers, bring us new industries, and thus furnish our people with employment and properly place Los Angeles in the list of industrial cities.

"It has been proved by experience that intermediate transportation cannot be depended upon. We have had the promise of regular stops by lines operating from northern points, only to be advised that the steamers had no space and would not stop, after we had cargoes at our port.

MUST TERMINATE HERE.

"We therefor must obtain a service that begins and terminates at our port. To do this, private capital must be assured of compensating returns. Private capital is timid to incredulity when approaching new fields and ventures, but when some strong influences stand as a bulwark against heavy losses, then it does not hesitate to advance. Our merchants and manufacturers at many thousands of dollars of expense have pioneered the way, and found a territory whose population is more than anxious to exchange products with us. Los Angeles should be to our southern neighbors what Seattle is to Alaska.

"During our investigations we have met with more than candid statements on the part of the present existing lines that they could not afford to make Los Angeles their home port; that their headquarters had long been established, and tonnage had been built from that source, and that to disrupt their service and overhead arrangements would be suicidal.

"While we find in some quarters a prejudice against municipal ownership and operation of steamships, we have a city that is committed to the principle of ownership of its public utilities, and its charter specifically provides the right and power to construct and operate railroads and steamships either within or without the city limits.

"We have invested millions of dollars for the improvement of our harbor, and we are bound, by a binding stipulation, to expend as many more millions as may be necessary to complete the equipment. We have miles of the finest concrete warehauses and we are given to understand that our present facilities are not being used to 10 per cent. of their efficiency. It is not a question merely of municipal ownership and operation, but of making good on what has already been undertaken.

NEED TWO VESSELS.

"We have now arrived at the point where the city must further the interest of its port, and hasten the utilization of its facilities by an investment in means of transportation. We have a Harbor Commission consisting of a president, two members and a secretary and traffic manager. This is existing overhead expense that would not be a hard matter to departmentalize this commission and make it an operative body. We have harbor engineers and everything in readiness to operate steamship lines.

"Los Angeles must further this project or suffer a tremendous loss on the extensive investments already made in harbor improvements, if we await the utilization of our advantages by private capital.

"We believe that two vessels will answer the purpose, for the present, and that these vessels may be constructed within five months. Ships of the character we have in mind, of wood construction approximating 1500 tons each, and operated by modern Diesel engines, may be built within $150,000. Investigation shows that no steel vessel could be placed for the same tonnage for delivery short of fourteen or eighteen mont

ROMANCE OF THE RAILROADS.

V.—Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern—"The Clerk," Son of the World-famous Empire Builder.

BY JOHN WALKER HARRINGTON

"Man-like-Whipcord," the Indians call the tireless son of the late James J. Hill, empire builder. As a name, it fits him better than Louis W., seeing that the handle by which he is principally known East suggests silk knee breeches. "L. W." is the favorite mode of address among the railroaders. Louis, pronounced Loo-ee at that, chimes in with his fervid nature about as well as chic describes a geyser.

Anybody who ever saw Louis W. Hill hurl himself off his private car in the far reaches of the West, would sense on sight that the redskins knew what they were talking about. His car, as the president of the Great Northern, is just like him—half sport and half work. It is divided by a partition, running crosswise. At the forward end of it are the office, the dining-room, and the kitchen and all respectable innards accustomed to be found in such conveyances. The rear half has no civilization. Swung from the roof is a canoe. Lashed to the sides are rifles and shotguns, snowshoes, tents, and camp outfits. Clamped down in the middle of the floor is an automobile. The minute the car gets to a siding way out in Montana, for instance, the back end of it opens up like a pair of jaws, a brace of skids are poked out to the ground, and down the ramp goes the runabout, as likely as not with Louis W. Hill already at the wheel. Once, he is in the open, he hits the high places in every direction. Sometimes he finds them so lofty that he has to rip off the wire from a broom and make a carburetor attachment for his machine that will mix the gas and air to agree with the rarefied atmosphere of Montana. Laws of nature never stopped James J. Hill, nor his son, Louis W.

Sometimes "Man-like-Whipcord" camps for two or three days hunting or fishing. The Indians hear about it and take off their boiled shirts and their store clothes, pile on their buckskin gear and their blankets and go out to hold a powwow with him. Some of them have been through Carlisle at that and can talk Latin better than their native tongue, but there is something about their great and good friend which just makes them wild.

Few men understand the West and all its ways better than does Louis W. Hill, to whom the East with its board meetings, its formalism, its complicated life is more or less of a bore. He seldom goes to New York because he says he does not feel comfortable in a hothouse. A true son of the Great Northwest is he, and, as wielder of scepter over a vast domain, he finds his own principality sufficient for his every need.

The East had a good chance though to shape Louis W. Hill to itself. He was graduated from Exeter Academy and Yale gave him license to follow his name with "Ph.B." In the New England academy he was in contact with Thomas W. Lamont, and at Yale he met William H. Porter, both partners of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. He also met both at Exeter, and, at old Eli, E. O. Holter, a New York lawyer, and others whose destinies have been with the rising sun. As soon as he could break away with his sheepskin he made for his native place, St. Paul, and started right in to be a railroad man.

O. Henry wrote one of his delightful stories on the basis that romance was not a matter of geography. This romance of the rail centers about a man who achieved success in spite of his heritage. It is too bad that it cannot be said that Louis W. Hill left school at a tender age, but he never was tender. He started in at 21 to learn the business and those who know what an old Spartan James J. Hill was, may realize that the boy got no favors. James Jerome Hill had three sons, and Louis W., the second one, was to become his successor in the transportation world. For twenty years, Louis W. Hill was in steady training for his birthright. He started as a clerk and was transferred all over the system of the Great Northern. One month we find him in overalls tugging away at ties with a construction gang; again he is taking lessons in sawing from a boss carpenter, or he may be spiking down rails and that with no golden sledge. Finally, after being swung around the circle, he was landed again at the general offices at St. Paul. He is 44 years old now and he has had one of the most condensed careers known on this continent.

STARTS AS CLERK.

The year 1895 sees him a billing clerk at Duluth working night and day to keep up with his work. He might have had help, but his father was curious to see what there was in that college boy of his and kept him at a steady grind. There is not anything of the treadmill in the disposition of Louis W. Hill, however, for he was studying the ore business like mad as a side issue. He wrote to his father that there was more iron ore coming into that lake port than he could bill. This was not by way of protest. He just wanted to ask if there should not be a great deal more. He had been out exploring the Mesabi region after reading all the Geological Survey reports he could get hold of, and he now made the suggestion that the Great Northern buy up the mines and control a great bulk of profitable business. The rich ores from the Great Lakes country were already driving from the markets the yield of less abundant fields. James J. Hill told his son that the Great Northern was a common carrier and not a speculator and ordered him to go back and attend to his business. Once again the young man wrote to say that he could buy up some valuable mining property, and again he was warned to let his memory lapse.

He went ahead, and with his own money, $2500, about all he had, made the deal. Months afterwards the mining world was amazed by the story of the richness of this new bonanza, and Louis W. reminded his father of it.

"Don't bother me about the water that has gone over the dam," replied the old Spartan. "If you thought so well about the property why didn't you buy it on your own judgment?"

"I did," was the response.

The empire-builder started to chuckle, a chuckle with a fillip of pride—and checked it.

"Young man," he said, "you go right up to the office and get that money you advanced, and hereafter you keep your private means out of the affairs of this company!"

Mr. James J. Hill thought so well of the project that he invested millions of dollars in it, however, and that is the reason why so great a volume of the wealth of the Great

ROMANCE OF THE RAILROADS.

V.—Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern—"The Clerk," Son of the World-famous Empire Builder.

BY JOHN WALKER HARRINGTON

"Man-like-Whipcord," the Indians call the tireless son of the late James J. Hill, empire builder. As a name, it fits him better than Louis W., seeing that the handle by which he is principally known East suggests silk knee breeches. "L. W." is the favorite mode of address among the railroaders. Louis, pronounced Loo-ee at that, chimes in with his fervid nature about as well as chic describes a geyser.

Anybody who ever saw Louis W. Hill hurl himself off his private car in the far reaches of the West, would sense on sight that the redskins knew what they were talking about. His car, as the president of the Great Northern, is just like him—half sport and half work. It is divided by a partition, running crosswise. At the forward end of it are the office, the dining-room, and the kitchen and all respectable innards accustomed to be found in such conveyances. The rear half has no civilization. Swung from the roof is a canoe. Lashed to the sides are rifles and shotguns, snowshoes, tents, and camp outfits. Clamped down in the middle of the floor is an automobile. The minute the car gets to a siding way out in Montana, for instance, the back end of it opens up like a pair of jaws, a brace of skids are poked out to the ground, and down the ramp goes the runabout, as likely as not with Louis W. Hill already at the wheel. Once, he is in the open, he hits the high places in every direction. Sometimes he finds them so lofty that he has to rip off the wire from a broom and make a carburetor attachment for his machine that will mix the gas and air to agree with the rarefied atmosphere of Montana. Laws of nature never stopped James J. Hill, nor his son, Louis W.

Sometimes "Man-like-Whipcord" camps for two or three days hunting or fishing. The Indians hear about it and take off their boiled shirts and their store clothes, pile on their buckskin gear and their blankets and go out to hold a pow-wow with him. Some of them have been through Carlisle at that and can talk Latin better than their native tongue, but there is something about their great and good friend which just makes them wild.

Few men understand the West and all its ways better than does Louis W. Hill, to whom the East with its board meetings, its formalism, its complicated life is more or less of a bore. He seldom goes to New York because he says he does not feel comfortable in a hothouse. A true son of the Great Northwest is he, and, as wielder of scepter over a vast domain, he finds his own principality sufficient for his every need. The East had a good chance though to shape Louis W. Hill to itself. He was graduated from Exeter Academy and Yale gave him license to follow his name with "A.B." In the New England Academy he was in contact with Thomas W. Lamont, and at Yale he met William H. Porter, both partners of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. He also met both at Exeter, and, old Eli, E. O. Holter, a New York lawyer, and others whose destinies have been with the rising sun. As soon as he could break away with his sheepskin he made for his native place, St. Paul, and started right in to be a railroad man.

O. Henry wrote one of his delightful stories on the basis that romance is not a matter of geography. This romance of the rail centers about a man who achieved success in spite of his heritage. It is too bad that it cannot be said that Louis W. Hill left school at a tender age, but he never was tender. He started in at the bottom to learn the business and those who know what an old Spartan James J. Hill was, may realize that the boy got no favors. James Jerome Hill had three sons, and Louis W., the second one, was to become his successor in the transportation field. For twenty years, Louis W. Hill was in steady training for his birthright. He started as a clerk and was transferred all over the system of the Great Northern. One month we find him in overalls tugging away at ties with a construction gang; again he is taking lessons in bridging from a boss carpenter, or he may be spiking down rails and that with no golden sledge. Finally, after being swung around the circle, he was landed again at the general offices at St. Paul. He is 44 years old now and he has had one of the most condensed careers known on this continent.

STARTS AS CLERK.

The year 1895 sees him a billing clerk at Duluth working night and day to keep up with his work. He might have had help, but his father was curious to see what there was in that college boy of his and kept him at a steady grind. There is not anything of the treadmill in the disposition of Louis W. Hill, however, and he was studying the ore business like mad as a side issue. He wrote to his father that there was more iron ore coming into that lake port than he could bill. This was not by way of protest. He just wanted to ask if there should not be a great deal more. He had been out exploring the Mesabi region after studying all the Geological Survey reports he could get hold of, and he now made the suggestion that the Great Northern buy up the mines and control a great bulk of available business. The rich ores from the Great Lakes country were steadily driving from the markets the yield of less abundant fields. James J. Hill told his son that the Great Northern was a common carrier and not a speculator and ordered him to go back and attend to his business. Once again the young man wrote to say that he could buy some valuable mining property, and again he was warned to let his [illegible] lapse.

He went ahead, and with his own money, $3500, about all he had, closed the deal. Months afterwards the mining world was amazed by the story of the richness of this bonanza, and Louis W. reminded his father of it.

"Don't bother me about the water that has gone over the dam," retorted the old Spartan. "If you thought so well about the property why didn't you buy it on your own account?"

"I did," was the response.

The empire-builder started to choke a chuckle with a fillip of his hand and checked it.

"Young man," he said, "you go right up to the office and get that money you advanced, and hereafter keep your private means out of the affairs of this company!"

James J. Hill thought so well of the project that he invested millions of dollars in it, however, and that is the reason why so great a part of the wealth of the Great Northern comes from the products of the mines of iron. Louis W. Hill was the originator of that whole enterprise.

When the son succeeds, so dominant a figure was the late James J. Hill, it is hard for anyone to believe that the scion has the vigor of the stem—that the chip is as good as the old block. Louis W. Hill is in his own right a forceful personality. He has his father's form, his father's red beard, his father's wonderful vitality, his father's gift for zeal. James J. Hill had made a lifelong habit of rising above circumstance. Although he often had a Jovian frown when addressing the son, he was always watching him with the eye of affection.

The National Glacier Park was one of the big ideas of Louis W. Hill. This realm of magic in upper Montana was developed by him, for he made accessible its peaks and mist-crowned geysers, and wooded slopes and long stretches of rolling land. Under his direction the large hotel there was built for tourists. After he had prepared this land of enchantment for the world Louis W. Hill took his father with him that the empire builder might see it for the first time—the official opening. The elder man was dumfounded by the project and tears ran down his cheeks. He had seen in it all that the son of his body was after his own heart.

Montana became, under the wand of wizardy wielded by Louis W. Hill, like a garden of the gods. His creative ability focussed the attention of the government, of the public and the press upon it. Montana was no longer the dry, bad land, but the land of promise. Irrigation banished aridity. New farming methods were introduced, for "L. W." was a devotee of advanced agriculture. The State famous as a mining place was soon famed also for the fruit of its soil. Its crops and herds added to its wealth and, not unexpectedly to the younger Hill, the freight traffic on the Great Northern grew apace.

James J. Hill having built the tracks for the iron horses, more and more depended upon "L. W." to see that this highway was indeed one of progress. As the years passed the father gave his time more to the financial policy and upon the shoulders of the son rested the "fun" or running the roads.

Louis W. Hill makes work his play and play his work. Even when he seems to be merely a big boy bubbling over with good spirits and sportiveness, he is laboring so hard that those about him seldom realize his endurance.

It may be said of him, as Sydney Smith wrote of Lord Melbourne: "I am sorry to hurt any man's feelings and to brush away the magnificent fabric of levity and gaiety he has reared; but I accuse him of diligence."

Louis W. Hill dashing joyously over the country, far from the railroad, the epitome of peripatetic "pep," shaking hands with the farmers and miners; greeting every man as friend, laughing immoderately and slapping old friends and new on the backs, may not be the embodiment of dignity, but certain it is that, with every move, he adds to the income of his railroads.

He hates cold ceremony. Imagine him every night of his life in evening clothes, sampling the canape and sipping at the sauterne, fidgeting about in his chair and waiting for the tooastmaster to say, "We have with us tonight a great financier, a master builder"—etc,, etc. Once they organized a monster dinner benefit for him out at Great Falls, Mont., and he flew away from it as fast as his runabout would take him and guided the machine up the slats safely into his private car and lost no time in getting away from those oratorical diggings. And yet, when occasion comes Louis W. Hill can make a rattling good speech that brings to all who listen new enthusiasm and new ideas. He made such a one not long ago and, when he had finished, he caught sight of a familiar face in the throng and shouted, "Hello, there Bill, give us some songs." He went down in the audience and assisted in dragging to the platform a youth in chaps later known to our effete East as "The Cowboy Caruso," who sang for half an hour by the clock.

Louis W. Hill has kept up the success of the Hill family by being a good "mixer." If he ever worries, he does it in private. All of his face which is not hirsutely eclipsed is always shining. If he ever knits his brows and goes through the conventional forms of hard work, he permits nobody to see such industry. His is the genius for relaxation.

Mr. Hill and a party of railroad men and financiers were out on an inspection tour, wrestling with one of the great problems of transportation and finance. There were hours of grilling work and then, when everything seemed adjusted, "L. W." and his experts and engineers gathered in his car and in anecdote and badinage passed an hour.

"And by the way," said he, "I've a great treat for you, boys."

He had hardly finished the announcement, than the chef came in with the tidings that the partridges Mr. Hill's friend had sent had all been stolen from the ice box.

The treat was not forthcoming. After dinner there was held one of the merriest moot courts on record. The theft was fixed on a certain high official, who in the spirit of mockery, had the birds removed to the refrigerator in his own car. He got away with the prize through the ingenious plea of a noted St. Paul lawyer, who was with the party. Next day everybody was invited to luncheon with him, where with much ceremony the Hill game was served.

To the minds of some persons there seems something almost incongruous about the grand seneschal of the stronghold of the Northwest being addressed as "Louis" and as "L. W." as he sits with his advisors. Board meetings in the city of New York are usually solemn enough conclaves, but when a man, who is upholstered not with adipose tissue, but with live wires, is at the head of the table, appellations are not factors. One like "L. W." can do his work and wield his power without losing a whit of control.

The genius of Mr. Hill for putting places on the map and making them stick is shown by the way he interests himself in public projects. When the city of St. Paul holds its ice carnival there is, in the very middle of things, the short figure of "L. W." He becomes master of ceremonies for the nonce and, when he signs himself also "M. C.," there is rapid movement. Picture him as lord of play for a whole city. All St. Paul, clad in suits made from Indian blankets, joyous in piebald panoply, goes tobogganing down the smooth inclines and has the time of its life! Of course, none knows better than does the warmhearted ice king himself that all this brings thousands of visitors over the Great Northern, not only to the Twin Cities but also to the neighboring country. Meanwhile the arch booster of the Northwest is not averse to letting them know about Montana and Hood River, and the National Glacier Park.

He may not be the overpowering and masterful personality that his father was. His face is not marked with the lines of struggle and persistence, because he had come into a kingdom whose metes and bounds were already set, but all the same Louis Warren Hill is a daring and successful executive He is not only holding his own, but is extending the great property at every point.

Recently published reports show that the estate of the late James J. Hill in Minnesota alone amounted to $52,000,000 and what with interests elsewhere it may reach a century of millions. The empire builder left no will, but it was generally known that he intended that his second son should have the direction of the great properties for the management of which he had been twenty-three years in training.

"L. W." became the president of the Great Northern in 1907 and from that time J. J. Hill had gradually shifted the burden of administration upon him. In the last two or three years L. W. had, indeed, done many things entirely on his responsibility so as not to worry his father with details. He is developing the vast projects conceived by the founder and himself.

Nearly every man has down in his heart a buried vocation. The things which a man would have liked to have done if he had not taken up the calling he did, are often far removed from his path in life. If Louis W. Hill had not become an aggressive accelerator of public opinion about the Great Northern, he would probably have become a painter of landscapes. One cannot imagine him in a velvet jacket sitting in a duplex studio—for he is an artist of the untamed, open places. In his summer house at Pleasant Lake, not far from St. Paul, as well as in his lodge in the wilderness, Mr. Hill has some excellent canvases painted by himself. He works with a bold, free stroke. There is an interest and vitality in his pictures, however, which shows thoroughly what he might have done had he put the years of study on limning nature that he has on making it accessible to those who like to see nature in the original.

Mr. Hill is linked with the East in that he married Miss Taylor of New York, a beautiful and charming woman. They have two boys not yet in their teens, who are vigorous little chaps, and both seem to have a bias towards the family profession.

They will probably be duly matriculated in the Great Nohtrern University of Railroading, which produced others of whom we have treated in this series, which herewith closes, Frederick D. Underwood of the Erie, Daniel Willard of the B. & O., Howard Elliott of the New Haven and Louis W. Hill, the heritor.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Miss Anne Morgan, who recently returned from France, where she saw some of the fighting at Verdun, praises highly the work of the American Field Ambulance Corps, which, she says, has cared for 750,000 wounded since the start of the war. The corps, however, needs more men and more money. Miss Morgan says the French are fighting for Americans, while we "sit back snugly egotistical with our prosperity ridiculously inflated," and asks "where is the moral fiber we should be creating to meet the crash when peace comes."

Wayne Wenner, a teamster of Allentown, Pa., found a gold watch and chain dangling from the tail of his horse caught its tail on the watch of horse caubht its tail on the watch of a bystander and whisked it out of his pocket.

Frank Scott and his wife of Kensett, Ark., have been married ten years. Nineteen boys have been borne to them. Six died at birth. Of the thirteen living there are three sets of triplets and two sets of twins. The parents have been partial to the letter A of the alphabet in naming them, Ashbell, Archer and Austin are 4½ years old; Albion, Alfred and Adolph 18 months, and Abel and Abner 6 months.

The gold collection being taken up in Germany to replenish the national gold reserve is making rapid progress. Recently the chamberlain of Crown Princess Cecilia appeared at the depot in the Prusian Diet building with a large quantity of gold and jewels, among which were beautiful bracelets, chains and brooches, which were handed to the officials as his mistress' contribution. The ladies of the Crown Princess' household also offered many handsome trinkets.

Detective Inspector George Riley of the special branch criminal investigation department, Scotland Yard, who was one of the chief officers in the suppression of the British suffragette disturbances, has retired after twenty-six years' service.

M. Auguste Rodin, sculptor, painter and etcher, has at last prevailed upon the French government to accept the gift of his works and art collections. He has thereby added one more to a list of triumphs over public opinion. A native of Paris, the present president of the International Society of Painters, Sculptors and Engravers began his career as a workman in the Barye and Carrier-Belleuse ateliers, and boasts of having always lived as a laborer, the mere pleasure of work having, he says, made him endure everything.

More than $250,000 will be distributed on February 1, 1917, by the Underwood Typewriter Company to more than 3000 employees under its new profit-sharing plan announced recently. Twenty per cent. of the final net profits on December 31, 1916, will be divided among the employees of the factory, of all the branches, and of the New York headquarters, according to the length of service and amount of salary.

The Draper Company of Hopedale, Mass., manufacturrs of textile machinery, employing 2500 persons, has announced an increase in wages would be given operatives within the next two weeks. The amount of the advance was not stated. In a notice posted at the plant, it was explained that the increase was decided upon by the directors "in view of the increased cost of living." No changes would be made in the salaries of the officials, it was said.

What was said to be the largest charitable project ever undertaken was started in New York last week when it was announced that a campaign to raise $10,000,000 in 1917 for Jewish war sufferers in Europe had been begun by the Joint Distribution Committee. This will be in addition to $6,000,000, which already has been expended.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court, speaking at an informal reception given in his honor by Boston Zionist leaders, pledged $6000 to the Zionist movement on condition that Boston Jews succeeded in raising the remaining $19,000 of $25,000 pledged at the Hebrew congress in Philadelphia last spring.

Members of the executive board of the Zionist Association of Greater Boston, and the Boston branch of the Provisional Zionist Committee, pledged an additional $5000.

Free Masons of Philadelphia presented their contribution to an already beautiful group of buildings at Elizabethtown, the Mecca of all members of that organization in Pennsylvania. The gift is a hospital, thoroughly modern in its appointments, beautiful to behold and a monument exemplifying one of the lodge's greatest tenets, brotherly love. Past Grand Master J. Henry Williams, Philadelphia, made the presentation address, and on behalf of the Grand Lodge it was accepted by Grand Master Louis A. Watres of Scranton. The building is of Gothic design, and is built of Holmesburg granite, with Indiana limestone trimmings. The construction cost was $60,000. The hospital is the first of three buildings to be donated by Philadelphia Masons, the others to be connected with the hospital by corridors, and when complete will have a frontage of 300 feet.

A gift of $60,000 for an observatory and thirty-six-inch telescope was announced recently at a meeting of the board of regents of the University of Arizona by Dr. R. B. Von Kleinsmid, president of the university. The donor's name is to be kept secret by request.

A bequest estimated at nearly $1,000,000 is left to the Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York for the purchase of paintings under the will of Harris Brisbane Dick, head of the firm of Dick & Fitzgerald, publishers. Mr. Dick had no relatives nearer than cousins. He also left to the museum the remainder interest in a trust fund of $45,000 set apart for life for his business associate, Howard Abendroth. Mr. Dick left a number of bequests for beds in hospitals and homes.

"In a Few Minutes, Away Go Blackheads"

"You Never Saw Anything Like It, Girls, and Here Are Some Other Beauty Secrets Just as Wonderful," Says Valeska Suratt.

By VALESKA SURATT.

HONESTLY, it gives me the "fidgets" every time I hear of, or see anyone trying to pinch out blackheads. You can squeeze out a large one once in awhile and there's no damage to the skin, but when you try to squeeze out the thousands of little ones that are so firmly imbedded in the skin that you have to disfigure your face to get them out, it is time to "call a taxi." Anyway, you'll never get them all out by pinching the face—it's impossible. And it is unnecessary. I have proven it to be unnecessary. You can prove it to yourself in three minutes. If you will take the little trouble to do it, you will not be able to see a blackhead when the three minutes are up. It's wonderful what you can do by sprinkling a little powdered neroxin on a wet sponge and rubbing the blackheads with it for a few minutes. It does what nothing else in the wide world can do—get rid of them all, big and little ones. Just try this right away, get the neroxin at the drug store. Don't steam the face because that makes the pores large and it does not do a particle of good for removing blackheads.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

MISS DOUBLE M.—Your hair ought to stop right away from falling if you will use my hair formula. This has certainly stirred up things among my friends. Everyone who has tried it says it is perfectly astounding how it makes hair grow and stops hair falling. Get one ounce of beta-quinol from your druggist and mix it with half a pint of water and half a pint of alcohol. If you prefer, use a full pint of bay rum instead of water and alcohol. Use this every day and your dream of long, silky, beautiful hair will come true.

MISS HAPPY—I knew that hair formula would make your hair grow fast. Now about the dandruff. You know soap and the common shampoos you buy all have alkali. That hurts hair and never stops dandruff. Try a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of water and use as a head wash. It dissolves away all scale, grease and dandruff. It's wonderful for that. Eggol will cost twenty-five cents—enough to make about twelve shampoos. There's nothing as good.

MISS M. G. H.—One, two, three. That's almost as fast and as easy as my superfluous hair formula gets rid of superfluous hair. You never saw anything like it in your life. Just moisten the hairs with sulfo solution and see them shrivel and dissolve away. I wouldn't use the burners and so-called superfluous hair removers sold for anything. They burn, redden and irritate the skin badly. This is safe on any part of the body. You'll be more than satisfied.

FORM X.—Sorry, but I can't promise you surely that your bust can be developed. Nobody can do that. Nevertheless, there's one thing that will do it, if anything can, and that's a mixture of two ounces of ruetone and half a cup of sugar in a half pint of water. You take two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. Ask for ruetone from your druggist.

MRS. B. D. S.—It makes me happy every time I give this wrinkle formula. It does so many wonderful things. You'll hardly have a wrinkle in your face after a few days' use of this cream, which you make yourself at home in a few minutes. Two ounces of eptol, one tablespoonful of glycerine in half a pint of water. There you are. Your skin will get plump and you'll be asking yourself, not how old, but how young you look.

• • •

MISS MUDDY—Instead of their calling you "muddy" they'll call you "lily." Mark my word, and that'll be quick, too. My complexion cream is what my friends call the "modern miracle." It clears up a complexion in a wonderful way. It's simple and economical. Nothing equals it on earth that I know of. One ounce of zintone and two tablespoonfuls of glycerine, both mixed in a pint of water, makes up the cream. Apply once a day at least. All muddiness, spots and freckles vanish like magic.

ANNETTE G.—Well, it just happened your druggist didn't have just then the eggol for the head-wash and for removing dandruff. Whenever this happens send the twenty-five cents to "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," and it will be sent to you at once.

• • •

MISS JANIS T.—One might as well buy chalk as any of the face powders so commonly sold. It's a "fright." I'll say nobody can get as good a face powder on earth as what I have had made for myself after my own formula. It's so fine, it's like silk and is invisible. It has no chalkiness whatever. It is being sold now for fifty cents in drug stores as "Valeska Suratt Face Powder," in flesh, white and brunette tints.

TRAVEL AND STORY.

SOME QUITE DIFFERENT FILMS TO SHOW THIS WEEK.

Motion-picture row will furnish unusual entertainment this week. Travelogues have sometimes failed to interest, but when a man has spent nine years of his life acquiring views of a country, he should have something of particular appeal to offer.

This applies to the motion picture, "A Trip Through China," and to its maker, B. Brodsky, who has traveled and lived in China for nearly a decade. His great travelogue is said to include many scenes never before shown on the screen.

In the photoplays several stars who have not been seen for some time will return this week. They include Ruth Roland, Richard Bennett and Dustin Farnum. Charlie Chaplin will be seen in a brand new feature entitled "Behind the Screen," and other favorites will include William S. Hart, Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Francis Bushman and Beverley Bayne.

Majestic.

"A Trip Through China," produced by B. Brodsky, who has been intimately acquainted with many Chinese notables, including President Yuan Shi Kai and others, and who is manager of two great motion-picture plants in China, is the offering at the Majestic this week. It opened yesterday afternoon, and will be shown twice daily, during the present week, beginning at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. This wonderful picture, taken under great difficulties and dangers, in forbidden and remote regions of the Celestial kingdom, shows every phase of life among the millions of the vast empire. There are views of the forbidden city, which few white men have been allowed to see, but which Benjamin Brodsky was permitted by President Yuan Shi Kai to photograph. The film also includes intimate views of life in the far provinces of China, where the foot of tourist has never trod. There are views of the terrible typhoons that sweep the coasts of China; of religious customs; of civil and military processions, etc.

Palace.

"The Patriot," starring William S. Hart, will be the dramatic attraction on the Triangle programme at the Palace starting with the matinee today. This is a thrilling story of the Mexican border, and was almost entirely staged on the strife-ridden international boundary line.

"The Patriot" is the pulsating story of a man whose burning devotion to the Stars and Stripes turns to smouldering coals of hate and whose ideals are later restored by a golden-haired boy, who resurrects loving memories. There is abundant atmosphere of rebellious Mexico, depicting border raids with realistic terror.

In the cast are George Stone and Francis Carpenter, well-known child actors. George has the role of Little Bobs, son of Wiley, while Francis plays the part of Billy Allen, who prevents Hart from going through with the plot to betray his country.

"Dollars and Sense," a Keystone, co-starring Ora Carew and Joseph Belmont, will be the laugh-getter of the new bill.

Woodley.

Dustin Farnum in his newest picture, "A Son of Erin," will be the attraction at the Woodley Theater, beginning tomorrow. As the rollicking young Irishman, who comes to America to carve his fortune, Farnum is said to have a fascinating role. Winifred Kingston plays a character suiting particularly well her winsome charm. The story is full of thrilling interest. The staging is said to be unusually adequate amid scenes of unusual charm and beauty in the case of the episodes in Ireland.

A Burton Holmes travelogue of unusual appeal, showing scenes in Greece, will be the added attraction.

Tally's Broadway.

Ruth Roland, in a photoplay version of Henry C. Rowland's popular story, "The Sultana," will be the attraction at Tally's Broadway, beginning tomorrow. The leading role is said to be particularly well suited to the pretty Balboa star, Miss Roland, and her support is adequate. The story is rich in dramatic situations intermingled with comedy.

"The Wonders of the Alaskan Glaciers" is the added attraction.

Garrick.

"Behind the Screen," the latest comedy to be made by Chaplin under the Mutual Chaplin contract, will be shown at the Garrick Theater, starting today.

This is the picture in which Chaplin exposes studio secrets, and makes fun of the motion-picture studios and methods of production. The whole world has laughed over his satires on other themes. He has ridiculed the humble floor walker; he has kidded the fireman; he has parodied the nobility; he has made fun of the pawnshop. But now he is going to play horse with the motion-picture industry in his own skillful, fascinating way.

Everyone who has been privileged to obtain an advance glance at "Behind the Screen" is ready to concede that Charlie has made a thorough job of it.

Symphony.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne will head a double bill of unusual merit at the Symphony this week in "In the Diplomatic Service," while Marguerite Clark will be seen in one of her notable successes, "The Prince and the Pauper," a special added attraction.

"In the Diplomatic Service" presents a vivid story of love and international politics. It was written by John C. Clymer and Hamilton Smith, and adapted and produced

FOLLOWING THE CAMERA ALONG STUDIO LANE.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

TOM COCHRANE, who has recently returned from the Orient, where he had charge of the establishment of exchanges in Japan, China and India, states that serials are much in demand everywhere over there. "The Broken Coin," with Grace Cunard, was an especial favorite, Miss Cunard being very popular in the Orient.

They take their pictures much more seriously in the Far East than we do. "Once in Bombay, when I was visiting a picture house where 'The Broken Coin' was running," said Mr. Cochrane, "a scene was being shown in which the villian was attempting to kiss the heroine, Miss Cunard. Before I could fairly comprehend what was happening, there was a loud hooting, a shoe flew through the air and hit the screen, and a rung of a chair and other missles followed suit.

"In India the wealthy natives have screens installed in their houses, and the sensual taste of the masters in the matter of the sort of pictures demanded knows no satiation.

"In Japan all pictures of kissing have to be cut out, as the Japanese consider such an exhibition extremely indelicate, not to say immoral."

Puts Punch in 'Em.

It's no use ever expecting Director Henry McRae of the Universal, to photograph a Trotty series, or anything like that. He'd manage to put battle scenes into the filming of the Sermon on the Mount. "Liberty, a Daughter of the U.S.A.," upon the retirement of Director Jacques Jaccard, was placed in the hands of Mr. McRae, who at once began putting much pungent pep into the picture by means of some thrilling battles and fist fights.

Some Doctor.

Dr. Mace, who has charge of the hospital at Universal City, nearly always has a full house, due to the accidents which unavoidably occur when 1000 people are engaged in making pictures. Last week he was required to be a beauty doctor as well; in fact, all motion-picture actors who get hurt demand that they be brought forth from the hospital looking as handsome as before their accident. Hobart Henley got a smash over the eye which laid his forehead open in a long gash, the other day, and Dr. Mace, instead of sewing it up, tenderly brought the edges of the cut together with plaster, and in a few days the wound was cured, leaving no scar or blemish.

"The treatment of torn ligaments and fractures is of course even more serious," said Dr. Mace yesterday, "because an actor who acquired a limp would lose his livelihood." A real triumph [illegible] Mace was his treatment [illegible] Rawlinson, who suffered a [illegible] leg and torn ligaments [illegible] ing in a picture.

Dr. Mace is brother of Fred Mace, the Keystone comedian.

Ernest in Clover.

Ernest Shipman, husband of Nell Shipman, and formerly connected with the Horsley studios in this city, has signed up a contract as general manager of the Williamson Submarine Film Company in New York. It is expected that many marvelous under-the-sea pictures will be made by the Williamson through use of their submarine photographic apparatus, which consists of a camera placed in a chamber which has one side all glass and which can be lowered to the ocean depths by means of a flexible tube permitting the free passage of air to and from the chamber.

Expansion Note.

Additions have been made at the head of the engagement bureau and the technical and stage directors besides a new office for the latest member to the directorial staff, Donald Crisp. Chicken netting is said to have been placed around the new quarters of the electricians which are in the pathway to the new engagement offices.

Financial Report.

George Beban, Morosco-Pallas star, seriously hurt his leg in a rough scene in his new picture, "Just an Old Sweetheart." On Director Crisps' advice he at once started for a specialist's office. Beban had limped as far as the waiting auto, when he realized that he was still in make-up of the clothes of an Italian laborer.

"What about this make-up?" he asked Crisp.

Right Back at Him.

George Beban, always living his screen stories even outside the studios and constantly on the lookout for "types," persuades a friend, who had the leisure to cultivate a case of deep-seat tan, to play the part of the chief immigrant officer in Beban's latest Morosco photoplay.

When the star had personally sorted over the wardrobe room's contents, selected the nautical costumes that looked the part, and had finished with his friend's make-up the amateur official looked so impressive that the prop boys touched their caps to him in passing and said "Yes, sir," to his questions. George Beban joshed his friend all the time the picture was being taken, but the friend had his comeback when he was approached by an out-of-work extra, who said, "Cap, can you give me a job?"

The gold-braided one then replied as he pointed to Beban, "Go over there and ask the head stevedore to put you to work."

Vivian is Reproved.

A lion or a snappy young jaguar more or less means nothing in the life of Rex de Roselli, manager of the zoo at Universal City. With Rex it's "Love me, love my tigers" and there's considered to be something wrong with you if you refuse to hobnob with the zoo. The other day a timid young lady was visiting the animal park. Now Roselli has a warm Latin temperament and as the young lady was pretty he took a great fancy to her, and desiring to show all the hospitality at his command, he let her pet his two snappy young jaguars. We use the term "let" in an extremely liberal sense, since the young lady didn't particularly appreciate the honor. Next he led her to Charlie the elephant, and "allowed" Charlie to toss the girl up on his back by means of his trunk. All the time the young lady was expressing less and less enthusiasm. Roselli, fearing he wasn't being attentive enough, as a last mark of his esteem, exclaimed enthusiastically: "Come right into the lions' cage and we will photograph you with the cats." The young lady took one look at the lions and fled, and Rex has been wondering ever since wherein he was amiss in hospitality.

Didn't Know the Devil.

Capt. Leslie Peacocke, the U director, tells this one on Louis Selznick, picture magnate. Edwin Stevens, the noted actor, who made a hit in "The Devil," was walking about the World studio, loftily investigating the art of motion-picture making. Along came Selznick and inquired genially whether Stevens was thinking of becoming a picture actor.

Francis X. Bushman. The nation's aristocracy is represented in the play. The central theme of the story is the unmasking of a foreign official high in the diplomatic service for his duplicity in plotting against this government, while asking and receiving its confidence and hospitality.

Miller's.

George Walsh is the star of the new William Fox picture, "The Mediator," to be shown at Miller's Theater beginning today. In this thrilling picturization of Roy Norton's famous book Mr. Walsh has the role of a peacemaker who finds it necessary to fight everyone in sight in order to insure himself the quiet he desires. Juanita Hansen is seen as the heroine of the story. The picture was staged at the Fox studios, with most of the outdoor scenes taken away up in the high Sierras under the direction of the veteran producer, Otis Turner.

Superba.

Richard Bennett, one of the foremost stars of both stage and screen, will appear in his first picture since "Damaged Goods" at the Superba commencing today. The name of his present vehicle, a comedy, is "Philip Holden—Waster." Those who have viewed Bennett only in his portrayals will be curious to see his work as a comedian. Rhea Mitchell—"Ginger" Mitchell—supports Bennett.

The comedy is of a high class and has to do with the efforts of a wealthy and indolent young man to break into the business world. The photoplay has a dramatic climax and an absorbing love interest.

Marie Williams in the latest chapter of "The Scarlet Runner" will be the added attraction.

Clune's Auditorium.

"Intolerance," the tremendous D. W. Griffith spectacle which has been on view at Clune's Auditorium for the past four weeks, showing to audiences which filled the huge auditorium at every performance, will begin its fifth week tomorrow afternoon. It is presented twice daily.

One of the greatest epochs in ancient history, the siege and sacking of ancient Babylon at the time of Belshazzar by Cyrus the Great is shown in spectacular detail. The beginning of the war on Babylon, the slaughter, rapine and desolation, are shown exactly as if the audience were actually gazing upon the actual events. A very human story of love, hate and intrigue adds incalculably to its appeal of the spectacular scenes.

The three parallel stories depict scenes in Christ's time, Paris during the supremacy of Catherine de Medici, and a city in modern America, all threaded with events of utmost significance and thrilling appeal.

Clune's Broadway.

Mary Pickford in her biggest and best picture, "Less Than the Dust," scored such a success at Clune's Broadway last week that the feature will be continued during the present week. Miss Pickford is now at the head of her own film corporation. This photoplay bears the stamp not only of her individual artistry, but of her extensive experience. The scenes are laid in India and England, and are reproduced on a scale of effectiveness and perfection of detail.

Miss Pickford is seen as a little orphan girl of English birth, who, left alone in a city of India, is adopted by a native sword maker and reared among the lower caste. Later she is taken to England. There she discovers she is an heiress. There are some beautiful photographic effects.

Alhambra.

Gladys Brockwell in the William Fox production, "Sins of Her Parent," received so much favorable criticism last week that it has been deemed well to show this production for another week. It is to be seen at Miller's Alhambra, starting today. The Alhambra management states it is not their intention to show anything but first-run productions as a rule. An exception is made in the instance of the present fascinating play. Miss Brockwell's work in the production stamps her as one of the big finds of the

As an added attraction there has been secured what is said to be the funniest two-reel comedy seen in months. It is called "She Loved a Sailor," and its star is the popular Harry McCoy.

John Monash, recently promoted to the rank of major-general in the British army, is the first professing Jew to attain that rank. There have been British generals before of Jewish birth, but no Jew has hitherto risen to that rank and at the same time been a member of the synagogue. Maj.-Gen. Monash had for some time previously been acting as major-general, but otherwise until the present occasion no English Jew had risen above the military rank of colonel.

salute on the alabaster brow of any fair star whatsoever. Never has he flirted in the moonlight with some svelte sprite of a leading woman. According to Mr. Hatton, he has been two years at the studio and has never even had his arm around a member of the fair sex. Every new part that is assigned to him, he asks hopefully "Is there a love scene in it for me?" And when informed that there is not, he just fades like a film. Now will some kind lady or gentleman please write a scene for a picture wherein Mr. Hatton, champion crook, white slaver, murderer, old man and character interpreter, may reform long enough to at least hold a fair hand?

Country Safe.

And Ruth Stonehouse, U star, tells this one on Capt. Peacocke. Miss Stonehouse was strolling along, with a copy of the latest edition of an evening paper, relating the election news, when she met Capt. Peacocke. The director was dreaming out some new stories, and had a fara-way look in his eye.

"Hi, there," called Ruth, "here's some exciting election news."

An annoyed look crept through the captain's dreamy expression.

"Well, Carl Laemmle's still president, isn't he?" he demanded.

Lasky Grows.

—The iron and glass work has been ordered for the new glass stage at the Lasky plant, and is to be erected wthin a week. Diffuser braces and diffusers have been strung over the recently-completed new stage, and are to be ready for productions soon. The contract has been let for the construction of the new administration building, which, instead of being on the corner of Vine and Selma, where the present building stands, will be half-way down the block near Sunset boulevard.

She Looks it, Too.

"I kned when" Club has a new one. Fannie Ward, the clever Lasky star, who has been so popular on both stage and screen for a number of years, happened to run across one person who had never heard of her. She went into a drug store and asked the clerk to sell her the largest bottle of alcohol he had in the store. The clerk looked at her for a minute, and then went away. Upon his return he said: "I'm sorry, miss, but the drug store across the street got into trouble for selling alcohol to a young lady under age last week, and while I am sorry to refuse you, I really can't sell you alcohol unless your father or mother comes with you." Miss Ward laughed and then explained. "Why, I am Fannie Ward." The drug clerk replied, "It doesn't make any difference who you are. You are under 18 and I can't sell you alcohol. Miss Ward then called her husband, Jack Dean, and said, "Jack, tell this man you are my husband." and Jack, thinking it was a joke, said, "Why, of course, I am this young lady's husband." The clerk said it would be all right for Mr. Dean to purchase alcohol, but he still refused to sell it to Miss Ward.

Would Work Even Then.

Alan Hale of the Fox studio had such a splendid physique at the age of 15 that Mike Murphy, the famous athletic trainer, selected him for development into a champion strong man. Hale tells this story on himself in connection with his physique in his youth:

"I was very tall and heavy for my age. One summer, between school terms, I decided to earn some money. As I was only 14 I went to the City Hall to get a certificate of age and a permit to work. The clerk looked at me and then said:

"'I'm sorry, but you'll have to bring the boy with you when you come.'"

Reel Stuff.

So many accidents do and do not happen in the making of the modern photoplay the public has become somewhat sated of them and gives little credence to chroniclings of them. When a man does come face to face with danger of the real stamp, it's the old cry of "Wolf."

Jack Standing, who was acting out a scene at the Fox studio the other day, was required to make a perilous escape from a den of crooks via a fire escape of the vintage of days gone by. He lost his footing and fell. Directly below, fortunately, was a network of telephone wires, and the actor plunged down among them. He fitted well into the wire nest and remained there until a fire truck ladder rescued him amid the cheering of spectators.

And the camera ground right along.

Wizard Switches.

Dal Clawson, who photographed "Hypocrites," and is known far and wide for his achievements in strange and difficult camera effects and for his knowledge of trick camera work, has joined the Fox forces.

Mary Shines Again.

Little Mary Sunshine, Balboa star, whose picture, "Little Mary Sunshine," made such a hit at Tally's Broadway when it was shown there last season, will appear at the same house in a new film play, entitled "Shadow and Sunshine." The picture is booked for the week beginning the 20th.

Can Sing, Too.

R. Henry Grey, whose beautiful and seductive baritone voice went into the silence of Balboa pictures some time ago, is practicing his do-re-mi's these days, preparatory to returning to the stage and singing the part of Etienne Bouvray in "Mlle. Modiste." The Balboa stage resounds to the echoes of "I Want What I Want."

Not Stage Money Either.

Neil Hardin of "The Hardins of Kentucky," who has scored a success in Balboa films, took a flyer in wheat just before the last big bulge in October and cleaned up enough to pay his own salary for a year or two in the case the motion-picture business should suddenly go broke. Mr. Hardin is appearing in "The Neglected Wife," a Balboa serial.

Lost His Best Popgun.

William S. Hart lost one of his most highly-prized belongings this week during the production at Inceville of the virile western drama by Monte M. Katterjohn. He broke his best Sunday-go-to-meeting gun. Hart was directing some mob scenes from a platform 100 feet high, when, in his excitement, he released his hold on his handsome six-shooter. The weapon crashed down through the scaffolding and struck a rock, and the impact broke the barrel off at the stock. The gun was a gift from Producer Ince.

Prof. Lover for Enid.

Alfred Vosburgh, the well-known leading man, has been engaged, it was announced this week, to appear in support of Enid Bennett, the new Ince star, in the production in which she is now appearing, under the direction of Charles Miller.

Alleviation Note.

Mrs. Chester Withey, wife of the debonnair and diplomatic Fine Arts director, has gone to visit her mother in Chicago. Chester misses his wife very much, but every cloud has its silver lining. The visit might have been, so to speak, vice versa.

Near-to-nature Stuff.

Director Reginald Barker left for Pinecrest this week with a company of thirty persons to film some scenes for the new detective drama by C. Gardner Sullivan, in which Thomas H. Ince will present William Desmond as star. Members of the company making the trip are Margaret Thompson, J. Barney Sherry, Robert McKim, Will H. Bray and Henry Belmar.

Couldn't Stay Away.

Henry Belmar, well known from coast to coast as a character actor, returned this week to California, and has again associated himself with the Ince forces at Culver City. He will appear with William Desmond in the latter's new photoplay.

Greek Meets Irish.

The coming of Mrs. Vernon Castle to Los Angeles gives the city the honor of sheltering at the same time two young women who in the height of the dance craze in New York fought it out for stellar honors in the hearts of the people. Now both Mrs. Castle and Miss Murray are interned in a danceless city. The irony of their position is much like it would be were Barney Oldfield and Eddie Pullen to go abroad and spend most of their time in Venice.

Mystery Note.

From Guatemala came a letter written in Spanish and signed by Edith Sterling, who is in the company supporting Tyrone Power in "The Planters." The letter was addressed to her p.a., but as his education was neglected in his youth, he was unable to decipher it. For all he knew, it might have been an interesting story of her adventures, or purely a gossipy letter, or one "firing" him. He took it to several persons who can read Spanish, but after smiling, each handed it back without comment. Finally he took a Spanish-English dictionary, and tried to translate the letter. One word at the top, heavily underscored, was the first of which he learned the meaning. It was "Confidential!"

Lemons Not In It.

Monroe Salisbury, having completed his work with Oscar Apfel in a Fox feature, has taken his mother to his ranch for a week or so. Salisbury owns a beautiful area of forty acres at the foot of San Jacinto Mountain, and is specializing in grape-fruit and alligator pears.

Pris is Now Serious.

Having withdrawn from the Nestor Comedy Company, Priscilla Dean has been selected as leading lady for Harry Carey, who is co-directing with F. A. Kelsey. Miss Dean is considered an ideal type to play in a western drama. Edith Roberts succeeds Miss Dean as leading lady for the Nestor company.

Did His Bit.

That it is better to die in front of the camera than to live in the trenches, is the contention of W. Everett, of Australia, moving picture actor, who recently arrived from the war zone. Everett was working for Pathe-Freres in Paris, at the outbreak of the war, and enlisted with most of the other employees of the studio. He was wounded and taken prisoner but managed to escape, and made his way through countless difficulties to Australia, working his passage most of the time. Finding the motion picture business shot to pieces in his native country, he has come in Los Angeles and will shortly begin work with one of the new companies. He is an expert shot (as several Germans can testify) and a good rider.

Mix Resumes Directing.

Tom Mix, of the Selig studios, who for the past several months has been out of the directorial harness while playing the leading role in the western feature, "The Light of Western Stars," has once again assumed command of the megaphone and goggles and gone to work on the three-reel western drama, "Twisted Trails."

The company includes, beside Mix and Bessie Eyton, who will play the star parts, Eugenia Besserer, Al W. Filson, Vivian Reed, Will Machin and others.

Millenium Note.

In spite of the fact that the millenium has not arrived, William N. Selig, producer, last week received a long letter of praise from Winston Churchill, author, anent the Selig picture version of Churchill's "The Crisis."

Pullman Too.

Talk about the second-hand man who was stocked up with everything from a pin to a pulpit. He hasn't anything at all on J. P. McGowan, of the Signal Film corporation. Besides a complete property room, a zoo and a branch railroad, McGowan is now the owner of a modern Pullman sleeper, purchased by him last week for some scenes in "The Lass of the Lumberlands."

Apfel Leaves Fox.

Oscar Apfel is leaving the Fox company. He will journey to New York shortly.

A Hot Time.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] "It says here in the paper that at last a shingle has been invented that is really fireproof," said Aunt Jane as she perused the morning paper.

"Umph," interrupted Willie as he throught of a recent interview with Paw in the woodshed, "that last one dad used on me was certainly red hot."

PEOPLE I HAVE MET.

BY TOM FITCH.

California's Women Poets.

AMONG the first, if not the very first, of the women who have contributed to the poetical literature of California, I place Mrs. Eliza A. Otis. I do not say "the late" Mrs. Otis because in my belief such a splendid intellect still lives and graces the world beyond the dawn as she did the world this side the shoreless river.

The poems of Mrs. Otis exhibit a rare union of masculine strength and virility with delicate femininity of spirit. And this, whether she wrote of passing events, of domestic life or of the beauties of her beloved California.

What mother's heart but will respond to her greeting of that sweetest gift of God—a new-born infant?

"Say, baby sweet!
Out of the beautiful blue of the sky did you come,
With the light of the shining stars in your eyes,
And the lingering glory of paradise
In the smile which is 'round your soft lips curled?
And did Aurora lean in some far-off world,
With the breath of spices upon her lips,
And kiss your dimpled finger tips?
Kiss them till warm as her mouth they grew,
Just touched with the pink of the sunrise, too?
Say, baby sweet!"

Is not the truest and best philosophy of life and earth expressed in the lines:

"Life hath such little worth if life is all
But life of earth; if with the pall
Of death covering our senseless clay
Our being passes into nothingness away."

And again in the lines:

"If over the river of death there lieth
A home of rest and of joy for me,
Ah! why is it then that my spirit sigheth
And shrinks with dread from that glad to be?
Why cling I thus fondly to earth and its sorrows;
Why shrink from the shadowless, painless tomorrows
Of the life that is endless, the life that is free?"

The beautiful trust of the poetess in the beneficent Father of all appears in the lines:

"God's unseen hand I think is everywhere—
Doth he not lead the wandering bird in air—
Else how o'er pathless distances can it,
Sure-winged and strong and all unerring flit,
Without a line or compass in the sea
Of sky all islandless, and wide and deep
As the far spaces where the stars do sweep?"

And again in the lines:

"God's silent kiss is on the shining sky,
His tenderness upon the whispering leaves,
His footsteps wander in the sunbeams by,
His bounteous love is in our ripened sheaves."

Only the one to whom the following lines were addressed can entirely appreciate them. They surely bring to him every day in his busy waiting life the assurance of a dear love "that shall not fail till the sea gives up its dead."

"Within my heart a little bird hath built its nest,
With folded wing and songful breast
It sitteth there the whole day long,
Nor findeth rest but in its song.
And all the music of its every strain
Begins and ends with this same sweet refrain—
The only sound on my heart's full sea—
'I love, love, love thee, so remember me!'"

Was there ever a more beautiful tribute written to "the land where sets the sun" than this:

"O land of balm and land of sun!
Where winter holds within his noon
But lingering summer days of bloom,
But calm of sky, and calm of sea,
And grandeur of immensity:
Where clouds move white above our head,
Like young lambs which are shepherded
By the soft breezes which do run
Light-footed as the golden hours,
To steal the fragrance of the flowers."

The following lines written during the Spanish War will be applicable to the contest which now devastates Europe:

"Black-winged and huge, the cruel bird of war,
With sharp, strong talons and with bloody beak,
Brooded above the world—within his claw
He held a nation, bleeding, sore and weak.

"Prostrate in utter helplessness and woe,
Its navies playthings of relentless Fate,
Its armies beaten by its watchful foe,
With Death forever marching in their wake.

"Peace looked from far, from out her golden day,
Her morning luminous with rosy light,
The perfumed stillness on the silence lay,
Upon the air so shining, clear and white.

"She stirred her wings, the waiting nations heard,
One note she sounded, sweet and soft and clear,
Sweeter than song of any wandering bird,
Pulsing through all the breathing atmosphere.

"Great armies moving o'er sun-scorched plains
Breathed as if Dawn had touched them with her lips,
And Noon's hot, fevered pulses, filled with pain,
Were cooled and soothed by her soft fingertips.

"Hearts which had throbbed like muffled drum-beats, slow,
Heavy with the sad torture of a nation's pain,
Threw off the grinding pressure of their woe,
As the strong oak lifts up its boughs again.

"When the swift tempest passes—
Peace! sweet peace,
Hail it as Love hails Love when she draws nigh;
Hail it as ye hail rest when pain doth cease,
Hail it as triumph for humanity."

Mrs. E. A. Simonton Page believed that poetry did not consist merely in versification but appeared in sculpture, in painting, in Nature and in great deeds. She wrote:

"Only through melodious utterance poets stand confessed and crowned,
Yet some souls make lifelong music in a rhythmic hush profound.

"The wide universe is a poem, marvelous as the Infinite mind;
Star-worlds are the golden strophes, filled with splendors undivined.

"Soul-fraught poems in carved marbles speak rebukes for wrongs of men,
Where the tablet is enduring, and the chisel is the pen.

"Harmonic poems, wordless, vibrant, a divine impulsion own,
Lifting up the listening peoples one step nearer to the Throne.

"Iliads in prismatic colors, on the glowing canvas tell
Truths profound to climes and ages by a speech made visible.

"Every pure deed is a poem which recording angels name,
Tracing it on scrolls of sapphire in imperishable flame.

"Waning cycles may list vainly for a bardic voice supreme, Yet true lives are grander epics than the mightiest poets dream."

Frances Fuller Victor believed in the future of the city that was to grow up at the mouth of the Columbia River. She wrote:

"The swelling tide laps on the shingly beach
Like any starving thing;
And hungry, breakers, white with wrath upreach
In a vain clamoring.
The shadows fall; just level with mine eye
Sweet Hesper stands and shines,
And shines beneath an arc of golden sky,
Pinked round with pointed pines.

"A noble scene! all breadth, deep tone and power,
Suggesting glorious themes,
Shaming the idler who would fill the hour
With unsubstantial dreams,
Be mine the dreams prophetic, shadowing forth
The things that yet shall be,
When through this gate the treasures of the North
Flow outward to the Sea."

Who has not recalled mistakes, and wasted effort and neglected opportunity and said with Sarah E. Carmichael?

"Oh, the life we seek and the life we win
Are wide apart, but I deem it sin
To waste warm breath in sighs,
We must drink the draught, tho' it be not sweet;
We must tread the path, tho' it wound our feet;
What we can not shun, let us bravely meet."

Ina D. Coolbrith must have visited Santa Monica, or Ocean Park, or Venice, or Manhattan Beach, or Hermosa, or Redondo, or Long Beach, or she could never have written the following lines:

"Along yon purple rim of hills
How bright the sunset glory lies!
Its radiance spans the western skies
And all the slumbrous valley fills;

Broad shafts of lurid crimson, blent
With lustrous pearl in massed white;
And one great spear of amber light
That flames o'er half the firmament."

I will not permit an overstrained sense of the proprieties to cause me to omit from these recollections quotations from verses of one of California's most gifted song writers—my deceased wife, Anna M. Fitch. We were companions, partners, friends and lovers for forty-one years. Whatever I achieved in those years, I owed largely to her sage advice, her constant ministrations and her tender care. Through the barred windows of my earthly prison house nightly and daily I send her the assurance of a loving remembrance that shall never fail. Memory as truly nourishes the soul as material food does the body and my spirit lives with the past and banquets royally upon its memories.

The gifted lady of whom I write might be called an "opportunist." She did not seek for topics among the achievements in letters, art or arms of centuries past. She lived in the present and the future. Every changing aspect of nature, every unusual occurrence in the life of today, every new growth in science or literature inspired her pen. When a great new water conduit in Sierra county was finished she wrote the "Song of the Flume," which William Cullen Bryant said was "an original and charming contribution to American literature." She made the mountain water say:

"I am fed by the melting rills that start
Where the sparkling snow peaks gleam,
My voice is free, and with fiercest glee
I leap in the sun's broad beam.
Tho torn from the channels deep and old,
I have worn through the craggy hill,
Yet I flow in pride, as my waters glide,
And there's mirth in my music still.

"Mine is no stern and warrior march,
No stormy trump and drum;
No banners gleam in my darkened stream,
As with conquering step I come.
But I touch the tributary earth
Till it owns a monarch's sway,
And with eager hand, from a conquered land,
I bear its wealth away."

On the day that the battle of Gettysburg was fought, the Union Club at Virginia City, Nev., erected a flagstaff upon the summit of Mt. Davidson, westward of the city and floated the Stars and Stripes therefrom. That evening upon the breaking away of a storm this banner was suddenly illumined by some curious refraction of the rays of the setting sun in the valley on the other side of the mountain. The flag seemed floating on a sea of flame while the streets of Virginia City 1500 feet below were in utter darkness. The next morning there appeared in the Daily Enterprise along with the news of the battle of Gettysburg the poem of "The Flag on Fire," from which I extract the following verses:

"Cloud-bemantled,
Storm-ensandled,
Droops the flag, all gloom-encompassed,
Now unfurling,
Waltzing, whirling,
To the music of the tempest—
While aloft the dark-browed legion
Marshals through the storm-wrapped region

"Fire! Fire!
Fire! Fire!
Who has set the flag on fire?
What vile traitor
By Creator
Spurned thus dare defy despair?
God of prophecy and power,
Stay the omen of the hour.

"Oh, the splendor,
Oh, the wonder,
To the worshiping beholder!
Gathering, glowing,
Flaming, flowing
Skyward, fiercer, freer, bolder
Burn the beating stars of empire,
Lit by traitor torch, nor campfire.

"Blood nor palette,
More than all that,
'Mid those starry embers linger;
'Tis an omen
Sent by no man—
Signet on an unseen finger
Prophecy from Heaven's own portal
Borne by winged worlds immortal.

"Now the circling
Darkness purpling
Plumes the rock-ribbed mountain hoary
Yet the hallowed
Flag unpillowed
Burns aloft in stilly glory;
Wonder-mute, no man inveigheth;
Peace, be still! a nation prayeth."

When a member of President Grant's Cabinet was proven to have accepted a bribe, and retired from office disgraced, it was shown that his misfeasance was committed to obtain money with which to pay extravagant bills secretly incurred by his wife. Mrs. Fitch thereupon wrote:

"O woman! you waltz to the measures of wealth,
You smile on your hero, you sip to his health;
You dote on your baubles, you chatter, and dance,
And languish in luxury—meanwhile, perchance,
He waits with mute lips, on some perilous brink
Where sweep the dark waters of destiny—think!
The pleasures you covet, his peace may disturb;
The exotic you choose, be his "diamonded herb;"
You may barter his honor, and mortgage his pride,
Till, like drift on the beach left ashore by the tide,
The sun of society turns to decay
The flatteried fortunes itself swept away"

In 1873 we visited Europe together and sojourned for some weeks at Mentone, where the Mediterranean kisses the feet of the maritime Alps. Mentone is a short ride from beautiful Monaco, where the great gambling establishment of Monte Carlo is situated. There I made an injudicious investment of $8 in a futile endeavor to beat the roulette game, and my partner wrote the following lines:

"On the Mediterranean, eastward from Nice,
The heart of her impulse, as Athens of Greece,
The traveler recalls how a glittering vision
Invites the tired eye up the slopes of Elysian
Delights; how the masses of marble and green,
With perfume and fountain and foliage between,
Look tenderly down on the tideless old sea,
And the dim, windless places that lie on the lea:
How up the broad terrace they tirelessly go—
Old age and young maidenhood—thither and fro
To deal with despair, both the timid and bold
While their pulses keep time to the clink of the gold."

Sidelights on Curious Phases of Babylonian Life in "Intolerance"—The Marriage Market and the Power of Women in Kingdom.

In D. W. Griffith's tremendous photodrama, "Intolerance," which is smashing all attendance records at Clune's Auditorium, is given a wonderful insight into the everyday life of the ancient city of Babylon, as well as the more momentous events.

For instance, according to the latest discoveries by scientists, the Babylonians had a peculiar method as regards marriage. Women were sold to their husbands. The sale was made from a sort of platform somewhat similar to the old southern slave block. Good-looking women brought high prices, but the homely ones had a hard time.

The revenue derived from the sale of the pretty brides was often given to the homely ones as a bonus. According to history, the record for the largest amount paid as a bonus to insure a husband for one homely woman amounted to a trifle in excess of $12 of our money.

Women enjoyed considerable prestige in Babylon, and had almost as much power as the men. There are records of women handling trials somewhat as is done by women attorneys today.

Every possible authority was consulted by Mr. Griffith in the making of his spectacle. Photographs were secured of more than 2000 drawings and engravings, some of which were recently excavated from the ruins of Babylon.

READS SHARP INTERLUDE.

"A Northern Night," William Sharp's wonderful picture of a young girl's mental anguish when she deliberately sins against her affianced husband, was dramatically presented by Bertha Fiske, reader, in her studio in Blanchard Hall. Miss Fiske's sensitive appreciation of the author's theme and the magnetism of her voice and personality carried her audience into the strange locale of the story. Katherine Fiske, violinist, was also fortunate in her opening number, "Lenta and Giga," an ancient Irish air wtih piano accompaniment, never before heard here. She also played "Les Adieux" and Schubert's "Serenade." The reading of the "City of Joy" lyrics to a musical accompaniment, with Lewis G. Hall at the piano, was a delightful contrast to the tragic setting of "A Northern Night."

Panic in Chinese Theater Follows Cowboys' Charge in Wild West Photoplay—Strange Experiences of Picture Maker and Exhibitor.

"A Trip Through China," the picture which is being shown at the Majestic this week, was obtained by Benjamin Brodsky through much self-sacrifice, danger and difficulty. Brodsky started out with 60 cents, following the earthquake and fire in San Francisco ten years ago. Now he owns eighty motion-picture theaters in China, as well as two film-producing plants, and is accounted a millionaire.

A native of Odessa, Russia, Mr. Brodsky's first experience in the Orient was during the Russo-Japanese War, when he acted as interpreter for his country. He returned to San Francisco and, after the fire, he emerged with an old Edison Universal moving-picture machine and forty or fifty reels of "junk" film. With this he sailed for the Orient. The motion picture was unknown in China when he reached there with his paraphernalia, and he ran into many dangers in exploiting his wares. To the natives his camera and projecting machine was a "magic box." He had to pay his first audiences to enter his theater, which, by the way, was only a tent. In this way he finally won the crowds.

Matters were progressing well when Brodsky one day put on a wild-west film in which a band of cowboys appeared on the screen, charging straight at the spectators and firing revolvers. The moment the audience saw those shooting cowboys bearing down upon them, they rushed panic-stricken from the tent theater, cutting their way out with knives.

After this the cautious natives were slow to come back, but finally he hit upon the plan of having a few Chinese come and examine the apparatus, pass their hands over the blank sheet which was the screen and assure themselves that there was nothing to hurt them.

Gradually he established picture theaters throughout the country, until now there are eighty of them.

He was several years making the film which he is showing in this city, and he traveled in the interior, making pictures where never before had a foreign traveler been seen. Once he was thrown into a Chinese jail, but finally made his escape after getting the whole populace into the jail to view his motion pictures. At another place he was to have been executed as a "devil," only the people were afraid of his "magic," as he told them he could easily put them on the screen and they would have to work there forever.

BRINGS GOOD BAG OF HUMOR FROM EUROPE.

After two years in the war zone, Jack Norworth arrived in New York a few weeks ago with a bang like a Zeppelin bomb. Now he has been engaged to extend the noise throughout the Orpheum theaters. Of course, the Norworth style of singing songs and stories still clings—who would have it otherwise? But Jack has eliminated everything from his act that he ever did before, even "A Wise Old Owl," and now he has some new songs and stories which prove that a sense of humor still exists in battle-scarred Europe.

GETTING SIR HERBERT.

Little Tricks of Diplomacy Go Long Ways in Film-making.

Diplomacy and tract are very essential to the moving-picture director. In fact, it may almost be said they are absolutely necessary for success. Imagine an untactful director supervising Sir Herbert Tree cast as a Yankee farmer in "The Old Folks at Home!" When Chet Withey tackled that job he undertook one of the most difficult assignments ever given to a director. Some one had told the noble actor he had to appear in black-face and Sir Herbert actually believed it.

Withey obtained from various sources an almost complete account of the titled Thespian's life and made a study of the plays he had appeared in. Thus he was able to engage the actor in what is a professional's favorite subject of conversation, himself. In this way Sir Herbert forgot his trouble and before he knew it was acting before the camera as if nothing else had ever happened.

Moreover, she may think that the exercise is beneficial. Perhaps it is.

"The Worn Doorstep."

"The Worn Doorstep," by Margaret Sherwood (Little, Brown & Co.) is a poignant and beautiful story, exalted in spirit and sustained with exquisite feeling.

An American girl in England addresses to her dead lover—among the first to answer Britain's call for men and among the first to fall—the notes of her simple journal which she sets down from day to day.

She retires to an old English cottage with her dog, and Madge and Peter come to take care of the house and garden; then a waif of a kitten is found; and later the wife and babe of a soldier are guests for the night, then refugees from Belgium arrive, and the little, remote cottage becomes a busy center of hospitality.

No one has shown in just the same way the apathy of the English working class toward the war when it broke out as the author has shown through the character of Peter, who is a Socialist and believes the "'Ouse of Lords" is just scaring the country with reports of war; and Peter knows the British never were whipped in any war and that Britannia rules the waves—so why should he worry? And Madge listens incredulously to bits of historical gossip about Good Queen Bess, and neither she nor Peter believes the story about William the Conqueror crossing the channel.

But Peter is among those who see the bombardment at Scarborough—and from that hour he is a patriotic Englishman.

But "The Worn Doorstep" is more than a story. There are in it flaming passages that illumine the nation's travail, as: "No one here now can doubt that England is going through that great anguish wherein the soul of a people is reborn. The unity, the calm, the quickening determination are part of a great springtime that will lead, God grant, to harvest days of peace. There is slow knitting up of the sinews of war; more and more her sons respond to the call which still leaves them free to choose; old England is getting ready as ever, resolved, incredulous of defeat; the spring knows it; the rooks know it, busy in their elm-tree parliament. The great sorrow and the great endeavor have turned the very soil of the country into holy ground.

"Among my bonfires of spring—for I like to keep that old, religious rite of purification—I burned a dozen volumes of recent English fiction, decadent, erotic; a volume or two of flippant and sensational criticism; and one of affected futurist poetry, or some brand like unto it. They belong to the England whose follies and foibles are being burned in a great fire of affliction; they are not worthy of this great England that is emerging from the flame."

"A Book About the Theater."

Brander Matthews discusses certain dramaturgical oddities in "A Book About the Theater" (Charles Scribner's Sons) and exuberantly dishes up information on such obscure phases as "Why Five Acts?" (though they have long since gone out of fashion,) "The Decline and Fall of Negro Minstrelsy," "The Evolution of Scene Painting," "The Lamentable Tragedy of Punch and Judy," and some other phases not so obscure.

Prof. Matthews writes with the facility of long practice in transmuting accumulated facts into essays, and, as is characteristic of very learned men, devotes most of his text to discussing other men's opinions.

In the chapter on "Dramatic Criticism" he takes the position that it is possible (though seldom accomplished) for criticism to become actual creation, a claim that is absurd, though he cites such imposing illustrations as Aristotle and Boileau, Lessing and Sainte-Beuve, none of whom, excepting the last, were critics in the sense that they dealt specifically with other men's work.

There is more, we believe, that is creative in the worst play or novel ever written than in the best review.

In a chapter on "Why Five Acts?" Mr. Matthews unconsciously reveals the continuous stupidity of critics who began the folly in Alexandrine days by deducing from Euripides's plays that five acts were an indispensable dramatic form; and this fallacy was laid down as a principle by Horace ("Five acts a play must have, nor more nor less, to keep the stage and have a marked success") and painfully followed by critics wherever Latin influence reached until in comparatively recent years when the Procrustean torture of the dramatic Muse was abandoned.

Many of the essays are interesting compilations of encyclopedic research, as "Dramatic Collaboration" which enumerates collaborators; "Women Dramatists," which records a long list of failures; "The Dramatization of Novels and the Novelization of Plays" and "The Puppet-Play, Past and Present."

Though in "A Moral from a Toy Theater," Prof. Matthews' explains that R. L. Stevenson failed as a dramatist largely because he was as a child influenced by the melodramatic plays in which paper dolls were the actors, he does not show to what extent the ubiquitous and savagely tragic exhibitions of Punch and Judy possible affected the theater as a whole. Since Prof. Matthews is exceedingly adroit with deductions it would be interesting to see how much of the theater's past (and possible present) crudeness and artificially he could place upon the head of the redoubtable Punch.

"Joseph Pennell's Pictures."

"I am simply an artist searching for the Wonders of Work," says Joseph Pennell in his note on the Chicago Stock Yards. "I have never been in them, don't want to go, and have no interest in the social, financial, or sanitary conditions of them. I am always being criticised for lacking interest in such matters, but my critics do not realize I am an artist searching for the Wonders of Work—not for morals—political economy—stories of sweating—the crime of ugliness. I am trying to record the Wonders of Work as I see it, that is all."

"Joseph Pennell's Pictures of the Wonders of Work" (J. B. Lippincott Company) contains fifty-two lithographic plates of work in many parts of the world, of skyscrapers in New York, of bridges and cattle pens in Chicago, of steel works in Pittsburgh, of the smelters of Butte, of flour mills at Minneapolis, of the Campanile being rebuilt at Venice, the Carrara quarries, of the factories of English manufacturing cities. Mr. Pennell has shown the art of commercialism. His pictures are strong and vivid, as every one knows who knows anything about them; but the notes which accompany them are no less striking.

Accompanying the lithograph showing the construction of a powerhouse at Niagara, Mr. Pennell has written a paragraph that epitomizes his contempt for the decadent aesthetes who believe this is an ugly, mercenary, commercial age.

"The purists and the theorists have made a great fuss about the destruction of the falls and the vandals who have done it. Now the falls, I believe, have not been lowered an inch, and as for the power-houses, they are most of them Greek temples, and placed just where the Greeks would have placed them. For once the Greek temple is right in America, and therefore the American purist and theorist doesn't like it—he would not have liked Greek temples had he been Greek . . . If they were in Tivoli the purists would sit down between two trains and snapshot the 'cute Villa d'Else and the 'handsome' Villa of Hadrian, or revile the spaghetti, while a courier quoted Baedeker at them. At Niagara they take off their clothes, put their feet on the piazza rail of the Canadian Hotel, sigh over the power-houses, delight in ginger ale, and forget the falls in the pages of a Saturday home Magazine. This lithograph is a proof that engineers design today for companies, not churches."

And there is the sarcasm of an outraged art lover in the remark that "it is difficult to tell whether an American railroad station is a Greek temple, a Christian Science Church, a free library, a bank, a museum, or a millionaire's residence or his tomb." He adds that "a German railroad station looks like a railroad station and nothing else," and that the station at Leipzig (which he drew in process of construction) "is certainly far better designed than anything in America."

KATHLEEN NORRIS.

Rachael" by Kathleen Norris, published by Doubleday, Page & Co., brings attention to the author's record and work.

Mrs. Norris describes how she was much struck by the fact that they were just people. If they were only human beings, why couldn't she do
The appearance of "The Heart of what they were doing?

Her first story was sold to an evening newspaper for $12. Though in however small a way, from the very start her stories have been prize winners. This one took a prize of $50 given by the paper that bought it.

An interesting story attaches to one of her earliest stories, perhaps the first she placed with a magazine, a story of California life which appeared in the Atlantic Monthly. The story went to twenty-six magazines before it was printed. Mrs. Norris's husband made an alphabetical list of magazines, and sent this story first to the Atlantic and then to twenty-five other magazines. They all rejected it. Then Mr. Norris again started at "A" on his list, and this time the Atlantic Monthly accepted the story.

In consequence of this experience, no doubt, Mrs. Norris is a great believer in persistency in the young writer's efforts to get his or her work before the public. She considers that the desire to write generally indicates the possession of the power to write, and that young writers are too easily discouraged.

From her own success she cannot but feel that the novelist should use the material which lies ready at hand instead of seeking unusual topics.

Mrs. Norris's chief enthusiasm among authors is Dickens, above whom, apparently, she places Shakespeare only. And, it would seem, in Dickens she finds this great worth because in optimism, she holds, is truest realism.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Pan-Germanic Plan Revealed.

"The Pan-Germanic Plan Unmasked" which the Scribners are about to publish, is by Andre Cheradame, whom Lord Cromer describes as "conspicuous among a very small body of politicians who warned Europe betimes of the German danger." The motive of this book, whose text is strongly supported with explanatory maps and diagrams, is to show that a great danger to Europe will still exist from the Pan-Germanic idea even if the war results in a draw or an apparent German defeat. The author reveals what he believes to be a deliberate and long-prepared project for such a plausible settlement in the peace conference that Germany, while getting practically the most important part of what she has fought for, will apparently make very liberal concessions and admit defeat. The author has written this book in order to inform the allies of this scheme in time to thwart it and Lord Cromer has written an introduction to it in which he expresses himself as holding "a strong opinion that M. Cheradame's diagnosis of the situation is correct."

New Books Announced.

The J. B. Lippincott Company announce the publication this week of "The English Drama in the Age of Shakespeare," translated from the German of Wilhelm Creizenach; "Old Glass and How to Collect It," by J. Sydney Lewis; "Winter Journeys in the South," by John Martin Hammond; "Parks," by George Burnap; "Marvels of Scientific Invention," by Thomas W. Corbin; "Daring Deeds of Famous Pirates," by Lieut. E. Keble Chatterton; "Daring Deeds of Trappers and Hunters," by Ernest Young; and "Ian Hardy Fighting the Moors," by Commander E. H. Currey.

Trevena's New Novel.

A new book by John Trevena is "A Drake, by George!" which he is publishing this fall, Alfred A. Knopf promises to show us the distinguished author in a new light. A delightfully rollicking Devonshire comedy should dispel the notion, once and for all, that John Trevena is in any sense highbrow. Old Capt. Drake, bluffing himself, tolerable old liar that he was, into virtual dictatorship of the village of Highfield; his nephew George, a veritable devil of a fellow, always looking for the man who invented work; Miss Sophy, an ancient female of failing intellect, who forgets the things that do happen and imagines things that don't; these and many other amusing characters furnish Mr. Trevena with the material for a yarn of rare good humor.

Foreign America, Novel's Theme.

Foreign America, that is the predominant America, inspired Katharine Metcalf Roof to write "The Stranger at the Hearth." The significance of immigration, the paramount issue in America today, is here dealt with by a writer who possesses a brilliant style and an amazing grasp of the subject handled.

German Literature.

If every author and publisher were obliged to prove to the comparatively small group of book buyers in America the reason for putting a new volume on the market there might be fewer but more necessary books than now burden the dealer, the reviewer and the "consumer." That there is ample need and justification for Ludwig Lewisohn's "Spirit of Modern German Literature" is evidenced by the fact that so gifted a poet and so intelligent an editor as Charles Hanson Towne, adverting to Rainer Maria Rilke, one of the greatest poets of contemporary Germany, asks in the October Bookman, "Miss Rilke—or is it Frau Rilke?—" Nor is it Fraulein or Mrs. Rilke. Mr. Lewisohn's book, to be issued soon by B. W. Huebsch, tells about Mr. Rilke and others who are maintaining the traditions of German literature.

"Every-Day Words and Their Use."

"Every-Day Words and Their Uses," by Robert Palfrey Utter of Amherst College, is published by Harpers. It is intended to be an intermediary to establish friendly relations between the person who wants to know and the sources of information. It explains the meaning and use of a thousand or more expressions which are frequently misused or misunderstood. It is intended to give exactly the information most often wanted, and to present it in compact, accessible form, to save the person who wants to know from the labor of searching through dictionaries, grammars, rhetorics, and such, and of piecing together for himself the information he wants on a given word or phrase. The book arises from an experience of many years with the innumerable questions asked of professors and manuscript readers by people who desire to use correctly the English language.

Galsworthy's New Book.

"This volume," says John Galsworthy in his preface to "A Sheaf," "is but a garnering of non-creative writings; mostly pleas of some sort or other—wild oats of a novelist, which the writer has been asked to bind up. He cannot say that he had any wanton pleasure in sowing any of them; and, lest there be others of the same opinion as the anonymous gentleman who thus joyously addressed him last July:—'But there—I suppose you are getting a bit out of it. Men of your califer will do anything for filthy lucre—you old and cunning reptile!'—he mentions that he has not, personally, profited a penny by anything in this volume, and that the future proceeds therefrom will be given to St. Dunstan's, and the National Institute for the Blind, London."

"A Sheaf" is a collection of sketches and essays similar to "A Motley," "The Inn of Tranquillity," etc. It is published by the Scribners.

BOOKS OF FICTION.

"The Winged Victory."

It took Sarah Grand 650 closely-printed pages to tell the story of "The Winged Victory" (D. Appleton & Co.,) which has to do with Ella Bankes, the Duke of Castlefield Saye and the Duke's son, and incidentally has to do with perhaps a hundred other people, for Madame Grand's novels are as populous as they are protracted.

The story is somewhat old-fashioned, being founded on transplanted babies and the sin of a duke, but it culminates in fiercer tragedy than the Victorian sisterhood, among whom Madame Grand made her debut, were won't to countenance.

The Duke of Castlefield Saye displays an interest in Ella, who is called the "Winged Victory," that observant persons cannot explain otherwise than with the whispered comment that she is his mistress; but the son hears nothing of this—and he marries her.

She is not the Duke's mistress. The catastrophe that ensues is more tragic than it would have been if she were. But tragic as the catastrophe is, it is like stage thunder—fashioned to harrow the soul and not the inevitable development of natural causes. It is a theatric and not a powerful story.

"Somewhere in Red Gap."

The short stories in "Somewhere in Red Gap" (Doubleday, Page & Co.,) are told by Mrs. Lysander John Pettengill and written down by Harry Leon Wilson. "Ma" Pettengill also had much to say in "Ruggles of Red Gap," so that she doesn't need much of an introduction; and more than that, she is perfectly able to introduce herself and maintain her standing at all times. Being a "cow woman" and owner and boss of the Arrowhead Ranch, able to ride and roll cigarettes, and to see the ironical and amusing in almost everything that happens, she proves an entertaining locutor, whether she is telling of her experiences with a Brooklynite in New York or a hobo poet in the parlor.

Just what the publishers have hoped to gain by labeling a series of short stories as "chapters" and otherwise giving "Somewhere in Red Gap" the external appearance of a novel is not quite clear. It is said that the public has a prejudice against buying volumes of short stories—but Mr. Wilson will no doubt contribute much toward removing that prejudice. He is an exceptionally entertaining teller of stories.

"Romance of the Martin Connor."

Oswald Kendall no doubt designed "The Romance of the Martin Connor" (Houghton Mifflin Company) for boys, though there is little internal evidence of this excepting perhaps the painstaking clarity of the narrative and the presence of a boy in the redoubtable crew of the Martin Connor. The story is related by the mate, who is proud to sail with Capt. Hawks, a bold and loyal fellow. Capt. Hawks finds himself being flimflammed by a rubber corporation with vast holdings in the interior of Brazil, so he steams up the Amazon and investigates for himself.

Indians and retainers of the corporation provide plenty of dangers for the crew, and when the mate accidentally kills a corporation spy the attack on the Martin Connor becomes serious enough to make the account of it quite interesting.

Mr. Kendall is lavish with detail; his narrative is convincing—and it is quite pleasant to believe that the Martin Connor carries off millions in gold after such a hazardous trip.

"Chloe Malone."

Fannie Heaslip Lea has written many dull and sentimental stories and seemed to have as little of the gift of winsomeness as any of the authors prized by the ladies' magazines for which she writes; but "Chloe Malone" (Little, Brown & Co.,) is different. It has a touch of spontaneity that lifts the story of the southern girl who is determined to marry a rich man, but does not, in the class of those easily read and involuntarily enjoyed. The story is fantastic, but well sustained.

Chloe lives at New Orleans and enjoys gaiety. The night of the grand ball she says: "I'm going to look for a millionaire, a nice, gentle, bald-headed millionaire with bags and bags of money. And when I find him, I'm going to marry him." But the mercenary nuptials she plans are only superficially sincere—she is in earnest because she doesn't love a poor man.

And though Chloe has been very properly raised, as is said of retiring and shy girls, yet when she meets the stranger after an accident, she exchanges tokens with him and the pin he gives her is an effective amulet against the importunings of the sure-enough millionaire whom she does meet.

Herbert Quick, author of "The Brown Mouse," is as militant as Mrs. Pankhurst, but hates trouble worse than a darky hates a graveyard. He has accepted a place on the Federal Farm Loan Board.

A CALM WAR BOOK.

HALT! WHO'S THERE? By the author of "Aunt Sarah and the War." G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

"Halt! Who's There?" is in the form of a diary and notes. It seems real. It is simple, unaffected, indefinably suffused with the spirit of war—the calm, retrospective spirit that sees much, feels much.

The little book is divided into three chapters; the first and last being pages from the diary of Pauline Vandeleur in the hospital service; the second being notes made at the front by the late Capt. Owen Tudor, V.C.

The captain discusses England with his comrades; discusses their patriotism with Catholics and Irishmen, and tries to get a focus on the picture of what England really is. He speaks of the individual Englishman thus:

"Generations are at war with generations in the most pacific of us. Teuton and Celt and Saxon and Dane and Norman fight the old fights, slay and are slain, on our newest body's battlefields. We say peace and know there is none. For we are sons of Alfred and of the Eighth Harry, of Thomas More and of Cecil. We slew and then canonized Charles I. A Restoration grandam in us smiles into a looking glass from which a Quaker ancestress averts her gaze. We went to the Holy Sepulcher with Coeur-de-Lion; to Greece with Byron; to Albania with young Disraeli—costumed to the part. We are born heroes and born cowards; there's a saint in every sinner, and a sinner—bother him!—in every saint."

In her diary, Miss Vandeleur tells of a boy officer who is in hospital; and of his brother, also a boy, in the navy, of their intense patriotism and "responsibilities," together with mention here and there of other people and incidents of the war, all written in such a way as effortlessly to cause the battlefield to seem very real. The last chapter is more personal, and relates conversations with a fellow-officer and Irishman who was with her captain when he fell.

The book is dedicated to Shane Leslie (author of "The End of a Chapter,") and in the dedication is a tribute to America of which this is a part: "America gives to the world with both hands; to the Wanderer shelter, a fresh start, public freedom, private fortune; to Modern Civilization a developed sex—civility—a sustained chivalry of man in marriage, a safe sisterliness of women in friendship with men, a rare serenity in singleness; to Domesticity, thus undulled, the humor that sweetens and the turns-of-speech that temper; to her Younglings a discretion that Age elsewhere envies."

A "KILLING" DISTINCTION.

Plain, simple-minded Yankees, inheritors of the up-and-down ethical code of the Pilgrim Fathers, labor under a sad misconception, it appears, when they imagine that "killing" and "murdering" are the same thing. In Kentucky they take a much saner view of this question, according to Eleanor Mercein Kelly, whose new Kentucky novel, "Kildares of the Storm," is announced by the Century Company. In Kentucky, Mrs. Kelly says, there is a subtle distinction between these two agreeable occupations, a distinction that lies not so much in the character of the occupation itself, as in what people think of it. In other words, a "murderer" is a man whose crime is condemned not only by the courts but by public opinion. But if, when you have killed your man, people in general think that you ought to have killed him and are justified in having done so, you are a "killer" and you belong in a different class altogether. Evidently, they don't love all their neighbors down there. Will some other obliging Kentuckian kindly explain?

MAMMON AND WAR.

FINANCIAL CHAPTERS OF THE WAR. By Alexander Dana Noyes. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

Mars has had much attention given to his operations in the war, but Mr. Noyes discusses the operations of Mammon, who has been the god behind the guns. Mr. Noyes explains how the European nations have succeeded in maintaining their credit despite the enormous expenditures, and shows where the gold supply has been coming from—though in Germany and France most of it came from the stockings of the thrifty folk.

How America met the financial tidal wave that broke on our shores in August, 1914, and not only prevented a panic in this country, but strengthened the shaking confidence of European bankers in our banks, and made New York—at least for the duration of the war—supersede London as the world's financial center, is explained by Mr. Noyes, who has treated illuminatingly of all the salient financial aspects.

LATEST PROTEST OF HARDEN, GERMANY'S BELLIGERENT EDITOR

[Maximilian Harden has been known for years as the most famous and most feared editor and writer in all Europe. He first sprang into prominence when he denounced the "Round Table" scandal in 1907, a scandal which involved close friends of the Kaiser, and since that time his fame in Germany has been second only to that of the Emperor himself. Harden's paper, Die Zukunft (The Future) has been suppressed many times since the present war began.]

BY MAXIMILIAN HARDEN.

BECAUSE humanity turned from the divine to the bestial, because it loked upon the good as weakness, because it mocked the spirit as the bridge of the lame man and acknowledged might alone as godhead, because it put up tyrants and slavishly licked the dust before their shoes, humanity was doomed by its Creator to be punished by the flood.

The waters rise. Everything that lives, every plant striving toward the light, men, animals, perish from the earth.

Noah alone, a just man, in whom the spirit of God still breathes, is to be saved with all his household. He lands in his ark on the roof of the world, from which the flood slowly recedes. To find out if the earth is dry and possible for the foot of man to tread he opens a crack in his wooden box and lets free a dove. The dove returns, finding no resting place and no food and is taken up again in the ark, wherein, according to the word of God, are housed a pair of each of the animals.

After seven days Noah lets out another dove. In the evening the dove's bill raps against the window of the ark. Behold, it carries an olive leaf! The earth is beginning to put forth once more and in the young trees the sap is stirring. The third dove returns no more to the ark. It has found a dry place and food to still its hunger. Soon after, Noah is enabled to leave the ark with all that is his, with men and birds, animals from the woods and mountains, cattle and reptiles.

All things are to increase and multiply according to the will of God. From henceforward no curse is to rest upon the earth and the new covenant is made between mankind and its Creator. So long as the earth stands, seed time and harvest, summer and winter, day and night, shall not cease to be. If clouds roll up and rains pour down from them, the colored bow in heaven is to be a sign of the new covenant, a witness and guarantee of the divine and gracious never again to punish folly and wickedness with the flood.

Has the Holy Covenant been destroyed? Thousands of years have crept by, thousands more chased by. The mountain left by the water where Noah's Ark rested, Mt. Ararat, saw Theodosiopolis rise and fall, Byzantines and Parthians, Armenian Christians and Mongolian Cossacks, Turks and Russians, fighting for the sources of the Euphrates and the fortress Erzerum. Two suns of the world arose in the East; the son of the Sakya King and the son of the Virgin of Galilee carried mercy to Godlike heights.

Before the tent in which Mohammend's heart has stopped beating, the sword of Omar threatened with swift death him who dared say the prophet was dead. The face of the earth, all form of human life, were changed. In the place of the breathing servant has come one of steel and across the oceans the belief penetrates that love reigns on this earth, illuminated by two suns.

But a new flood rises up, sparing no part of the earth, not even that upon whose coast the white sailing ships of Columbus once threw out their anchors.

This time the will to destroy has forced another element into its service.

Fire flames out of 10,000 chasms and falls with unheard of force from heaven, bursting the firm house of the earth like a crater of hell speeding with lightning-like rapidity through the depths of the sea. The most terrible means of destruction seem not terrible enough, and what was tried today is outdone by that evolved tomorrow.

As to the race of men, the boy with sprouting beard at the very threshold of youth and the old man with stiff joints and gray hair—all are taken and thrown onto the field of battle, coming from schoolroom or workroom, from laboratory, shop, counting house and bureau, from the plough, the book or the easel.

And death strides by both day and night, with red scythe in hand, mowing down men like straw.

Riches, sufficient to equip whole armies of the poor for the peaceful battle of existence and which so expended would have brought civilization and culture even in most thickly populated countries, to heights never before heard of, these riches are used to exterminate everything created and made by man.

The most revered laws of humanity no longer exist. The community of race, of color, of religion, vanish like cobwebs in which a child has poked its finger.

All the hideous images painted in the Revelations of St. John become realities. To the wild fury of a zoological combat, in which one species endeavors to exterminate the other to the very last member, is added the desire not only to take the life of the enemy, but to stamp out his property, and through the destruction of his wealth and the drying up of his sources of income so to cripple him that, allowing no pity, he will be brought whimpering to earth.

The hope of the reign of pious brotherly love which Buddha and Christ taught seems as far from reality as a maiden's dream of that paradise in which the wisdom of the snake had not pointed the way to knowledge.

Could any change of boundary line justify this monstrous, this terrible occurrence? A flood was not needed to give the property of the wicked into the hands of the just.

In memory the new flood would be an unforgivable sin. Did it not bring with it a world change, if out of its terrors there was not to be born a new covenant between humanity and those moral forces which appear to be its god?

In order that this covenant be made it is necessary that the spirit should at last be freed even in those lands overwhelmed by the flood of fire.

For two years now the endeavor has been to show daily only that which would benefit one's own party. The land from which arises the voice that speaks is possessed of all the virtues. It is just, truthful, brave, noble, strong, patient, capable of every sacrifice and consequently sure of victory. All its enemies, according to description, are a horde of conscienceless, tricky robbers, who, breaking every law of humanity and tearing the rights of nations into shreds, have fallen without cause upon the home of peaceful labor, conducting a cannibal-like war more base and wicked than that of Attila, Timur and Genghis Kahn, whose brutal strength, already faltering, is to be punished by the most terrible defeat in history which is approaching apace.

On one hand the dovelike softness in the heart of an invincible Hercules; on the other the boastful weakness of a dishonorable, cowardly thief and murderer.

In the picture books which offer to children their first mental food the human being sometimes looks like that, but grown people who are not blinded by the scarecrows erected by the masses see things differently.

Common sense should warn against defaming or trying to make loathsome an entire race of a simliar stratum of civilization, especially in this day, when all must have learned that the street sweepers of Calais and Valparaiso are in closer soul communion with each other than with the rich citizens of their own town.

In virtues and vices, in the percentage of honest men and of knaves, the difference between the two is not so great as to be comforting to the defamers. But these have muzzled common sense and would like to force us to see the nations as they are drawn by the pen of satirists for humorous papers, each one merely a type—the chattering comedian, the barbarian in woolen shirt and spectacles, the pharisaical merchant, the hairy, childish, hypocritical psalm singer, the money hunter who is only prayerful when in the Temple of Mammon.

Can a mature mind believe that on one side is heaped all the nobility of the world, on the other all its baseness, and that groups of people can be divided into black or white like pawns on a chessboard?

We have seen men of high artistic fame and learning who used to boast of their intellectuality help in goading on the nations to vilify and outlaw other nations, and we have stood ashamed at the debasement of human dignity. Is this the way for patriotism to express itself? Is it by these sad means that the native land whose part each folk must believe to be the just and true one is best served?

Whoever dares deny it, remembering twenty years of finer and more varied experience, is branded as a heretic. Those who think differently should be conveniently burned, as were the women who knew too much in the days of witchcraft.

In this manner we get no nearer a goal which will satisfy mankind.

Release the intellect. Let decency and common sense reign once more and put up no more barriers against the honest, outspoken word, the one means of preparing the way toward mutual understanding.

All people who, in the simple words of the Galilean, are of good will desire this mutual understanding.

They want to prepare an honorable peace, not future wars. To them the moving backward or forward of a frontier line is not as important as the new birth and the wise tending of spiritual forces out of whose harmony the new world and the new covenant shall be made. After this creation, the flood shall no longer appear in the light of a senseless crime.

But as yet sinister forces are vehemently opposing these earnest aspirations—forces once called to do the bidding of Phosphoros, the bringer of light, now sunk in superstition, believing it to be their highest duty to keep the earth in darkest confusion.

Learn once more honest truthfulness, you who wield the pen in the lands of fighting nations.

You represent yourselves as the educators of the people. How are the people ever to trust you again when they find out (and some day, sooner or later, they must find out) that in the time of the greatest, the most fateful decisions you lied to them?

Do you disdain the work of enlightenment because it is hard and thankless?

Do you think you show your bravery by straining voice and vocal chords to the limit in crying out wishes and demands for whose fulfillment your fighting countrymen have to shed their blood? Act in such way as you can account for, but at least don't hinder your neighbor from following the dictates of his conscience.

That is what you did yesterday, what you are trying to do today.

If I praise my country's health, its valor, its powers of resistance, you call me an idle boaster, and say I want to forge the yoke of national empire about the human race.

If I see about me the desire to underestimate the obstacles before us, if I warn against that optimism which Schopenhauer himself calls nefarious and point to the difficulties still to be overcome, you exult that the boaster has become fainthearted, thereby showing that the whole nation from whose soil he speaks feels that the game is lost.

The entire meaning of the speech is ripped up like a careless, machine-made seam. Words are given a different shading, sense becomes nonsense.

Everywhere in odd corners of the world offices have been opened whose chief business it is to pick out sentences from articles and speeches which verify just what their readers want to believe. If zeal cannot find what it looks for, it can quickly forge it. For each group of fighters must at all hazards be talked into the conviction that their opponents are weak, discouraged and almost desperate.

The enemy, who in his own land criticises it and uncovers its faults and shortcomings, becomes a hero to the other side. But the same people who praise him as the one just man in Sodom turn with blame and denunciation on their own countryman if he does not find everything quite wonderful at home, running after him with cries of "Liar, he is helping the enemy."

Must not these performances renew the damnation of the scribes heard in Jerusalem, the city of Peace, from the lips of Him whose life and teaching were one and who strengthened the teaching by the sacrifice of life? Isn't the profit-making adulterator of food or cleaning fluid a harmless little lamb beside the adulterator of the unarmed, wandering thought?

The possibility of aiding the enemy and harming the nation is to be prohibited by the renewal of an institution which seemed to be done away forever.

The censor, vehemently striven against in th western part of our world for over 200 years, and who seemed to have been buried in the deepest vault, now sits with majestic smile once more upon his throne. It is freshly lacquered and looks like new. From this throne every thought born of one mind to frutify others is probed to its depth like a suspected sneak thief.

Are the author's intentions good or bad? Is his thought of heavenly or hellish origin? Can the enemy in any sly way change or twist it into a thing harmful to our cause? The poor fellow is asked more questions than Scheherazade needed nights to entertain her Sultan with her polychrome fairy-tale wisdom. The thought is finally strangled if every answer is not satisfactory to the stern demands of the omnipotent one.

The right of war and the country demand it. A censor on Mt. Ararat plucked the dove and put the olive branch through a chemical analysis. The dove might have had a secret message written on its skin.

We still sit in the ark, knowing not when the flood will recede. To the Almighty One sitting on the roof of the world we send with modest pride this bitter, earnest prayer: "Let thought once more sweep freely through the world."

Not the din of the bravely-fighting troops, nor the cleverest of lies can avail. Thought alone can bring humanity back to reason and from reason to a durable peace.

Don't try to bar the way any longer to the passion of willing service, those who yearn to make the cause of their country and the cause of humanity one.

Don't demand that another heart shall feel, another brain think, as your own. Be content with the certainty that heart and brain belong to a man of good will.

Remember that the empire of the greatest conqueror has not lasted as long as the Empire of Thought.

I am not the bearer of an olive branch, having neither the right nor the desire to offer peace, for the land out of which my voice arises is in no more need of peace than any other. It has men, the power of sacrifice, and wealth, which allow it to fight on for a long time if necessary. I will not say that it contains only saints and heroes, for people would object to these stale victuals and the result would be fruitless. But in the realm of physics, materia, in war, in agriculture, the work of this country is known to all not blindly prejudiced. He who does not hear its spirit speak through Luther, Kant, Bismarck, or hear its soul sing in Goethe, Bach, Mozart and Beethoven can never be convinced or learn to estimate the contributions made by Germany to human possession. I wish to insult no other country, only to warn them of their duty, the duty to learn to understand one another and not to disdain the one who is not understood, as a mere barbarian.

I have pledged myself to serve the truth. I am resolved to speak what to my best knowledge seems to be the truth in other lands, for anything else would be against my nature.

Only God alone can make the flood recede. But the Divine can be born even today in all hearts where pure love is wedded to the inflexible will to do justice to those who thirst for noble freedom and who respect the same desire in the alien heart.

A New Divinity born of man in covenant with the purified spirit of the race.

OVER THE SEA.

Richard von Kuhlmann, whom the Kaiser has just made Ambassador at Stamboul, is not yet 40 years of age, and owes his rapid advancement, despite the many mistakes which he has made, mainly to his great good fortune in marrying some ten years ago Margaret, daughter and heiress of the colossally rich Baron Hugo von Stumm, whose iron works and coal mines rival in importance and in extent those of the Krupps at Essen. The relations between the Stumms and the present Kaiser have always been very close, indeed, and three years ago the Emperor gave a further illustration of his friendship for the Stumms by creating Frau von Kuhlmann a baroness in her own right, by the name and title of Baroness von Stumm-Ramholz.

Viscount Kaneko, one of Japan's most interesting statesmen, is unpopular in some quarters because of his pro-Americanism. He understands this country and its institutions thoroughly, having been educated in the Rice grammar school of Boston, in the Boston Latin School and Harvard College. He was in college with Col. Roosevelt and knows him well. "I have camped out with American boys," he said recently, "and lived with them in their homes. In every home they had family prayers, and at first when they kneeled down I didn't know what to do, but I soon learned."

King Ferdinand of Rumania is a German and a Hohenzollern. His elder brother, Prince William, has since Rumania entered the war issued an official pronunciamento expelling Ferdinand from the family. Prince William years ago decided to be a German prince instead of a Rumanian king. He renounced his right to succeed his uncle, King Charles I, and thus Ferdinand became a substitute heir apparent. William did not renounce his rights as head of the family of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, and he now asserts these rights forcefully and picturesquely.

Vice-Admiral Sir Richard H. Peirse, who has been appointed naval member of the British Board of Invention, has served in the navy for thirty-two years. His first active service was at the bombardment of Alexandria as a lieutenant on the Inflexible. Later he served in the Egyptian war, and finally received a command during the South African war. His more important duties have included the command of the East Indies station, to which he was appointed in 1912, and the command of the first battle squadron of the home fleet.

Capt. Schwartzkoff, in command of the German commercial submarine Bremen, whose whereabouts appears to be a mystery, despite rumors of capture, was for a long time in the service of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company. He served for years on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and distinguished himself in rescue work in the Hoboken pier first in 1900. He was the first officer of the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm when the war broke out. The steamer was then at Spitzbergen on a polar expedition, but succeeded in making a home port without encountering the British fleet.

CHURCHMEN.

Dr. Alexander Mann, who was recently re-elected president of the house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal general conference at St. Louis, is a native of Geneva, N. Y. His first ministerial charge was St. James' Church in Buffalo, and in 1887 he became assistant minister of Grace Church, Orange, N. J. In 1896 he was appointed deacon of Newark. In 1905 Dr. Mann was elected rector of the historic Trinity Church, Boston. He was elected bishop of Washington in 1908 and suffragan bishop of Newark in 1915, both of which positions he declined. Dr. Mann was first elected president of the house of deputies at the convention in New York in 1913.

Rev. Allan A. Tanner, prominent Denver churchman, has resigned as pastor of the First Congregational Church and People's Tabernacle to don overalls and study economic and social problems at close range in the industrial centers of the East. "The church," declared Rev. Tanner, "either must get back on a human plane or get out of business. It must cease teaching technical Christianity and teach the law of love—the fundamental idea of all religion." This is the Rev. Tanner's second venture in working Christianity. He went to work in a machine shop in Toledo, O., several years ago, and became skilled enough to join the union. He was a close friend of Golden Rule Jones and preached the funeral sermon of Toledo's Mayor.

The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis in an address at the 150th anniversary celebration in the Old John Street Methodist Church in New York, asserted that the nations of Europe are being purified and strengthened by the war, while the United States is the only country which is not being blessed. "France is holier, happier and higher than she was two years ago," he said. "In England the members of the House of Lords and the poor of the White Chapel district are working together and finding that they are brothers. The war is correcting the irreligion of France, the militarism and grossness of Germany, the selfishnes and class exclusivenes of England. We are the only people who are not being blessed. Witness the orgies which take place nightly with wine and dinners at $25 a plate, while the starved bodies of men and women in Serbia and Armenia are being picked up daily on the streets."

MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.
The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.
PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in everyday life.
Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry. WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.
MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

TO LET—

The BELMONT Apts. Figueroa at Tenth st. The BELCAMP Apts., 2407 West Ninth st.

If you want the greatest value for every dollar you pay, learn what the BELMONT and BELCAMP have to offer you. "Not how little, but how much we can give our guests" is what we are constantly striving to ascertain.

We do not operate under general rules applying to all en masse. We aim to meet and fulfill the needs and desires of the individual. We try to anticipate your desires. No reasonable request is ever refused; many unreasonable ones are granted. We aim to please, and to that end we do all in our power to make each of our houses, in every sense of the word,

"the place like home."

It may interest you to know that no similar institution in Los Angeles maintains as elaborate or novel an amusement programme as the BELMONT and the BELCAMP. Billiards, pool, music, cards, dancing, picnics, excursions, swimming parties, entertainers—"something doin' all the while."

If you are not perfectly satisfied where you are, would it not be well worth your time to call and learn just what we have to offer you? Talk with our guests and learn what they think.

The BELMONT, $25 and up.
The BELCAMP, $20 and up.

You positively cannot buy its equal even in only fair condition for less than $100 more and this car that we are offering is in perfect condition. We know that we can get more for it, but we also know one good bargain sold at a loss is certain to bring buyers in to see the other exceptional values. MINING—

MINE OPERATORS WANT MONEY—
Wanted—working capital; have regained control of proven mine near railroad, San Bernardino county, from which $50,000 was taken by lessees, who put back thousands for exploration, equipment and development and large ore bodies exposed. Need cash now for miners, payroll, shipping expenses, etc., to market carload ore weekly (netting about $4800 monthly profits.) Few parties having $500, $1000 or more offered good security with proposition assuring money back plus 200 per cent. profits within 2 years; with monthly settlements; absolutely on level and no gamble. Mine not for sale; permanent investors not desired in this instance but other opportunities offered later if satisfied. We are not promotors, but mine operators, using recently patented metalizing process whereby low grade ores, heretofore rejected, can now be handled profitably. State amount available and phone number. Address OPERATORS, P. O. Box 36, Station C.

DEMOCRATS CELEBRATE VICTORY WITH PARADE.

JEERS and cheers greeted the "victorious host of Democracy" parading in celebration of the re-election of President Wilson, when at length it appeared, an hour behind schedule, last night. There were 382 marchers and 133 automobiles in line by actual count at Fifth and Spring streets. There was also a band, a donkey, four mules, a goat, three horses and an elephant in the procession. The committee's search for a bull moose was evidently fruitless.

Red fire and tin horns were the principal features of the celebration. Banners voicing thanks to Gov. Johnson and the Progressives were greatly in evidence.

The procession moved north on Spring street from Ninth street to First street and thence to Tenth street via Broadway. A noticeable feature of the procession was the great percentage of women that participated.

Another Woodrow Wilson ratification jubilee is scheduled for Tuesday evening in Glendale by residents of the San Fernando Valley who find the result of the election occasion for rejoicing.

Isidore B. Dockweiler, local Democratic National Committeeman, last night received a congratulatory telegram from Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the National Democratic Committee. Mr. McCormick expressed appreciation on the behalf of the committee for Mr. Dockweiler's part in bringing about the re-election of President Wilson.

ROADS TO CO-OPERATE IN RUSHING OF TROOPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Recommendations calculated to facilitate the movements of troops throughout the United States, in time of national emergency, are given in a report made public here tonight by the special committee of the American Railway Association, appointed to co-operate with the government in connection with the transportation of the National Guard to the Mexican border. Chief among the recommendations are:

That at least semiannually the railways file with the general secretary of the American Railway Association a statement of their passenger equipment, subdivided into classes, particularly with relation to the character of the coaches available and their seating capacity.

That the committee on relations between railroads, prepare a system of passing reports for movement of troop trains, which can be put into service upon short notice, ciphered, if possible, in order to save telegraphing.

Also, that the committee on relations be directed to prepare a passing report for empty passenger equipment, ciphered, if possible.

That under similar conditions in the future the Pullman company and the American Railway Association combine their offices, so that all information as to car and troops movements will be available to both.

That the railroads having access to each mobilization camp designate a representative at each camp whose name will be filed with the general secretary of the American Railway Association, with any changes which may be necessary from time to time, in order that no time may be lost in such a representative's undertaking his duties in case of emergency.

CAPT. KOENIG'S ACCOUNT OF SKAGGERAK BATTLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW LONDON, Nov. 11.—Capt. Koenig, commander of the Deutschland, was questioned today concerning the battle of May 31 off the Skaggerak. He was in Wilhelmshaven when the German battleships came back from this engagement. The captain repeated again the recital of German losses. He said the battleship Pommern had gone down; that the Lutzow, battle cruiser, had been sunk by one of the German destroyers to keep her from falling into the hands of the British; the Rustok sank on the way back to port, and the Elving was lost as a result of a collision within the German lines. These and five torpedo boats constituted the German losses, Capt. Koenig declared.

He described the arrival of the German ships at Wilhelmshaven as a very impressive sight. Some, of course, were more or less damaged, he said, but before he left for America on his last trip all were ready for action again.

Pipe Organ Now Being Built at Van Nuys is to be Installed at Hamburger's—Is Second to be Put to Such Use in Whole World.

The California Organ Company of Van Nuys is now building a huge pipe organ for the Hamburger store. This will be the second pipe organ ever installed in a department store, the other being in the Wanamaker store in Philadelphia. That instrument also was built by this same company.

The Wanamaker organ was built for the St. Louis Louisiana Exposition and is the largest organ in the world. At the close of the fair it was purchased and moved to the Wanamaker store.

The Van Nuys plant manufactures only the highest grade of instruments and each is a complete "made-in-Los Angeles" product.

The Hamburger organ will cost about $10,000 and will be erected in "Fairyland," where daily recitals will be given by prominent artists.

A campaign to rebuild the old Cahuenga Chapel, three miles north of Hollywood, and establish it as a memorial to Gen. John C. Fremont and Gen. Andres Pico, was launched yesterday at a meeting of the California History and Landmarks Club held in the Black Building.

The affair has the indorsement of numerous women's clubs, including that of the Los Angeles District of Federated Women's Clubs and several other organizations. The historic old building will be reconstructed and used as a museum for relics of the early history of California.

MAY EFFECT RELEASE OF PERSHING'S SCOUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Nov. 11.—The matter of the release of Benjamin Brahan, one of Gen. Pershing's scouts held in Juarez as a Villa spy, was taken up with Gen. Bell tonight by Andres Garcia, inspector-general of Mexican Consulates, who arrived late today from an official trip to Washington and New York. Mr. Garcia said that he was examining the evidence against Brahan, who is alleged to have held a commission in Villa's army, adding that if no case was found the scout would be immediately released.

The same course, he said, would be taken in regard to Joseph Williams, a member of the Mormon Colony at Colonia Dublan, accused of having been caught with stolen cattle.

MISS SEPULVEDA WEDS NORTHERNER

CEREMONY IS PERFORMED AT PHOEBE HEARST HOME.

Special Train Conveys Many Guests from San Francisco and Other Bay Cities to Witness High-noon Nuptials of Prominent Southern California Girl.

Guests from San Francisco and other bay cities were conveyed by special train yesterday to the hacienda of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst near Pleasanton, and there at high noon was celebrated the wedding of Miss Conchita Sepulveda, the daughter of former Judge and Mrs. Ygnacio Sepulveda of Monmouth avenue, this city, and Charles Henry Chapman, a business and prominent club man of the north. Archbishop Hanna officiated.

The Hearst and the Sepulveda families have been close friends for many years, Miss Conchita having been more or less a protege of Mrs. Phoebe Hearst. Judge Sepulveda at one time, as an attache of the American embassy in Mexico, looked after Mrs. Hearst's large holdings in the southern republic. Mrs. Hearst has entertained the former Miss Conchita at her home in the north for months at a time and it was there the Los Angeles girl first met the man who yesterday claimed her hand in marriage.

Mr. Chapman is a former easterner, well connected and a graduate of Amherst. Since he took up his residence in California he has become prominently identified in both business and social circles.

The spacious music room of the hacienda was the scene of the ceremony, and in the bridal party was a sister of the groom, Miss Mildred Clark Chapman, who came from Boston for the event.

From the extensive gardens and hothouses of the estate were culled hundreds of blooms to adorn the altar and the entire house.

Several Angelenos were bidden to witness the service. Messrs. Dana Hogan and Allan Archer went, and L. Mac Blankenhorn, whose sister, Barbara, now in New York, is one of the bride's closest friends, had hoped to attend, as had Lieut. and Mrs. William Robert Munroe, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry Story and others who were detained at the last moment.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman are to live not far from the Hearst home.

MANY DIMES BUY NURSE AUTOMOBILE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Nov. 11.—By the wholesale and retail sale of shares in the Visiting Nurse's Association, at a dime or more a share, members of the Monrovia High School Girls' League have assured Miss Rachel Tanner, visiting nurse for Monrovia's pet charity, that she will soon have a brand new automobile in which to visit her patients.

Recently the girls decided Miss Tanner ought to have a car, and set about devising ways and means for gettting her one. The stock-selling scheme was the result, and was tried out today on the town. Better than a tag day, the plan worked to perfection, many householders having substantial checks ready for the "salesmen" when they arrived. It is believed today's sales will total close to $400, which leaves only $100 to be raised to clear the car of debt.

WHITTIER MAN DIES SUDDENLY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

He was 52 years of age, and had resided here sixteen years, coming from Chicago. He leaves a widow, and a brother, Jacob Bickel. The funeral services will be held from Martin's undertaking parlors Monday 2 p.m.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Serbian troops in a series of attacks Friday, north of the Cerna River, entered Polog, three miles north of Skochivir, and captured 600 prisoners, according to a Reuter dispatch from Saloniki. The attacks against the Bulgarian positions met with complete success, it is announced, and the Serbians captured strongly organized positions in the Chuke range by assault and occupied the southern half of Polog.

CONGRESSWOMAN OUTLINES POLICY.

WILL FIGHT FOR SUFFRAGE AND EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

First Feminine Member of New House Sticks to Her Sewing as She Waits for the Time When She will go to the Capital to Take up Her Duties.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MISSOULA (Mont.) Nov. 2.—"I am going to Washington to represent the women and children of the west, to work for an eight hour day for women and for laws providing that women shall be paid the same wages as men for equal amounts of work."

Miss Jeanette Rankin, newly elected Republican Congresswoman, or, Congresswoman—from Montana, was sewing as she said this today. Even after entering politics she refused to forsake the old household arts, cooking and needlework. Miss Rankin refused to become excited when returns showed she was running ahead of the Republican ticket in Montana and later that she was elected.

"I'm glad of this chance," was her comment when cheering friends broke the news. "Of course," said Miss Rankin today, "I know I'll be the first woman member of Congress, but I believe I'll be received with courtesy and as an equal by those Eastern Congressmen even though they are enemies of suffrage. While working for suffrage in the East, I found that no matter how strenuously our opponents fought us they were always ready to hear our side."

In addition to her eight hour day and equal wage laws, Miss Rankin intends to fight for woman suffrage from the moment she gets into the capital. Her suffrage bill, she said, will be one of the first introduced at the next session. She also declares her intention of seeking the tension of the child labor laws, mother's pension and universal education.

SONORA GOVERNOR ABOLISHES OFFICE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Nov. 11.—Adolpho de la Huerta, Governor of Sonora, has decreed the abolishment of the office of Vice-Governor, because he says it has led to plotting and schemes to unseat the Governor. The decree says if the Governor is called out of the State, for any reason, the Legislature shall resolve itself into an Electoral College to choose a Governor ad interim.

The decree further prohibits the Governor, Secretary of State, or State Treasurer, from becoming candidates for the Governorship of Sonora, unless they resign office at least three months before the constitutional elections. This clause, well-informed Mexicans say, will prohibit any of the present office-holders from becoming candidates, as the State election is expected to be held in January.

Don't Wear A Truss!

Ten Reasons Why You Should Send for My Appliance.

I Send It On Trial

The above is C. E. Brooks, of Marshall, Mich., who has been curing Rupture for over 30 years. If Ruptured write him today.

1 It is absolutely the only Appliance of the kind on the market today, and in it are embodied the principles that inventors have sought after for years.
2 The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.
3 Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.
4 Unlike the ordinary so-called pads, used in other trusses, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.
5 It is small, soft and pliable; and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.
6 The soft, pliable bands holding the Appliance do not give one the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.
7 There is nothing about it to get foul, and when it becomes soiled it can be washed without injuring it in the least.
8 There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.
9 All of the material of which the Appliances are made is of the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.
10 My reputation for honesty and fair dealing is so thoroughly established by an experience of over thirty years of dealing with the public, and my prices are so reasonable, my terms so fair, that there certainly should be no hesitancy in sending free coupon today.

Remember I send my Appliance on trial to prove what I say is true. You are to be the judge. Fill out free coupon below and mail today.

ACCUSE ASQUITH OF COAXING NEUTRALS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Nov 11 (via Sayville)—The majority of the German newspapers publish the speech of Premier Asquith at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London Thursday evening and add tersely that the speech was made for the benefit of neutrals "who naturally resent English war methods and whom Asquith now tries to coax into patience."

The Vossische Zeitung says that compliments paid to all countries "especially to violated Greece only indicate the weakness of the British position," and asks how things must be in Saloniki if Mr. Asquith feels compelled to flatter even a small country "brutalized into helplessness."

The Cologne Gazette published an interview with a French statesman, who declares that a separate peace between Russia and the Teutonic allies in improbable, but he adds this does not mean that all members of the Entente necessarily will make peace on the same day.

PASTOR ELOPES, WEDS YOUNG GIRL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EUGENE (Or.) Nov. 11.—The Rev. F. W. Willings, pastor of the Methodist Church at Coburg, and Ruby Belle Taylor, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taylor of that town, eloped and were married at Vancouver, Wash., on Friday, November 3.

The facts only became known today when the bride's parents announced that they had received a letter from their daughter telling what she had done.

They are on the way to the Rev. Willings's former home in Pennsylvania, where he says they will make their home. The Rev. Mr. Willings is about 22 years of age and has been keeping company with the Taylor girl for about a year. Her parents refused to give their consent to their marriage. Willings was well thought of by the people of Coburg.

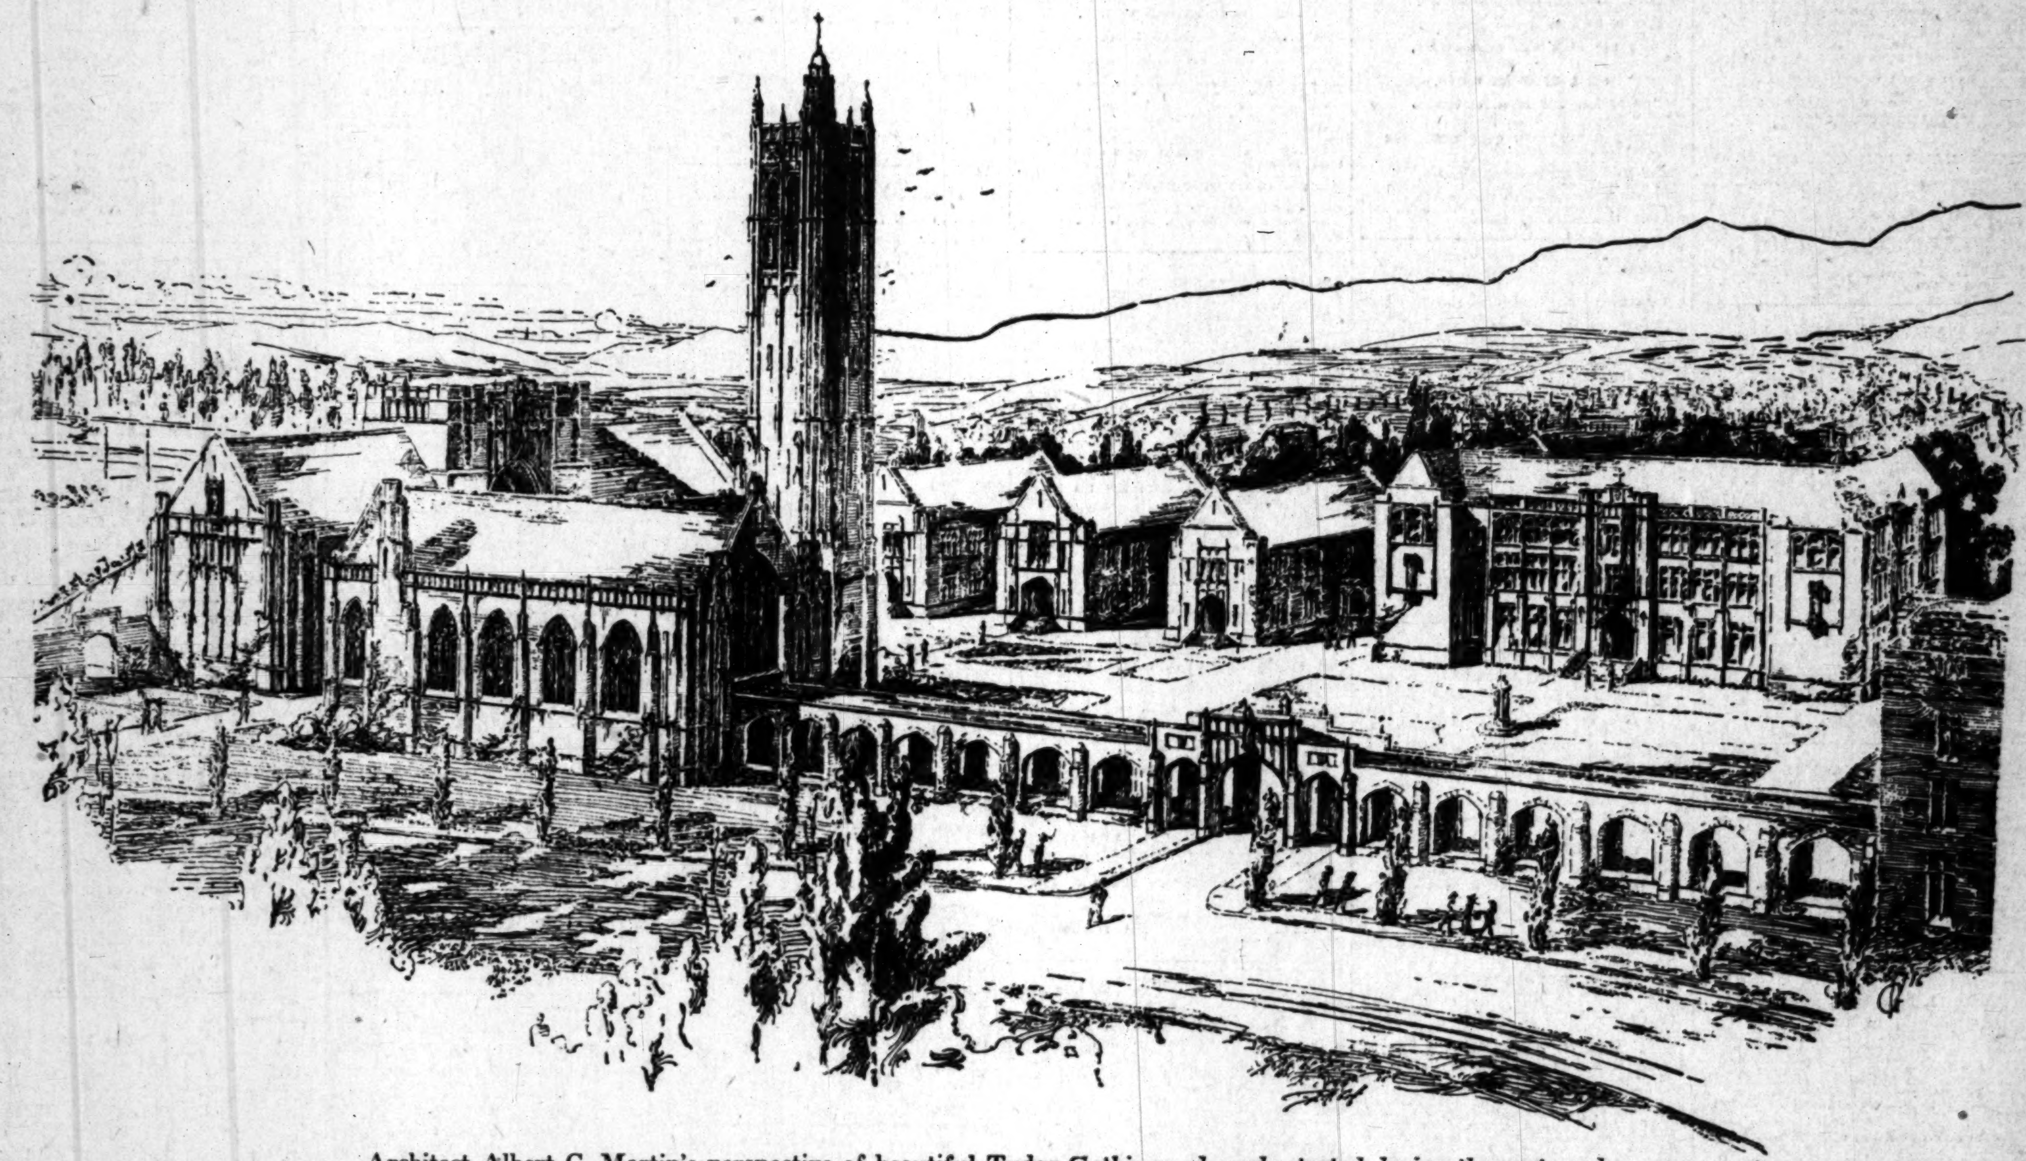
XXXVTH YEAR.
SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 12, 1916.
THE MART Transactions in Houses and Lots Bargains in Blocks and Squares

Magnificent New Campus Group for St. Vincent's College in West Los Angeles.



Architect Albert C. Martin's perspective of beautiful Tudor Gothic quadrangle started during the past week.

The view is a birdseye of the great Roman Catholic institution as it will appear from the main gateway on West Sixteenth street. The main college building (at the right and rear,) one of the three dormitories shown in a row beside it and the Community Hall (in the right foreground) are to be erected at the present time.

FACT AND COMMENT.

Although the Presidential contest has left a bad taste in the mouths of many Californians, and although it has in all probability gone adversely to the hopes and expectations of so many sound-thinking, far-seeing citizens and voters who had seen in the election of Charles Evans Hughes the prospect for better, safer national economic policies, there is not one among us who is not glad that it is all over. The very fact that the election tensity has been relieved will permit men's minds to go back to the every-day affairs of business life and to dwell once more upon the realities of here and now. It is entirely reasonable to expect an immediate picking up in all lines of activity now that the spell of the election uncertainty has been lifted. Nothing could be more welcome.

Here in California there was one issue on the ballot of the general election the decision on which brought only satisfaction to substantial citizens, whatever their political alignments. This was the vicious single-tax proposition, which was literally snowed under by the majority against it. There is every reason for believing that the owners of property in California voted almost to a man against this infamous scheme for saddling the entire cost of State, county, district, and municipal government onto the owners of lands and lots and that the votes for the single-tax amendment were cast largely by persons without a cent invested in real estate, business and industry.

The size of the vote against the single tax in this, the third contest over the proposition forced upon the long-suffering California public through initiative petitions, would appear to be a safe indication that the people of the State will never so far forget themselves as to let the single taxers get the thing over. In an unguarded moment in 1914 the voters by staying away from the polls at a special election almost let the single taxers slip through with their preposterous plan, but this year the amendment was buried out of sight. This is a practical guarantee of the future integrity of California land values against the assaults of such visionaries.

One of the happy results of the decisive defeat of the single-tax plan will undoubtedly be an immediate looking up in the demand for land. People will no longer be afraid of acreage and lot investments as many undeniably were in the months preceding the settling of the single-tax question with its menace to property.

Bond Result Pleasing.

The successful outcome of the $15,000,000 State Highway bond issue is also a pleasing result of the last election. Californians years ago discovered that money put into the construction of good roads is money wisely invested. No one has regretted the original $18,000,000 outlay for the existing State highways and California has by a large vote revealed its complete willingness to assume the well-distributed cost necessary to the completion of the system into all parts of the commonwealth.

The new highway extensions to be built under the bond issue approved last Tuesday will mean more to Southern California than to any other part of the State and will practically make Los Angeles the hub of the entire system. The benefit to this community will, therefore, be almost inestimable by comparison with the actual cost. The new good roads will constitute the best bargains ever obtained by this city and section at the hands of the State, which has always heretofore been rather more generous with the bay districts than with the Southland.

Aside from their value as an attraction to autoists from all over the country, and their tremendous commercial importance as truck arteries for the hauling of merchandise and produce, the new State highways will afford work for the unemployed, especially those coming from the East in the winter months, for several years to come. Lands now unsettled because of their remoteness will be made useful and valuable by the coming of the new roads and in all parts of California cities and farms will be brought closer together by reason of them. All this cannot help being a great stimulus to the progress and prosperity of the State.

APARTMENTS LEASED.

H. Jerome Toy & Co., hotel and real estate brokers, report the leasing of the Aragon apartments, No. 334 South Westlake avenue, to R. S. Payne, a hotel man of Cincinnati, O., for a term of seven and a half years. The lease includes the furniture, furnishings and equipment. The Aragon occupies high and sightly grounds and is owned by E. L. Petitfils. Mr. Payne took possession on Friday.

Monumental.

WORK STARTED ON NEW ST. VINCENT'S GROUP.

Beautiful Quadrangle of Local Roman Catholic College to be Reminiscent of Old Universities of Tudor England—Total Outlay for Buildings and Grounds will Approximate Million.

THE Gothic architecture of the old universities of England will live again in the beautiful and imposing St. Vincent's College group started during the past week by the Jesuit fathers on West Sixteenth street. The great Roman Catholic institution of learning will be reminiscent of Tudor England even to the arrangement of its buildings around a quadrangle. Nothing will be lacking save the mantle of ivy over its walls and only a few years will be required in the balmy climate of the Southland to give this touch of age.

The beginning of actual construction operations on the $1,000,000 St. Vincent's group came as a complete surprise, as it had not been expected that anything would be done on the college until after the formal appointment and installation of the successor to the late Bishop Conaty. The desire of the Jesuit Society and of both ministry and laymen of the church in Los Angeles to have the college ready for occupancy by the opening of the fall semester of 1917, however, led to a change of plans. Authorization to go ahead with the work came to Albert C. Martin, the architect of the project, several days ago. Plans were completed last summer.

The college group of the new and greater St. Vincent's will consist of ten buildings when entirely completed, seven of these being arranged around the main quadrangle and three around a secondary court. The largest structure will be the main college hall, a three-story building of the shape of a capital "H" occupying a position at the northeast corner of the main quadrangle, and work on which is now being started. This building is to contain class and lecture rooms and, for the present, laboratories. At a future time three science halls are to be erected, allowing the use of the entire main building for class and lecture room purposes.

Another structure to be erected at this time will be a large community hall containing the residence quarters of the officials and professors, as well as a public reception room. One of the three dormitories of the group is also being started now. A large structure that will contain a library, auditorium and gymnasium under one roof will probably be the next building to be begun. The chapel, which will be the most beautiful structure of the quadrangle, will follow.

FIREPROOF GROUP.

The buildings will all be of reinforced concrete and steel construction and absolutely fireproof, even the window frames being of metal. They are to be faced with brick and terra cotta, the ornamental details being carried out in the latter material and in stone. Permanency will be the keynote of the entire structural scheme.

The campus, comprising approximately twelve acres, is to be inclosed on all sides by an ornamental fence of brick, terra cotta and iron, imposing gateways marking the principal entrances. West of the quadrangle will be laid out an athletic field consisting of a baseball diamond, football grounds and quarter-mile running track. The dominating architectural feature of the entire campus scheme will be the Gothic tower of the chapel, which will rise above all other buildings in the vicinity, constituting a landmark on the west side of Los Angeles.

The initial outlay for the first three buildings, the athletic field and the campus fence will be about $400,000, according to the construction estimates thus far made. The main college hall, with its equipment, will cost $175,000. The estimated cost of the entire campus group as planned will be around $1,000,000.

NON-CO-EDUCATIONAL.

The movement for a great Roman Catholic institution of learning in this city dates back for many years, having started during the palmiest days of the old St. Vincent's College at Grand avenue and Washington street. It was long the dream of the Jesuit fathers to build a larger college of monumental architecture and modern equipment to take the place of the old St. Vincent's, from which so many prominent men of Los Angeles and Southern California had been graduated.

The old St. Vincent's building was given up by the college about four years ago and has since been used as a free grade school, there being now about 1000 children in daily attendance under the charge of a large force of special teachers. To keep the organization of the college alive until they were ready to go ahead with their plans for a larger institution, the Jesuits established the present Los Angeles College, occupying temporary quarters in Highland Park.

Los Angeles College, so-called for the purposes of the moment, will be brought under the new charter of St. Vincent's as soon as the splendid institution on West Sixteenth street opens next fall and will cease to exist as a separate school. The Rev. Frederick A. Rupert, S.J., head of the Highland Park institution, has already been selected to be president of the new St. Vincent's. With the boys and young men of Los Angeles College as a nucleus, it is expected that the west side institution will open its halls next September with an enrollment of not less than 300. The new college will be non-co-educational, as was the old St. Vincent's, being the only institution of its class in Southern California to restrict its courses to one sex.

In laying plans for their new college the Jesuits have in the past few years bought three different sites. The first lay at the southwest edge of the city and was given up as being too remote from the center of Los Angeles and later sold to subdividers. A valuable site in Hollywood was next considered and purchased, but this property has since been set aside for other uses.

The site finally decided upon was purchased about six months ago. The property has a frontage of 900 feet along the north side of Sixteenth street, beginning at a point just west of the line of Catalina street and extending westward. From north to south its depth is about 500 feet.

FINE PLACE SOLD.

West Adams District Residence Changes Hands.

An important transfer of residence property was concluded during the past week by E. A. Weber, manager of the house and lot department of W. I. Hollingsworth & Co., in the sale of a twelve-room house at No. 2531 Tenth avenue for Mrs. Mary A. Daniels to J. W. Smith. The consideration is given by the agents at $22,500.

The house is of substantial construction and is faced with white cement. The rooms of the main floor are finished in mahogany and are handsomely decorated. The upper story is in white enamel. The lot is large and sightly and is just north of West Adams street.

SPECIAL MEETING.

Appraisals of real estate as made by the Los Angeles Realty Board Appraisal Committee will be explained at a special luncheon meeting of members of the board and invited guests to be held at The Broadway Department Store Cafe Grill, next Wednesday. The committee has been in existence about six months and has been called upon to place valuations on property in several notable instances. The members of the board committee having this work in charge are D. F. McGarry, chairman; W. M. Garland, James R. H. Wagner, Robert M. Allen, George M. SoRelle, W. I. Hollingsworth, S. M. Cooper, L. E. Shepherd and Edwin G. Hart. At the meeting papers bearing upon appraisals and thoroughly explanatory of the work and knowledge necessary to establish true values will be read by D. F. McGarry and others. Members of the City Council, Board of Supervisors and others prominent in public life have been invited to attend.

FOR SALE—

SIMPLY—CROWN HILL.

Half a mile from Broadway.
420 feet above the sea.
Best renting district in town.
Best investment in Los Angeles.

Here's something for investors who know a good thing when they see it. I have just got hold of a 50-foot lot that is, I think, the greatest bargain that will ever be offered on CROWN HILL, east of Bixel street.

This lot is a trifle over HALF A MILE west of Broadway, the highest priced property in Los Angeles. It is one of the finest apartment or flat sites on all CROWN HILL, nearly 390 feet above sea level, with wonderfully pure and exhilarating air and an inspiring view of the mountains, foothills and that picturesque valley to the north, while to the east it looks down on the tallest buildings in the city.

This property is ripe for immediate improvement, and could easily be made to return FIFTEEN per cent. NET on every penny invested. Put up modern flats or apartments here and you'll never have a vacancy, because it's the kind of property that rents readily and STAYS RENTED, year in and year out. Remember, this lot is just 10 minutes' WALK from Broadway.

It requires only $4000 cash, balance small mortgage, or all cash, if preferred. As a speculation it should show a profit of 40 to 50 per cent. on that $4000 in the next few months.

In justice to other property owners in this section, I positively willl not advertise either the location or price, further than to say it is between Third, Sixth, Beaudry and Bixel.

My reason for this secretiveness is not fear it will get away from me—I've got it sewed up as tight as a drum and can deliver—but because there is not another inside lot in the district bounded by Third, Boylston, Crown Hill, Bixel, Sixth and Beaudry offered at less than $150 a front foot, and when this lot is gone $150 a foot will become a BARGAIN price.

You will observe that this is the FIRST time in all my CROWN HILL advertising that I have offered what I call a BARGAIN. I never use that word "bargain" loosely, for the cheap purpose of getting inquiries. By "bargain" I mean something that is MATERIALLY lower in price than ANYTHING near it, and in this case I mean lower than anything within SIX BLOCKS.

And let me tell you, a bargain like this is the scarcest thing on CROWN HILL today. If you doubt it, shop around and find out. And if your broker is familiar with CROWN HILL values, take him along with you. I know every vacant lot price for 19 square blocks on CROWN HILL, and I OUGHT to know what I'm talking about.

If you want the exact particulars and price of this lot it would be well to call or telephone promptly, because I really don't think it is going to remain unsold very long.

FOR SALE—
BIGGAR'S BURBANK BOULEVARD TRACT, in small acreage to suit, at $600 an acre and up, with gas, water, electricity, on terms to meet your own ideas.

Some people have been kind enough to tell me that they read my advertising constantly. To these friends I want to say now, most earnestly, that I consider this tract (my second successful acreage subdivision in Burbank) to be the best bargain in Southern California.

I am pricing this choice garden land, with city conveniences, cheaper than you have a right to expect; why, because I bought the tract at the low ebb and I am passing along the bargain to you; but you must move in the matter, otherwise you will not get in at the bottom. Already I have closed out all the $550 an acre land, but the $600 an acre is a bargain, too; and when that is gone, $700 will be the cheapest. You cannot wait till times get just as you would wish, and then pick up this kind of a bargain, for by that time the bargain land will be gone; but you must anticipate events, and buy when you can do so at a low price.

My best argument for the sale of this land to you is the fact that I bought it myself, first, and I am sure I will sell it for more than I am asking today, if you don't come forward and take it, now; and if you ask me why I sell, with that belief, my answer is that I am a land merchant and make my living by turning over the land; so, when I get a bargain I am ready to share it with my customers; and the better the bargain I can give you, the better I am pleased.

Call up, make an appointment, let me drive you out to see this beautiful tract. IRVINE W. BIGGAR, 201 Union Oil Bldg. Main 1867. F3225.

ORANGE COVE.

There is big money in citrus fruits and more in developing groves. If you are going to buy land to plant to oranges or lemons, buy the best. See that you get the right kind of soil, protection and water.

ORANGE COVE

has all three and is as near frostless as you can find in California, and navels are absolutely safe, as they are all shipped by December 20th. No fumigation and no smudge pots to worry with.

ORANGE COVE

is on the new orange belt line of the Santa Fe and is building up rapidly. Over 2500 acres now planted to orange, lemon and olive trees, in some of the finest young groves in California. 5, 10, 20 and 40-acre lots sold on easy terms.

The town of Orange Cove has good business opportunities. The Orange Cove Citrus Association is now building a splendid packing-house and will be ready to handle the fruit this season. Go with me to Orange Cove. Talk with the owners of the groves and if you don't find conditions as represented we will gladly refund the expenses of the trip.

FOR SALE—
I am going to sell all my farm except a small tract I am going to keep for my wife and myself, and I want to sell to practical farmers and homeseekers only. To the right parties I will sell 20, 40 and 80-acre tracts on terms that will enable them to pay for it off the land. I have no regular form of contract. I will draw the contract to fit the man. I will ask him for no cash payment for two years or even longer if necessary. If he can pay for the land in two years all right. If he wants 5 years all right, or if he thinks he needs 10 years it's all right with me if he is a practical farmer. Write to me about yourself giving me as much information as you can and if your letter sounds good I will make a special effort to see you personally and if you have the will and the energy and want the chance, I will give it to you.

FOR SALE—FIG, OLIVE AND ALMOND LANDS! Perhaps you cannot afford to pay $2000 an acre for an orange grove, or $1000 an acre for a walnut grove, or still $500 an acre for an alfalfa ranch, where the water supply is limited and expensive.

Then, Mr. Investor, the solution to your problem is a fig, almond or olive orchard, or all three combined, in the PLANADA DISTRICT. Planada is on the main line of the Santa Fe Railroad and is surrounded by some of the richest land to be found in the famous San Joaquin Valley. Enormous crops of corn, melons, pumpkins, alfalfa and fruit are raised here each year, and the tree growth in the PLANADA DISTRICT is marvelous. Hundreds of acres of almonds, figs and olives are being set out right now in this section by some of the most noted orchardists in the State. Land can be purchased here at prices ranging from $85 to $100 per acre, and an abundance of water is being developed at a very low cost.

We are absolutely honest and reliable. Nothing to sell. Simply organized to assist real homemakers in getting located in the PLANADA DISTRICT. Write to us today! We are at your service.

BUY STEIFER AND BIRTHDAY STOCKS, AND buy them now. Two big winners in the mining game. Our visit to the Steifer mine October 26 convinces us that with Mr. R. J. Buchanan, expert mining engineer from Winnipeg, on the job, Steifer is going to make good this time. Birthday is showing up mighty rich, and with the new management backed up with big capital, should be selling at 25 to 50 cents per share in a few months. Buy it now at 10 cents and buy it in big bunches. We have been all over Birthday twice, and are sure this mine will be a big producer, and that, too, in a short time. Two cars of ore have already been shipped, averaging better than $80 per ton. M. D. MYERS, 318 Grant Bldg. Phone A3646.

NEED OF CHARITY AMONG MEXICANS.

PLEA MADE FOR AMERICANS TO INVADE COUNTRY.

Prominent Financier from Below the Border Thinks Immense Advantages Would Result if Current of Philanthrophy Could be Turned from this Country.

[A. P. CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A plea for an American invasion of Mexico, not with military forces, but with the arms of charity, is made by Don Louis Roumagnac, prominent Mexican financier, who has arrived in this city with the hope of bringing this charitable invasion to a head.

"As I see the magnificent and truly admirable generosity of Americans lavished without measure on the children of dead or wounded allies," M. Roumagnac said, "I cannot but wonder why these splendid sentiments, these great philanthropic activities cannot, with the self-same organizations—especially as regards the orphans—also benefit that neighboring country, Mexico."

Mr. Roumagnac thinks immense advantages would result from a movement in America to aid the stricken and helpless orphans of Mexico. Many of them he would like to see brought to the United States for education, and then go back to their homes and "spread a doctrine that will not only cement these two republics in strong bonds of friendship, but will enlighten these 15,000,000 people, of which at present but one-tenth can read and write."

LACK OF HUMANITARIANISM.

It seemed to him that, although America had a great humanitarian programme, Mexico in every case and "almost purposely" was left out of this programme. "Mexico," he said, "has the same rights, the same aspirations, that any other country has. After the European war Mexico will offer the United States many compensations, both industrially and commercially. It is really the only independent neighbor of the United States, but still Mexicans are not being welcomed here as individuals or as a commercial entity.

"Annoyances lie in wait for Mexican citizens whenever they cross the frontier. As business men and manufacturers, credit is closed to them, because Americans are wrongly informed on the subject of Mexico and of what is going on there."

Mr. Roumagnac thought if his idea of a small army of Mexican children being brought to this country for education could be carried out there would come "a new and changed generation in Mexico, well equipped to make the most of the resources of the country, fully appreciating the industrial progress of the American people and capable of realizing that men are enemies only when they lack understanding.

NEED OF COMMISSION.

"I foresee," he continued, "a commission organized by distinguished and generous-minded citizens of both countries, and perfect harmony result from their deliberations—kindly in character because born of charity—from which politics and all idea of personal gain will have been carefully excluded. I foresee a Mexican admiring the United States of America and an American marveling at the natural beauties and resources of Mexico. I foresee respect for the rights of each grow out of mutual admiration; and through this perfect knowledge of the two languages, and this daily contact of thousands of children, I can foresee perfect harmony of interests, absolute understanding, which will secure bread and comfort for numbers of citizens of the two countries, united henceforth, and strong with the strength that comes of mutual helpfulness.

"In a similar way, in the privileged climate of Mexico, colleges and sanatoriums for physically weak children from North America would increase the diffusion of the two languages and bring about a more complete knowledge of the two countries."

If the people of North America would hold out a helping hand to Mexico, Mexico would be grateful and a number of prejudices would die out, he said.

COLORADO TEAMS BATTLE TO A TIE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Nov. 11.—The Colorado Agricultural College and Colorado School of Mines elevens battled to a scoreless tie here today on a blizzard-swept field. Snow fell throughout the game. Both teams used straight football tactics exclusively.

The miners sprang a surprise on the champion Aggies early in the game with their snap and their line rushed their heavier opponents off their feet until Coach Hughes's men took a brace. Twice the miners were held ten yards from the goal.

The Aggies threatened to score only once, when line plunges worked the ball to the miners' 10-yard line. Both teams failed at field goals.

In holding the Aggies scoreless the miners accomplished what no other conference team has been able to do for two years.

URGES DISCIPLINE FOR BUS DRIVERS.

JUDGE REQUESTS INQUIRY BY UTILITIES BOARD.

Finds Himself Forced to Non-suit Damage Action of Passengers, Hurt When Jitney Overturned, but Suggests Action by City to Straighten Out Tangle.

In non-suiting yesterday the damage actions of Julius J. and Elsie Hecht against Burr H. Prentice, for injuries suffered in an automobile accident at Main and Sixteenth streets, December 1, 1915, Judge Monroe, who believed the circumstances warranted the action, drew the attention of the Board of Public Utilities to the matter, with a suggestion that an investigation be made and drastic action taken.

It appears the plaintiffs in the action were passengers in a jitney bus driven by A. A. Sears. The machine was owned by Mr. Prentice. It overturned and the passengers were injured. They brought suit for an aggregate of $47,660 against Mr. Prentice, and because Mr. Sears was not shown to have been in the employ of Mr. Prentice, the latter was not liable under the law. Mr. Sears was not made a defendant in the suit.

Judge Monroe wrote the board that Mr. Prentice had a license to drive a jitney bus on Main street, while Mr. Sears held a chauffeur's license. At 6 o'clock in the evening Mr. Prentice rented his machine to Mr. Sears.

"Mr. Prentice pretended to say that he did not know what Mr. Sears was going to use the machine for," the court wrote, "but he charged him $2.50 a night and knew that Sears was going to use it at night. He left his jitney sign under the seat of the car, but Sears used it and ran it as a jitney at night. There was no proof that Sears was in the employ of Prentice, and the law seems to be that if he is not in his employ, Prentice is not liable, whether Sears is rightfully or wrongfully maintaining the car.

"It seems to me that both of these men ought to be investigated with the object of taking away their licenses. So far as Sears was concerned, he was disobeying the law because he was driving a jitney without ever having made an application for or having received a permit to drive a jitney, and it seems to me that Prentice should either have his license taken away or be disciplined in some way after allowing Sears to run his bus as a jitney, because there is no doubt in the world but what he knew what Sears was going to use it for."

Judge Monroe added that he did not think it follows that because a jitney man is sued or a verdict is given against him, his license should be taken away, but the case cited, the court said, was flagrant.

LAD GIVEN CHANCE. TO MARRY GIRL IN CASE.

Floyd Hutchinson of No. 1218 East Twenty-second street was given another chance yesterday morning by Judge McCormick, when it became definitely known Hutchinson really intended to marry the girl he was accused of having wronged. She is Grace Mercer, 16 years old, residing just a few blocks from the Hutchinson home. When brought before Judge McCormick yesterday, the youth agreed to make good his promise to the girl and they will probably be married in the near future.

PERMISSION TO SELL. Having received a cash offer of $19,000 from the First Christian Church of Long Beach for church property in that city, the rector, wardens and vestrymen of St. Luke's Church of Long Beach made application to the courts yesterday for permission to sell. The property consists of five lots with a frontage of 100 feet. The application states it is the intention of St. Luke's to buy a cheaper property and build a more suitable church. The present church building may remain a year on the lots sold and be used for services.

CHAFFEY UNION RUNS UP SCORE.

SAN BERNARDINO SWAMPED BY POINT AVALANCHE.

Elephant Miller Gallops Through Light Opponents for Touchdowns Every Once in so Often—Losers Slip One Over in Final Moments of Play.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Nov. 11.—Chaffey High fairly slaughtered San Bernardino High in the first Citrus Belt League football game to be played on the local campus this afternoon, the Tigers winning by a 79 to 6 score. Chaffey scored its first touchdown in the first minute of play, when Miller carried the oval after Needham had brought the ball within striking distance by a 50-yard run.

The second touchdown followed quickly when Miller again bucked it over the line. Two more touchdowns were made in the first quarter. Evans was not there with the kick today and made but one goal.

Chaffey made three more touchdowns in the second quarter, intercepting San Bernardino passes, using the forward pass themselves, and tearing through the line of the visitors at will. The score stood at 44 to 0 at the end of the first half.

The Tigers made three more touchdowns in the third quarter and the score was 65 to 0 at the beginning of the last quarter. Chaffey scored fourteen more in the fourth, but ran in many second-string men and when Chaffey was penalized on account of interference and the ball given to San Bernardino after Miller had intercepted a forward pass and run eighty-two yards to a touchdown, the visitors completed a forward pass to the 1-yard line and put it over in four plays. They failed, however, to kick the goal. Chaffey last Saturday defeated Riverside, probably the Tigers' most dangerous opponents, 17 to 6.

Next Saturday Chaffey plays Pomona High in Ontario. The defeat of Pomona next Saturday and of Redlands the week following will give Chaffey the championship of the championship of the Citrus Belt League.

Secretary Frank Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce has given the women some splendid plans and ideas, and they will have the hearty support of the Chamber of Commerce in making the day a success.

"MOVIE" TALK. SILENT DRAMA HEARING.

The moving picture inquiry will be held by the Public Welfare Committee of the Council tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. Petitions from organizations asking for the elimination of noise from the "silent drama," the lessening of fire hazard and the diminution of gunplay and excessive display of electricity at night, will be considered.

Representatives of the moving picture organizations as well as of property-owners will attend. In the meantime the Council yesterday decided that the scenery used in the making of "Intolerence" must be removed by December 15. Fire Chief Eley reported that it does not constitute a fire hazard but that D. W. Griffith has voluntarily offered to get rid of it by December.

Loan to Harbor Board.

In order that the important work at Los Angeles Harbor which the city is to do for the Pacific Steamship Company shall not be delayed the City Council yesterday decided to loan the Harbor Commission, out of the reserve fund, the $70,000 for which special application was made a few days ago.

TUFFY CONN IS A HERO AGAIN.

OREGON AGGIE FRESHMEN WIN A HOT GAME.

Pasadena Youngster Boots a Neat Field Goal and Features with a Sensational Run—Webster Makes irst Score on Forward Pass; Line Plunging Gives Second.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND, Nov. 11.—George Washington Conn, popularly and familiarly known as "Tuffy" Conn, the clever Pasadena football star, shone again today in a football game replete with thrills of sensational nature, when the freshman football squad of the Oregon Agricultural College Aggies defeated the famous stars of the Multnomah Athletic Club by a score of 16 to 6.

The match from a spectator's standpoint was all that could be expected. Thrills were abundant, thanks to the sensational Conn of the visitors. He made his usual long run for a touchdown, and this time it was for seventy yards after receiving one of the winged "M" punts.

It happened in the first quarter, but it was not allowed because one of the Aggies was holding. The first score came a few minutes after the kick-off, when Carl Lodel shot a forward pass to the waiting Webster, who went across the goal line after a 10-yard sprint. Hiatt kicked an easy goal.

The count remained 7 to 0 throughout the first half, and it was not until the final period that the plunging Joe Britton made it 13 to 0 for the freshmen. Lodell tried a goal kick from a different angle, but missed.

Just before the final whistle blew the visitors worked the ball to the Multnomah 20-yard line and, after trying two line smashes with little gain, Conn stepped back and drop-kicked the pigskn between the uprights from the 28-yard line for the final points of the contest. The game ended with the ball in the middle of the field.

For the freshmen, Capt. George Busch was a tower of strength on the line, while Joe Britton and Conn featured in the back field, with Carl Lodell getting away fine in the kicking department.

Elmer Leader and "Hungry" Smyth were the whole show on the Winged "M" squad. The husky tackles came through every time they were caled on and they smothered many of the plays started by Everett Main's protegés.

POLITICS

The American Game.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF CURRENT POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

Republicans have some consolation in the fact that Southern California will have larger representation in the Legislature than it has enjoyed for six years. Of the fifteen Assemblymen from this district eight are loyal Republicans, two say they are Republicans and five make no bones about their affiliation with the Johnson machine.

The election of A. Burlingame Johnson in the Sixty-seventh Assembly District was one of the happiest events of last Tuesday. Despite the organized efforts of Progressives the people of Pasadena exercised good judgment in deciding between Mr. Johnson and Howard Fish, one of Johnson's special pets who was always counted upon to programme against public policy and in favor of personal gain. Mr. Johnson is a big man and a big Republican. He has been in the game of politics for many years and he will make a mark in Sacramento. Johnson and his gang will hear from him.

Another gratifying victory was that won by George C. Watson in the Seventy-second District. The machine fought him every inch of the way but Mr. Stubblefield stubbed his toe in the last lap and Mr. Watson went under the wire with colors flying. The newly-elected Assemblyman is a regular Republican and will always be found on the right side of every question.

If Pete Phillips and Harry Lyons, who were Republicans until the Progressives got them into a corner and filled them with Johnson bunkum, make good the promises they made during the campaign the Republican majority will be still greater, but once a man betrays his party little dependence can be placed in him. Fortunately, neither is needed to promote the best interests of Southern California.

It must have been glorious news to Hiram Johnson when he received the word that Alfred L. Bartlett had been re-elected by the largest majority ever accorded a candidate in the Sixty-third District. Mr. Bartlett won by approximately 10,000. He was bitterly fought and was the one man in Los Angeles county that the machine wanted to get rid of. The vote shows that the incumbent is the sort of man the public admires and you can bet your last dollar that Mr. Bartlett will be found fighting Johnson to the last ditch, as he did during the past two years.

Soldier Boy McKnight got a fearful walloping in the Seventy-fifth district. His khaki uniform made him an object of patriotic admiration, but patriotism and progressivism mix about as well as oil and water and the real patriots of the Seventy-fifth repudiated him.

As a result of the contests for Supervisor there is every reason to believe that Norton and Hamilton will continue in the minority on the board. While it is to be regretted that W. E. Hinshaw was not re-elected in the Fourth District, his place is to be taken by a most estimable gentleman, a man too big to be controlled by the would-be boss of the county. R. F. McClellan was given a wonderful vote and he gives promise of being an official that will be a credit to the district and to himself. Jonathan S. Dodge won handily, showing the confidence the people who have known him for many years have in him. He made his campaign upon the ground that he was the candidate of no one in particular but everyone in general. He is a man of remarkable business ability, having made a brilliant success of his own business, and it would have been impossible to elect a better successor to Chairman Pridham. By the way, this suggests the possibility of the election of Mr. Dodge to the chairmanship. It will be hard for any man to fill the position as well as Mr. Pridham has done but Mr. Dodge is of the same caliber and his friends are doing their best to place him at the head of the board.

Recalls are usually detrimental to the public service and seldom are worthy of commendation, but the rumor will not die that the freak law may be invoked to get rid of Norton. Political friends of Mark Jones said yesterday that such a step is being seriously contemplated. To the Watchman the plan seems absurd, but if there is any chance to eliminate the man from the Second District, go to it.

Poor Cap. Helms was drowned by his own irrigation project. He tried to weep himself into the District Attorney's office, but failed to enthuse the people, who repudiated him in a most decisive manner, and it is to be hoped that no more will be heard from the sob sister, the man who injected more malicious politics into the campaign than any other candidate. In the re-election of Thomas Lee Woolwine, dirty politics was given a blow and the public is to be congratulated upon the promise of four more years of sanity in the most important individual office in the county.

Some of the Progressives, who are close students of the double-crossing policies of Hiram Johnson, tried to beat Capt. Osborne out of the election for the regular term for Congress in the Tenth District. For twenty-four hours before the polls opened a score or more of them kept the telephones busy calling up known Progressives and begging them to vote for Stanley Benedict, and to the shame of the district their appeal was not in vain. However, Capt. Osborne received the undivided support of all the regular Republicans and so many Progressives that Benedict was completely snowed under. There never was a time when Benedict had a chance against Capt. Osborne and the vote given the latter was a well-deserved compliment. Capt. Osborne received a total of 63,889 votes, 54,656 being cast in the city precincts. Bowden, Democrat, received 33,159 and Benedict, Progressive, only 14,346.

If Joy Clark had entered the race for the short term in Congress from the Tenth District two weeks before election day, instead of two days before, he certainly would have defeated Stanley Benedict almost as decisively as Capt. Osborne did. Mr. Clark received more than 7000 votes, all of which were written in on the ballots. That was going some.

It was a new experience for Mr. Clark, but was worth while. In addition to the large vote for Congressman he received several hundred for Superior judge, nearly a hundred for District Attorney and several for Presidential elector.

Frantic efforts are being made in Los Angeles and throughout the State to hush the scandal that marked the Presidential contest. What a fat chance the double-crossers have of extinguishing the flame of indignation that has spread like wild fire throughout the commonwealth and the nation. When Hiram Johnson made the deal to betray Charles Evans Hughes and the Republican party which he repudiated four years ago and only a few months gave vent to the expression: "To hell with the Republican party," he thought it was going to be an easy matter to get away with it. He did not anticipate that California would be the pivotal point in the election and that the eyes of the nation would be directed toward the State. The local vice-chairman of the Executive Committee of the Republican State Central Committee has issued a statement to the effect that "I have no sympathy with any disposition anywhere to indulge in fault finding or accusations of perfidy. Many thousands of people know that Gov. Johnson gave loyal and untiring support to Mr. Hughes from one end of California to the other." Such a statement is not surprising from a member of the body that assisted Hiram in putting the deal over. The vice-chairman concludes with "the only reasonable course is to close the ranks and get ready for the next round." For his information and the people he represents it might be interesting that the loyal Republicans have had their fill of the Benedict Arnolds, that the ranks are not to be closed and that the fight has only begun. No self-respecting Republican will permit himself to be affiliated with a type of Republicans that would sell out the greatest nation on the globe to satisfy the desires of a Judas Iscariot.

IRON IN MEXICO LITTLE DEVELOPED.

SAID TO CONTAIN MORE THAN ANY OTHER COUNTRY.

Tremendous Demand for the Products of this Character Shown in Report for the Last Fiscal Year—Wonderful Era Expected When Peace is Restored.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Nov. 5.—It is claimed by expert engineers who have made an investigation of the iron ore resources of Mexico that it contains perhaps a larger tonnage of this class of metal than any other country in the world. Notwithstanding the known existence of this ore in enormous quantities very little progress toward its development has been made. Some of the deposits have been utilized to a limited extent by the Monterey Iron and Steel Company in its plant at Monterey and by smaller works of a similar character in the States of Hidalgo, Jalisco and Durango.

Some idea of the demand for iron and steel products in Mexico may be had by the statement that during the fiscal year of 1909-1910, immediately preceding the revolutionary outbreak, there were imported to that country iron and steel products amounting to 230,868 metric tons and valued at $17,991,894, gold. These products consisted of steel in bars, empty iron barrels, cast iron and steel posts, cross-bars, iron and steel screw bolts, plates, joints and spikes for rails, iron and steel rails, beams and special designs and accessories of various kinds.

FISCAL YEAR.

For the fiscal year of 1909-1910 there were 75,000 metric tons of iron and steel manufactured in Mexico, thus bringing up the total consumption of those products in that country to 305,868 tons.

It is expected that when peace is restored in Mexico there will be a wonderful era of development of its iron ore resources inaugurated. The opening of the Panama Canal, which event occurred since the present period of troublesome times in the republic began, will eventually lead to the utilization of vast deposits of iron ore that are situated upon the west coast of Mexico. Two of these ore beds are said to be the largest yet discovered anywhere in the world. One of these deposits borders the very edge of the coast, and the ore can be shoveled direct from the mountain into boats, or, at most, the loading can easily be done by a conveyor. It is stated that this ore contains a very high percentage of pure iron and a remarkably low percentage of phosphorus. The other deposit upon the west coast is situated about thirty miles inland from a natural harbor, and to utilize the ore a railroad of that length would have to be built.

Another bed that is said to be one of the finest bodies of high-grade iron ore in the world is situated about the geographical center of the State of Jalisco. Its present remoteness from a railroad makes it practically worthless, although it has been worked on a small scale from time to time.

The great Iron Mountain, which is close to the city of Durango, has long played a part in the industrial affairs of Mexico. An American company now owns the property, and for many years a small blast furnace was operated at the foot of the big deposit. It is from this deposit that the Monterey Steel and Iron Company obtained a portion of its supply of ore. Although Mexico has been but little explored for iron ore it is well known that it contains deposits which are located in the States of Oaxaca, Michoacan Puebla, Guerrero, Jalisco, Colima, Durango, Chihuahua and Nuevo Leon and Vera Cruz. The Vera Cruz deposit is situated not far from the city and port of that name, and, in times past, an American company attempted to operate it, but met with failure on account of the high cost of production. The Puebla deposit is situated only nineteen miles from a railroad, and, according to an estimate of an engineering expert, made several years ago, it contains more than 20,000,000 tons of 62 per cent. ore exposed upon the surface.

BANTAM GRID TEAMS PLAY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WHITTIER, Nov. 11.—A peppery little football affair was staged on the High School athletic field this forenoon by the 130-pound team of Whittier High and the 130-pound team of Los Angeles High. The locals won by a score of 59 to 0. During the third quarter Coach White substituted his 115-pound team against the visitors and the bantams scored. The 130 were restored in the last quarter.

ART WONDERS OF QUERETARO.

City is Celebrated for its Beautiful Churches.

Ancient Santa Rosa Convent Mecca for Tourists.

Huge Cathedral Adjoining not Yet Complete.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

QUERETARO (Mex.) Nov. 5.—The city of Queretaro, which is officially recognized by the de facto government as the provisional capital of Mexico, holds the distinction of having more magnificent churches than any other city of this country. The most beautiful of all those edifices is Santa Rose, although it is still in an incomplete state. The church adjoins the ancient convent of Santa Rosa, a huge, abandoned pile with its extensive orchard and gardens, which are still worked in desultory fashion, inclosed in high walls of solid masonry. Owing to the narrow streets and the crowding of adjacent buildings, it is not possible to obtain a fair view of the church and convent combined, or to make a photograph. On this account one does not realize what an enormous structure it is. It is only after walking about it and gazing up at it from different vantage points that its actual magnitude is appreciated.

THE INTERIOR.

The interior of the church is more enjoyable than the exterior, because there is distance and a corresponding opportunity to view its beauties, which are apparently intact, with the exception of the main altar, which has been removed and replaced by one that is entirely out of keeping with the others. There are conflicting statements as to what became of this altar, but there is slight doubt that it was appropriated for the gold ornament, whose remarkable richness is attested in the remaining side altars. These were pronounced by Frederick Church to be unique in all the world for their exceeding beauty. They are attributed to Tresguerras, the Michaelangelo of America, and the carving displays that virility which marks all of Tresguerras's work. The gold ornament alternates with a wonderful garland effect in brilliant green lacquer, running from base to ceiling, crossing and recrossing so as to form wreaths of green, which outlie the exquisite paintings, with their live flesh tints and luminous coloring. Among them are a number of Cabreras, while some are undoubtedly by Tresguerras.

THE CRUCIFIX.

Opposite the main entrance is a large crucifix, also Tresguerras's, conceded by authorities to be one of the finest in the world. It is so exceedingly beautiful, especially the face of the Christ, that an attempt at description seems folly. "Perfect" is the only adequate term to apply to this crucifix. There is one other carving in the Queretaro that compares with this, namely, "La Piedad," in the church of Santa Clara, and while there is some doubt as to its authorship, it is usually attributed to the same author.

This prodigious painter, who was builder, painter, sculptor and poet, died in his native town of Celaya the early part of the nineteeth century, and his remains lie beneath the floor of the little chapel which he himself built, adjoining the beautiful church of San Francisco. The chapel is crowded with reminders of the builder, paintings, carvings, verses framed and hung on the walls, all from Tresguerras's hand. The most impressive object is his own portrait that hangs at the left of the entrance. It bears the following inscription: "Francisco Eduardo Tresguerras, Engraver and Professor of the Three Fine Arts, Native of the City of Celaya. Age Thirty-five Years, Painted by Himself."

CHURCH VERY RICH.

To say that the church of Santa Rosa is very rich but feebly presses the truth. The lover of pictures and carvings lingers entranced and goes again, day after day, coming away at the last unsatisfied. There is a fine pulpit, inlaid with tortoise shell, the brass choir screen is superb, and there are miniature reproductions of it before the galleries where the nuns used to sit and listen to the service. That Santa Rosa's glories are no longer appreciated as they were in the old days is all too evident. The figure of the saint, exquisitely beautiful, seeming to need slight magic to bring it to life, stands neglected in the sacristy. One hand is gone and the image shows the marks of ill-usage. There is a magnificent table in this room, probably Tresguerras's design, the top of which is also inlaid with tortoise shell. The end of the sacristy is filled with an enormous canvas, depicting the sweet-faced nuns at work in the old garden among their plants and flowers. Some of them are picking fruit. The painting conveys the impression that the portraits are true ones, done from living people. The wooden Christ and apostles ranged before the painting are recent and extremely poor.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Nov. 10.—Long since Shoda Nagamatsu came to the conclusion that he could not judge a woman by her photograph. He selected a wife by photograph, paid her way to America, married her, and in less than three years she left him. Today Shoda got a final decree from Yoshi, the girl whom he met at the docks in Seattle on June 28, 1906. He is now free to send to Japan for another Nipponese picture bride, though from the best that could be learned here today he is not willing to take another such chance.

LATEST PEACE RUMORS AFFECT STOCK MARKET.

Echoes of Campaign and Reports of Overproduction in Certain Lines of Industry, Notably Automobile Trade, Account for Varying Degree and at Times the Unsettled Tone in New York.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Revival of peace rumors, echoes of the recent campaign and reports of overproduction in certain lines of industry, notably the automobile trade, probably accounted in varying degree for the irregular and at times unsettled tone of today's market.

General news of the day included recurrent weakness in exchange on Petrograd, accompanied by unconfirmed reports of a hitch in the negotiations attending the latest Russian commercial credit.

The bank statement was noteworthy for the enormous expansion of almost $98,000,000 shown by the actual loan account. Bonds were irregular on limited dealings. Total sales, par value, $1,975,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call during the week.

HOME COMMON UP ON EXCHANGE.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR INDUSTRIAL LEADER.

Union Oil Shows Improvement. Mining List Steady—Adams Advances—United Northern and Midway Firm—Large Amount of Tom Reed Transferred.

Home Telephone common was the chief feature at yesterday mornings session of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Early in the meeting heavy buying orders for the industrial leader resulted in the transfer of 120 shares at 44.50. From that point the quotation rose to a close of 46.00. The preferred stock of the same company brought the firm price of 76.00. There seems to be a widespread belief among the brokers that the common stock of the Home Telephone Company is going to fare better in the merger with the Pacific concern than had been thought originally. It is now said that the accumulated dividends on the preferred stock will be disregarded when the Home company is taken over, and if such turns out to be the case, the common stock would share on the same basis with the preferred. This is the reason advanced for the renewal of activity in Home common Saturday, although others claim it was buying by insiders to bolster up their holdings. Union Oil was also stronger and final dealings were recorded at 101.62½, a net gain of ⅝ for the day. The mining list was steady and several of the Oatmans registered gains. Adams sold at 16 and it is expected that the company will announce an ore strike of importance almost any time now. United Northern was firm as was Midway Mining. The crosscut of the United Northern has penetrated the vein for over sixty feet, according to officials of the corporation, without reaching the hanging wall. It is rumored that eastern smelting interests have offered a high price for control of the company, which has been refused. A large amount of Tom Reed was transferred off board, 32,600 shares changing hands at 2.00. Arizona Ray sold at 27¾ to 28 and the officers of the concern state that they expect to announce an ore strike by Tuesday at the latest.

We expect to have our mill in operation in 90 days. Then the stock will be cheap at $5.00.
Incorporated for 250,000 shares.
Mojave Annex Tungsten mine is a mine in the ground—not on paper; it is not the kind you lose your money in. We advise you to hold your stock and buy more at 24c if you possibly can.
When we have our 20-ton mill in operation, which will be rushed through as rapidly as possible, we can produce dividends that will put the stock up beyond all reach.
You will soon have to pay $1.00 for the stock and it will be cheap at $5.00. This is not one of the usual mine promotion schemes. Reserve stock by wire pending time to obtain our descriptive literature.
Take this opportunity now. Don't hesitate to take 100 shares if you cannot afford more. We have the ore, all we need is a mill, and we are getting that now. We are all mining men. Listed on the L. A. Stock Exchange.

—MIDWAY—
Oatman has the markings of being the world's greatest gold camp. Properties are being opened up that have startled the mining world. The brains of the mining profession are backing their judgment with their money in this wonderful new Eldorado. New fortunes are being made, and the world's supply of gold is increasing. You, Mr. Investor, have read of the "Tom Reed," "United Eastern," and others, too numerous to mention, all of which are making a new crop of millionaires. We believe, and have every reason to believe, that we have a bonanza in MIDWAY, a real mine in the making. Remember, a good mining investment overlooked is a wonderful opportunity lost. Place your order for MIDWAY now.

—A COMING WINNER—
At this stage of the game the shrewd investor is looking very carefully where he puts his money, and by doing this he is the man who makes money. For example, let the wise man look into MIDWAY MINING and MILLING COMPANY, one of the coming Oatman stocks, and where he does this, he is bound to buy, because they have the property and the men back of it who are sure to make it a winner. In ninety days from now they will all be sorry that they did not take the tip. But, get in now and the finish will be exciting.

Houses with Seaboard Connections are Active Purchasers of Future Deliveries — Week-end Profit Operates at Times as Decided Offset.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Big export sales in the United States and heavy frost damage in Argentina gave strength to the wheat market today. The close, although unsettled, was ¾ to 1½ net higher with December at 1.89½ and May at 1.93¼ to 1.93½. Corn gained 2 to 2¾ and oats ⅛ to ⅝. In provisions the outcome ranged from 30 decline to a rise of 25. Houses with seaboard connections were active purchasers today of future deliveries of wheat. On the other hand, week-end profit-taking by miscellaneous holders operated at times as a decided offset. Corn mounted to the highest prices this season. Provisions averaged lower.

Goodsprings Mining Co.

Capitalization $100,000

LOCATED IN YELLOW PINE DISTRICT

This company owns the well-known Milford & Addison group of properties, which are among the largest shippers in Yellow Pine District. It is not a new promotion due to present boom in Yellow Pine. The properties originally cost 40% of present capitalization in cash, and are worth many times that amount today. They were among the first properties sought after in the Yellow Pine District by Mr. J. F. Kent, now President of Yellow Pine Mining Co. (which has already paid its stockholders so far the present year $700,000 in cash dividends.) These properties heretofore were operated under royalty leases, which expired August 15th this year. With the high price of lead and zinc today the Goodsprings Mining Company will hereafter mine and ship their ores instead of leasing, and should make handsome profits. Remember, this is not a prospect. Past production is about $175,000 on $100,000 capitalization. Original copy of smelter returns on shipments to date, showing values as high as $4377.98 per car, with metal prices lower than today, also original assay sheets, showing 74.3% lead and 42.755% zinc are on file at 229 I. W. Hellman Bldg. There are tons of ore on the dumps, and many tons yet to be mined, some of which is high grade "ribbon zinc." Equipment consists of engine, hoist, blacksmith shop, 500-foot tramway, tracks, ore cars, ore bins, assay outfit, boarding-house and bunk-houses. A good road runs direct to property. Water is available within 1500 feet.

A small amount of Goodsprings Mining stock is being underwritten by a group of local brokers at 20 cents per share. If you are looking for a real chance to make big money during this great wave of mining activity throughout the West, you will take advantage of this opportunity immediately and buy Goodsprings Mining Co. stock at 20 cents per share. It should equal the wonderful record of the big Yellow Pine Mine. Orders to buy the stock may be sent to any prominent member of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange or to Leslie C. Monks & Co., 229 I. W. Hellman Bldg., Los Angeles. Prospectus showing view of properties, smelter returns, etc., sent on request.

Investors have quickly seen the merits of this stock and are buying it.

Yardage approximately 900,000.

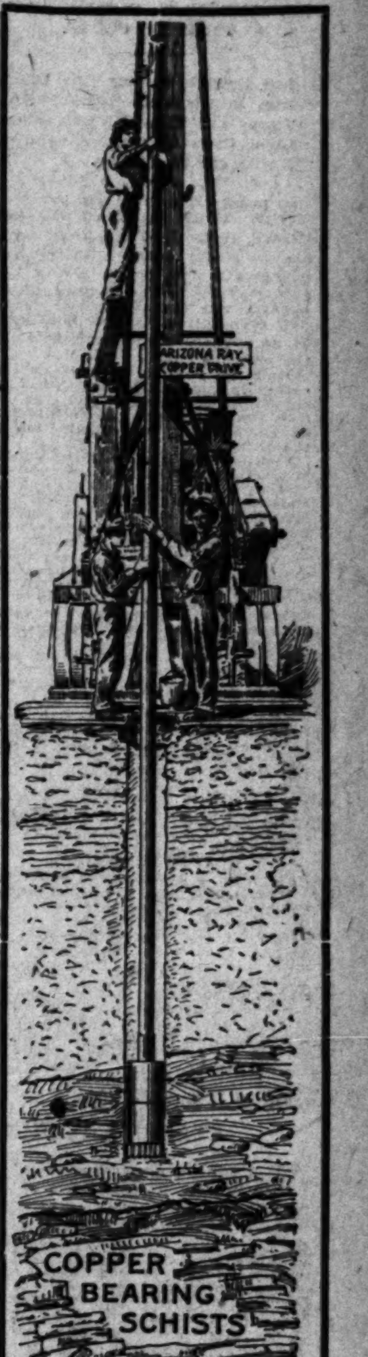
Also for the excavation of four miles of canal in Mexico, 60 feet bottom width, 4 to 16 feet depth of excavation. Yardage approximately 450,000. All material earth. Work must be completed by April 1st, 1917.

Plans and specifications will be furnished only to contractors who apply in person to C. R. Rockwood, Chief Engineer Imperial Irrigation District, at Calexico, California.

IMPERIAL IRRIGATION DISTRICT.



ARIZONA RAY 28 CENTS

YOU SHOULD BUY ARIZONA RAY—

BECAUSE, ARIZONA RAY appears to have enormous possibilities as a great copper mine.

BECAUSE, few mining companies ever have opportunity to start development of a virgin property where pay ore has been actually proved up on the three sides.

BECAUSE, the same theories and geological conditions which have enabled great mines to be made of the Ray Consolidated and Ray Hercules, adjoining and partially surrounding the Arizona Ray, apply to the Arizona Ray ground.

BECAUSE, Edmund L. Haitt, the man who played a leading role in the development of Ray Consolidated, resigned his position to accept the management of Arizona Ray. Mr. Hiatt is the best posted man in the world relative to the formations of the Ray district.

BECAUSE, Frederick E. Young, one of the most highly regarded mining engineers of the southwest, examined and reported on Arizona Ray, and regarded it as a potentially great Copper Mine.

BECAUSE, H. E. Davis, one of the most conservative and reliable practical mining men and one of the most painstaking geological students in Los Angeles, examined this property and agreed with the finds of Engineers Young and Hiatt.

BECAUSE, the manner in which the public is absorbing the stock of Arizona Ray seems to assure ample finances for the development of the company's property.

BECAUSE, copper mines promise enormous dividends for a long time to come, on account of the bright prospect for continued high prices for copper for some years.

BECAUSE, Arizona Ray, from the standpoint of character of ground, management, and present low stock prices seems to be the most attractive and the most promising of the younger copper stocks now on the American market.

BECAUSE, as soon as the drillers strike ore large price advances for Arizona Ray stock may be expected.

Cotton.

STRENGTH SHOWN BY THE NEW CROP.

MARKET FEW POINTS ABOVE FRIDAY'S CLOSE.

Not Possible to Buy Any Offerings in the Belt Now on Any Terms but Those of the Seller. Good Class of Outside Support During the First Hour.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 11.—The cotton market opened steady today with the near positions a few points higher than Friday's close. The feature of the opening was the strength shown by new crop cotton, October opening at 18, an advance of a dollar a bale over the previous close.

It is not possible to buy any spot cotton in the belt on any terms except those of the seller and it is evident that the South has no intention of surrendering the domination of the situation.

There was a good class of outside support during the first hour and the market held steady without the assistance of the professional element. March opened at 10.51 and worked up to 19.51 before there was enough offered to check the advance.

At this level, however, there was a good deal of profit-taking by scalpers who were long and the market eased off after a decline of 10 to 12 points from the top had occurred. Brokers who act for the so-called "Waldorf crowd" began to bid for large blocks of January and the market stiffened.

MINUS "CURLICUES."

North Wilshire Bungalow Excellent Example of Effectiveness of Simplicity in Design—Hall Arrangement and Double Fireplace Features.

The second perspective and floor plan in the series of illustrations of moderate-priced homes started a week ago is presented in the real estate and building department of The Times today. The drawings were prepared by Oliver P. Dennis and are from plans drawn by him for a client in the North Wilshire district, the bungalow having recently been completed and occupied by the owner.

The house, although of an entirely different style from the dwelling illustrated last Sunday, is, like it, distinguished by simplicity and an absence of the "curlicues" that some planners of small homes seem to consider so indispensable. Its roof lines are straight, running out to a wide overhang, and both roof and sides are shingled. Olive-green stain has been used.

The dwelling is of large size for a bungalow, the owner having demanded roominess throughout and having a large corner lot. This is emphasized outside the house by the wide sweep of porch across the nearly fifty feet of front and by the ample screened-in patio at the rear. The dining-room and kitchen wing has a depth of over fifty feet. The plan, however, is one of real economy in so far as the utilization of space goes.

The bungalow boasts an entrance hall that serves as a room in itself and which gives a privacy not afforded when the street door opens directly into the living-room. Opening from the entrance hall is a smaller hall affording access to two bedrooms, a den equipped to serve on occasion as a third bedroom, and the bath. Each bedroom opens directly into the bathroom as well as into the hall, a convenient arrangement unique in bungalows. Dining-room, den and one of the bedrooms open into the patio through French doors.

The most novel feature of the plan is a double fireplace with openings in both living and dining-rooms and separating the two. One of the complaints against the average bungalow is that there is no privacy in either the living-room or dining-room, the only separation between the two being usually in the form of projections from the sides that leave so large an opening in the center as to practically afford no detachment whatever. In the bungalow illustrated the double fireplace is in the center, practically shutting off the view between the two rooms, but leaving space on either side for passage and making them one.

Access is afforded to the large attic space by a stairway and thus the problem of storage is solved and the future conversion of the bungalow into a two-story house made feasible if this should ever be desired. The large air space under the roof also makes for comfort in the hot months. The place is heated by gas floor furnaces, which are becoming more and more popular for small homes. The bungalow, according to the architect, could be duplicated at present prices of materials for from $3000 to $3500, depending upon the finish.

TRADED FOR RANCH.

Large Apartment House Exchanged for Tulare County Land Holding.

In an exchange involving a reported consideration of $100,000, the Co-operative Investment Company of Stockton last week transferred to Lucalvin M. Hoff the Hollywood Apartments at No. 5553 Hollywood boulevard, Hollywood, receiving in trade 400 acres of land six miles southwest of Tulare. The apartment house property consists of a three-story frame building containing 135 rooms, and is leased for ten years. The land holding is known as the Forest Oak ranch and has 200 acres under alfalfa. It is to be developed by the new owners as a dairy farm. Mr. Hoff was represented in the transaction by M. J. Nolan and the Stockton concern by J. C. Floyd.

Mr. Floyd also reports having exchanged for Alfred M. Larsen to J. Crampton Anderson, nine lots in San Pedro, in the block bounded by Fourth, Fifth, Beacon and Front streets, the latter giving in payment a ten-acre orange grove on Citrus avenue, Redlands, seven acres in Sunny Slope and a cash balance, the total consideration being announced at $56,250. The same agent reports the exchange of a thirty-three-acre orange grove in Arlington Heights, Riverside, owned jointly by himself and D. V. Houser, for the Argyle Apartments at No. 1835 Argyle street, Hollywood, and four lots on South Hoover street.

Layton for $1150.

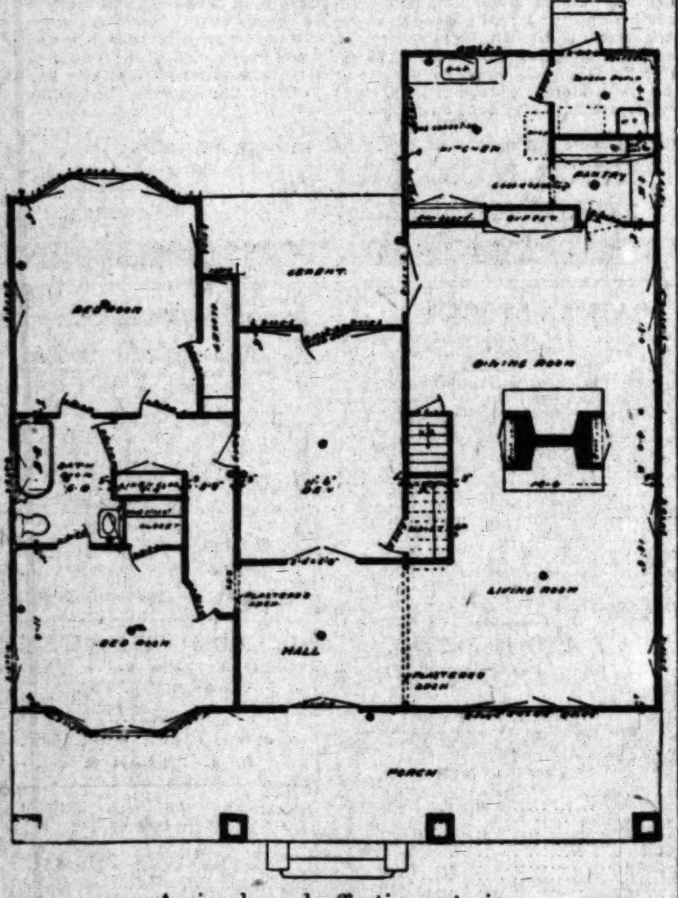
TO MONTANA MAN.

Jensen & Sanders report the sale of twenty acres on the boulevard between Hemet and San Jacinto to S. F. Robinson, of Beeker, Mont. Mr. Robinson will improve the land as a permanent home.



A simple and effective exterior

And a novel floor arrangement make this large bungalow, which was recently planned by Oliver P. Dennis for a North Wilshire client, both interesting and pleasing. The place, according to the architect, can be built for from $3000 to $3500, depending upon the expensiveness of the finish.

MUSIC WINS BRIDE.

Their Mutual Like for Italian Airs at Band Concerts Leads to Romance of Man, Seventy-one, and Woman Fifty-one Years Old.

Several months ago Senaca Ladd, 71 years old, a large property owner of Glendora, and Mrs. Emma Galloway, 51 years old, of Long Beach, discovered their tastes in music were similar at the band concerts so the romance budded until the pair decided to get married. The ceremony will occur this morning at the bride's home at Long Beach.

Old age means nothing in the lives of the happy couple, who found love in the lilting strains of Italian opera and folk songs. The bride-to-be is the mother of Fred Galloway, a grocer of No. 640 East Anaheim street, Long Beach.

STORY BOOK HOURS.

Pretty Young Lady Interests Children at Bullock's.

Christening the new story room, on the sixth floor at Bullock's, Miss Gladys Estelle Smith held the attention of an eager crowd of children and young people, on Saturday afternoon, while she glimpsed, by story, the interesting contents of many new books for children.

It has heretofore been the custom to hold this story fiesta in the open, on that floor which is devoted almost wholly to the wants of children, but the room furnished especially for the story hours was yesterday brought into requisition for the first time. Miss Smith, who is a pretty, brown-eyed girl, has a knack of holding the attention of the young people and many a mother has formed the habit of leaving her boys and girls with her during the story hours, the while she goes about her shopping. "The Real Mother Goose," with pictures by Blanche Fisher Wright, was one of the first books to catch the attention of the little ones, yesterday. Beginning: "Only think, children"—this book is one which finds much favor this season with the small readers, containing as it does, 315 Mother Goose Rhymes and 178 fine pictures in color. "Kindergarten Limericks," "The Blue Bird for Children," "Hollow Tree Nights and Days," "Kids of Many Colors," "Old Friends and New Fables," "Jolly Jaunts with Jim," "Christmas in Many Lands," "The Book of Friendly Giants," and the "Wild Flower Fairy Book" are other favorites with the listening crowd which gathers about Miss Gladys Smith on Saturdays from the hours of 2 to 5 p.m. This delightful recreation will continue throughout the season, and will prove as interesting in many ways to grown-ups as to the children, since the story telling gives them an insight as to the contents of the books which they are about to select as gifts for their young friends.

BY WARDE FOWLER.

SEVEN times during the history of Santa Monica road racing has the checkered flag dropped in front of a driver, marking him a winner and a champion. Twice it whizzed before one man, Teddy Tetzlaff, making a total of six victors for the seven events. The Vanderbilt cup and International Grand Prize races, Thursday and Saturday, November 16 and 18, will add two more names to the famous list of winners.

Three Santa Monica race winners are still in the game. Two of them will compete Thursday and Saturday. There is a chance for Eddie Pullen and Earl Cooper to hold the list of Santa Monica victors to six. Unless these men bring home the bacon there will be new faces in the hall of fame by Saturday night.

Harris Hanshue holds the honor of winning the first affair back in 1909. He piloted an Apperson over the finish line ahead of a large field and made a name for himself in the racing profession which was still undimmed when he gave up the game. Teddy Tetzlaff took the 1910 race by a sensational burst of speed and won the 1912 event in one of the greatest dashes ever seen anywhere. His record stands untouched. Never, before or since, has a man seriously threatened to hang up two victories.

CONSISTENCY.

Consistency won the day in 1911 and Harvey Herrick was the most consistent of them all. He started the idea, which has since won many a race, of sitting back and waiting for the speed merchants to drop out. His "Blue Baby" National buzzed around like a regular clock and went fast enough to win.

Then, in 1913 Earl Cooper came into power. Just rising into fame, Cooper sat at the wheel of the justly-famous Stutz and battled all the old-time champions to a standstill. He won the last Santa Monica road race. After him came the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize affairs.

TWO VICTORS.

In 1914 two famous racers came out to share honors with the famous Santa Monica course. Ralph de Palma, working the speed and consistency stunts to the finish, won the Vanderbilt cup race against one of the toughest fields ever entered in a local classic.

The following Saturday Eddie Pullen in a Mercer joined the ranks of the elect by taking the International Grand Prize event. All of them, Hanshue, Tetzlaff, Herrick, Cooper, De Palma and Pullen, had a terrible run for their money and only won by driving the very races of their lives.

HARDER TIME.

This year a winner will have a harder time than ever before. The tremendous entry list of practically every famous racing driver in the country adds untold difficulties to the final winner. Where expert driving won before it will take a superman this year. Speed, which was considered terrific a few seasons ago, is simply to be laughed at, at the present time.

The Vanderbilt cup race, which starts at 12 o'clock, noon, Thursday, November 16, will have twenty-four of the fastest cars in the word lined up at the start. The race will be 294.035 miles in length or thirty-five times around the 8.401-mile course.

GRAND PRIZE.

The International Grand Prize race starts at 11 o'clock, Saturday, November 18, and is 403.248 miles in length. Forty-eight circuits of the course are necessary to win. Twenty-six speed wagons will line up for this affair.

Entry lists for these events look like complete and first-class line-ups of all the high-grade racing stars of the country. Right down the lists: Oldfield, Ruckstell, Thomas, Pullen, Roads, Cooper, Durant, Rickenbacher, Resta, Aitken, Weightman, Toft, Vail, etc., etc. The climax of road racing has been reached as far as drivers is concerned.

Practically all of the drivers have been out for practice during the last couple of days. Instead of being light workouts, these practices have been speed tests of the toughest variety. Yesterday morning two serious accidents were narrowly averted and only quick headwork on the part of the drivers saved wrecked machines.

William Weightman, flying up Wilshire boulevard at the wheel of his high-powered Duesenberg, had a close brush with a vegetable wagon which sent several spectators home with blanched faces. Weightman was doing about 110 miles per hour on the Wilshire stretch when this wagon turned onto the course directly in the path of the hurtling car. The millionaire driver yanked the car over into the left hand ditch, missing the horse by about two inches, and ploughing through fences, walks and over several

SANTA CLARA RUGBY FIFTEEN CRUSHES CARDINAL DEFENSE.

Templeton's Long Kicks and Splendid Tackling Keep Score Down—Diaz and Walker Suffer from Concussion of the Brain—Cards Weak in the Scrum.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Santa Clara University triumphed here today over the Rugby football team of Stanford University, 28 to 5, in the "big" intercollegiate game of the year. The game was played on Ewing Field and was the first big game ever lost by Stanford under the direction of Coach Floyd Brown, and incidentally the first time since the Palo Altoans reverted to the Rugby style of football that Santa Clara has been returned the winner.

Only once, and then for but a few moments, did the supporters of the Cardinal see victory ahead. That was when within the first five minutes of play Lachmund broke through the Missionites' defense and carried the ball forty-five yards for a goal, which was converted a moment later by Templeton.

From this point on, however, the Cardinals crumbled before the superior attack of Santa Clara. Within ten minutes the score had been tied, and then it became merely a matter of how top-heavy the score would be.

Time and again Templeton by long, well-directed kicks sent the ball to temporary safety and often his splendid tackling prevented Santa Clara scores, but always the Missionites would come back and by a series of long runs put the ball across the line.

Both teams suffered from loss of men, Diaz of Santa Clara and Walker of Stanford both sustaining slight concussions of the brain. Neither was seriously injured. Denny Carroll, Stanford's mainstay, who was injured last week, was forced to watch the game from the side lines.

Stanford was outclassed in every angle of play, but it was particularly in the scrums that her weakness was shown. Fowler, Curtin and Sholt starred for Santa Clara, while Templeton and Walker for Stanford did much to keep down the scoring of their opponents. In the second half of the game, Stanford was almost completely on the defensive and the backs gained possession of the ball but once.

HORWEEN'S DROP WINS OVER PRINCETON TEAM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Nov. 11.—By the narrow margin of a solitary field goal the Harvard football team defeated Princeton this afternoon in the annual contest between the universities. The three points thus gained through the aerial method of scoring were an accurate indication of the difference in the relative attacking strength of the two elevens.

The contest resolved itself into question of defense and the ability of the crimson to strike a decisive blow when the opportunity arose was the deciding factor in an otherwise evenly waged battle. Princeton sent into the stadium the best football machine built in Nassau in many seasons and it was only the extremely alert defense and ability to solve quickly the Tiger attack that saved Harvard from a no-score tie, if not defeat. That the Cambridge combination, which is still in the making, should arise so brilliantly to its task speaks well for the future of the eleven.

Princeton launched its hardest attack against the Crimson without finding a weak point in the Harvard armor, whereas the Haughton-coached machine was able at the crucial moment to sweep aside the Orange and Black line with an impetuousness that made the kicking of a field goal by Horween a simple piece of the play.

The game was played under al-

INVENTIONS OF LOS ANGELES CITIZENS PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY.

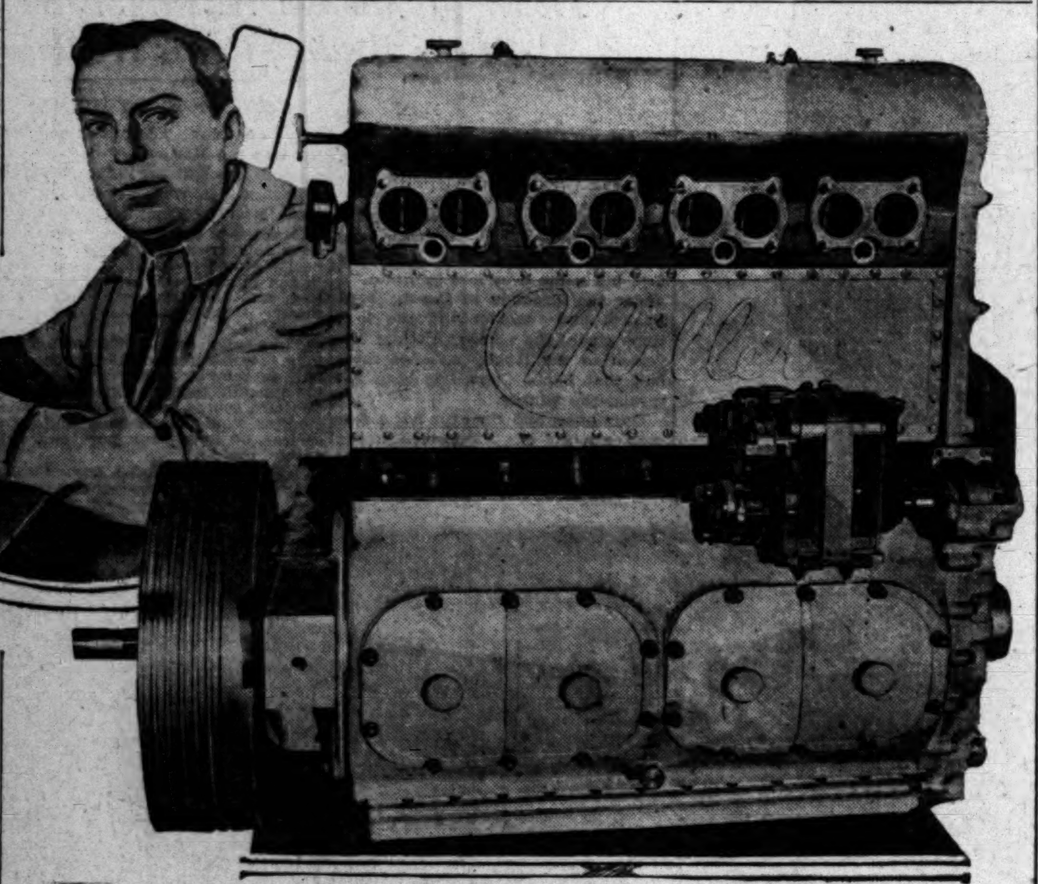
BY HARVEY E. WESTGATE.

AS A RESULT of the inventive genius of Los Angeles county citizens wheels are turning in dozens of factories, fully 1000 men and women are directly employed in making parts of cars or accessories used by the automobile world, and shipments of Los Angeles-made goods are daily being sent to all parts of the globe.

These goods vary from 25-cent cans of polish to $4000 motors—from devices for scraping carbon from pistons to standard makes of tires—from auto locks to carburetors used by the world's speediest and most daring drivers.

Approximately 350 patents have been granted to Los Angeles county inventors in the past five years, all of which are in some way connected with the automobile industry. Some of these have been pronounced successes. Some are in the development stage; others are just being placed on the market. A few, of course, have proven failures, or partial failures.

Perhaps none of the successful inventions stand out more prominently than the carburetors, motors, pistons and piston rings brought out by Harry A. Miller of the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company, who has been granted twenty-five patents.



A Los Angeles inventor and his product.

Here is Harry A. Miller, the Los Angeles inventor. The Miller factory makes fifty carburetors a day, turns out $4000 motors for racing drivers, and manufactures pistons and piston rings that are causing the automobile world to take notice. The Miller motor shown here was shipped to Chicago recently, and a few days later a check for $4000 was received in payment. This is only one of scores of inventions of Los Angeles citizens that play an important part in the automobile industry.

BIG CHECK.

Sixty days ago a racing motor, designed and built in this Los Angeles factory, was shipped to a man in Chicago. In a few days a check arrived for $4000 in payment. Today the racing drivers of the world are watching the results obtained by this Miller motor, and already orders have been placed for several.

This is a sample of the Miller products. A better-known one, the Miller carburetor, is being turned out at the rate of fifty a day, and the demand exceeds the supply. Just to prove that the racing drivers know a good thing when they see it and ride behind it, it might be stated here that out of a total of thirty-three cars entered in a race at New York recently "only" thirty-two of them were equipped with Miller carburetors. And of course the winners used the Miller make. Incidentally, the thirty-third man, the fellow who used another kind, may soon be on the Miller list.

Piston rings and complete pistons also are turned out by the Miller company, especially for the racing game. And all of them are the product of the Los Angeles man's brain.

MANY EMPLOYEES.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Miller started "making things" for automobiles. And he has been at it ever since. Today approximately 100 people are employed in the factory here, and day and night shifts are necessary to keep in speaking distance of the demand. The factory is crowded. A larger one is necessary. A good guess is that several hundred employees will be turning out Miller products within a year.

The motor now being turned out by this factory has sixteen valves. It is more than 200 pounds lighter than many of the racing motors, develops 135 horse power and a speed of 115 miles per hour. Therefore, the speed demons are courting Mr. Miller, and Mr. Miller is encouraging them in doing so.

The Master carburetor, now made in Detroit in a factory that employs several hundred men and women, is another of Mr. Miller's inventions. He sold his patents on his first carburetor and built a new one, the Miller carburetor.

ANOTHER WINNER.

Then comes the Ensign carburetor. Four years ago O. H. Ensign, inventor of the carburetor which bears his name, started to work with the idea in view of overcoming the defects and shortcomings of other carburetors, and was rewarded later when he brought out one that now is in demand all over the automobile world. Three distinct types are made, all operating on one basic principle, including carburetors for cars burning gasoline, distillate and heavy fuels.

At the present time the output is in excess of 500 a month, and in the manufacturing, experimental and sales departments of the factory, forty men are given employment. Distribution is wide, shipments being regularly made to Eastern States, the Northern Pacific States, Asiatic Islands and South America. The gasoline carburetor is primarily designed for pleasure cars, the distillate type for pleasure cars and commercial vehicles and the heavy fuel type for stationary, marine, truck and tractor engines. Tests are now being made in the East by a number of manufacturers, with the idea of using them exclusively on their cars, and a big increase in the business of the local factory seems assured.

UTILITY TRAILERS.

With a valuable basic patent as a part of their assets, and a growth that has required increased room and facilities from time to time to meet the demand for their products, the Los Angeles Trailer Company, Inc., is rapidly growing into a big concern. The patent applies to the steering mechanism of four-wheel trailers. That these trailers, because of the operation of the device on which a basic patent has been granted, are the only ones that "track accurately," when drawn by another vehicle, is a claim made by the inventor. Fifty men are employed in turning out two and four-wheel trailers. J. E. Patterson, general manager, formerly was connected with the Packard and Lozier motor car companies of Detroit.

FORD ATTACHMENTS.

The Ford car, while considered by a million or more of satisfied owners to be the best cheap car on the market, has offered a big field for inventive genius.

The Woodward Truck Attachment Company of Los Angeles, for instance, takes a Ford chassis and converts it into a one-ton truck at a comparatively small cost. A four-gear transmission for Fords also has been brought out by the company, which can be quickly applied to any Ford. While it has only been on the market for three months, the output is twenty a day, orders are coming in rapidly and thirty men are required to turn them out.

AUTO THEFT SIGNAL.

A simple, but effective device, the auto theft signal, is the invention of Earl E. Chapman. This is snapped around the tire and rim of a car, as the owner leaves it. In case a joy-rider or thief, attempts to take the car the signal does what its name implies: "It calls the police."

As it would require several hours' work to remove it without a key, even with the best tools, and as the device causes the car to bump along the road and make a deep trail as it goes, there is no danger of anyone getting away with the car thus protected. So far not a single car has been stolen while equipped with this device, and the demand exceeds, by far, the output.

It has only been on the market about sixty days, and so rapidly have the orders come in that not a one has been produced for the trade except on the Pacific Coast. Other plants, which are called on to do the foundry work, brazing and plating, keep a number of employees busy on this device alone, and the assembling and distributing forces of the company are to be enlarged to take care of the business as rapidly as possible.

FAMOUS LAMPS.

As a result of the inventions of James R. Sheriff, a Los Angeles man, automobile lamps which are recognized everywhere as among the best made are being manufactured here. They are turned out at a rapid rate by the S. & M. Lamp Company, twenty men and women are given employment, and the lamps are shipped all over the country. The company has been in business for eight years. As an indication of the high quality of these lamps it might be said that such cars as the Stutz are to be equipped with them in the future. The output includes a high-grade spotlight.

REX AUTO LOCK.

Kellow & Brown, with a working force of twenty-two, are turning out 5500 Rex auto locks for Ford cars a month. And the device has only been on the market six months. The demand for this Los Angeles-invented and Los Angeles-made device is growing daily.

W. H. Damon is the first man to produce automobile polish, he claims, which cleans, polishes and waxes at the same time. He calls his invention, on which he holds two patents granted this year, Nonolio. Meaning, of course, "no oil.'

Tens of thousands of cans of Nonolio are shipped each month. It is sold everywhere on the Coast, big shipments are going to St. Louis, Denver, Kansas City and other Middle West places, and the East is beginning to wake up to the fact that the Los Angeles-made polish is a winner.

One of the claims made for Nonolio is that 1000 coats can be applied to the surface of a car body without producing "accumulative wax." Ten people are employed in filling cans, labeling and shipping. And it was first put on the market here January 1, 1916, which is some indication of the future ahead of the business.

BUSY LITTLE FACTORY.

Right next door to the Nonolio plant on South Hill street is another busy little factory, which turns out the A. B. C. generator for automobiles and motorcycles. E. E. Taenbert is the inventor and manufacturer. Ten people are employed, and Mr. Taenbert asked to be excused when I asked him to talk about his invention, on the plea that he had rush orders and had to give every minute of his time to the business. Under the circumstances his apology becomes a boost.

SCORES OF OTHERS.

This is only a start, and a small start at that, in listing the Los Angeles inventions. For instance:

The Burns water decarbonizer, invented by A. M. Prosser, is turned out at the rate of 250 a week, with the demand growing rapidly.

The Oriental Enamel Company puts out a top and cushion dressing, "a touch-up for the car," that requires a number of employees.

Kelly's A-1 auto polish is made here, and it is a big winner wherever known.

The Stewart gas saver, a product of the Stewart Machine Works, is becoming popular wherever sold.

Out at Torrance the Hendrie Tire Company gives employment to sixty people, turns out a splendid make of tires, and is reaching out for trade, and getting it, throughout a wide territory.

The Flexible Carbon Scraper Company is turning out a device that saves time and gives good results.

The Ideal Valve Grinder Company makes a tool that many consider indispensable.

The Jackson-Eno Rubber Company makes a good windshield rubber.

These companies, collectively, employ a large number of men and women and in each instance the business is growing.

LIST INCOMPLETE.

Justice cannot be done, however, to all of the Los Angeles inventions in anything short of a series of articles. Only a few have been noted and some of them are among the largest successes turned out here, but there are score of others which must be described later.

As an example: LeMunyon & Bidelman keep a force of employees busy turning out trucks. The Rex Machine Company turns out a good Ford brake. And there are scores of concerns making spotlights, batteries, auto wheels, springs, bodies, tops, self-starters, radiators, two-in-one tires, inner tubes and many other articles of interest to the automobile trade.

But summing up the situation it is easy to prove that Los Angeles brains have been at work for a number of years in contributing to the industry some of the greatest inventions yet recorded, and it is a great source of satisfaction that most of these are being made in and marketed from Los Angeles.

The label "Made in Los Angeles" is now placed on thousands of products, and in the years to come it is safe to say no other line will claim more of these labels than the automobile industry.

The gate receipts at the recent Russian Derby, the big horse racing event in Moscow, totaled $700,000.

FIVE THOUSAND DEALERS TO ENJOY BIG CHRISTMAS PARTY.

EVERY Willys-Overland dealer in the United States, over 5000 in all, has been invited to visit the factory in Toledo during the month of December.

Only a small part of the expense incident to the trip will be borne by the dealers. The balance will be taken care of by the Willys-Overland Company.

The dealers will travel in special trains from all parts of the United States, and while in Toledo they will be shown through the Overland factory, which is the largest automobile factory in the world. It covers 103 acres, or an area equal to twenty-eight city blocks.

The dealers will also be shown all of the 1917 Overland and Willys-Knight models, and will see the new models put through the various tests which they are required to undergo before leaving the factory.

Banquets will be given in honor of the visiting dealers, and the plans and policies of the company will be explained in detail by President John N. Willys.

No expense will be spared by the Willys-Overland Company to make this Christmas party both a pleasure and a profit to all the dealers who take the trip.

All branch managers and general officers of the Willys-Overland of California and Overland Pacific, Inc., of the Northwest have accepted the invitation and are arranging to secure the acceptance of every dealer on the Pacific Coast.

It is believed that the Pacific Coast will send to Toledo a larger delegation of Overland dealers than any other part of the country.

Special entertainment of a very unique nature will be provided for the dealers both on the trip going and coming and at the factory.

We Can Deliver Your Fleetwood—Now

It is probably no exaggeration to say that the Paige Fleetwood "Six-38" is the most popular light six on the American market.

Up to the present time it has been absolutely impossible for us to supply the demand. Many purchasers have been obliged to wait thirty, sixty and even ninety days for their cars. And each month the "waiting list" has been growing.

But now our greatly increased production is helping the situation. Paige Dealers are now prepared to make prompt deliveries. There is a much coveted "Fleetwood" ready for YOU—if you will only take advantage of the opportunity.

Remember, we have repeatedly challenged any motor car manufacturer in the United States to produce a car of equal weight and power that will show gasoline, oil and repair records within 20 per cent of "Fleetwood" records.

It is a beautiful car—a wonderfully luxurious car. But—over and above all else—it is a strictly RELIABLE car. It is a true Paige every inch of it.

So, why not see the Paige Dealer at once. Place your order just as soon as you possibly can. Don't wait until it is too late to secure prompt delivery.

The One Real and Only Answer

You really buy a car for what it will do, don't you?—for its performance. That is the answer to the cylinder question.

If your car tops the hills easily on high gear, as the Hupmobile does; goes through mud and sand like the Hupmobile; responds as quickly and freely to the throttle as does the Hupmobile—what difference does it make how many cylinders it has?

The work that the cylinders do is far more important than the number of them.

Simply have a Hupmobile demonstration. Then, have a demonstration from any other car—you'll see the difference. Give the others the benefit of any doubt, if you want to. Compare carefully the performance of the Hupmobile with the others.

After that, there will be no doubt. The Hupmobile will never disappoint you.

Wanted—job of pulling stumps.

[illegible] Kimball isn't in the market for a stump puller, for he already has one. Out in the San Fernando Valley Mr. Kimball has just finished clearing a ten-acre tract with a Saxon six, and he says it works to perfection. After rigging up a contrivance which includes two steel prongs, so arranged that they can be driven beneath the stump, the Saxon does the rest. Just a little pull, and the power of the motor, aided by the leverage obtained, yanks out the stump. The picture shows Mr. Kimball pulling yucca stumps, and if you have ever tackled any of them you will admit they have long, tough roots, and only give way when compelled to. Ordinarily the stumps are blown out with dynamite, but the Saxon way seems to be quicker, easier and safer.

SAN JOSE MAN TELLS YARN OF BEATING OLDFIELD.

Reaching back to the time when the present-day motor car was just evolving from its [illegible]-cylinder stage, Clarence H. [illegible] of San Jose addressed a [illegible] of Los Angeles automobile men here recently.

Claiming to have helped build the [illegible] so-called garage on the Coast—at least in this city—Letcher exhibited many old-time photo prints of the motor-car business.

Of special interest was one of the [illegible] in which he conducted a [illegible] shop in San Jose back in [illegible]. At that time the word "garage" had not been accepted as a [illegible] term and in its place the [illegible] showed the name "repository" across the front of the building.

[illegible] Cooper, who has since won laurels on the speed course, was in those days a youngster in [illegible] repository, while Tony [illegible] member of the now well-known firm of Weinstock-Nichols, was a mechanic in his shop.

Of Letcher's many interesting [illegible] the greatest is contained in a scrap-book with newspaper [illegible] showing how he trailed [illegible] of the heroic Barney Oldfield in the dust of battle.

It happened away back in 1903. At the annual meet of the San [illegible] Association, Barney [illegible] was making an exhibition [illegible] of the Pacific Coast with his [illegible] No. 2 car. He was to follow the [illegible] events of the day and had been advertised as the star attraction of the day.

As was customary his manager issued a defi to all comers and, much to his surprise, was taken up by the then unknown San Jose automobile man.

With a handful of backers, Letcher rigged up a racer of his own and [illegible] it against the unbeaten Bullet of Oldfield's. Seventy-five thousand people paid to see the harness races, horse races and auto duel that day, the largest crowd ever present at an auto event on the Coast up to that date.

The first few miles of the race were a walkaway for Oldfield and the crowd was with the winning Barney. But Letcher hung on with determination and with not many miles to go the luck began to turn.

Oldfield was having engine trouble. Three times he stopped inside of four miles. Finally Letcher gained ground and the crowd began to pull for the San Jose boy.

As the fog was swallowing up the old race track, now San Jose's most fashionable residence district, Barney was still tugging at his broken-down mount, and Letcher flew across the line a winner.

Since those days Letcher has represented many of America's finest cars.

His many years in the auto game and the widely-varied makes he has represented makes him an acknowledged judge of motor-car values. For this reason his selection of the Chalmers line is taken as a distinct compliment to the popular.

"Take your time, friend of mine," said Letcher to his listeners, "is an old-time song title, but of immense value as sound advice to the man who is either about to buy a motor car or to take on a line of motor cars.

"I admired the 34 Chalmers from its first appearance in 1915. So did many others. But with all my admiration I was skeptical. I stuck to my own one-year rule on all cars before letting my admiration influence my judgment.

"September 30 marked the first birthday of the 3400 Chalmers, and October 1 I was a Chalmers agent. If I were not convinced at that time I am now, after thirty days as a Chalmers representative in Santa Clara county, that the 34 Chalmers is the ideal and most economical car of the present day."

An organized boxing league of chartered clubs throughout Oklahoma is meeting with success. Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Shawnee and Bartlesville being already favorable to the movement.

CROSSING MAN'S LIFE IS INDEED A SAD ONE.

The life of the railroad crossing man is getting harder every day. There was a time when he could peacefully sit in his cheerful shack by the side of the track and lazily wave a red flag out of the window whenever a train went by. Some of the little huts were equipped with fire places and all modern conveniences and the life was soft and to be desired.

QUITE DIFFERENT.

Now things are different. At the present time there is nothing but work connected with the job. From early morning till late at night the crossing man is kept busy. He no longer waves the flag out of the window; he gets up, goes out into the middle of the street, takes a good look up and down the track, and then carefully and conscientiously makes it known that danger approaches.

For a while, however, a flag was considered sufficient warning in the day and a lantern at night. If these two instruments were waved on dangerous occasions, it was considered work well done.

GETTING WORSE.

The growing sentiment in favor of "Safety First" now adds another precaution. This latest device for protecting the public and especially the motoring public, from the dangers of passing street cars and trains, is a large round disc, a couple of feet in width, painted white and with the legend "Stop" neatly painted thereon.

When a train appears up the track, the crossing man frantically grabs this disc in one hand, a red flag in the other, and hurriedly beats it out of his hut to hold up the passing autos, street cars and pedestrians. He holds the "Stop" signal in a prominent position above his head and waves the flag till the train goes by or he drops from sheer exhaustion.

The life of the crossing man is a sad one!

WORKS, PLAYS AND RIDES HOBBIES AT SAME TIME.

A. L. WESTGARD, who worked with Griffith as cameraman in the production of "The Birth of a Nation," and is connected with both the Lincoln and Jefferson national highway associations, has found a way to work and play at his two hobbies for a whole year. He will travel in an automobile all the time, cover the most noteworthy scenic and historic spots, and take pictures of them.

Someone told the Pathe people about Westgard being an automobile man of note, as well as an artist with the camera, so he won the prize job of the whole list.

As Westgard chose a Paige car to travel in, Smith Bros., Los Angeles Paige distributors, are closely following the progress of his expedition. Westgard hit the trail into the wilds of New Mexico, carrying in the Paige Fairfield his wife, son, two photographers, and a complete outfit.

"This is some stunt for a car that is to do most of its traveling in the rough country, where scenery is commonly accustomed to hide itself," said Mr. Smith.

"Westgard says that he enjoys it, but even if it is fun he has a lot of places to cover this year, and his time is valuable. So he picked a real automobile, with a reputation for climbing, and staying with a fellow through all kinds of rough stuff—one that would not tire his wife all out before the day's mileage suited the business situation. The first releases of Westgard's big series, 'Know America, the Land We Love,' come out November 15."

[illegible]CTRIC COMPANY SHOWS BIG GROWTH.

[illegible] annual meeting of the stockholders and also of the board of directors of the Anderson Electric Car Company was held at the company's [illegible] offices recently. DEALERS DODGE RUSH DEMANDS

Prefer Satisfied Buyers to Other Kind.

Only Good Material Used and it's Scarce.

Eastern Sales Manager Sees Bright Future.

"The man who wants what he wants when he wants it, is the man who buys a car that can be delivered immediately, regardless of conditions at the factory, or the quality of material used in its various parts," said R. C. Rueschaw, sales manager of the Reo Motor Car Company of Lansing, Mich., while in Los Angeles last week.

Mr. Rueschaw, who, while here, was a guest of Earle C. Anthony, distributor of the Reo, doesn't believe that the man who insists upon immediate delivery, uses good judgment at all times. Rather than deliver a car not up to the Reo standard, he said, the company preferred to wait until the kind of materials wanted could be obtained. In discussing the policy of the Reo company, and conditions generally, Mr. Rueschaw said:

"The Reo policy of endeavoring to make not the most, but the best automobiles, has resulted from the very first in a tremendous over-demand for our product, so that the sales manager's principal job is to see how few Reos each individual distributor will be satisfied with and still be happy.

"During the past year, the Reo business has increased 50 per cent. However, that isn't much of an increase in a business where delirium seems to be the normal state. We could easily have increased our business 300 per cent, if demand was any criterion.

"I want to say this, though," and for a moment the sales manager was deadly serious, "that this was the worst of all years in which to try to increase output. It could be done only by substituting materials of inferior quality.

"In the making of automobiles we have developed and must use only the highest possible grades of alloy steels. Only those concerns who were "covered" months in advance for these materials could hope to get their normal requirements this year. When it came to doubling or trebling the quantity, it resolved itself into a matter of substituting poorer materials.

"This, we Reo folk would not do. We resolved from the first that we would make only as many Reo cars as we could make and have every one up to the Reo standard, and while it has been most discouraging at times in the past few months to turn down orders and to try to placate distribu- the Reo policy will, in the long run, tors, nevertheless I feel certain that the Reo policy will, in the long run, fully vindicate itself.

"We would rather disappoint a prospective customer than a real customer. By that I mean we would rather not deliver a car than to deliver one which we felt would not give what is known as Reo satisfaction."

In speaking of conditions in the industry generally, Mr. Rueschaw was very optimistic and especially as to conditions after the war.

LIGHT, POWERFUL CAR, IN DEMAND.

There are thousands of motorists who are still strongly inclined to favor the four-cylinder motor in a quality car, and to secure an attractive four big enough to meet their requirements and yet within a reasonable price has been the problem which has been solved by the Empire Motor Car Company, who are turning out their now popular Empire yacht, in addition to their strong line of Empire cruiser sixes.

"In the development of this four-cylinder type," says Mr. Bennett, sales manager of the Empire Motor Sales Company, "the factory has turned out a car of exceptional performance. This motor is of the T-head design, which develops forty horse power, and this power, taken in connection with the light weight of the car and the general chassis construction, explains in part the remarkable performance and sturdiness of this model."

CAR PICKS UP MEXICAN COIN AS IT RAMBLES WESTWARD.

Last week a Mexican silver dollar of the coinage of 1899, probably picked up "somewhere" in New Mexico or Arizona, was washed off a Stearns-Knight eight that had just arrived in Los Angeles.

The car, driven by C. L. Sturdivant of Worcester, Mass., who is accompanied by his wife and daughter, has been almost constantly on the road since last August. After making a tour of the summer resorts of New Hampshire and the St. Lawrence, the route by easy stages led through Chicago, down the Mississippi Valley, threaded a portion of Texas, and finally ended in this city

New Mexico and Arizona are evidently enjoying the prosperity that is so pronounced in the East but that there is money lying loose there and Mexican coin at that, said Sturdivant, indicates carelessness in handling it on the part of someone.

Recent rains have put the roads in parts of those two States in very bad shape and it is probable that the silver coin, dropped by someone and later covered with soil, was churned up by passing vehicles and with a coating of cement-like mud easily attached itself to the Stearns-Knight.

With the exception of tire expense and having a front fender straightened, the Bay State resident states he has had no repairs made upon his car since leaving Massachusetts.

HERE IS ENDURANCE BEYOND COMPARE!
NO CAR HAS BEEN ABLE TO MATCH THE PERFORMANCE OF THE HUDSON SUPER-SIX

A score have tried to equal it. There have been a dozen attempts to beat the Hudson 24-hour record. One maker made three attempts since the Hudson's record run to lower the transcontinental record. This would-be competing car never got farther than 700 miles from its starting point!

Leader May Be Yours

There is absolutely no reason why anyone who thinks of getting a new, fine car should not buy a Hudson Super-Six right now.

You carefully examined all cars at the Auto Show. The Hudson Super-Six was the leader in beauty of line and finish; in comfort the peer of all; powerful, quiet and speedy.

Triumphant Achievements

Then to those qualities that appealed to your eye you added, mentally, a picture of the triumphs of the Hudson Super-Six in winning every worth-while stock car record. You fairly saw Mulford making the 102-mile-an-hour dash on the Florida beach. You were with him in the terrific speed through the long hours of the night, when he broke the world's record—nearly 2000 miles in 24 hours.

To Mountain Heights

You fairly shuddered as he swung the powerful Super-Six up the great heights of Pike's Peak, to 14,447 feet elevation, in 18 minutes—leader of every contestant in that famous "highest-highway-in-the-world" climb.

And finally, you mentally fought your way at his side in the great double transcontinental record run—ocean to ocean and back—annihilating space at a clip never before maintained in the history of the motor car—6952 miles in 10 days, 21 hours—a feat of endurance supreme.

Never Approached

No car has ever equaled that great series of achievements! Success after success against every competitor! No wonder you are coming in tomorrow to buy that Hudson Super-Six. Nothing compares with it for double the money, and we have some ready for you now.

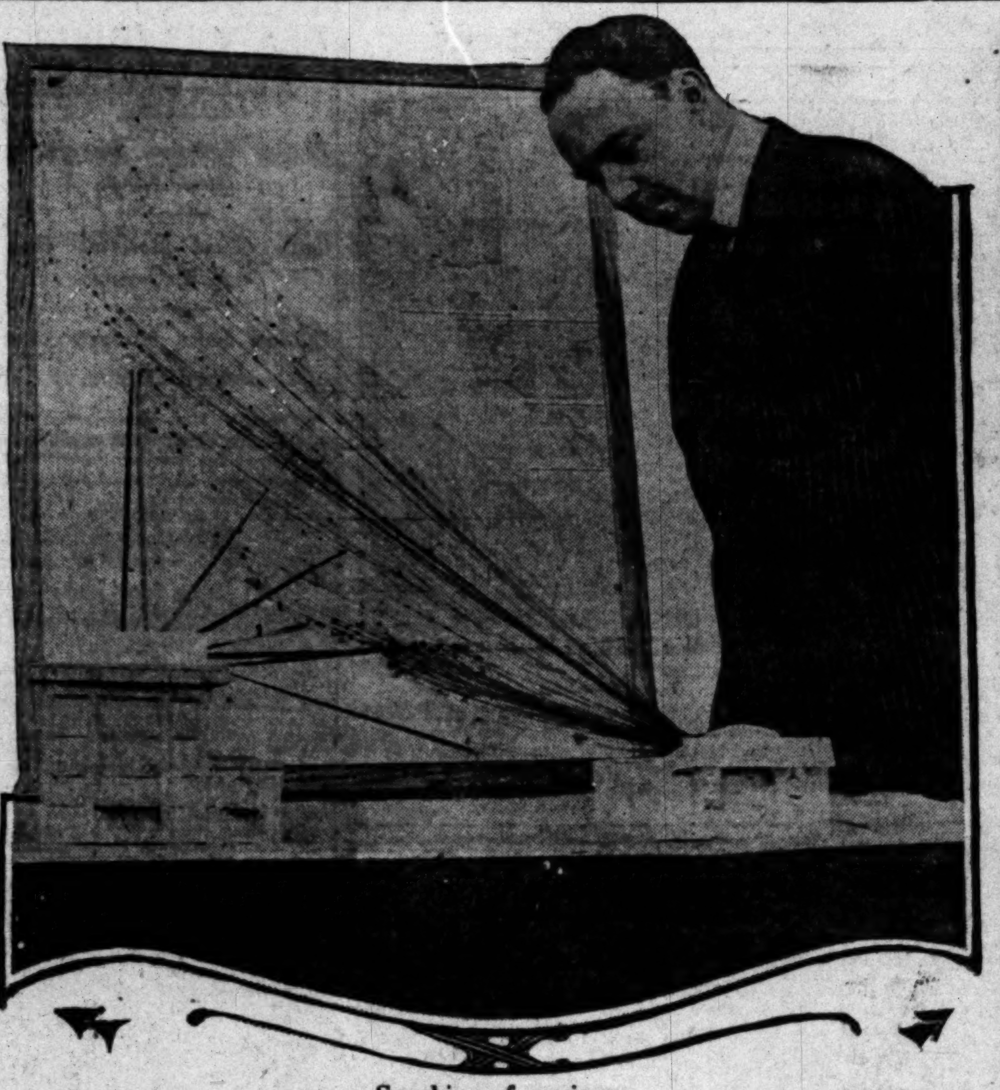
Willard STORAGE BATTERY



Speaking of service:

Take a look at this map of California, and the almost countless number of stations where every Packard and Reo owner knows he can be assured of courteous treatment, prompt attention and everything which goes with the service system established by Earle C. Anthony, Inc., distributor of Packard and Reo cars. Each dot on the map is a service station. In some sections they are thick as flies on a jug of molasses, and "It's never very far to an Anthony station" no matter where you go in California. From the look of satisfaction on Mr. Anthony's face, as he appears here inspecting the map, he is exceedingly well pleased with the results he has attained in an effort to prove that "nothing is too good for a Packard or Reo owner." The Athony system includes nine branches and 143 service stations.

TRAVELING SALESROOM ATTRACTING PROSPECTS.

NATIONAL authorities on automobile salesmanship give Stanley Smith of Smith Bros., Peerless distributors, credit for a radical innovation in their "traveling salesroom" that first took the new Peerless eight into every Southern California city, village and hamlet.

"The Peerless eight has not had a ride on the carpeted floor of the big Peerless truck for some weeks now, but the influence of the novel method is still bringing people to Los Angeles for another look at the car with the double power range," said Mr. Smith.

"Out-of-town visitors to the Peerless exhibit at the automobile shoy mentioned the traveling salesroom frequently. This had its value as a means of showing that the Peerless people had brought out a new car, that it was graceful, weighed only 3500 pounds, and had the perfection of finish for which the Peerless is noted.

"But the Peerless in action is still more of a car, and now I am figuring on some way to show out-of-town people the meaning of 'double power range,' the great Peerless innovation, and other features which are only evident to one riding in the car."

AUTO SHOW BOOSTS THE TIRE BUSINESS.

As a result of the interesting exhibit of the Tire Construction Company at the Auto Show, according to the manager, orders are coming in from many points in Southern California, and even from Arizona and Nevada.

"Those who saw our exhibit not only were interested themselves, but they have told others about it," he said. "Making one good tire out of two old ones appeals to every man who has been in the habit of junking them as soon as a blowout or two occurs.

The company is to receive two carloads of tires this week from Akron, O., and one of the largest shipments of inner tubes ever sent to the Coast.

YOU CAN'T TURN "LIZZIE" INTO A TWIN-SIX WITH PINK PILLS

IF YOU have been talked into believing that one pale pink pill, or squirt of some wonderful liquid added to five gallons of gasoline, will cause your old car to kick up its heels and do ninety-five and one-tenth miles an hour on a 45 per cent. grade—

If you have been told that an innocent-looking little tablet added to your gas supply will make an old tin Lizzie purr like a twin six—

If you have been laboring under the delusion that any of these compounds, liquids, pills, tablets or other forms of condensed greased lightning and power will enable you to drive your car ten miles farther to each gallon of the stuff that made John D. a billionaire—

Well, pinch yourself and wake up, for it "can't be did."

At least, this, in effect, is what Charles M. Blackmar, oil inspector for the city of Los Angeles, says. And Mr. Blackmar allows that he knows what he is talking about.

Incidentally, Mr. Blackmar speaks right out so you can hear him, and tells us that these various kinds of power and speed producers are made of such things as moth balls, camphor, pulverized adobe brick, lubricating oil and kerosene.

But here is Mr. Blackmar's own statement. Better take a look at it:

"The average man who drives an automobile is always on the lookout for efficiency, consequently when his attention is called to anything which will aid in the more economical operation of his car he is willing to listen, and usually, when convinced, is a ready purchaser of the goods offered.

"However, many do not analyze the claims made, but on the other hand, are too prone to accept the other fellow's statement, and in consequence part with their good money and do not receive the benefit promised.

"Taking the subject of motor fuels and the mixtures of various compounds therein to and eradicate carbon: many and various kinds carbon removers and fuel being offered to the Los Angeles ing public, all accompanied rections for use. These are explicit in telling you, put a specified amount in of fuel; second, to cut down and add more air until runs smoothly, etc., etc.

"The department of oil for years has prevented the of these fraudulent compounds the public. We have had the following offered:

"Moth balls, napthalene liquid napthalene, camphor, sene, pulverized adobe brick, moniac and lubricating oil with kerosene. Also all badly-cracked distillates affin and asphaltic base,) all accompanied with elaborate rection for use, with emphasis the cut down your gas, add and get a perfect mix.

BIG SELLING CAMPAIGN TO COVER EVERY STAT

FIRST results of the new sales policy of the Chalmers Motor Company, following the election of E. C. Morse as vice-president and general sales manager, were made known to Greer-Robbins Company yesterday by the appointment of F. D. Baker as factory sales representative on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Baker is a former resident of Los Angeles and for many years has been closely connected with the Chalmers factory at Detroit. His arrival in this city marks the beginning of one of the biggest selling campaigns ever inaugurated in the United States, according to Mr. Baker.

"By the new policy of the Chalmers organization," stated Mr. Baker, "the entire nation has been divided into nine zones, with a sales representative resident in each one. The Pacific Coast is Zone No. 9 and extends from Canada to Mexico, including all the States and large parts of States off the Coast.

"The main object of the Morse idea is to bring all the dealers and distributors into closer touch with the parent company. The nearer we can make them all feel that they are a vital part of the biggest sales organization in the United States, the greater will be the results. My purpose in this zone is to assist every distributor and dealer to get more business. In order to do shall endeavor to make all methods uniform, so that of a Chalmers car, no matter he buys, will enjoy the courtesy, service and every Chalmers headquarters ulation and co-operation Morse's principal thought.

both ride in a Dodge car, and this Dodge is exceptionally nifty because it is equipped with wire wheels, the first one shown in Los Angeles. Incidently, Harold L. Arnold, Southern California distributor, received a telegram last week that the factory had just turned out the one hundred thousandth Dodge Car.

Lay Cards Face Up!

PROSPECT AND DEALER GAMBLE; BOTH "WIN."

VARIOUS ways for clinching a pending sale of an automobile have been revealed, but one that is a common practice with the sales force of Earl V. Armstrong, distributor of the Chandler Six, is somewhat different from others. There is a bit of the sporting proclivity attached to it, for it cannot be ascertained exactly in advance, just what the result may be.

When the hesitant prospect wavers about reaching his decision, the salesman suggests that he make inquiry of owners of Chandler cars as to how they regard them.

"Oh, you've probably got the other fellow fixed," the prospect may say.

"Well, we're willing to take a chance, so suppose we go back into the service department and see if there are any of our users there waiting for their car," the salesman says.

There is no attempt at a frame-up; no word is sent in advance of the couples coming, and if an owner happens to be present, he is called upon at once to say what he thinks of the Chandler Six. Often the salesman doesn't even know the owner's name.

"Is your car here?" he will say, and then add, "What do you think of the Chandler, anyway?"

When the experiment was tried a few days ago, a somewhat puzzling answer was returned by R. A. Smith, an owner.

"Why, I've got a high grade, luxurious car at the upkeep cost of a Ford," Mr. Smith replied. Then he went on to explain that, equipped with a Victoria top, seat covers, wire wheels and cord tires, his Chandler furnishes him all there is to be desired in the way of style, and an average of seventeen and one-half miles to the gallon of gasoline makes it cheap enough for anybody to operate.

L. A. COMPANY TO USE WORM DRIVE.

"The latest production of the Moreland Motor Truck Company, a worm-driven, heavy-duty, five-ton truck, seems to be fitting into the requirements of the heavy transportation field and from all appearances commanding general approval," said Mr. Moreland yesterday.

"This addition means that in the future all Moreland trucks will be exclusively worm-driven, and the line will be complete from the little rapid-service, three-quarter-tonner, to the new high-powered five-ton."

More than three years ago Mr. Moreland startled the commercial car world by declaring himself in favor of the new method of power transmission. It was at a time when the worm drive was a decided innovation in truck construction, but its superiority soon became common knowledge and it has since been adopted by practically all truck manufacturers in the United States.

So confident was the local truck magnate of the success of the worm drive that he determined to revise the entire factory production, and the result was that a standard of efficiency was established by the Los Angeles manufactured trucks that soon attracted the attention of the leading parts specialists.

TIRE SALES INCREASE.

That the demand for the various kinds of tires sold by the Tire Supply Company is increasing, and carload shipments are being snapped up by drivers as rapidly as they can be unloaded, is an optimistic statement of the assistant manager, A. M. B. Friedman. Benjamin W. Mallickson, manager of the company, is spending two months in the East, making purchases and looking after the company's interests in various ways.

"This unexpected increase in the shipment of Franklin cars means we will be able to make deliveries much earlier than we had anticipated," said Mr. Hamlin. "We had been given reason to believe that we could not expect to fill some of our orders until the latter part of next month. Of course, this was a keen disappointment to the purchasers, but they have been disposed to accept it with good grace, preferring to wait for the car of their choice to cancelling their order and buying some other automobile. I feel certain this three-carload shipment will be followed soon by others, and if it is we shall have something other than the demonstrating car to show."

Every Franklin car that was put on display by Mr. Hamlin at the recent automobile show has been sold.

GISH ADDS TO LAURELS AS ROAD CRUISER.

Trip from Richmond, Va., to Washington, D. C., Made Under Difficulties—Auto Plows Through Swamp in High Gear—Speed and Strength of Car Shown.

Driving a stock six-cylinder Haynes, the automobile record between Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C., has been broken by D. B. Gish of the nation's capital.

Gish drove the same car with which he recently broke the New York-Washington road record in seven hours and twenty-six minutes.

Accompanied by three passengers, the driver passed through the Chopwamsic swamp below Dumfries, which was heavy with mud from recent rains, without shifting from high gear. The blowing out of a rear tire brought the time over the four-hour mark.

The average on the run was over thirty-five miles an hour and on the last leg of the trip, from Accotink to Washington, a speed of fifty-five miles an hour was maintained. The previous record of four hours and fifty-five minutes for the 138.5 miles was made more than one year ago in a twelve-cylinder car.

RESTRAINING SUIT FILED.

In reply to the suit brought last August in the United States District Court for Northern Illinois by Albert Cook and the Redden Motor Truck Company, the Smith Form-a-Truck Company has announced the filing of a suit to restrain Cook and representatives of the Redden company from representing that they have a valid contract under which the Smith Form-a-Truck Company has agreed to pay royalties for the use of certain patents. The suit also asks that defendants be restrained from intimidating dealers and agents of the Smith company.

SPANISH ROADS ARE NOT PERFECT.

Spanish roads are generally not good. In the northern country in the summer resort district of San Sebastian are good macadam roads. Outside of large cities macadam roads radiate for upward of fifty miles. Once beyond this zone roads are sandy and rocky. Today touring in Spain is looked upon as a stunt rather than a pleasure.

For Years the Best Seller

Year after year for many years the 35 horsepower Overland has greatly outsold all cars of more than 25 horsepower.

There are now more than a quarter of a million of the 35 horsepower Overlands in use.

This season's 35 horsepower Overland, the Model 85-4—$795—is the most powerful, roomiest, easiest riding, most convenient car that ever sold for anything like so low a price.

It has the famous 35 horsepower Overland motor developed and perfected in the building of more than a quarter of a million now in use.

The wheelbase is 112 inches.

It has four inch tires and long 48 inch cantilever rear springs.

It has every convenience including the Auto-Lite electrical equipment with control buttons located on steering column.

The long run public verdict is well nigh infallible.

It invariably singles out that combination of quality and price which mean best value—most for the money.

The 35 horsepower Overland is a good example of seasoned public judgment truly given.

There is no hint of experiment in the purchase of the 35 horsepower Overland.

It has been tried and proved by a greater public test than has ever been given any car of its class.

We're here to prove that this Overland is far and away best value in its class—see us at once.

TRUCK TAKES LOAD OF CREAM TO NEW YORK.

Steadily making its way across the country from New York, a G. M. C. truck bound for Seattle is completing a feat that is making the motor world sit up and take notice.

Loaded with one ton of evaporated cream to be delivered at the company's New York office, the truck, driven by William Warwick, left Seattle, July 12. Warwick is accompanied by his wife. The eastward trip was made by way of the National Parks highway and the actual running time to New York was thirty-one days. Every foot of the way was made under the truck's own power and not once was it pulled out or helped in any way.

The truck was in such good condition upon its arrival in New York that the General Motors Truck Company arranged to have it return to Seattle by another route. On the morning of October 2 the Warwicks pulled out of the metropolis and last Thursday had reached Evanston, Wyo., by way of St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver.

The trip is in the nature of a road test as well as a demonstration of the efficiency of the truck. The eastward journey, made under the auspices of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, tested the keeping qualities of the evaporated cream under varying climatic conditions.

Five Stages.

WHAT BECOMES OF OLD CARS?

Periods in the Life of Average Machine Explained.

From the Cradle to the Grave is an Interesting Trip.

Stage Number Three is Hardest on the Motor Car.

BY PAUL G. HOFFMAN,
Retail Manager Studebaker Corporation.

Visitors to the great show at Pico, Main and Los Angeles streets, which closed a week ago in a blaze of splendor, and particularly those visitors who on their way to the show had occasion to pass the acres and acres of second-hand cars spread out up and down Main, Los Angeles, Pico and Hill streets for eight to twelve blocks, have asked themselves and each other many a time: "What in the world becomes of all the used cars? Are there people enough in the world to buy them."

Los Angeles has been termed the bottomless pit" into which hundreds and thousands of automobiles are dumped every year, to quickly disappear, and the market seems never to be exhausted. Right now there is in Los Angeles and has been for months, a shortage of good roadsters to be had in used car stocks. This is due largely to the great number of Los Angeles wholesale concerns which employ armies of traveling men who regularly cover every spot on the map from San Francisco to San Diego, and who would no more consider traveling by railroad train than they would figure on hiring a horse and buggy. "A salesman who has not a roadster is not a regular salesman" is the way the traveling men figure the matter, and the registrations seem to bear it out.

The five stages of the automobile's life are:

First, the "brain-child" in the ambition-fired mind of a dreamer whose name appears on the pay roll opposite the word "designer." Through days, weeks and months of travail amid stacks of blue prints, endless arguments, measurements, estimates, verifications, calculations and consultations with experts in electrical and mechanical engineering, advertising managers, sales specialists and bankers with sporting blood, the "dream child" is brought forth into the tangible realm of created things, and the car is ready for the acid test of "what the almighty general public will do with it, about it and to it."

Stage No. 2 is "the salon stage," in which the seller of automobiles unveils before a waiting world the "creation" in glittering nickel plate, glistening enamel, soft cushions, sporty lines, spic, span and spotless—a thing to brighten the eye, tickle the fancy, quicken the pulse and thrill the heart of the man or the woman in whose veins there courses the red blood which has made America the greatest automobile manufacturing nation on the globe.

Stage No. 3 is the stage of action, and plenty of it, in which the car is called upon day after day for weeks, months and years, to perform the normal functions of the family carriage, the street car, the baggage coach ahead, the delivery wagon, the Pullman sleeper and many other things. If automobiles could talk some people would go to the mountains for a long time.

Stage No. 4 is a vacant lot with a wagonload of sawdust or shavings for a background, referred to in the parlance of Automobile Row as "a gyp field." Here we come face to face with the former "somebody's darling on wheels," now a thing on which old Father Time, John Barleycorn, and others, it may be, have laid a heavy hand. The fenders are jammed, the wheels are a bit "come sah," the tires are at half mast, the top is in ribbons, the tonneau bears a long painted-over scar—souvenir of a night of revelry, slippery tracks in the fog before daylight, a little argument with a street car, "yes, the doctor says they will both live! etc.;" the bumpers are bumped, the springs are sprung, the body is three inches "down by the stern," as if her "cargo had shifted during the squall," the whole tout ensembled being "only a shadow of her former magnificence."

Scene No. 5 is a funeral without any flowers or music. The former "world's greatest" has been sold off the "gyp field" to some enterprising citizen desirous of much for little, who, having grown tired of her asthmatic motor, drinking habits and uncertain ways, has trundled her down to the automobile wrecker's and said: "How much?" The automobile wrecker is all that the name implies and three days later the "creation" which thrilled magazine readers from Maine to California a few years back has "gone the way of all the earth," the junkman has got his; another beautiful dream has come and gone! Selah!

TOURISTS ARRIVE FROM VERMONT.

Fall weather has put the Lincoln Highway in good shape for the most of its length, according to the report of a party of Packard pilgrims who arrived in Los Angeles recently after a journey cross-continent from Waterbury, Vt. The tourists were Mrs. Albert Spencer and Earle W. Evans of Waterbury and H. Polatsek of Cleveland, O. They averaged 228 miles per day over the Lincoln Highway and covered the distance between the Vermont town and San Francisco in just fifteen days, and Mr. Evans reports that the new series twin six they drove showed a gasoline average of 10.2 miles for that portion of their trip.

"For a car brand new and stiff, we considered that an excellent showing," declared Mr. Evans last week. "We were proud of the pulling ability the car showed over the east slope of the Sierras, too. We negotiated the grade from Reno to Truckee on high gear all the way, which we were informed is a rather unusual performance."

RIGHT OF WAY IS ON THE MAT.

Right of way and glaring headlights are the two things which stand out ahead of everything else in the uniform traffic problem, according to Chairman O. I. Yellott of the A.A.A. legislative board, which has taken up this large subject in a determined effort to bring about a country-wide understanding.

TOURISTS SHIP CARS TO COAST.

The number of eastern tourists who will ship their cars to California for the winter will be large, if advices received by the Hartwell Motor Company from the Jeffery factory count for anything.

The local distributors for the Jeffery have been notified that eleven owners of Jefferys have already shipped their cars in care of the Hartwell Motor Company, and that the owners will reach Los Angeles early in December.

Three new cars purchased in the East and ordered delivered here, are awaiting the arrival of their owners. One of the cars is a Jeffery six sedan and the others are Jeffery fours of the touring car type.

R. O. Rikert and his family of Duluth, Minn., arrived here last week in a Jeffery four by way of the Santa Fe trail. Rikert and his family have been touring the country since early last September and will pass the winter in the Southland.

LOTS OF GASOLINE FROM NATURAL GAS.

It is conservatively estimated by men who are interested in extracting gasoline from natural gas that the total yield from this source for 1916 will be considerably in excess of 100,000,000 gallons, as compared with about 65,000,000 gallons for last year. Although Oklahoma leads in this industry, big strides are being made in Texas and Louisiana in building the plants for taking gasoline from natural gas. It is stated that the natural gas resources of Texas, in their present stage of development, are capable of yielding many times the total production of casing-head gasoline of the whole country at this time. In both Oklahoma and Texas the gasoline content of natural gas of most of the fields runs high, the average being a little more than three and one-half gallons of gasoline from every 1000 feet of natural gas.

NEW YORKER LIKES SHOW.

In the opinion of Thomas B. Whitney of New York City, the auto show was far ahead of anything Los Angeles has had heretofore in the number of cars. And Whitney should know, for he spends his winters here and has crossed the continent three times in a Stearns-Knight eight. New York may put on its auto shows in grander fashion, but when it comes to real car exhibits, the burg by the Hudson has nothing on the City of the Angels, he declares.

FIFTY FANS READY FOR MOTOR TRIP TO EA

AL G. FAULKNER, in response to his proposal that California autoists make the transcontinental tour next year to New York and other Atlantic seaboard cities, has received more than fifty letters.

The writers, many of them being well-known business men of the city and of Los Angeles county, are heartily in favor of Faulkner's idea and they suggest that the subject receive early consideration.

Aside from the pleasure it would afford and the information that the tourists could glean at first-hand of the country, it would be a wonderful boost for sunny California, is the opinion of the writers.

The Marmon representative suggests that the Santa Fe trail Lincoln highway could be the routes to be followed tourists. The writers of the are not confined to any make of car. Their preferences this instance are widely as far as Faulkner knows.

"Allowing ample time to take in the sights, the tour accomplished in the most fashion in two months. an outing it would be! or more cars from California into Chicago and little York. It would be some wouldn't it?" And the dealer smiled at the very of the prospect.

BABY BLUE FINISH CATCHES EYE OF THIS MOVIE QUE

THE delicate baby-blue finished King, with the Victoria top, that attracted so much attention at the auto show, fell prey to the eyes of the charming Miss Edith Johnson, popular movie queen of the Universal company.

Miss Johnson can exchange compliments with all the beauties of the screen, and her charms are aptly reflected in her choice of all the motor cars at the show.

This special King eight was ordered by the Leach Motor Car Company particularly for the show, and its delicate exterior, superbly set off by dull gray upholstering, was ever the center of an admiring throng. Among the thousands who attended the exhibit was son, and from the moment took in this handsome car see no other, she says.

"I've seen many smart some sporty models, too, real refinement, elegance charm, none can compare dainty baby blue 'King.' And from its performance works under the hood much perfection as the the car would indicate.

"Motor cars today are good. There is but little among them, and it remains buyer to make his selection among those cars of a presents the most in pearance, and that is why appeals to me. 'Long King!' "

CALIFORNIA POPPY GIRLS ENJOY PICNIC AT BEAC

APPRECIATING the hard work attached to giving an afternoon performance each day and an evening performance every night Sid Grauman treated the California Poppy Dancing Girls, who played at the Majestic, to a Maxwell picnic last week. Three brand new Maxwells were secured from the Lord Motor Car Company, Southern California distributors of Maxwell and Velie cars, and were turned over to the girls early in the morning.

The girls climbed into the cars and drove them to Redondo, where an impromptu dance festival was held on the beach. "There a man anywhere around, lots of fun!" said one of Both automobile thieves and automobile thief "catchers" have cause today to say: "When will some motorists ever wake up!"

By that the automobile thieves will mean: "The longer automobile owners remain asleep, the niftier our trade will be," while the thief-catchers will be expressing in a mild way their surprise that twice as many cars are not stolen.

In other words, automobile thefts have climbed from 835 last year to 1051 to date this year, according to a report issued yesterday by the theft bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. For the month of October, the number of thefts over the same month of the previous year climbed from sixty-nine to 108—an increase of thirty-nine cars.

That Southern California is an unusually fruitful playground for the frolicsome automobile thief is shown in the automobile club's estimate of the value of the cars stolen so far this year, which reaches a total of $1,035,000. RED CAR DAZZLES EYES OF EVERYONE.

Art for art's sake is all right, but for utility in making art pay a dividend, Aline Barnsdall, proprietress of the Little Theater, finds an automobile indispensable. Furthermore, according to Miss Barnsdall, there's no crime and can be no scandal if she carries her love of color to the finish of her automobile. Therefore, Proprietress Barnsdall has purchased a red automobile. It's the reddest kind of red, too, the shade that people turn around and admire, because it is also a different kind of red—tropical red.

Standing at the Palisades, in Santa Monica, the other evening, "just as the sun went down," Miss Barnsdall says that many who were supposed to be viewing the gorgeous sunset mistook her Hupmobile for the sinking globe and brought her into the spotlight, something she says she detests.

Miss Barnsdall spied the red Hupp at the auto show, and the brilliancy of it blinded her to any other color and every other car. Now, it's hers. In the long line of splendid automobile specimens that stands in front of the Little Theater every evening no one will ever step into the tropical red Hupmobile by mistake. They wouldn't dare.

TEXAS MAN IS ROAD BOOSTER.

That Texas is abounding in prosperity is the statement of C. L. Krielman of Fort Worth, who with his family reached Los Angeles last week in a Stearns-Knight eight.

In company with other sections of the United States the Lone Star State has thrived and the stagnation that prevailed two or more years ago has almost been forgotten, said the Texan. There is a demand for all the cotton the State can raise.

"One of your greatest assets, and I presume you are aware of it, is your highway system. We have read and heard a great deal about it. Business has brought me here, but had it not been for your highways, I would have come by train instead of by automobile and my family would not be with me. As I am only one of many, it is easy to conclude that your highways will bring you a great amount of tourist trade," is Krielman's declaration.

His Stearns-Knight is equipped with a Master carburetor and he states that since he put it on his car, he has got more mileage out of a gallon of gasoline than ever before.

J. Booth is reported having covered a mile in 35s. on his motorcycle on an Adelaide (Australia) road among recent speedy cycle races there.

Why Not?

RANCHERS JOIN BIG AUTO CLUB.

Tillers of the Soil Get in and Boost.

Branch Offices will be Opened Soon.

New Record for November is Slogan Now.

With all records for any one month in increasing membership broken by that of October, officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California are now directing their efforts to a new membership record for November.

To accomplish this, President Fred L. Baker is personally sending out hundreds of signed letters to present members requesting that each one bring in one or more new "recruits" to the cause of sign-posting and motoring activities.

One of the greatest triumphs for the automobile club in its work for good roads is the recent passing of the $15,000,000 bond issue for State highways, as it was this organization which took the leadership in the campaign throughout Southern California.

Basing its stand upon work of this kind, upon its thousands of perfect sign posts and its touring bureau with a national scope, the club is now seeking to double its potentialities by doubling its membership. When a motorist becomes a member he not only secures the services of many important departments not open to the general public, but also contributes his share toward the various public service activities of the club, points out Secretary Mitchell.

FARMERS JOIN.

One of the features of the membership campaign has been the enthusiasm of motor car owners throughout the great agricultural districts of Southern California for the club's efforts in mapping and signing routes through those territories. This enthusiasm has been shown in a very concrete way—by joining the organization.

Before the first of the year, the club will have established branch offices in Riverside, San Bernardino and Ventura counties, according to an official statement yesterday from Mr. Mitchell. This is made possible by the interest being taken by the motorists of those territories. This will practically complete the club's chain of branch offices and touring bureaus which will then cover the entire southern portion of the State.

Steps will be taken, probably, in Mono and Inyo counties in this line at a slightly later date.

A sign-posting crew from the club is at work now putting up new signs to the north. The Imperial Valley has been posted, and every road marked. However, it is pointed out that there is a great deal yet undone over the southern part of the State, and additional support is needed to complete the work.

The building of the new State highways will mean much more sign-posting work for the club, as the changing routes will all have to be permanently marked, not only for the use of local motorists, but for the thousands of eastern visitors as well.

MORE PUBLICITY.

The automobile club is outlining an extensive campaign of publicity to be perpetuated throughout the East by means of the large motoring magazines, pointing out the wonders of California touring. Articles on touring in this part of the State will be sent East, accompanied by special club maps and photographs, illustrating the growing highway systems.

Touring information on transcontinental travel will also be sent broadcast, as will the announcement that the club will act as official host to all visiting automobile parties, supplying touring information and maps here free of charge, out of courtesy to those who make the cross-continent trip. This is a part of the automobile club's service to all of Southern California.

BUILDINGS COVER SIXTY-ACRE PLOT.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND CARS TURNED OUT.

Growth of One Company in Twenty-two Months Sets a Record—Jump Made in One Year from Eight to Fourth Place in Volume of Business Done.

Harold L. Arnold, distributor for Dodge Bros. motor cars for Southern California, learned last week that Dodge Bros. have just turned out car No. 100,000.

The event was celebrated at the bigplant in Detroit by taking motion pictures of the final assembly of the car.

Dodge Bros. have been reticent in making public their production figures. With the exception of those who were close to the situation hardly any one realized that this concern had had such an astonishing growth.

Dodge Bros. produced their first car on a commercial basis less than two years ago and in the twenty-two months that they have been building Dodge Bros. motor cars they have constructed 100,000 automobiles, thereby establishing an entirely new record in the motor car industry.

The production has now reached such a tremendous figure that the buildings cover sixty acres of floor space, and even at that they are being constantly added to by the construction of new buildings.

The evidence of the great growth of the company is further emphasized by the fact that when the drawings for position in the automobile shows of 1916 at New York and Chicago were made recently, Dodge Bros. were found in fourth place in volume of business. This was an advance in one year from eighth place to fourth place in the motor car industry.

John W. Bate's Trouble-Savers

In the New Series Mitchell Mr. Bate has embodied some hundreds of trouble-savers.

You will find here, for instance, a unique and easy control. You will find a power tire pump—and engine primer at the driver's hand.

There is an oversize steering gear, made of Chrome-Vanadium steel. That is for safety. For ease of driving, it is fitted with ball bearings.

There are reversible headlights. There's a tool box under hood.

There is an extra-cost carburetor to save gasoline. There's a light in the tonneau, a locked compartment for valuables. There are Bate cantilever springs in the rear, not one of which has ever broken. There are 26 such features which are not found in other cars. And most of them are put there to save trouble.

Extra Strong Parts

Mr. Bate's idea of efficiency is to make every part extra-strong. His margins of safety are at least 50 per cent. But he combines all this strength with light weight.

He uses much Chrome-Vanadium steel. He gets rid of brittle castings. He uses drop forgings and tough steel stampings in 440 parts of the Mitchell. They are three times as strong as castings.

He has worked out in the Mitchell 700 improvements, and most of them aim at endurance. His object is a lifetime car.

Six cars of his building have averaged 164,372 miles each, or more than 30 years of ordinary service. One has run 218,000 miles, and is running still.

Many Costly Attractions

Mr. Bate saves in a thousand ways. Then spends those savings in extra quality, in extra features, in luxuries, beauties and comforts.

With this model plant and its perfect equipment he has cut our factory costs in two. Nowhere else could such a car be built at the Mitchell price.

With these savings he pays for 26 extra features. He gives you a big car, roomy and powerful. He gives you a 22-coat body finish, French-finished leather, 10-inch springs.

In this New Series model—our second for this year—he adds 73 new conceptions. He combines all the best new features in a single car. He gives you the most complete car in existence. He gives you the handsomest touring car built.

All these things are results of efficiency. We ask you to see them. See for yourself how much it means to get a Bate-Built car.

SHOW BUILDING IS NEEDED HERE.

DEALERS SAY MORE SPACE IS NECESSARY.

Last Exhibit, it is Predicted, will Easily Result in Half-million Dollars' Worth of Business for Los Angeles Distributors—Every One Optimistic.

One outstanding feature that the recent automobile show emphasized is the need in Los Angeles of a suitable building to accommodate such events. The three-story building and two tents proved inadequate and twice the crowd reached such proportions that it was with difficulty that they could catch so much as a glimpse of the cars on display.

"It is to be hoped that when it comes time to hold a show next year there will be some structure in the city that will prove adequate to the demands," said Harris M. Hanshue, manager of the local Apperson branch. "The building used this year will not be available next. There are many objections to a tent. Inclement weather would prove very detrimental because of the discomfort to the visitors.

"Many of the dealers who participated have told me the business returns from the show will be excellent. I am sure that was the case with us. We sold nine Apperson cars as the direct result of the show. All of these were to persons who were not known to be in the market and, so far as we know, probably would not have bought Appersons had we not taken part in the show. I believe the estimate that dealers in this city will profit to the extent of $500,000 worth of business is not excessive."

SPECIAL PRIZE IS LURE TO DRIVERS.

That the $10,000 cash prize offered by the Goodrich company to the champion drivers this year, regardless of the kind of tires they use, had considerable to do in the way of inducing many of the speed demons to come here far the big races next week is the opinion of some of those entered for the two events.

In speaking of this yesterday one of the drivers said:

"I like the way the company made the offer and the way they do business. Every driver pays for his tires, if he uses Goodrich tires, and he receives no side money for using them. The prize offered by the Goodrich company might be won by a driver using any kind of tires, for there are no strings on the offer."

QUALITY CARS is the ANSWER

When all is said and done on the subject of automobiles, the last word is "Quality." Whether you pay $600 or $6,000 you will always remember your car as a quality car or a one year car. The success of the 6-30 Chalmers is due to its worthy quality. Only a great production like Chalmers permits such a low price as $1090 Detroit. Most quality cars cost much more—largely because they are built in small quantities.

That is why, rain or shine, it helps put fair weather under your car.

Moreover, that simple, effective design takes the wear off the body of the tire, and gives it longer life.

Small wonder that when one considers Goodrich Black Safety Tread Tires are sold on a one-price basis, the same prices to everyone—the Fair-List Prices—knowing motor car owners regard them as the ideal fabric tires.

NARROWLY AVERTS DROP INTO CANYON.

Turning his car into a mountainside, with no thought of consequences except to save the life of another motorist, G. F. Herrold of Seattle, who arrived here recently, after driving down in his Moon 6-30 roadster, advises all motorists to drive carefully while taking the sharp turns on the many mountain grades throughout the State.

Telling his experiences to George W. Riley, Jr., manager of the Reilly Motor Car Company, local agents for the Moon, Mr. Herrold says he was driving at a fair rate of speed up one of the mountain grades, enjoying the scenery of one of the beautiful passes in the northern part of the State, when suddenly, without warning, a motorist turned the curve just ahead. A collision meant almost certain death to the oncoming motorists, as there was not room to pass, and an embankment with a drop of several hundred feet to a rocky gully was on his side.

Chosing the alternative of wrecking his own car, Mr. Herrold pulled the car quick into the side of the mountain, while the fellow shot past safely, and fortunately the only damage done to the Moon was a sprung frame, which did not interfere with the continuation of the trip.

DON'T STARVE YOUR STORAGE BATTERIES.

Not many motorists realize, unfortunately for their own peace of mind and pocketbook, that a storage battery can literally be starved to death, but such is the unvarnished truth, according to A. J. Tobey, manager of the Western Auto Electric Company, distributors and service station for Willard batteries.

"Anyone of several common causes may result in battery starvation," says Mr. Tobey. "It is possible for the generator to be out of order and fail to deliver current; a break or ground in the wiring will have the same effect.

"Sometimes batteries are many days in transit from the factory without charging, and when received with new cars are not recharged by the dealers. They also remain on the show-room floor and perhaps are used to demonstrate the starting mechanism without running the motor long enough to recharge battery with an appreciable amount of current.

"The service given by Willard service stations is as perfect and comprehensive as men, methods and money can make it. We endeavor to help the car owner avoid troubles by expert advice, suggestions and frequent inspections. All assistance is free, and if taken advantage of will help motorists to avoid annoyances and expense."

BENTEL EXPLAINS RECENT INVENTION.

"The proper burning of distillate as fuel in a motor requires that it be transformed from its heavy gravity and oily nature into a light, lively spray," says George R. Bentel, Pacific Coast distributor for the Mercer. "Two methods are used to obtain these results—superheating and breaking up the distillate into a gaseous form.

"The heating process works well in operating a motor, but does not serve so satisfactorily in starting a cold engine," says Bentel. "That is why the Corser carburetor will start a cold motor on distillate as easily as on gasoline. The Mercer engineers tested that feature out well before adopting the carburetors made in Los Angeles as stock equipment for the new series.

"To get the atomizer effect, Corser, in his Los Angeles shops, introduced a new principle in carburetor making. This is a ring, called by him 'Ventura,' which whirls and oscillates and vibrates at such tremendous speed under the action of the air that the distillate or gasoline is literally lashed into a fine spray.

"Thus the heavy distillate with its 'refractory' nature is beaten into a mixture that is easily handled by a cold motor.

ESCAPES JACK FROST.

W. P. Herbert, the Philadelphia distributor for Chandler motor cars, has come to Los Angeles with his family for the purpose of escaping the rigor of an eastern winter. He plans to tour the Southland extensively and for this purpose has taken a new car from Earl V. Armstrong, Inc., the local Chandler distributors.

LOCKS PROTECT CARS.

"Out of 12,000 locks sold during the past four months, not one Rex auto lock-equipped car has been stolen, which is positive proof of its merit," said the manager of the company. "In Los Angeles alone about fifty car owners every day are installing this lock, and the demand is steadily increasing. The lock is a local invention."

GRAND CENTRAL PALACE TO BE FILLED WITH AUTOMO

HAVING practically the entire list of automobile makers to satisfy and a limited floor space, one of the most difficult problems of the New York show, which is to be held in January, is the allotment of space so as to get all the exhibitors in. This problem was solved in Los Angeles by a drawing for space, but the system followed in New York has been to allot the space in the order of total cars produced by the exhibitor, first-floor space going to the largest producers, with the lesser producers on the three floors above.

This year the entire Grand Central Palace will be used for the pleasure cars, and the accessories, which found lodgment on the fourth floor at the last show, are presenting one of the most difficult problems to the management.

Word was received by the Lord Motor Car Company, Southern California distributors of the Velie, that the Velie is to be shown on the first floor again this year, having made the greatest proportionate gain in total production shown by any company. Since the entire building will be required to house the complete car exhibits this year, those given space on the main floor are naturally representative vast proportions to dustry has grown, with its advance of the ranks of big cupy one of the most positions near the

SINGLE COMPANY USES OVER THREE HUNDRED TRUC

THE number of Autocar users in the United States now numbers more than 6300, the number in use by each ranging from one to 302.

A comparison of the sales of Autocar trucks for the first six months in 1916 and the corresponding period for the preceding year indicates an increase of more than 35 per cent. And this is entirely domestic business, it is claimed.

IGNORANCE WORST ENEMY OF TIRES.

"The care and repair of tires is a never-ending scource of argument, and its importance will probably last just as long as the pneumatic tire itself," says Mr. Wade of the B. F. Wade Tire and Rubber Company, local distributors for the Dayton pneumatic and airless tires.

"A tire is unique among automobile parts, in that it is expected to wear out more rapidly than most other parts of the car, while the worst chassis is reckoned equal to the destruction of a good many sets of the very best tires.

"It is probably true that a poor tire used properly will give as good service as a good tire used stupidly, and it is also likely that most motorists, through ignorance of what it pays to do with tires, never get more than half the possible mileage from a set of tires.

"Almost every day we have occasion to give advice on the care of tires to some motorist, and in many instances these same people have come back and told us that by paying attention to some of the small details in the care of their tires they have been able to secure about double the mileage that they did before."

NO CROWDED SHOP IN THIS COMPANY.

"It is part of the policy and creed of the Mutual Motors Company, manufacturers of Marion-Handley sixes, that good cars cannot be built in a crowded shop," says B. F. Jacobs of the Marion-Handley Sales Company.

"One of the most impressive things which a visitor sees on a tour of the factory is the way in which our cars are constructed and finished amid spacious surroundings. The workmen are not falling over each other or attempting to do their work elbow to elbow.

"Rigid inspection of parts before they go into the construction rooms is the fetish of the organization. It does not cost them a cent to throw out a part that does not come up to the engineering specifications; and the manufacturers who supply our company know that parts must be of this specified, uniform high quality or they will be rejected. Therefore, parts are of the best that come into our plant, and consequently rejections are fewer each month. Extraordinary tests are made to detect possible weaknesses and they must be right in every detail before they get the O.K."

BEARINGS IN TRUCK STAND BIG STRAIN.

The kind of bearing used in the motor truck of today is even more important than in the pleasure car, because of the fact that these bearings have to carry much greater loads and withstand much greater shocks and stresses, according to C. S. Anthony, who has the agency for the Signal motor truck in this district.

"The bearings on the worm of a worm-drive truck get harder service than any motor car installation, except possibly the bearings on the front wheels," he said.

"In the Signal worm-drive truck, which is equipped with a Timken-Detroit rear axle, having Timken-David Brown worm gears, the worm is mounted on but two Timken roller bearings. Because of their conical shape and the manner in which they are constructed these bearings efficiently cary the radial load and at the same time efficiently meet the terrific end thrusts."

STOP SIGNAL FOR STREET CARS NEXT.

Automatic signals on the rear of street cars, to indicate when they are about to stop, has proven a means of avoiding many accidents in different eastern cities and is strongly advocated for local use by John G. Boss of the Portage Rubber Company of California, who recently returned from a trip to the Portage factory at Akron and to several other large eastern centers.

"These signals are especially fine at night," says Mr. Boss, "because, while driving back of a street car, it is possible to tell just when a car is going to slow up, as a green light is on if the car is going right on through the block, or the red light shows if it is to stop."

WILSON HAS OWN AMBITION.

Coach Wilson of Whittier is far from a satisfied man. He will not rest easy in his sleep until his football team has another chance at California. The defeat his men suffered in the north sticks in his craw.

Two days ago he wired Berkeley, asking Johnny Stroud if California would play the winner of the Whittier-Occidental game for the championship of the State. Stroud wired back yesterday that the Bears would be willing to play the winner on December 9, for the title, provided the faculty did not kick. Last night Wilson was happier than he has been in months.

He figures that Occidental has only to be played for Whittier to win.

COLORADO COLLEGE ROLLS UP A SCORE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Nov. 11.—Colorado College rolled up a score of 58 to 0 against the University of Colorado today in the midst of a blinding storm. The flakes were so thick that at times it was difficult to see the ball from the side lines. Davis and Taylor were the stars for the Tigers, each contributing a 40-yard run.

Holman played a brilliant game, his work in receiving forward passes being sensational.

Old style football, with frequent forward passes in the latter part of the game was the style of battle adopted by both field generals.

Boulder never threatened the Tigers' goal.

FOOTBALL BY HEADLIGHTS.

STILLWATER (Okla.) Nov. 11.—Headlights from more than 100 automobiles illuminated the gridiron during the last two periods of the football game here today between Oklahoma A. and M. and Central State Normal and the pigskin oval was painted white to enable the men to see the passes. Two storms delayed the game until it seemed too dark to complete the contest. The automobiles then encircled the field, the lights were put into position and with the ball painted white, the A. and M. team defeated the visitors, 34 to 6.

a—Much stronger than BxP, as White could then break up Black's position by P-Q4.

b—A rather novel idea; White wishes to play P-Q4 at all costs.

c—P-QR4 would have been dangerous, involving loss of time and leaving a bad hole at Black's Q-Kt3.

c—P-K5 would have been answered by Kt-Q2 and the advanced king's pawn would have been very weak.

e—After this Black gets an isolated king's pawn and his king is liable to attack by reason of its exposed position. Black should have played KtxKt; P-B3, B-Q3; RxKt ch, K-B2, followed by KR-K1 with a good game.

f—Well played. White would reply to QxP with Q-B3.

g—White could now take the king's bishop's pawn, but he plays for more.

h—Falling into Black's trap; he should have played Q-B3.

i—This wins easily; if P-B3, QxR ch and if QxR ch, RxQ; RxR, KxR, White cannot save the game, as his queen's bishop's pawn must fall, when the Black pawns win.

R. Norris Williams, II, of Philadelphia, national lawn tennis champion, who, it is expected, will rank first, plays the most distinctive game in America, according to expert opinion. He drives off the rising bounce instead of the fall of the ball, as most players. He prefers a peculiar style of back-court game, just inside the base line, from where he makes the most marvelous shots to the sidelines. His volley game is accurate and wonderful for its angles, while his overhead is deadly in its speed and placement. He is severe off the ground both forehand and backhand, but prone to erratic streaks.

Coach Jimmy Curran of Mercersburg Academy track team hopes to duplicate last year's brilliant successes when his proteges won eleven events. The star performer of the squad is E. M. Shields, who will graduate next year. Shields won first place in each of seven cross-country meets and has never been defeated in this line of scholastic sport. He shattered the American interscholastic mark at one mile, running the distance in 4m. 23 2-5s., and set a new two-mile record of 9m. 39 1-5s.

Heavy Smashing Rips up the Light Line.

Losers Score on Intercepted Forward Pass.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Nov. 11.—The University of California varsity football team overwhelmingly defeated St. Mary's College on California field here today by the score of 48 to 6. The game was the final preliminary to the big game to be played here next week with the University of Washington.

California showed great improvement over the form exhibited in the Oregon game two weeks ago, and great satisfaction over the result was expressed on the campus tonight.

St. Mary's players were unable to stem the advance of the heavier Californians, and, but for an intercepted forward pass in the last few moments of play, would have been whitewashed. Olsen took the fumbled ball on the full run and carried it forty-five yards through a broken field for a touchdown. The goal was converted easily.

End runs by Cohen and general field work on the part of California featured the Berkeleyites' game, and gameness was noticeable in the stubborn defense of the lighter players.

small trees. The hub cap of the front wheel of the Duesenberg was torn off but neither the driver nor Eddie Rickenbacher, who was riding as mechanic, was hurt.

TOO CLOSE.

"It was a close shave," admitted Rickenbacher on the return to the pits. "The horse and wagon turned onto the track exactly in front of our machine and there wasn't a minute or even a second to figure out the logical thing to do. It was simply a case of do it. How Weightman got out of it alive is a puzzle."

Both Weightman and Rickenbacher seemed to take the whole thing as a joke and the baron laughingly told of a similar experience he had on a miner track in the East. When the average man turns out in the ditch at the rate of thirty miles per, he talks about it for a week if he is able to talk at all and thinks it was a wonder of wonders that he got out alive. Yet these champions ploughed into the ditch at 110 per and laughed about it. Good night!

HARD LUCK.

Earl Cooper had some hard luck on the back stretch when his machine caught fire. All the swell white paint was burned from his new machine and a little damage was done to the wiring. The fire was soon put out however and the big white machine will be out for practice tomorrow.

Usually, in a race, there are several men who start out confident of victory. Two years ago Ralph De Palma admitted that he was quite sure of winning the Vanderbilt race and he did. This year it would be foolish for any driver to claim victory before the race. So many fast cars are on the lists that luck is bound to exert a decided influence.

FAVORITES.

Dario Resta and his Peugeot are popular favorites. In preliminary practice they have shown the most speed. The gigantic French machine with its easy running engine is capable of hitting the 110 mark and holding it as long as the driver can last. Resta has clearly shown his caliber in previous races and his steady driving and tremendous speed mark him as one of the greatest race drivers of the day. He stands second in the A.A.A. championship awards and hopes to hit the ceiling before the passing of another week.

"The course is in excellent shape," admitted Resta yesterday. "We motored around for a few laps at 88 or so and found no trouble in holding the car on the road. That was my greatest fear; that these speedway cars would prove too light for track work. However, it looks like they are exactly O. K. and some nice speed records ought to be made."

ANOTHER BEAR.

Johnny Aitken, leader in the championship standings, is another favorite with a Peugeot which has all the speed of Resta's. He drives as though he might be touring around the block and is not under the nervous strain which seems to grip so many of the real speed merchants.

The final Peugeot, driven by Howdy Wilcox, will not enter the Vanderbilt Cup race. All its steam and speed will be saved for the international affair and it will be a contender from the start.

The Duesenberg team should be one of the most interesting on the course. William Weightman is a late addition to the racing field an hopes to make an auspicious beginning by taking one or more of the Santa Monica events. Both of the Duesenbergs have been thoroughly overhauled in the last few days and are in excellent shape. These cars, by the way, are good for about 120 miles per hour. Rickenbacher, who will pilot the other Duesenberg, stands third in the championship awards and, barring accidents, will put up an awful run for his money.

UNCERTAIN.

Barney Oldfield is still an uncertainty. His De Lage is all ready for the track with the exception of the motor and the Miller force is working night and day to get this necessary factor in shape. The first casting for the new Miller motor cooled too quickly and several small cracks appeared which necessitated a new casting. Barney is still hopeful of getting into the races and every possible effort will be made to get his car into running condition.

Eddie Pullen and Joe Thomas in the Mercers demand decided attention. Pullen knows the Santa Monica course like a book and knows from personal experience just how you have to drive to win a race. The Mercers are not as fast as some of the other cars but they have plenty of speed to win and are in good hands. Joe Thomas is a wild man and always drives his head off and kicks up more excitement than a circus.

All of the other drivers, right down the list, are contenders and must be reckoned with. There is a good chance for any man on the slate to run away with the whole thing.

The Santa Monica course will be open for practice tomorrow and Tuesday. Wednesday there will be no work at all.

KENNERDELL IS HERE FOR RACES.

Richard Kennerdell, chairman of the contest board of the A.A.A., arrived in town yesterday afternoon and immediately registered at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Mr. Kennerdell will inspect the Santa Monica road race course today and will get a general line on the racing situation in Southern California.

Mr. Kennerdell appeared enthusiastic over the coming races and announced that 900 points had been awarded by the A.A.A. to the Vanderbilt race. An even larger number of points will be given to International Grand Prize if all of the machines are able to enter.

"Racing fans in the East are tremendously excited over the Southern California races," said Kennerdell. "Such a list of stars has not been seen in action for a long time and the races Thursday and Saturday ought to be sensational."

most perfect weather conditions, the high wind alone bothering the players in the handling of punts. Fumbles were frequent.

The two teams battled back and forth within the 25-yard lines through the entire first two periods of the play with little advantage one way or the other. Harvard's opportunity came in the third period, however, and the Crimson was quick to turn it into victory. A punting duel between Driggs and Horween reached a stage when the Princeton fullback kicked almost from his own goal line into the wind and the ball went out of bounds on Princeton's 42-yard line.

With Horween smashing and Casey skirting, the advance was rapid to the Tigers' 20-yard line. Here Coach Rush sent Winn in to replace Moore at right half back for Princeton. Winn carried a message for Capt. Hogg and in his eagerness to deliver his instructions forgot to report to the referee, with the result that the Tigers were penalized 15 yards. It was Harvard's ball on the first down on Princeton's 5-yard line and the Orange and Black set themselves for a last defensive stand. Horwen and Murray battered out 3 yards in two plunges, then the Crimson forwards were guilty of holding and the team was set back fifteen yards.

Horween standing on Princeton's 26-yard line and directly in front of the goal post lifted an end-over-end drop kick across the bar for the only score of the contest. It was during the charge down the field.

The New Jersey combination was lightning fast and tackled with deadly effectiveness. In addition they appeared to sense the direction of the ball in the peculiar shifting plays that Coach Percy Haughton had taught his players, with the result that not even Eddie Casey could find holes for his usual gains. Harvard did not show as much in the way of varied attack as Princeton but the victors were extremely active and followed the ball equally as well as the Tigers.

DIETZ'S ELEVEN LOSES TO OREGON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 11.—Oregon University's football eleven tore through the Washington State College team here today for a 12-3 victory.

"Shy" Huntington, Oregon's quarterback, was the sensational star of the day, making all of his team's scores.

After the first period, Washington seemed to have but little show against Oregon's heavy backfield which gained through the northern line for yard after yard, seemingly almost at will.

BAY AUTO SHOW IN FULL SWING.

The first automobile show ever staged on Santa Monica bay opened last night at the Ocean Park Dome. City officials of Venice and Santa Monica assisted in the ceremonies. Curiously enough the boundary line between Venice and Santa Monica passes through the hall, leaving part of the cars in Santa Monica and part in Venice.

Close to seventy different models were presented for the public. Arrangements have been made whereby a dealer can easily change his exhibit during the four days, showing a touring car one day, a roadster the next and in this way exhibit all his cars and practically all models. Each car displayed is represented by a local dealer.

The show continues, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Monday evening has been devoted to the moving picture fraternity with representatives of twenty film companies of Los Angeles and vicinity promising to attend.

Yale Collapses Before the Brown Eleven.

Dradens Drop Kicks Eli's Only Solace.

Brown Line Smothers Plays Before Started.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.] NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Nov. 11.—Yale football stock, which has been below par this fall, took a sudden tumble today, when Brown romped away with the annual game, 21 to 6. The contest was peculiar in that the Elis had everything its own way the first two periods, while Brown dominated the proceedings with a vengeance in the last two.

Brown made three touchdowns and kicked the goals. Yale, while carrying the ball well at times, lacked the punch so Draden's drop kicking ability was resorted to with some success. He made good in two out of three attempts for all of Yale's points. The game was filled with thrills, most of which were furnished by Pollard, Brown's negro half-back. He was as slippery as an eel and reeled off sensational runs at frequent intervals.

In the last period, with Brown leading by a point, he made victory certain by ducking, dodging and twisting through the whole Yale team fifty-five yards for a touchdown. He threw off a half-dozen would-be tacklers. Brown's first touchdown was made by Purdy by a pass. A few minutes before Yale warded off a score by taking the ball downs a foot from the line. The last touchdown was made on a forward pass.

Yale's attack appeared useless because the Brown line charged more quickly and smothered plays before they had time to

TROJANS SWAMP CLUB ELEVEN.

Huyck Introduces Syracuse Football Tactics.

Making Long Gains Through Blue Jerseys.

Game Featured by Scrap in Grandstand.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

U. S. C. yesterday defeated the Los Angeles Athletic Club football team, 34 to 0, thereby giving a scientific demonstration of the power of mind over matter.

Where the clubmen have devoted their energies entirely to enlarging their biceps, the collegians have been saturating themselves with dead languages and differential calculus, dilly-dallying with the elegbraic equation and the other ways reinforcing their intellects.

It is estimated that the U. S. C. athletes were outweighted approximately one ton to the man, but all this discrepancy in bone and sinew was counteracted by the massive brains of the students. The collegians used their heighly developed brains to advantage, always bucking the line with their heads down. Weak and undeveloped heads could not have stood the strain.

Half-back Huyck, who is ineligible to play games with other colleges because he did not come West and begin growing up with the country soon enough, was a tremendous power for good. Huyck introduced the Syracuse system of playing football, which seems to be good enoguh for all practical purposes. He topped off a brilliant afternoon with a sixty-five run to a touchdown in the closing moments of the combat.

BURNED UP.

Huyck, Jones and Malette simply burned up the gridiron for long gains through the line and around the ends. Cromwell's men showed a mastery of the forward pass not heretofore displayed by the Trojans, and two of their touchdowns can be traced to the clever manipulation of this play.

The L.A.A.C. line contained a nice assortment of kewpies, averaging 211 pounds on the hoof. However, instead of using this weight to crush the very life and sap out of the weaker line of the Trojans, as a rule they would follow a few successful plunges by attempting end runs or forward passes, and not being adepts in these variations their triumphant progress invariably came to an abrupt and ignominious halt. It may be that physical exhaustion prevented the clubmen from pursuing a campaign of line plunges. Several of the professional men in the L.A.A.C. line showed traces of weariness, and their ears were dropping at the finish. Phil Cass, the 230 pound attorney who played center, was seen coming up for air regularly late in the second half, and he retired for rest and refreshment in the third quarter.

Five times the Trojans tramped across the L.A.A.C. goal line, and only once did the U. S. C. kickers fail to add a point by toeing the casaba between the posts.

SCORES—MANY SCORES.

Cromwell's cohorts rolled up six in the first quarter, and added two more touchdowns before the half was ended. The third quarter witnessed a tremendous expenditure of energy with no change in the standings of the clubs. In the final period, the Trojans got to feeling stout again, and rambled up and down the field for fourteen more points. They then decided to call it a day's work. The game ended with the clubmen vigorously bucking the ball close to the half way mark and living in the hope that they might score before it was yet too late.

The combat was punctured by a number of fights, busted noses and black eyes. Several of the athletes swapped punches, and this seemed to make some of the paid patrons in the bleachers feel belligerent. Anyway, some of those in the bleachers proved that they are not too proud to fight, and the cops were kept busy prying them apart. It is not believed that they were fighting about anything in particuliar, but mainly to get theiy mone'sy worth. They probably felt that if the players, who didn't pay to get in, could cave in each other's faces, a dollar should entitle them to the privilege of soaking somebody. In the third quarter everybody got so interested in a scrap up in the bleachers that the game was stopped so that the athletes could enjoy it.

In a way, these fights are preferable to college yells, as they disturb nobody except those intimately engaged. Yesterday there were no yells, and it was necessary to fill in the time by fighting. None of the students present let off steam, preferring to conserve it and keep their boilers full until the Trojans meet up with some rival college. The students simply sat still and watched the strangers in their midst fight.

The Fiesta Park press box has excellent defenses. It has a barbed wire fence which makes it look like a horse coral. This is an excellent idea as it keeps out the goats.

Hot dogs have taken a jump. Yesterday they were selling at 10 cents inside the enclosure. A Federal investigation would seem to be in order. If a hot-dog monopoly has been formed in restraint of trade the peopel who eat them want to know it. In that event they will eat but one hot dog where they ate two before. Down with the trust.

GAME BEGINS.

The L.A.A.C. club took the south goal with their backs to Pico street, and Jack Geyer, pugilist, made a bluff at kicking off. Just as he swung his powerful foot, Meyers sneaked up behind him and kicked the ball about ten feet toward the left end. This was a trick play. One of the Trojan linemen fell upon the casaba near the middle of the field.

The Trojans took the ball and made excellent progress in their chosen profession, when they were suddenly turned back with a 15-yard penalty. It was claimed that somebody had been coaching from the side line. Cromwell looked innocent, so it must have been somebody else. Penalizing U.S.C. proved to be the leading outdoor sport of the salaried officials. A punt was then in order. U.S.C. held and got possession of the ball in mid-field. Huyck punted, Meyers fumbling the kick on his own 7-yard line, and Burkett piling on the ball. Malette scored on a forward pass from Huyck, refusing to surrender until he had planted the ball squarely behind the goal posts. Malette missed fire when he tried to kick goal.

Malette kicked off to Geyer under his own goal posts, and Jack sprinted back twenty-five yards. Throughout Geyer was one of the clubmen's best ground-gainers. L.A.A.C. drilled the ball back to mid-field, making most of their gains through left tackle, where Jameson, a 210 specimen of the genus homo, was tearing large and ragged apertures in the Trojan ranks. The plan of campaign was changed, and Jones intercepted a forward pass, hugging the ball to his stomach. U.S.C. ripped down the field and had the ball on the 10-yard line at the end of the quarter. They smashed through early in the second period, Huyck carrying it across and kicking goal.

U.S.C. scored its third touchdown on a forward pass, Huyck to Burkett, from the 20-yard line.

McCreary, alias Cohn, went in to relieve Meyers. U.S.C. was near another touchdown, when Fred Kelly got peeved and tried to kick Charley Murray because Murray had a strangle hold on his neck. The Trojans were penalized half the distance to the opposite goal, which was a long way off.

This was done because Murray is a deputy Sheriff, and Kelly, in trying to kick him, was resisting an officer o fthe law. Along about this time Jones was knocked out. He said that somebody either kicked him in the nose or hit him there. He wasn't sure which. Anyway, it didn't make much difference, as one system was as painful as the other. His nose was a total wreck, and he retired for repairs, Speer relieving him and in that way placing his own muzzle in jeopardy.

Jones, his nose rebuilt, got back in the line-up for the second half. Nothing happened in the third quarter to influence the ebb and flow of human events, except that Charley Johnson received a swat in the face that left his right eye looking like an over-ripe paw-paw. He retired to nurse his face and permit the eye to finish swelling.

Consistent gains by Kelly, Jones and Malette and some brilliant sprints by Huyck gave U.S.C. a brace of touchdowns in the final period.

PENDLETON LIKES HIS HANDICAP.

WINS MEDAL PLAY HANDICAP COMPETITION.

Niven Lives up to His Reputation Made at Monterey—Bert Campbell Lowers Philip Wiseman's Colors in Plaff Off—Sixty-two Entries at Annandale Club.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The proudest man at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday was one Cornelius Pendleton, who, aided and abetted by a 14-handicap, won the medal play competition for the Julius A. Brown cup with a net score of 71, in a field of more than 100 players. Cornelius Pendleton, Jr., should be induced to pay his respectful homage for at least a week on the strength of it.

In the sweepstakes J. C. Niven, recently returned from San Fran as the perpetrator of three consecutive 2's on the Ingleside links, lived up to his reputation by winnng the class A trophy with 80-4-76. This was not perhaps the dazzling score that might have been expected but sufficient unto the day was the total thereof. There is no necessity to be better than the best.

There was a tie for class B between Bert Campbell and Philip Wiseman with 91-18-73 and 97-24-73, respectively, Campbell winning the laurels in the playoff.

Fourth-round matches in the fall handicap were won by H. S. Brintnoll, who defeated H. A. aBrclay 4 up and 3; by Walter Leeds, who defeated F. W. McCartney by 6 up and 5; by Dr. Guy Cochrane, who defeated T. B. Crane 1 up in 19 holes; and by Dr. H. D. Requa, who defeated W. A. Barker 1 up.

Semifinal matches are between Brintnoll and Leeds, Cochrane and Requa.

At the Annandale Country Club there were sixty-two entries for the sweepstake, and the links were crowded all day with the returned players. Annandale is itself again. The sweepstake was won by Arthur Braly of honorable fame, 9 up on bogey with 4-handicap. There was a tie for second place between W. J. MacDonald and A. C. Volk with 7 up on 8-handicap.

GREAT FUTURE FOR HATCHERY, HE SAYS.

F. A. SHEBLEY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER OAK CREEK.

Reports from Buena Vista Lake and Other Duck Centers Agree Upon Ill Effect of Full Moon in Retarding the Sport — Local Shooting Conditions.

Frank A. Shebley of the Fish and Game Commission's hatchery department passed through the city Friday en route to Independence, where he will take charge of the salvaging operations after the big Southern California hatchery is completed.

Shebley has had a wonderful experience in fish cultural work in California, and considers the Oak Creek plant certain to prove one of the State's greatest assets, as his repeated examinations have convinced him that not only is every condition there favorable for fish rearing, but the supply of rainbow trout eggs in the Rae lakes, only five and one-half hours above by the new trail, is beyond even the vast plans for this establishment's future work in restocking the Southern California streams to something approaching their capacity.

One of the men drowned in Bear Lake last week was Willis F. Weismore, the man who built the Bear Valley dam, and probably knew more about it than any other, possibly excepting John S. Eastwood, who designed it. Weismore built most of the cabins in Bear Valley and had many more in prospect. He was a lifelong sportsman, an artisan of rare ability and most unusual taste. The Japanese villa of H. H. Garstin on Tamarack Island was one of the latest tributes to Weismore's constructive genius, the Japanese theme being as faithfully worked out as if planned and executed by an oriental. All who knew Weismore are at a loss to imagine how of all men such a rare combination of energy and resourcefulness should have met his untimely end in such manner.

Reports from Buena Vista Lake, one of the greatest duck and goose centers left in the world, tell the same story of slacking sport, as all the rest at times of full moon. Hunters with little time at their disposal will do wisely to leave the ducks and geese alone when the nights are light and deal rather with snipe and quail or doves, which are affected favorably, snipe waxing fat with the moon, which favors nocturnal feeding. The ducks become satisfied over night and retire to the big waters, full-fed and lazy, so the hunter is merely taking his chances on drawing enough wind to make them fly. Quiet weather means little sport.

This rule holds true on duck clubs or entirely wild shooting, as members long since have learned, but in dry seasons the clubs so monopolize fresh water that good enough shooting is to be had any time.

APPERSON ROADAPLANE

One of the most essential items confronting the motor car purchaser is the question of gasoline consumption.

Everyone asks "How many miles per gallon?"

This query is one we meet squarely and without any tremor whatever. And all because we have safeguarded ourselves.

The Apperson Roadaplane, though of good size and powerful, tips the scales at an even three thousand pounds.

This low weight insures the minimum amount of gasoline for the greatest number of miles.

And there are other reasons why the Apperson guarantee the maximum miles per gallon.

We have eliminated all the friction possible—we have been most zealous in doing this. Minimum of friction enables the car to move along without any effort—glide like—hence the word Roadaplane.

Six-cylinder seven-passenger touring car or four-passenger roadster, $1875. Eight-cylinder seven-passenger touring car or four-passenger roadster, $2150.

Dear Sir:- "Always Ready for Business!" That's why we like our Vim Delivery Car, and why people like our Standard Felt.

We got our Vim five months ago. It has been in constant use every day. It takes the place of a team, doing quicker work in half the time, at less cost. We average eighteen miles to the gallon of gasoline, even with the heavy loads and steep grades we pull.

Have never had it in the shop and the original tires are still in fine shape. Our felt goods are so popular the business is growing rapidly and when we need another truck it certainly will be a "VIM".

Yours for bigger business,

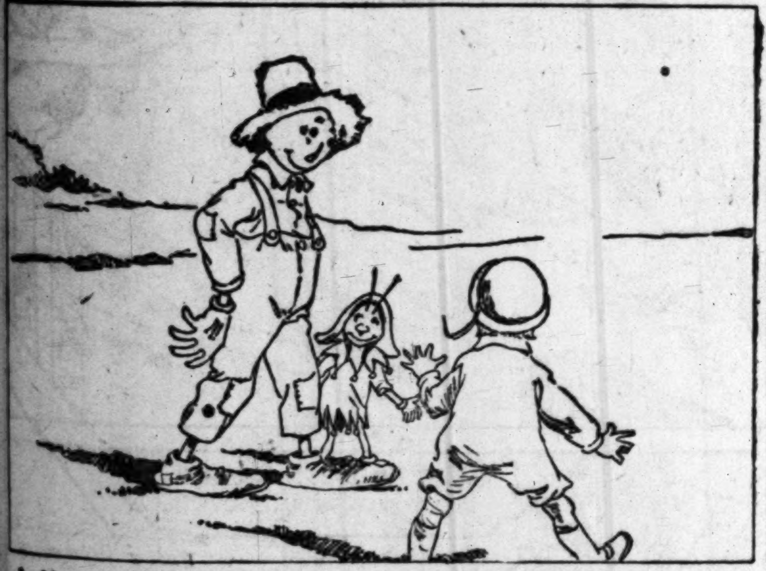
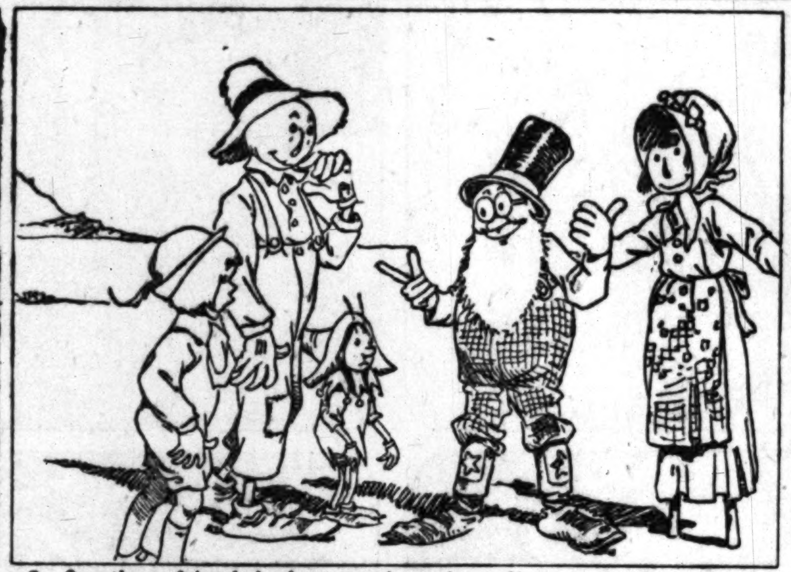
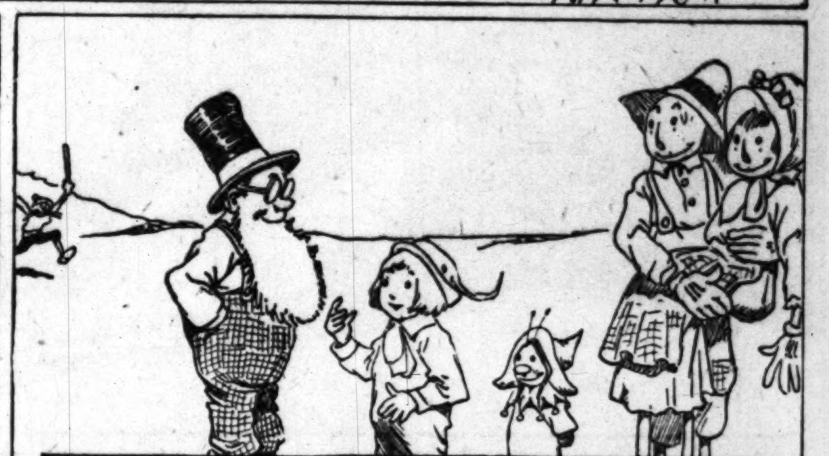
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



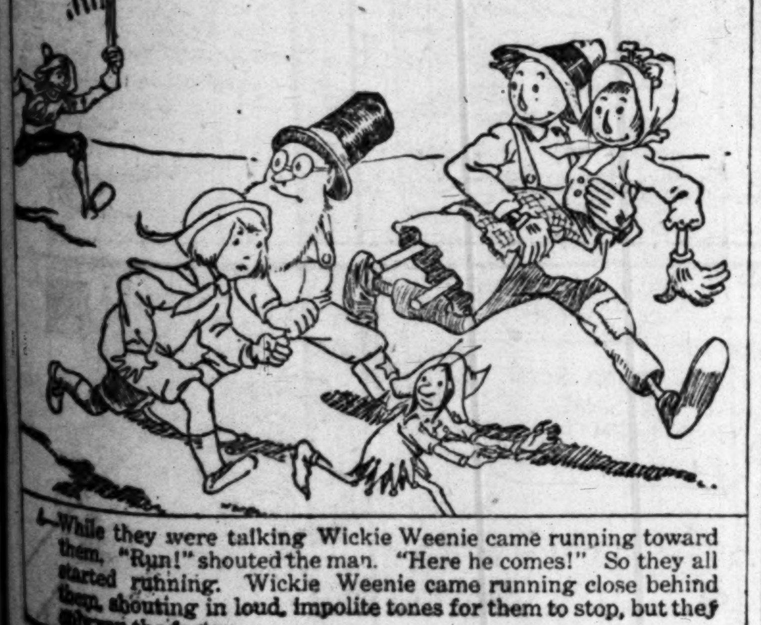
1—Mr. Twee Deedle, Dickie and the scarecrow started to walk across the country. "Wonder what sort of adventure we will meet with to-day!" said the scarecrow. "I hope we find something very exciting!"



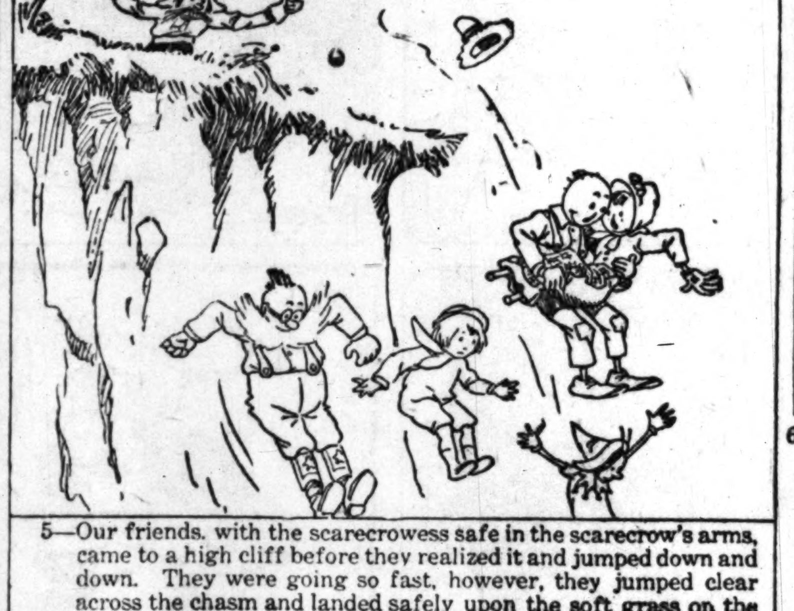
2—Our three friends had gone only a short distance farther when they came upon a man carrying a scarecrowess. When he saw the three approaching he stuck the scarecrowess' legs down in the ground and waited for the boys to come close. "Will you rescue this scarecrowess?" he asked.



3—"I made her," he continued, "and she stood out in my field, but a man named Wickie Weenie tried to steal her for kindling wood and I carried her away to hide her. If you will take her out of the country so Wickie will not get her I will give her to you!" The scarecrow picked up the scarecrowess and said that he would carry her.

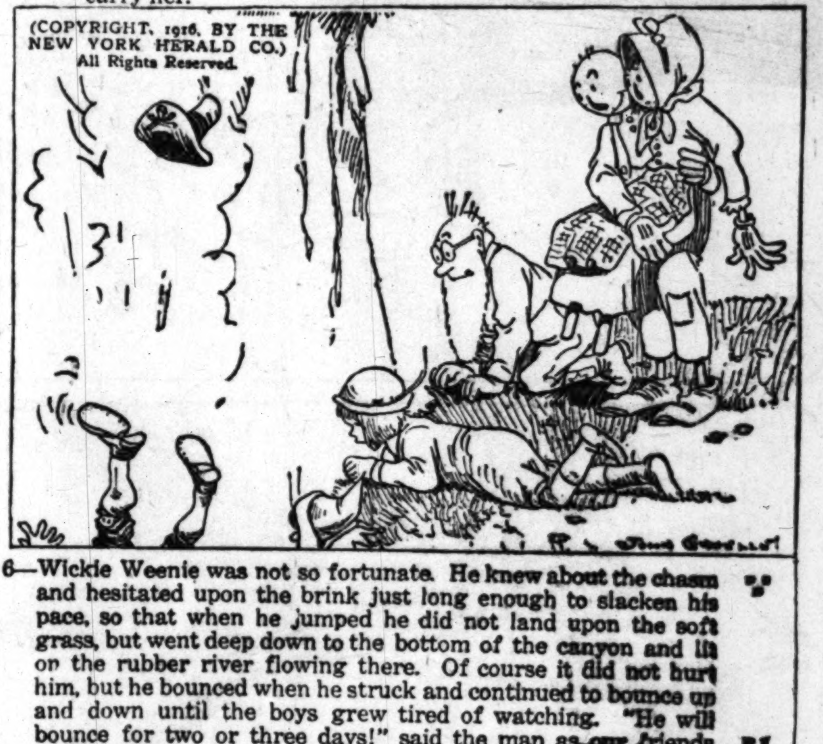


4—While they were talking Wickie Weenie came running toward them. "Run!" shouted the man. "Here he comes!" So they all started running. Wickie Weenie came running close behind them, shouting in loud, impolite tones for them to stop, but they only ran the faster.



5—Our friends, with the scarecrowess safe in the scarecrow's arms, came to a high cliff before they realized it and jumped down and down. They were going so fast, however, they jumped clear across the chasm and landed safely upon the soft grass on the other side.

(COPYRIGHT, 1916, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO.) All Rights Reserved.



6—Wickie Weenie was not so fortunate. He knew about the chasm and hesitated upon the brink just long enough to slacken his pace, so that when he jumped he did not land upon the soft grass, but went deep down to the bottom of the canyon and lit on the rubber river flowing there. Of course it did not hurt him, but he bounced when he struck and continued to bounce up and down until the boys grew tired of watching. "He will bounce for two or three days!" said the man as our friends walked away. "And it serves him right!"

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

THE OPPONENTS OF SPANKING.

I HAVE chosen the following rather remarkable letter to begin the quotations from the epistles I have received against spanking for children. As I said last week, the advocates of this form of punishment have been much in the majority among those who have written to me on the topic—greatly to my astonishment. It is a rather significant fact to me that so few mothers and educators are opposed to the use of the rod or the slipper:

"I am a little girl, 13 years old, and a devoted reader of the Corner. I was much interested in your talk about spankings, and would like to send in my opinion of the same.

"I think that little children, from 2 to 4 or 5, should receive mild spankings for their little naughtinesses, for they cannot understand reason, and the knowledge that certain things that they are told not to do will bring a spanking upon them is the only way to teach them obedience. But after they can remember the pain and humiliation brought by spankings, except in a few rare cases, other punishments which are better suited to the development and growing dignity of the child can be found. For instance, the mother of the dear, naughty little 12 years old friend of C. E. A. could invent plenty of convincing punishments which would make her guard her free little tongue. She believes herself immune to spankings, as, indeed, she should be; but there are so many other ways of instilling fear into the heart of a child that spankings can well afford to be discarded after babyhood.

"I will give an instance which may help to show that the old idea of arbitrary obedience without knowing the reason why or for is not only mean but cruel. My pussy was about to have kittens and was mewing pitifully. I innocently asked what was the matter, for it distressed me to see my kitty in pain. My mother told me to say nothing more about it, but I protested and wanted to know if anything couldn't be done for her. Without another word she turned me over her knee and gave me one of the hardest spankings I have ever suffered. She had the old fashioned idea that children should know nothing about the processes of life.

"I cried not a sound, but picked up poor pussy and went off to nurse my woes. When I discovered proud kitty and a nest of kittens in the wood shed next day I told no one a word about it, for I did not know how such a confidence might be taken. Instead, I enjoyed them in secret, taking food to them and soliciting homes for the kittens, for I knew my mother would never let me keep them all. She never saw so much as a hair of one of those kittens.

"And lastly, let me say that I think the boarding school of which C. E. A. speaks was disgraceful, where 14 year old little women were given the punishment which rightfully belongs to unreasoning babies. Don't you agree with me?

F. B. W."

As I said in the preamble to this letter, it strikes me as most unusual for a girl of 13. I am inclined to think that the mother in the case had mistaken her vocation or gravely misunderstood it. And I can truly say that I agree with F. B. W. in her views with regard to the boarding school described by C. E. A. Even those in favor of spanking have not been able to approve of the methods practiced there.

The next letter is uncompromising in opposition to corporal punishment.

"I read the long letter about spanking, and just quivered with disgust. I have reared a large family without a blow being struck. My children were not always obedient or well behaved. They were often naughty, as every normal child is. However, they were as well behaved as the children of our acquaintance who were reared on spankings, and this held me firm in my resolve never to resort to anything so low and second class as spanking. It is with great joy that I see this practice dying out among our best people. What mother would like a photograph snapped of herself while spanking a child? I desired my children to remember me for far different and better things than this, and I think they do.

Mrs. B."

While I am by no means an advocate of indiscriminate or injudicious spanking, I cannot agree fully with Mrs. B. I do not think it is necessary for a normal child to be disobedient—in fact, I have known a number of uncommonly normal children who understood that they must obey constituted authority and were none the less happy or healthy or natural on that account. Also, I do not consider the practice of administering deserved punishment by the use of a switch or the hand "low and second class." Some of "our best people" still follow it, and in many cases their children show the happy results thereof in their conduct.

The writer of the following letter is not a mother, but she has had large experience among children as a nurse in hospitals and families:

"The article on spanking is concise, reasonable, and to the point, but it seems to me that the most important factor is not consulted at all—that is, the child. There is just as much difference between some folks as others, and I find that while one child will take a punishment many are only rendered more obstinate, more irritable, and even more disobedient by being punished.

"Of course where the child has had its own way from the first and come to school age without training there is a hard case, especially if the child has a stubborn nature to begin with. Yet if animals can be trained without punishment, why cannot children? Mothers should study themselves and their husbands and then their children and see what traits are reproduced in the little ones and find out how to correct them.

"In the case of small children, if they are busy they are happy and generally too much engrossed to be in mischief, but the older ones are those who usually get the spanking. Usually the more stubborn the nature of the child the brighter its prospects will be for success in life, and such a child should have the appeal made through the mental rather than the physical. It is for the mother to find out where and how this appeal should be made.

"E. P."

This is only a brief extract from a long letter. As a rule, the advice given is excellent, but it amused me a little to find that the writer, while an opponent of spanking, seriously advises burning a child's finger on the hot stove in order to teach him what fire means and the danger of playing with it. She goes on to say:

"If every mother could realize that it might be the means of saving her little one's life she would burn it at once, just a trifle—it must be only a slight touch and not enough to blister. An ounce of prevention in such a case is worth a thousand pounds of cure."

True, and I have known instances in which such a measure seemed the only way to instill a dread of fire, but it can hardly be called more humanitarian than spanking as a penalty for running into other sorts of dangers that are no less of a menace.

Another writer has this to say:

"It is hard to believe that the writer of that letter on spanking can be in earnest. How can she advocate a system which proved such a failure in her own case? It seems that although she was spanked soundly and regularly every time she was naughty, she was not cured of her naughtiness until she was 12 years old, and that could hardly have been a radical cure. It is not likely that the disposition to be impertinent and saucy was rooted out at once.

"Then the story of the boarding school is worse yet. If it was necessary to assemble a class of about a dozen girls from 7 to 17 years of age every week to receive their chastisement in the presence of each other, that proves the inefficacy of the system, according to my way of thinking. Can any one pretend to think that such a school was well governed?

"Naughtiness is a disease common among children. It may be caused by bad feeling, lack of sleep, lack of work or play, or any number of local causes. Probably the greatest cause of all is not being born right. The remedy should be to remove the cause, if possible, and resort to harsh measures only when all others fail.

B."

I wish I could print more of this long and interesting letter, especially the story of the mother of eight children who rules them all with love and tenderness and has a well behaved and obedient family. I grant that this is entirely possible, but it requires a most exceptional woman for a mother and such women are all too few. The writer tells us that the mother is in good health and that she understands how to preserve this and the health of her children; that "she governs herself and finds no trouble in governing her children." There she puts her finger on the key to the whole situation!

I lament also that I must content myself with only a brief extract from the letter of that wise and warm hearted correspondent whom we have learned to know and value under the name of "Aunt Maud." And yet her letter hardly belongs here, for she acknowledges that she keeps a switch and puts it to use when she thinks it is required. Still she is not in favor of general whipping for children.

"Should we whip our children? Small children should be punished lightly, that they may understand what obedience means. Some children [illegible] readily, while others are stubborn. [illegible] fault with disobedient children [illegible] with the parents than with the [illegible]. Spanking and whipping have [illegible] to do with it. If one begins [illegible] the children are small there is [illegible] ever any necessity for spanking [illegible] they are 6 years old. Most mothers [illegible] unnecessarily and without good [illegible] and mostly when angered. I have [illegible] plenty of mothers that I would rather whip than their children. It [illegible] great self-control and insight into the character and disposition of each [illegible].

"For what cause should a mother whip her child? I say [illegible], I don't approve of fathers whipping children at all! One should not [illegible] for trifling causes. A few of the reasons for such punishment that I always insist upon are falsehood and outright disobedience. Yes, I believe in whipping if it is necessary, but [illegible] right and it won't be required.

"Aunt Maud."

Isn't that a sensible summing up of the whole matter?

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

When an address or other information is asked for by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Do not send parcels to the office.

Deaf and an Invalid.

"I NOTICE in the Helping Hand a letter from J. S. A. stating that he would aid some deaf person by giving a conversation tube. I know a woman who has often expressed her desire for one of these, but she is not able to buy one. If you will send the tube to me I shall deliver it to the one who needs it, and if it is not satisfactory I shall return it. In another letter in the same issue some one offers to give silk pieces for fancy work. They would be much appreciated by the same person, who is deaf and an invalid. Her signature is M. E. C."

I am sorry to say that the conversation tube offered had been given away before this letter—which failed to inclose a stamp for reply, by the way—was received. I print the request in the hope it may receive response from some one who can grant the deaf one's desire. The silk pieces will also be offered, I trust. In any case, I wish I could impress it upon the Cornerites that when writing and asking for an address they should inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Family Wants Reading Matter.

"I would appreciate it much if some kind Cornerite would send me some magazines, as we have a large family and are not able to buy reading matter. I shall be glad to pay the postage on them. I have a number of small sisters who would be glad to receive anything in the line of silk scraps or small pieces of lace to make into tidies. Is there anything I could give or do in exchange or return for such kindness? O. M."

I am sure there must be some one who has magazines and pieces to bestow.

Out of Pieces.

"I am an invalid and have been in bed the best part of two years. I read a great deal and do all sorts of fancy work. I have been making a crazy quilt, but am out of pieces. I should like to know if there is any way to get sample pieces or samples of ribbon from manufacturers, for it will take a good many pieces of silk, satin, and velvet to finish the quilt. If you know of any friends who have pieces to give away I shall gladly pay postage. I should also like to know the addresses of any manufacturers of silk embroidery thread, so that I could write to them about obtaining some of their waste thread. I have some religious books, and if any one would like them I shall gladly send the books on receipt of the address.

"Mrs. L. J. H."

I do not know if there are any manufacturers who give away samples, although I have a hazy idea that some one once wrote to us that pieces could be procured in this manner. Is there any one of our readers who can give information on the matter? If not, I am sure that some pieces can be be sent to this invalid, and I shall be happy to give her address to those who wish either to give the pieces or the information she desires or to accept the books she offers.

Enjoys Fancy Work.

"I have enjoyed seeing the good the Helping Hand is doing for a long time, although this is my first time of writing to it, as I do not know just what return I can make for anything that I ask. I am not able to do much, either financially or physically, even for the comfort of my own household. I am almost a shut-in, for I have not much use of one of my legs, and can walk little and suffer a good deal. I am only 30, yet I feel much older. I can go out scarcely at all, but my husband takes me for a drive in the evening, to deliver milk, and I enjoy that greatly. I have little time for anything except housework, but I love fancy work, both embroidery and crochet, although I cannot afford to buy many materials. I see that L. L. offers some help and cheer I would be grateful for in the way of songs and music if they are not too difficult. I am not an accomplished musician, but I would like these and also some simple little pieces for my little daughter, who has taken only a few lessons. We cannot afford to give her more at present on account of bad luck. I also would like to hear from some one who could advise me how to teach my daughter to be a willing and cheerful helper, as I need help badly. I have three round crochet yokes for nightgowns, also a snapdragon lace I would gladly copy off and send to some one who would send me some patterns in exchange or could send me a little something I could embroider and use to brighten my home, such as a cheap dresser scarf, stand cover, or pillow top. I would also be glad to write letters to lonely ones, only I am afraid my letters would not be very cheering. Could I pay postage on the music at this end or should I send the postage to the one giving the music? I do hope she has not already disposed of all of it.

"E. L. M."

I am not sure but what L. L. already has given away the music she offered, and if this is the case, I trust some one else will be able to send some pieces to this shut-in, both for herself and for the little daughter. I hope also that she may be able to arrange for the exchange of embroidery patterns or anything else which will serve to brighten her life. Perhaps if she has the opportunity to correspond with others she may find how many there are who are so much worse off than herself that her letters may be made cheerful by the contrast. As to the methods by which the little girl may be rendered a more willing helper, I am afraid these must be followed by the mother herself. If the child has been trained in the habits of obedience to authority and of consideration for others it strikes me that it should be natural for her to be keen to help the invalid mother and to make herself useful in any way possible. Of course children are thoughtless and love pleasure, but even with the most heedless tenderness to others may be cultivated. Can some of the mothers of other small children give counsel to this mother? I shall be happy to send her address.

Roaches in the House.

"Please let me know how I can get rid of roaches. My house is infested with brown and sometimes white roaches of medium size. Sometimes I think they come from the oak wood and again I think they may come from the damp cellar. C. R."

Scatter borax about freely in their runways and in every place where they are likely to travel. If you will paste strips of sticky flypaper under the edges of the table they cannot cross these to come up on top. Be most careful to keep all food out of the way and do not leave uncovered garbage pails or dishes of food about, or allow crumbs to gather on the table or floor. It will take a good while to get rid of them and constant vigilance. Sometimes a good roach food or salt can be procured from a drug store or grocery which will drive the pests away. I have never heard of their coming from the oak wood, but it is quite possible that they may breed in the damp cellar. Is it necessary for it to be damp? This is a menace to family health as well as a disagreeable adjunct to the home.

Asks Clothes for Baby.

"Has any one in the Corner a few infants' clothes to give away? I expect to become a mother in the near future and am not financially able to prepare for the coming of the little one. If any one has such articles to give me, they will certainly be appreciated, for my health is bad and I am unable to do sewing to amount to anything.

"Mrs. E. B."

This is the kind of appeal which seldom fails to meet with a ready and generous response. It is easy to perceive from her words how gratefully she will receive any contributions which may be made toward the wardrobe of her "little expected." Nearly every mother of young children has a few small articles she could spare, and I shall look for applications for this address.

Copies of Poems.

"I am going to ask you if you won't help me to secure two pieces of poetry I desire greatly. I recite at private and public receptions and on this account the pieces would be especially welcome. I wish to recite one of them at our next entertainment. Long years ago when I was small and mother was living I used to hear her recite "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" and she composed or invented a beautiful tune to it. I recall the air well, but the words I have almost forgotten. Will you please help me to get them and also the verses of 'When the Little One Calls for Me, Teach It I Am Dead'? I shall be deeply indebted to any one who can help me with this and in return I will send the words of 'The Face on the Barroom Floor' and 'The Tramp.' R. E. D."

The verses "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" are so generally known that I am sure this correspondent will have no difficulty in securing a copy of them. The second selection to which she refers I do not know, but it may be familiar to some of our readers.

* *

Once Popular Song.

"I should like to have the words of the song 'The Dying Nun.' It was a popular song when my mother was a girl, and I remember a few lines and part of the air. C. R. F."

Can some of our Cornerites comply with this request? No doubt the song is known to some of them.

Asks Music for Daughter.

"Will you please let me have the address of Mrs. W. D. B., who so kindly offers music to some one? My daughter is struggling hard to keep up her practicing, but on account of sickness I cannot afford to buy her any music at present. I have made a lovely friend through the Corner. I sent her a few little articles and she has repaid me a thousandfold by her sweet words of appreciation and also by doing some lovely work for me. I have some post card views which I will send to any one desiring them. D. D. S."

Although Mrs. W. D. B. has given away the music to another Cornerite, I hope there may be some one else who can meet the wish of this correspondent. I am glad she has made a good friend through the Corner and I am sure she in turn has proved herself friendly.

Formula to Banish Bedbugs.

"I see in the Corner where some of the readers are exchanging ideas and work. I haven't any good ideas, but I want to say to those who are bothered with bedbugs that the best plan I know is to take a quart of turpentine and 15 cents' worth of corrosive sublimate, mix well, and apply two or three times a week, if the bugs are bad, or, if not, once a week. In two or three applications you are free from them. I will do tatting for any one sending patterns they desire made in exchange for goods suitable for small boys' clothes.

"L. H."

Thanks for the remedy. I am sorry I cannot print the request you make for exchange, but so many complications have arisen in connection with the exchange of such articles as you offer and ask that we have had to call a halt in the undertaking. I regret this much.

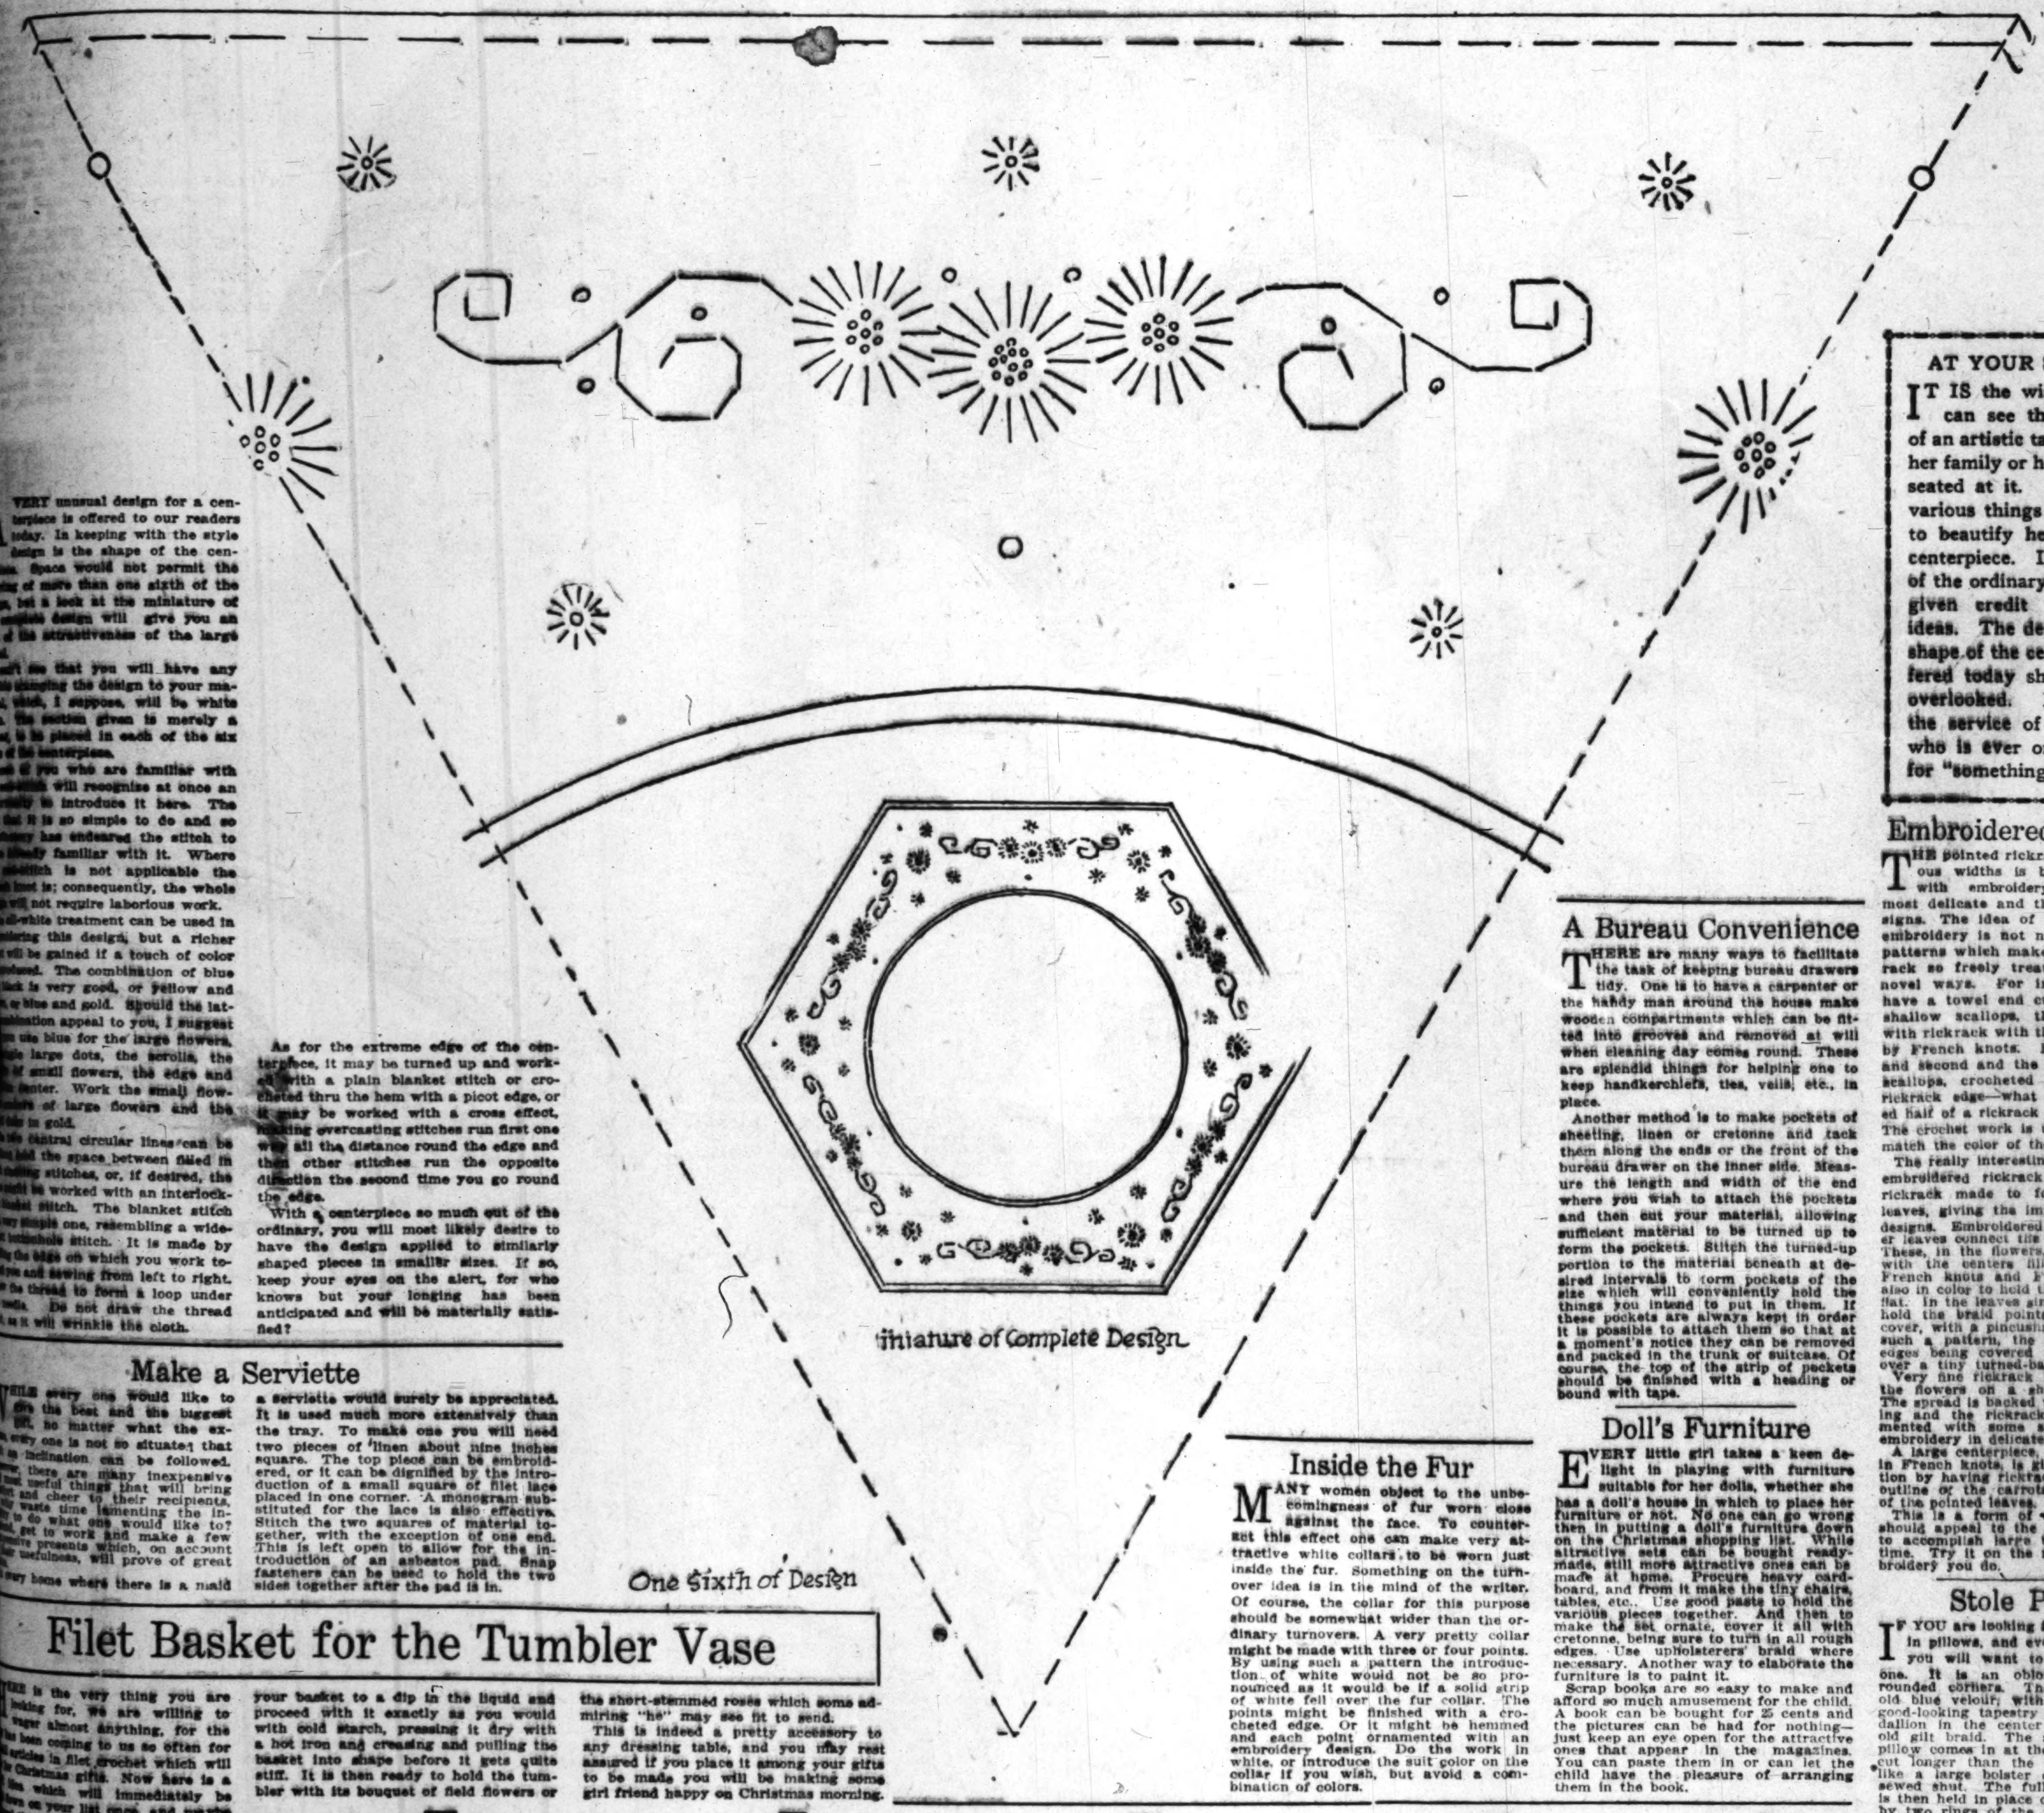
FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

BY ADELAIDE BYRD

REPEAT for a HEXAGONAL CENTERPIECE

DESIGNED BY E. J. BUCKMAN



Miniature of Complete Design

One Sixth of Design

A VERY unusual design for a centerpiece is offered to our readers today. In keeping with the style design is the shape of the centerpiece. Space would not permit the [illegible] of more than one sixth of the design, but a look at the miniature of the complete design will give you an idea of the attractiveness of the large [illegible].

I can't see that you will have any trouble changing the design to your material, which, I suppose, will be white linen. The section given is merely a [illegible], to be placed in each of the six [illegible] of the centerpiece.

Those of you who are familiar with [illegible] will recognize at once an opportunity to introduce it here. The fact that it is so simple to do and so [illegible] has endeared the stitch to [illegible] already familiar with it. Where [illegible]-stitch is not applicable the [illegible] is; consequently, the whole [illegible] will not require laborious work.

The all-white treatment can be used in [illegible] this design, but a richer [illegible] will be gained if a touch of color [illegible]. The combination of blue [and] black is very good, or yellow and [illegible], or blue and gold. Should the latter combination appeal to you, I suggest you use blue for the large flowers, [illegible] large dots, the scrolls, the [illegible] of small flowers, the edge and [the] center. Work the small flowers, [illegible] of large flowers and the [illegible] in gold.

[illegible] the central circular lines can be [illegible] and the space between filled in [illegible] stitches, or, if desired, the [illegible] be worked with an interlocking blanket stitch. The blanket stitch [is a] very simple one, resembling a wide [illegible] buttonhole stitch. It is made by [illegible] the edge on which you work toward you and sewing from left to right. [illegible] the thread to form a loop under [the] needle. Do not draw the thread [illegible], as it will wrinkle the cloth.

As for the extreme edge of the centerpiece, it may be turned up and worked with a plain blanket stitch or crocheted thru the hem with a picot edge, or it may be worked with a cross effect, making overcasting stitches run first one way all the distance round the edge and then other stitches run the opposite direction the second time you go round the edge.

With a centerpiece so much out of the ordinary, you will most likely desire to have the design applied to similarly shaped pieces in smaller sizes. If so, keep your eyes on the alert, for who knows but your longing has been anticipated and will be materially satisfied?

Make a Serviette

WHILE every one would like to give the best and the biggest gift, no matter what the expense, every one is not so situated that [the] inclination can be followed. [illegible], there are many inexpensive [and] most useful things that will bring [illegible] and cheer to their recipients. [Why] waste time lamenting the inability to do what one would like to? [illegible], get to work and make a few inexpensive presents which, on account [of] their usefulness, will prove of great [illegible].

[In] every home where there is a maid a serviette would surely be appreciated. It is used much more extensively than the tray. To make one you will need two pieces of linen about nine inches square. The top piece can be embroidered, or it can be dignified by the introduction of a small square of filet lace placed in one corner. A monogram substituted for the lace is also effective. Stitch the two squares of material together, with the exception of one end. This is left open to allow for the introduction of an asbestos pad. Snap fasteners can be used to hold the two sides together after the pad is in.

Filet Basket for the Tumbler Vase

HERE is the very thing you are looking for, we are willing to wager almost anything, for the [illegible] has been coming to us so often for articles in filet crochet which will [do] for Christmas gifts. Now here is a [illegible] idea which will immediately be [set] down on your list once, and maybe [several] times, for it is a matter of very [little] time to the experienced crocheter, [and] almost all women are that nowadays.

[illegible] you have seen this basket idea [in] filet crochet developed in a round [form] to exactly fit a round tumbler [illegible], and maybe you have wrestled [illegible] successfully with such a [illegible]. The advantage of this design [you] will then appreciate, for it is worked in a square, and when made up and [illegible] finished will hold a stock size [illegible] tumbler as well as the round basket.

[There] are three parts to the design, [the] basket proper crocheted across its [illegible] from bottom to top, the [plain] mesh square for the bottom, [and] a handle of open and solid [illegible].

[illegible] the basket proper be sure [you] understand how to increase [illegible] the little points, which, [when] the basket is finished, turn over [illegible] standing border. To increase [at] the end of a row where a [illegible] occurs, you must add five [chains], turn the crochet, allow [three of] these chains for an upright or [illegible] and fill the other three with doubles, continuing on with your pattern as [usual]. To decrease when you come to [the end] of a row, which apparently has [illegible] one mesh for the next row, [draw] your needle out of the last [illegible], insert the needle thru the tops of [the] four doubles and pull the loop [illegible] in a sort of slip stitch; [begin] your new row from this [illegible].

[illegible] the points, the basket [illegible] no trouble. Join the basket [illegible] to the four sides of [illegible] bottom, and join the two [illegible] in the same way. The [illegible] between the first and [illegible] the third and fourth points.

[illegible] such a basket is absolutely [illegible] it is stiff, and you will [find] the most successful way to [illegible] a little bit of powdered [illegible] in twice as much water [illegible] powder. The water should [illegible] a clove to this mixture [illegible] souring. When the [illegible] is entirely dissolved treat your basket to a dip in the liquid and proceed with it exactly as you would with cold starch, pressing it dry with a hot iron and creasing and pulling the basket into shape before it gets quite stiff. It is then ready to hold the tumbler with its bouquet of field flowers or the short-stemmed roses which some admiring "he" may see fit to send.

This is indeed a pretty accessory to any dressing table, and you may rest assured if you place it among your gifts to be made you will be making some girl friend happy on Christmas morning.

Inside the Fur

MANY women object to the unbecomingness of fur worn close against the face. To counteract this effect one can make very attractive white collars to be worn just inside the fur. Something on the turnover idea is in the mind of the writer. Of course, the collar for this purpose should be somewhat wider than the ordinary turnovers. A very pretty collar might be made with three or four points. By using such a pattern the introduction of white would not be so pronounced as it would be if a solid strip of white fell over the fur collar. The points might be finished with a crocheted edge. Or it might be hemmed and each point ornamented with an embroidery design. Do the work in white, or introduce the suit color on the collar if you wish, but avoid a combination of colors.

A Bureau Convenience

THERE are many ways to facilitate the task of keeping bureau drawers tidy. One is to have a carpenter or the handy man around the house make wooden compartments which can be fitted into grooves and removed at will when cleaning day comes round. These are splendid things for helping one to keep handkerchiefs, ties, veils, etc., in place.

Another method is to make pockets of sheeting, linen or cretonne and tack them along the ends or the front of the bureau drawer on the inner side. Measure the length and width of the end where you wish to attach the pockets and then cut your material, allowing sufficient material to be turned up to form the pockets. Stitch the turned-up portion to the material beneath at desired intervals to form pockets of the size which will conveniently hold the things you intend to put in them. If these pockets are always kept in order it is possible to attach them so that at a moment's notice they can be removed and packed in the trunk or suitcase. Of course, the top of the strip of pockets should be finished with a heading or bound with tape.

Doll's Furniture

EVERY little girl takes a keen delight in playing with furniture suitable for her dolls, whether she has a doll's house in which to place her furniture or not. No one can go wrong then in putting a doll's furniture down on the Christmas shopping list. While attractive sets can be bought ready-made, still more attractive ones can be made at home. Procure heavy cardboard, and from it make the tiny chairs, tables, etc.. Use good paste to hold the various pieces together. And then to make the set ornate, cover it all with cretonne, being sure to turn in all rough edges. Use upholsterers' braid where necessary. Another way to elaborate the furniture is to paint it.

Scrap books are so easy to make and afford so much amusement for the child. A book can be bought for 25 cents and the pictures can be had for nothing—just keep an eye open for the attractive ones that appear in the magazines. You can paste them in or can let the child have the pleasure of arranging them in the book.

AT YOUR SERVICE

IT IS the wise wife who can see the advantage of an artistic table, whether her family or her guests are seated at it. Among the various things she can use to beautify her table is a centerpiece. If this is out of the ordinary, she will be given credit for original ideas. The design and the shape of the centerpiece offered today should not be overlooked. Both are at the service of the woman who is ever on the watch for "something different."

Embroidered Rickrack

THE pointed rickrack braid in various widths is being worked up with embroidery to form the most delicate and the boldest of designs. The idea of using braid with embroidery is not new, but the new patterns which make use of the rickrack so freely treat it in the most novel ways. For instance, you can have a towel end cut in three large shallow scallops, the edge finished with rickrack with the points held flat by French knots. Between the first and second and the second and third scallops, crocheted scallops with a rickrack edge—what might be termed half of a rickrack motif—are placed. The crochet work is usually in color to match the color of the French knots.

The really interesting part of the new embroidered rickrack is that showing rickrack made to form flowers and leaves, giving the impression of raised designs. Embroidered stems and smaller leaves connect the rickrack portions. These, in the flowers, look like asters, with the centers filled with colored French knots and French knots used also in color to hold the rickrack points flat. In the leaves single green stitches hold the braid points flat. A bureau cover, with a pincushion to match, uses such a pattern, the shallow scalloped edges being covered with the rickrack over a tiny turned-back hem.

Very fine rickrack is used to outline the flowers on a sheer baby spread. The spread is backed with a colored lining and the rickrack flowers supplemented with some sprays of shadow embroidery in delicate colors.

A large centerpiece, with wild carrots in French knots, is given added attraction by having rickrack braid form the outline of the carrots and form some of the pointed leaves.

This is a form of embroidery which should appeal to the woman who likes to accomplish large things in a short time. Try it on the next piece of embroidery you do.

Stole Pillow

IF YOU are looking for something new in pillows, and even if you are not, you will want to hear about this one. It is an oblong cushion with rounded corners. The covering is an old blue velour, with a piece of very good-looking tapestry put on as a medallion in the center and bound with old gilt braid. The stole part of the pillow comes in at the ends, which are cut longer than the pillow, something like a large bolster case, pointed and sewed shut. The fullness of the ends is then held in place close to the pillow by two rings of the material made of inch-wide bands slightly stiffened and caught with a few stitches to keep them from falling off. Tassels of old gilt to match the braid dangle from the pointed ends.

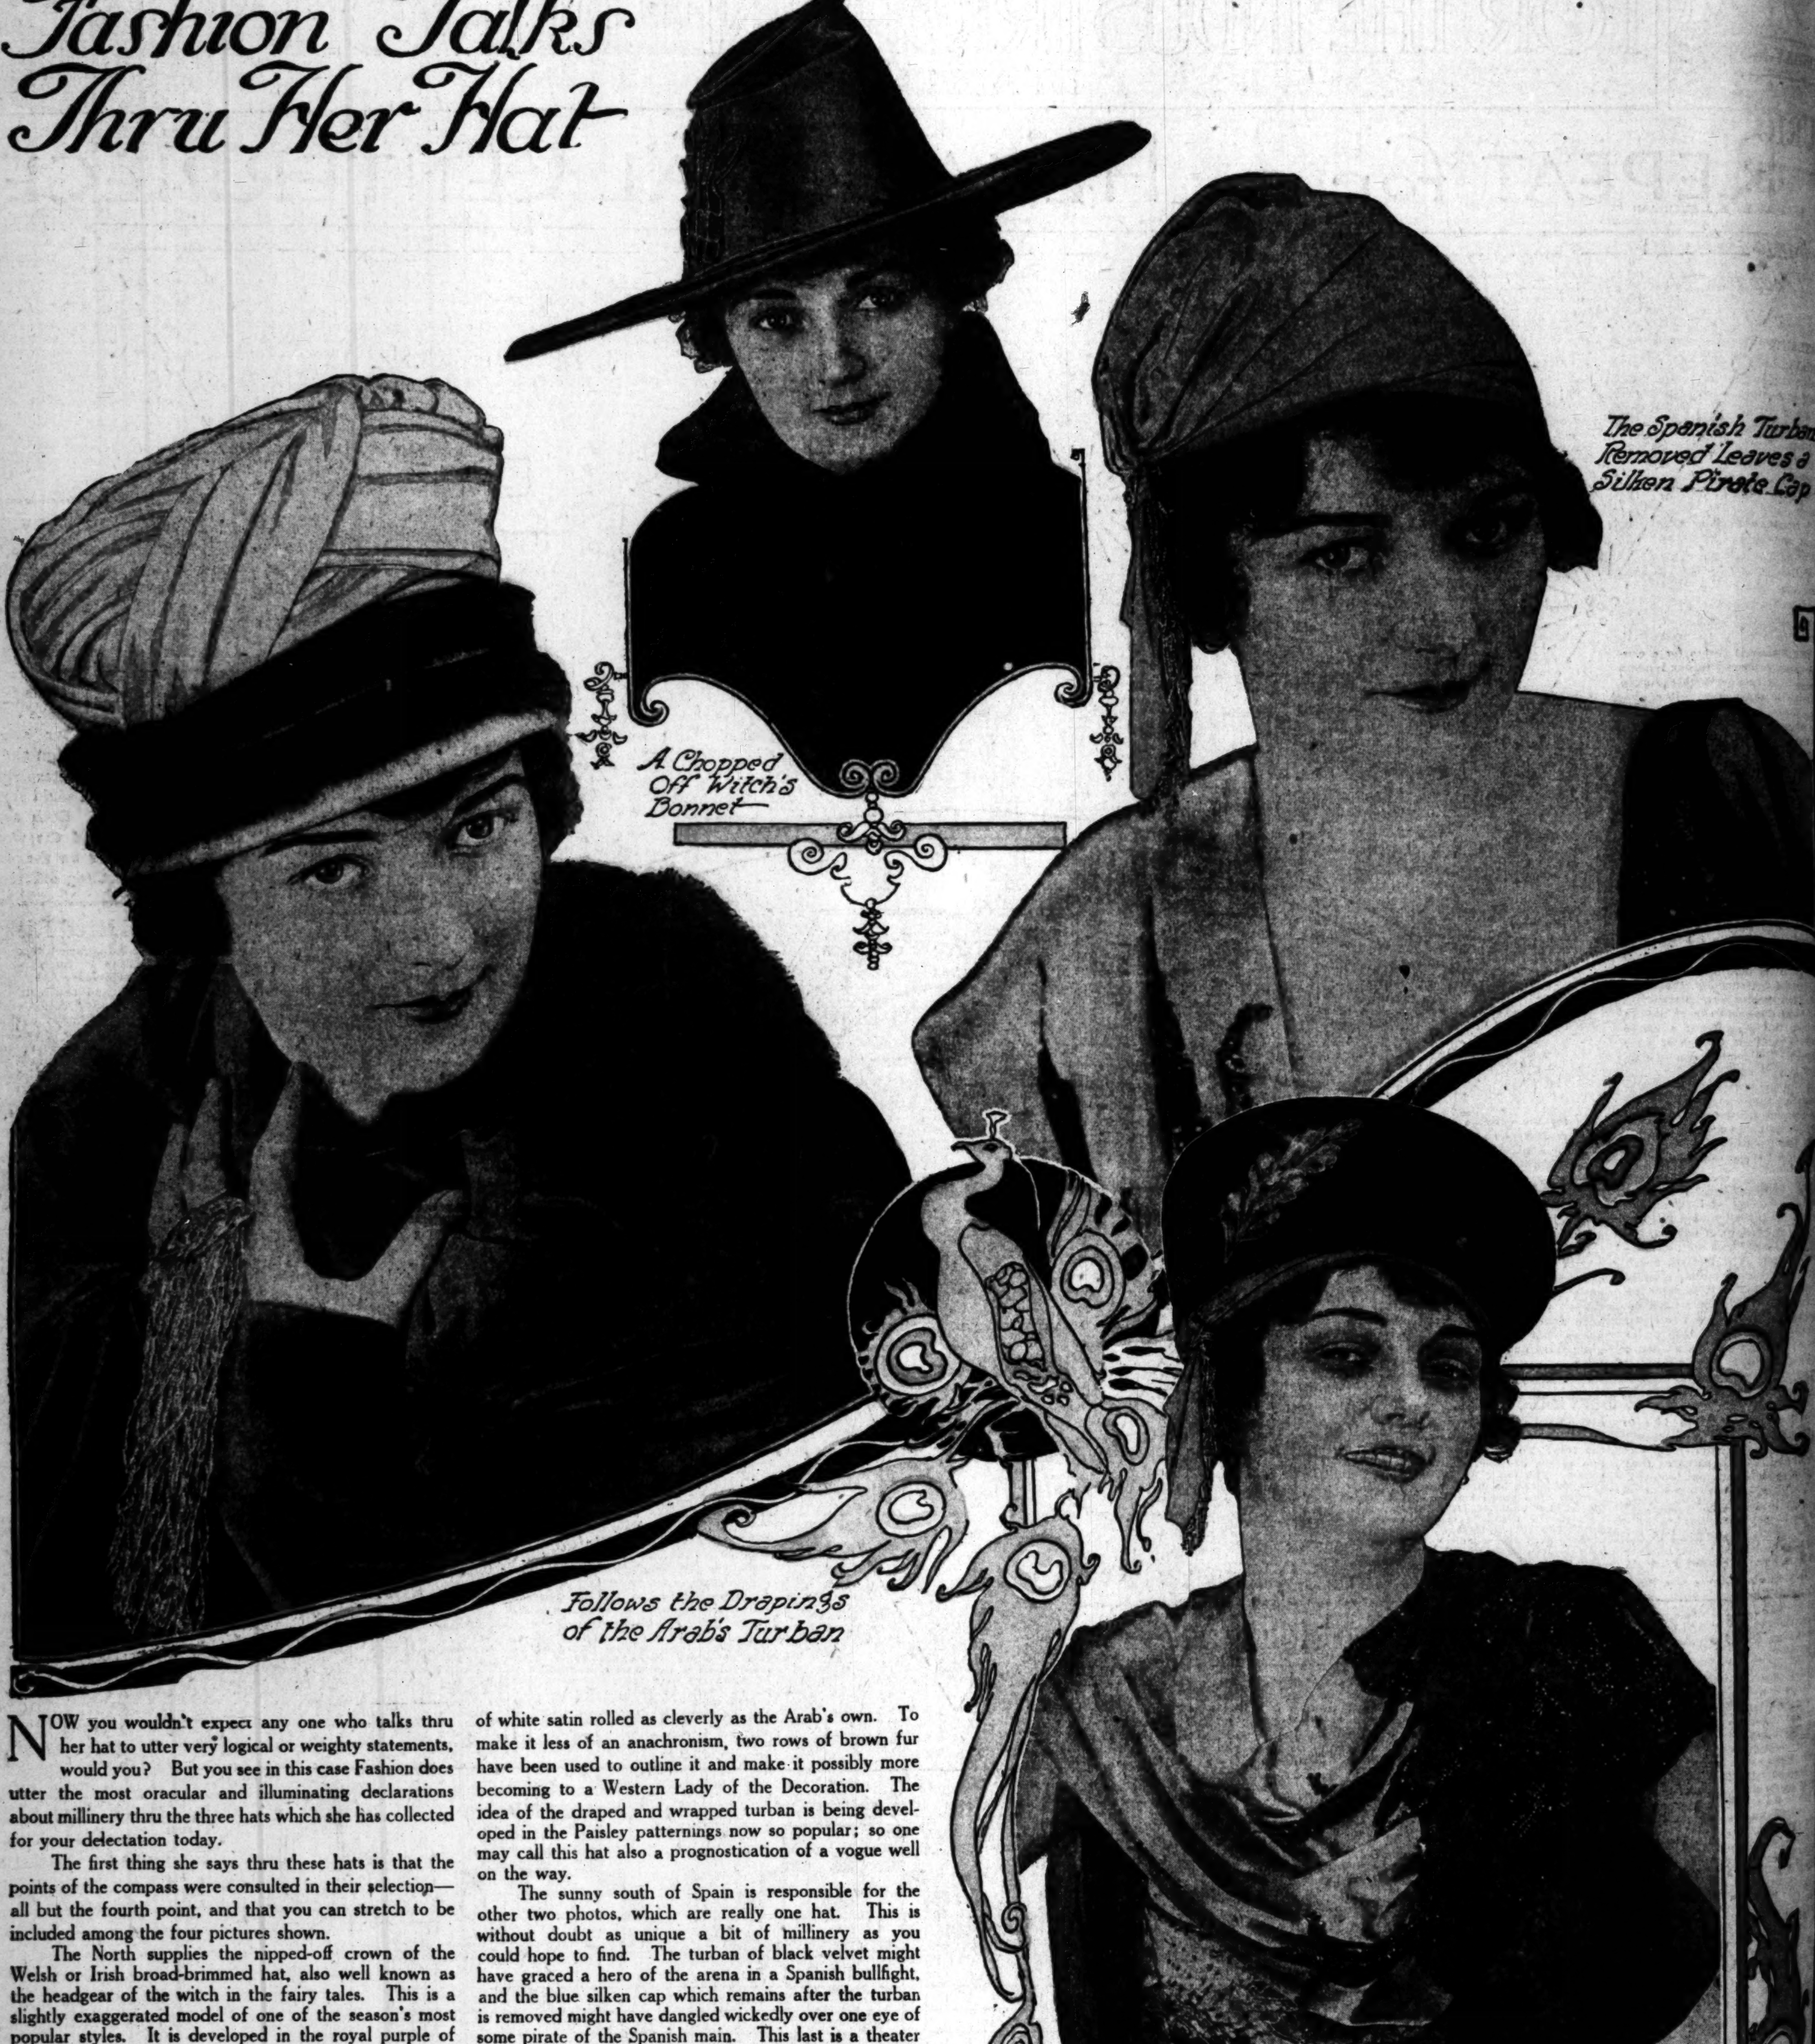
How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the design before you to any material.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen thru the goods. If one-half of the design only is given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric.

If you have carbon paper you should place the sheet between the fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked.

Fashion Talks Thru Her Hat



A Chopped Off Witch's Bonnet

The Spanish Turban Removed Leaves a Silken Pirate Cap

Follows the Drapings of the Arab's Turban

Spanish as the Matador's Own

NOW you wouldn't expect any one who talks thru her hat to utter very logical or weighty statements, would you? But you see in this case Fashion does utter the most oracular and illuminating declarations about millinery thru the three hats which she has collected for your delectation today.

The first thing she says thru these hats is that the points of the compass were consulted in their selection—all but the fourth point, and that you can stretch to be included among the four pictures shown.

The North supplies the nipped-off crown of the Welsh or Irish broad-brimmed hat, also well known as the headgear of the witch in the fairy tales. This is a slightly exaggerated model of one of the season's most popular styles. It is developed in the royal purple of fashionable favor, the edge being bound with strands of couched chenille in the same shade. The "smash" of the crown is held in place by an embroidered motif of oriental colors.

From the East comes the inspiration of the turban of white satin rolled as cleverly as the Arab's own. To make it less of an anachronism, two rows of brown fur have been used to outline it and make it possibly more becoming to a Western Lady of the Decoration. The idea of the draped and wrapped turban is being developed in the Paisley patternings now so popular; so one may call this hat also a prognostication of a vogue well on the way.

The sunny south of Spain is responsible for the other two photos, which are really one hat. This is without doubt as unique a bit of millinery as you could hope to find. The turban of black velvet might have graced a hero of the arena in a Spanish bullfight, and the blue silken cap which remains after the turban is removed might have dangled wickedly over one eye of some pirate of the Spanish main. This last is a theater hat; one removes only the top, leaving the silken cap to cover the coiffure.

There you are, hats from North, South, East, remaining only for the pretty face beneath them to supply the other point of the compass in a winning Western smile.
